HOLDEN AND COLLINS ASSISTANT DIRECTORS OF 1927 KAKE WALK

R. T. Holden and H. C. Collins of the class of 1928 have been chosen assistant directors of the 1927 Kake Walk and will automatically become directors of the 1928 Kake Walk. Holden is assistant manager of baseball, assistant manager of the CYNIC, a member of the Key and Serpent Society and of Sigma Phi fraternity. Collins is a member of the Phi Mu Delta fraternity and the Key and Serpent Society. He has been an assistant manager of football the past season.

TWENTY NEW SPRINGFIELD RIFLES NOW IN HANDS OF MEN'S RIFLE TEAM

The schedule of practice hours for candidates for the Rifle team has been posted on the Military Bulletin Board. About sixty candidates are practicing at the present time. The Military Department has received twenty new 22 calibre Springfield rifles, which helps greatly to relieve the congestion at practice. Both ranges are in use this year.

The Freshman Military classes are now taking up marksmanship and are practicing during their regular class periods on the ranges.

R. O. T. C. MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN INFORMAL REVIEW BY COL. WELLS

Last Tuesday morning Colonel Rush B. Wells, inspecting officer of the First Corps Area R. O. T. C., made an informal inspection of the University unit, visiting the military classes. He was accompanied on his tour of inspection by Colonel Holden. The band rehearsed at seven-thirty on that day instead of at four, so that Colonel Wells could hear it. Colonel Wells appeared well pleased with the work being done, and high expectations are held that the University will be among those in the Federal Military Inspection next spring.

OUTING CLUB PLANS WINTER CARNIVAL

Owing to the short time left before the Christmas holidays, the Outing Club has nothing planned until after that time. By next semester, however, activities should be in full sway, with the prospect of a winter carnival to add to the interest in the Club. No definite date has been set for this, nor has it been decided if it is to be Interclass or not.

MALARIAL MOSQUITOES STUDIED

Major O. H. Stanley, professor of Medico-Military Science and Tropical Medicine in the Medical College delivered a very interesting lecture last Saturday morning to the Sophomore Medics on "The Birth Control of Malarial Mosquitoes."

The University of Kansas is still struggling to solve the stag problem. Last year stags were charged higher admission than couples, but this failed to solve the problem.

VARSITY QUINTET TO MEET MONTREAL A. A. A. IN SEASON'S OPENER

Tomorrow Evening's Game Opening Tilt for Both Teams—Win Predicted for Catamounts

Tomorrow night the Green and Gold basketeers meet the clever Montreal Amateur Athletic Association team in the opening tilt of the season for both clubs. The Canadians always put out a fast, clever and clean aggregation with very little power in spite of their apparent class. The team from the north is no exception this year. As they have played no real games this winter there is no basis for judging strength least of all comparative strength. The Quebec men however always work well in back court and then go to pieces when they attempt to pierce the Vermont defense and take to looping their shots from the middle of the floor and although they make some spectacular tallies and attempts at follows of the high arches this style does not seem to be as effective as the highly-developed passing of the locals.

The Catamount aggregation has had a very short time for practice and it is extremely difficult to say much about the shape the team is in but Price looks better than ever and will hold down the back court with Estabrook who is developing in great style. Captain Marvin is proving more after the tip-off and the guards are both going down the floor on the offense. Post and Prentiss are working very well together and will certainly keep the Montrealers busy tomorrow night.

The contest is largely a practice game for the locals and if it resulted in a defeat for the home team the upset of the dope would be worse than in any of the football predictions this fall and not much more can be said.

NEW SCOREBOARD AND BLEACHERS FOR GAME WITH MONTREAL A. A. A.

The new basketball scoreboard will be used for the first home game which will be played with the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association at the gymnasium Wednesday evening. There are several advantages in this scoreboard, in that the spectators and players may now know just how many minutes remain to be played in a period. The names of the players and their numbers will also be posted. This will facilitate recognition of the participants. The scoring will be shown on another part of the board and will be run by means of a rotating wheel which is much more efficient than the old tin-plate method.

Another innovation are the new bleachers. They are five tiers high at the sides and ten tiers high at the ends of the court. This, with the space on the running track will afford plenty of seating room. Foot rests are also attached and will add tremendously to the comfort of the fans.

If one has a beautiful body and a wicked soul,
One has a good ship but a very poor pilot.

CAPTAIN APPLEJACK TO BE GIVEN THURSDAY BY UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Cast Makes Its First Appearance This Evening in Springfield—Vouchers on Sale at Store

Rehearsals are being held every day for the college play "Captain Applejack" which is to be given at the Strong Theatre at 8:15 on Thursday December 16. Tonight the play is being presented in Springfield Vt. under the auspices of the Outlook Club of that city.

The play which is described by its author Walter Hackett as "An Arabian Nights Adventure," is under the direction of Mrs. C. Ives Taggart who has been coach of college dramatics for several years and who has been prominent in the Burlington Theatre Club. Practically all the cast of the play have appeared in previous college plays. Roger Albee '28, who takes the leading male part, and Ovid Parsely '27 who is the villian, will both be remembered for their work in "The Goose Hangs High." Whitney Safford '28 another veteran, takes a minor part. There are three newcomers among the men. W. R. Doane '27, H. D. Crandall '28, and L. M. Corcoran '30. Annette Rosenberg '30 will take the leading female part. Muriel Cleveland '28 and Dorothy Cottrell '29, both veterans are cast for important characters. Eleanor Taft '28 and Eleanor Davison '28 are to appear in their first college play.

With a nucleus of veterans, Mrs. C. Ives Taggart has coached a cast which has all indications of achieving the high standard of college plays since Mrs. Taggart began to direct dramatics at Vermont. "Captain Applejack" calls for an unusual amount of characterization. It is replete with dramatic situations as well as humorous incidents. It is one of the most difficult comedies that has been presented by the University players. Sickness has caused one change in the cast as originally announced. Eleanor Taft '28 takes the part of Anne Perkins '28.

Vouchers for the play can be obtained at the University Store in the Old Mill.

ENGINEERS ATTEND CONVENTION IN N. Y.

Arthur Hill '27, and John R. Morton, '27, attended the 47th annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in New York City last week as representatives of the local branch of the Association. The assemblies of the engineers were held on the dates December 6 to 9 inclusive at the Engineering Societies Building at 29 West 39th St.

The mornings were given over to discussion of the various phases of Mechanical Engineering, committee meetings and talks by men well known in their respective field. In the afternoon excursions were held to some of the famous engineering plants and projects about New York. Among the places visited were the Kips Bay Station the new pulverized fuel plant of the New York Steam Company, which when finished will be the largest steam generating plant in the world; the new East River Station of the New York Edison Company, which will furnish one million kilowatts when completed; the two-mile Holland Tunnel from New York to New Jersey which will be opened in 1927, the plant of the American Tobacco Company where cigar and cigarette making machines were seen in full operation; the oil engine manufacturing plant of the De La Vergne Machine Company; and the plant of the New York Evening Post.

The annual dinner of the Society was held Wednesday evening at the Hotel Astor, Broadway and 44th St. President-elect Charles M. Schwab delivered the after-dinner address.

The Vermont delegates returned Thursday.

Second try outs by quintets for the Men's Glee Club will be held on Wednesday December 15 at 7 p. m.

Yale University offers a possible solution of turning away many eligible students by raising tuition costs slowly and permitting the raise to have its effect on the less serious applicants.

THE GAME

[illegible] evening we will again [illegible] court men in action against [illegible] the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association. The next game [illegible] will be with St. Michael's on [illegible] to [illegible] try [illegible] tch [illegible] wo [illegible] [illegible] compare the early season form of [illegible] team with that of mid-season [illegible]

According to all reports we will be able to enjoy the most modern improvements of the game tomorrow evening. The new [illegible] is said to be the last word [illegible] The fans will have an opportunity to learn the names of the opponents. It will not be a matter of conjecture as to how long the game [illegible] to run. No longer must we wait in suspense while the scorers battle with the refractory tin numerals in the attempt to pull them in and out of the wooden frame which was formerly used. If the new board is as good as reported it will give the names of the players, but the time and shift the early duties.

[illegible] evening will also present us with an [illegible] to show ourselves that we are not as dead as we sounded at some of the football games last fall. With a little cooperation on the part of the crowd the cheering squad should be able to [illegible] the foundations of the gymnasium. There will be no excuse for saying that the audience was [illegible] that the weather was bad or the team so hopelessly outclassed that there was no use in cheering. The cheering parts of the audience will be concentrated, the hall will be well heated and the team will be wining if we are to judge by past experience.

NEW DIVERSION

It is most gratifying to some of us who were fearful that some of our campus attempts to amuse the young college boys would prove boring to them, to observe how easily they can be entertained. As an example we have in mind the new diversion which is employed to while away the Student Union hour on Saturday mornings.

College Humor

Our engineers don't care how slippery the hill gets, because they all have slide rules.

"Bill should never have joined a fraternity."

"Why?"

"The other night on the sleeping porch he talked in his sleep and two brothers broke their engagements the next day."—Ex.

It has lately been proven that Shakespeare was a football player; proof:

"Down' Down!" Henry VI.
"An excellent pass." The Tempest.
"Well placed." Henry VI.
"A touch, a touch I do confess it." Hamlet
"More rushes." Henry VI.
"I'll catch it, ere it comes to ground." Macbeth.
"Let him not pass, but kill him rather." Othello
"We must have bloody noses and cracked crowns." Henry VI.
"On to the goal." Winter's Tale.
—Ex.

I used to work in Chicago—
I used to, but no more.
I used to work in Chicago
In a hosiery store.
A lady asked for some garters,
I asked her what kind she wore;
"Rubber," she said. Rubber, I did;
I did—but not any more.
—Bison.

While the women and the members of the men's senate are deciding problems of vital importance to their welfare the remaining brothers take over control of the University stores. This is done by taking stations on either sides of the approach leading to them and anyone who wishes to visit the Coffee Counter, make a purchase in the Book Store or get to the other end of the Old Mill must run the gauntlet of this line. He finds himself tossed about like a chip on a rough sea and if he does not lose a book or two he may get as much of a kick out of the journey as those who give it to him do. If enough people are in desperate need of passing through or desire a thrill, a very amusing half hour can be passed by those who have nothing else to do but shove them around.

SUPPORT THE GLEE CLUB

The Men's Glee Club at Vermont while an organization of quality has little merit as to quantity. At other universities, and in past years here, the Men's Glee Club is a group carefully selected from a large number of applicants, but our men are not turning out for it.

Owing to unfavorable circumstances there was one year recently when the club took no good trips. Perhaps naturally, though certainly not with fairness to the managers, it was assumed that the club never would do anything again. For the past two years the students have refused to go out in any large numbers for the club unless an extended tour was promised them. But how could the manager make any such arrangements until the material at least for a good club reported to him for rehearsals?

This is the condition at the present time—many good voices are waiting for the promised reward, and the manager is waiting for the material that will justify that promise.

It would seem that there is but one way out of such a clinch. It is impossible for the manager to go ahead under present conditions, but it is not impossible for the students to come across with a little college spirit and start things going. As a matter of fact there is enough pleasure and voice training gained to more than pay one for his time and effort—but that is not the question; a trip is inevitable if the condition of the club warrants it.

The Men's Glee Club has a good manager and no fear should exist of his not doing his best for the members. Furthermore the club has as its leader a man that is skilled in music, has done some composing, thoroughly understands his work, and is untiring in his efforts to help the club get on its feet. Such a manager and such a leader, working with an organization that represents the University, is deserving of more student support than it is receiving at the present time.

The Wetness

Spiritual

(To be sung in a minor key with very close harmony)

(The tenors begin it)

Getting awful sick of college, O Lord!
Getting awful sick of college, O Lord!

(The bases take a try at it)

Awful sick and tired of college, O Lord!
O Lord, I'm
college!

(Second bass takes this, three fathoms down)

(Tenors take fresh courage)

I'd like a little rest and peace, O Lord!
No more doggone tests, O Lord!
I don't like being educated!

(Basses interrupt very rudely)

Rest and peace!
No more tests!

(Tenors are sore)

Rest and peace and no more tests!

(Basses, very firmly)

Education is the bunk!

(They decide to make it up and finish with much harmony)

NO MORE T-E-S-T-S!!

(Second tenor adds three extra trills to the last note, making the ending very fruity indeed)

My Alarm Clock

The men who sing of the cheerful tick and the friendly sound of a clock,
Are doubtless worthy gentlemen whom
I never would wish to shock.
But I'm forced to think when I hear them sing of the tick and its homely charm
That they'd change their tune if they ever heard the tick of my alarm.

The tick of my alarm clock,
It is a dreadful sound,
More eerie than the baying
Of a distant, mournful hound,
More ominous than a footstep
At midnight, on the stair—
It breaks the stillness of my room
And ticking says, "Beware!"

"Beware, for the night is passing;
Do you dare to fall asleep?
Do you think you can beat my ticking
By simply counting sheep?
I could keep you awake forever
Even without my gong,
With my deadly, monotonous ticking
Keep you wakeful the whole night long.
But I like to prolong the torture
And so you may sleep if you will;
May you dream of tomorrow morning,
When I'll wake you, strident and shrill.
May your slumber be troubled and restless,
Your dreams, be they cheerless and few,
And remember—five-thirty tomorrow,
When I will be waiting for you!"

An Ariel Editor Unburdens His Mind

I wish I were a cow,
I wish I were a clam,
I wish I were most anything
Except the thing I am!

For cows just sleep and eat;
There's nothing on their minds.
The lucky beasts; they never have
To think up "clever" grinds!

Me, I have grinds for brenkfast,
I dream of them at night,
And even when I get them done,
I'm never sure they're right.

I used to like my classmates,
Both singly and "en masse,"
But now I most could poison
The whole darn Junior class!

Dr. James R. Angell, president of Yale University, regards the "sophisticated and cynical literary efforts of the undergraduate editors of student publications as merely the result of intellectual measles" and should not be viewed with alarm.

CAMPUS SERMONS

Volume CIX Section I b

How to Converse

We now come to perhaps the greatest section of brilliant conversation, entitled, "Speeches Before and After Cutting Classes." You may get along without your Ballroom Witticisms if the music is loud enough; you may live without your date making and breaking if you are a contented sort of person; but your life on this campus without cutting speeches will be just about as long as a microbe's eyelash. This is absolutely necessary, and I'll offer a word of explanation. For instance, how many times you have longed to cut that class in Ec. 1 yet didn't dare to simply because you didn't know what to say when you came back; or if you did take the risk and cut it how many times you haven't come back! With our help and a little practice (perhaps in this class we might add "With God's help") you can cast out fear; get that extra hour of sleep in bed, take a two week's vacation, or in fact anything you want to do—and return with that smile of confidence that only the well bred can wear. If you spend extra time on our course, you may even have the instructor sending his best regards by that conscientious classmate of yours, and hoping that he can make his class sufficiently interesting to merit your attendance within a week or two! How impossible this all sounds, and yet as that great liberator, Patrick Henry once said, "I know of no way of judging the future but by the past." And the past of our University is noted for the number of cuts allowed.

Take that class in English for example. Tomorrow you wish to go downtown. The only hour you can arrange it is the English hour; so after a perfect lesson today, walk up to the English professor and tell him how interested you were in his lecture. Give it real praise. He will be flattered, especially if you are a Freshman, because he seldom looks for favorable comments before the Senior stage. Say something like this: "I loved your lecture, Professor B. I think you must have a real idea of poetry to talk as long as that about it. Why don't you try to write? I bet you could. There are so many dumb things getting into magazines now, I'd like to have you show the world what you can do. Which poets do you like best? Of course you know I like Shakespeare. BASKETBALL PRACTICE PERIODS REDUCED TO THIRTY-FIVE MINUTES

Basketball practices have been changed to thirty five minute periods. The two Freshman sections have been combined because of the increase in the membership of classes. Practices are held every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon as follows: Seniors and Juniors, 4:00-4:35, Sophomores, 4:35-5:10; and Freshmen, 5:10-5:45.

The time remains unchanged in the beginners' class on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and the extra practice class on Friday afternoon.

PRE-VACATION FEELINGS

Have you got that pre-vacation worn-out feeling? Are you planning to go home looking like a ghost and requiring a week of absolute rest? Have you so many things on your mind that you really haven't time to think? If so it's time something was done about it. First forget about it all for about half an hour and go out for a brisk walk. Then come back and make out a little program. Arrange a schedule for everything. You probably won't stick to all of your arrangements but it will help a lot. Also while you are making this out don't forget that a little time must be included for sleep and also for getting outdoors. Vacation is the very worst time to be ill because there are always so many good times to miss. If you will just take an hour of exercise now for protection, it may save days of illness later on.

ODTAA

JOHN MASEFIELD

Good Sir Reader thrills at the romance, shudders at the atrocities of the mad king and weeps over Carlotta's tomb. After his stupendous excitement has chilled and the book is on its shelf, he recalls the title and bewails his stupidity. Odtaa was not mentioned on a single page. The day will come when Sir Reader will mutter something under his breath. Then wittingly or unwittingly, he will have solved the mystic letters.

Highworth Ridden is a problem to his family. He does not want an aristocrat's education. He prefers "messing about with cog-wheels." Bill Ridden decides to send his son to Santa Barbara, where his own boyhood was passed. Rose Piranha, a family friend, takes "Hi" under her special care. She introduces him to Carlotta de Leyva, betrothed of Don Manuel of Encinitas. "Hi" has never before been in love with a girl, not in the way he feels toward Carlotta. There are two political parties in Santa Barbara, the Reds and the Whites. The Reds are in power under Don Lopez. They are a vulgar crowd of butchers, almost to a man without belief. They put Carlotta in prison. Hi makes a great effort to warn Don Manuel. He fails nobly.

"Fall in love? Rats!" This from Hi before he saw Carlotta. Young Ridden is an irresistible English schoolboy, who becomes a man in his heroic ride to Anselmo. Like all his countrymen abroad, he has in the gory days a surge of homesickness for English twilight and the sheep pastures of Tencombe.

Today, ah today,
Am I so sweet;
The morrow, alas,
Must all my beauty depart.
Only this hour
Are you yet mine;
Die, alas, die
Must I without you.

Wallace, both of the education department of the University attended a meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held in Boston, Mass. Friday and Saturday, December 10 and 11. While in Boston they also attended a conference of the New England Association of College Teachers of Education.

The students in the second year of the two-year Teacher Training Course are carrying on the first unit of student teaching in the public schools of Burlington. The period of teaching extends from December 6 to December 17.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Savannah papers recently announced the engagement of Miss Harriet MacNevill, youngest daughter of Mrs. Lawson J. Nevill and the late L. J. Nevill, of Savannah, Ga., to Dr. Horace Page Marvin, U. V. M. '26, who is now stationed at the Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington, D. C. Miss Nevill has been studying at the Walter Reed Hospital for the past two years.

The question debated by the Seniors Friday, was, "Resolved that the Honor System of conducting examinations be instituted at Vermont."

The Interfraternity Conference met last evening.

Professors Douglass and Wallace have returned from the meeting of the New England Association of Teachers of Education. The meeting was held in Boston last Friday and Saturday.

Frank Atwood '26 was in the city over Sunday. He is employed with the editorial staff of the Rutland Herald.

JUNIOR QUESTIONNAIRES DEMAND ATTENTION OF EVERY MEMBER OF 1928

Junior questionnaire blanks are in the Ariel box in the Old Mill. The editors wish to get this matter off their hands as soon as possible, and would appreciate it if all Juniors would make out these forms and hand them in AT ONCE. The answers will be tabulated and occupy a full page in the year book. It is therefore important that they should be representative of the class as a whole. The decisions as to who the best looking members of the class are, the hardest worker, and other important titles should not be based on the opinions of a few but on those of all the members of the Junior Class.

NOTICE

A Sigma Nu banner was taken from the walls of the gymnasium the night of the Football Hop. Will the person or persons knowing the whereabouts of this banner please return it to Geno Knapp?

BEST CRITICISM OF "PROFITS" WINS $5,000

Authors do not always welcome adverse criticism, but the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research is willing to pay for it. The new Pollak book "Profits" presents a far-reaching criticism of the existing economic order and arrives at rather startling conclusions. As the authors wish to build on whatever is sound in this book, they are eager to find out, as soon as possible, the worst that can be said against their theories. Toward this end a prize of five thousand dollars is offered for the best adverse criticism of the book which is submitted to the Pollak Foundation Newton 58 Massachusetts before January 1, 1927. No one need buy the book in order to enter the contest since the Foundation will send to anyone free of charge a pamphlet called "The Dilemma of Thrift," which is a summary of the book.

The authors are William Trufant Foster, formerly President of Reed College and Waddill Catchings, formerly President of the Central Foundry Company and of the Sloss Sheffield Steel and Iron Company.

The main argument of the book, to which criticism is particularly invited, is this:

"Progress toward greater total production is retarded because consumer buying does not keep pace with production. Consumer buying lags behind for two reasons: first, because industry does not disburse to consumers enough money to buy the goods produced; second, because consumers, under the necessity of saving, cannot spend even as much money as they receive.

"Furthermore, the savings of corporations and individuals are not used to purchase the goods already in the markets, but bring about the production of more goods. Under the established system, therefore, we make progress only while we are filling the shelves with goods which must either remain on the shelves as stock in trade or be sold at a loss, and while we are building more industrial equipment than we can use. Inadequacy of consumer income is, therefore, the main reason why we do not long continue to produce the wealth which natural resources, capital facilities, improvements in the arts, and the self interest of employers and employees would otherwise enable us to produce. Chiefly because of shortage of consumer demand, both capital and labor restrict output, and nations engage in those struggles for outside markets and spheres of commercial influence which are the chief causes of war."

"CAPTAIN APPLEJACK" WITNESSED BY LARGE CROWD AT STRONG

First Performance Given at Springfield Tuesday Evening—Seventh Play Coached by Mrs. Taggart

Walter Hackett's delightful comedy, "Captain Applejack," as staged by the University Players at the Strong Theatre last evening was one of the most successful plays staged by Vermont undergraduates. The play itself involved much characterization and considerable details in properties. It was easily the most difficult comedy which has been staged in the past decade at Vermont. Much of the credit for the successful production of the play is due Mrs. C. Ives Taggart, who has been responsible for the excellent staging of seven other comedies of the University Players.

Roger Albee '28 and Annette Rosenberg '30 carried the leading parts of the play like veterans. Albee has appeared before in college dramatics and carried the part of Ambrose Applejohn, an English gentleman who is tired of his monotonous life and desires adventure like that found in the Arabian Nights. Albee's performance was well received. Miss Rosenberg, a Freshman, was well cast for the part of Anna Valeska alias Big-eyed Gladys. She showed considerable talent and should be prominent in future dramatic productions.

Ovid Parody '27 carried himself well as Ivan Borolsky, the villian of the play. In all justice it should be pointed out that Mr. Parody has been ill for two weeks, but no one in the audience would be aware of it while watching the performance. Muriel Cleveland '28 as Poppy Faire was extremely winning. She showed marked improvement over her performances in the "Saving Grace." Lyman Corcoran of the Freshman class brought his wide dramatic experience to bear in the difficult characterization of Pengard and the Bosun. Corcoran bids fair to have a part in many plays during his stay at Vermont.

Supporting in minor rôles were Whitney Doane '27 as Dennett; Eleanor Taft '28, Mrs. Pengard; Eleanor Davison '28, Palmer; Dorothy Correll '29, Aunt Agatha; Herbert Crandall '28, Jason; and Whitney Safford '28, Lush, the butler.

The entire cast went to Springfield, Vermont last Tuesday where the play was presented under the auspices of the Outlook Club. The party remained until Wednesday morning when they returned to Burlington. Due to the recent illness of Ovid Parody, his understudy, Evo Lucchina '28 took the part of Borolsky in a very capable manner. The play was well received by a large Springfield assembly. Two of the cast, Whitney Doane and Roger Doane, are natives of Springfield.

TRACK MEN PREPARE FOR SPRING SCHEDULE

Since the close of the cross-country season and the coming of the snow regular track practice has been stopped but a good many of the Varsity men are training on the indoor track two or three times a week. Also there are several weight men at work in the cage under Coach Latty's supervision training for the spring meets.

Mackay and Simpson are practicing on the hammer at which they both are doing very well. Simpson, Kropper and Love are putting the shot, while hurdles are left out in the cage so that Shaw may keep in trim. Most of last fall's cross-country squad, which consisted of Dean Rowe, Wood, Martinetti, Ed Rowe and the Freshmen, Davis and Eaton, run several times a week on the track.

After Christmas vacation the pit will be dug up in the cage for the high and broad jumpers and pole vaulters. Although Vermont lost its point winner in the high jump, in the person of Wilcox, both Lyman and Howard should adequately fill his vacancy if they are eligible. Another new face is the member of last year's team who graduated is Hill a weight man whose place will be taken this year by Simpson and Mackay.

The success of next spring's track team largely depends on whether or not the majority of the best men are under warning. As things stand now, however, it appears that only a few men are down, but as this is still previous to mid-years not much can be definitely said.

GOLD KEY SOCIETY WILL HANDLE USHERING AT BASKETBALL GAMES

Tuesday evening the Gold Key Society met at Sigma Phi Place at seven-thirty. President Morse outlined the program for the coming basketball games and pointed out that every member should be present Wednesday to see that the new bleachers should go up properly. After the first time the society will be divided into two groups, one to see that the bleachers go up and are taken down and the other group to usher at the games. These groups will alternate at the different games.

The meeting was for business only and the usual group of rule breaking Freshmen were conspicuous by their absence.

The standing committee in charge of dances given by the society are making plans for the dance to be held on January 8, the first Saturday evening after vacation.

DR. GALEN F. SCUDDER SPENDS TWO DAYS ON CAMPUS THIS WEEK

Dr. Galen F. Scudder, a Medical Missionary, was on the campus Tuesday and Wednesday by the arrangement of the Student Volunteer Movement. He received his B. A. degree from Princeton in 1913 and his M. D. degree from Cornell University Medical School. During the World War he was in the Medical Corps and for the past five years has served in India as Physician-in-Charge of the Ranipet General Hospital.

On Tuesday he met several men personally to whom he explained his own work in foreign fields and presented the missionary calling as a life work in India. He explained the attitude of Indian boys towards the Christian faith and prophesied that not far in the future they would accept the teachings of Christ in its entity. He stressed the fact that there were several different branches in the mission field where men with a true Christian purpose were very much needed. In the afternoon and evening at different hours he addressed the Student Volunteer Group, a joint group from the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Cabinets and spoke to the International Club on the topic "India." The meetings Wednesday morning were given to several classes of medical students. His talks were about the great opportunities in India for the practice of medicine, especially those having a Christian message in connection with their medical work.

FOUNDER OF NEW YORK TIMES U. V. M. GRADUATE

Henry J. Raymond, founder of the New York Times, graduated from the University of Vermont in 1840, according to the seventy-fifth anniversary number of that paper recently published. The latest number of the Alumni Weekly gives a brief account of his career.

Raymond, a resident of Lima, N. Y., entered this college in 1836. One of his classmates was James R. Spaulding, founder of the New York World and one of the students of the University at that time was a future vice president of the United States. Among the faculty was Professor James Marsh, later president of the University, a distinguished teacher of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy.

In 1839 Raymond spoke before Henry Clay, then campaigning for the Whig party, at a Junior Exhibition. Clay was intensly interested in young Raymond's speech and remarked about the clearness and quality of his address.

Following his graduation, Raymond served an apprenticeship with Horace Greely. In 1851 he established the New York Times, which eventually gained the reputation of being the first news paper in America, the others mixing fiction with their news.

The Times favored Lincoln, under editor Raymond, who was one of the founders of the Republican party. His contact with politics gained him many offices of prominence in the state, including Lieutenant-Governorship.

1926 COLVER LECTURES DELIVERED BY DOCTOR TUPPER ARE PUBLISHED

Lectures on "Types of Society in Medieval Literature" Published in Book Form by Holt & Co.

The 1926 Colver Lectures, on "Types of Society in Medieval Literature," delivered at Brown University last winter and spring by Dr Frederic Tupper, Professor of the English Language and Literature in the University of Vermont, have been published in 167 pages, by Henry Holt and Company.

In order to give direction to the study, Dr Tupper considers medieval society from three angles Conditions of Men, Sins and Sinners, and the Eternal Womanly A seven-page bibliographical note is appended for those who wish guidance for further reading in the original sources.

The publishers' announcement of "Types of Society in Medieval Literature" by Professor Tupper states "All the important types of society are brought before us in this study, and the figures move in splendid procession, illuminated by the author's penetration and wit. Professor Tupper shows that each division of society from king to cook, from prelate to plowman, has its typical traits. The literature of the Middle Ages is expository rather than descriptive zealously arraying and illustrating the general in preference to particular and individual." This tendency to "codify meticulously the qualities of each class" gives the works of medieval writers a special charm, and vitality often lacking in modern writing. Though the author is thoroughly at home in the whole field of medieval literature he makes more extensive use of such works as the Chess Book, the writings of Chaucer, Dante, Boccaccio, Gower, Langstand, Hoccleve, Lydgate, Barbour, the fabliaux, and the miracle plays and moralities.

DR. MEIKLEJOHN WOULD MAKE RADICAL CHANGES IN EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

(By New Student News Service.)—"Can the average young American be liberally educated?" Professor Alexander Meiklejohn was speaking like a Scotch dominie to the overflowing audience in the University of Michigan Union. It was the second annual congress of the National Student Federation. "Desperately the colleges are asking whether they can give a liberal education the process of informing and training and inciting a mind that it will go forward steadily toward understanding the life to which it belongs."

"Do we succeed? We don't. The colleges are not places of understanding. Our prize exhibit is composed of our alumni. Whatever you say of the American alumnus, of one thing you may be sure: he doesn't read books. What's his attitude toward the college? To him it's a place of sentimental loyalty and comradeship, contacts and friendship and other immediate necessities. Surely college loyalty is one of the most unintelligent of things when it believes as a matter of Gospel that his is the best college in the country! Pretty quickly after graduation our alumni are caught up in something else. The way of understanding? The way of study, of liberal education? No!"

"Culture or Bust"

And yet for the speaker they were not too much to be blamed. The colleges fail because they are in America. "It's hard to teach literature to children from homes where no good book is read, or philosophy in a society with no taste for speculation." However, while there was one thing to work with: that America has great faith in education, even if it doesn't know what education is, and goes out for "culture or bust." To the speaker there were more important problems than enlisting support and money for colleges, which now spend altogether too much time deciding what to do with their

SENIOR CLASS BLAZERS NOW ON DISPLAY IN THE UNIVERSITY STORE

The matter of Senior class blazers brought up at the recent class meeting is being thoroughly investigated by F. M. James and C. G. Simpson. Several of the leading clothing firms in the city have been interested in the innovation that is to be introduced on the hill in the spring and are having blazer coats made up for inspection. Prices and different patterns will be submitted by the committee at a class meeting following the Christmas vacation. The blazers offered by H. Turk & Bro. are now on display at the University Book Store, and it is desired that the class look them over carefully so that some decision may be reached when the others are presented.

LECTURE GIVEN BY DR. LLOYD OF MCGILL IN SCIENCE HALL MONDAY

Last Monday afternoon at four thirty, Doctor Lloyd of McGill University of Montreal gave an illustrated lecture on "Pond Life" in the lecture room in the Science Hall.

The lecture was of especial interest both to students of botany and of zoology, because it gave enlarged pictures of plant life in the water, and also the tiny animals that are parasitic on these plants. Special reference was made to Spirogyra, its methods of reproduction, and conjugation. These things are hard to see in the laboratory with ordinary materials and equipment. But with the abundance of material that Doctor Lloyd had at hand and the enlargement on the screen, even the most minute details became easily visible. Although the protozoan parasite shown is not one that is generally studied in zoology classes at this University, it was very interesting because it is closely related to some of the commoner species.

This lecture is one of a series that is being sponsored by the Zoology Department. It is expected that many more interesting speakers of this type will visit the University.

Doctor Lloyd has recently interested several groups of scientific men in his remarkable work. His speeches are illustrated by both motion pictures and lantern slides.

FRESHMAN CONTESTS PRECEDE MAIN BATTLE

Before the varsity contest Wednesday night four picked freshman teams battled for a few minutes in two games between Blacks and Whites. The first Black team was the star club, with Bernstein and Halligan at forward, Slate and Dinniman, guards with Wallace jumping center. The White team which opposed them put up little real opposition, although Beer looked as though he might be effective in different company. Dinniman did not appear up to the class of his team-mates, who put up an exhibition of fast basketball worth watching. Slate did very good work on the offense for the Blacks as well as being the mainstay of the defense. At the end of the first half the excellent passing and shooting of the Blacks had put them in the lead 8-1 and at the end of the game they had increased their lead to 22-4. Rhufield and Manning at guards worked hard for the losers but were unable to stem the tide.

In the second game less team-work was displayed, the feature being two loops for tallies by "Babe" Harwood. He also covered the floor well and was largely instrumental in putting his team, the Blacks, in the lead, 7-2 at the half and 14-4 at the close. Hawley at forward played a good game.

The games were two ten-minute periods each and after the completion of these games a contest was started between the losers of the first game and the winners of the second, but it had progressed only a couple of minutes before the varsity came on the floor and it had to be stopped.

CATAMOUNT HOOPSTERS START OFF WITH 38-16 WIN OVER CANADIANS

Entire Catamount Squad Gets Into Action in Opener—Montrealers Weak on Offense—Price High Scorer

The opening clash of the season for the Catamount hoopsters Wednesday night in the Gymnasium resulted in a 38-16 walkaway against the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association. The northerners came in late and came on the floor immediately after dressing. The preliminary freshman games were stopped as soon as the varsity appeared on the floor.

The Nichols' men lined up with several of their veterans in the game. There was Gronau, guard, whose mid-floor shots of previous years were somewhat curbed but he made some pretty loops. Then Atchinson, guard, and Melville, captain and center, were up to their old form. Lamb at forward and Laidlaw at guard were the newcomers in the starting line-up.

For the Green and Gold the starting line-up was as expected, with Estabrook at the guard left open for candidates by the graduation of Mike Katz.

Near the start of the game Marvin fouled Melville, who made the free throw. Price then caged a step shot. Nothing happened for some time until Price caged another one, although fouled doing it, and he then proceeded to make one of the free throws. Gronau netted a free throw and Estabrook failed one, as did Atchinson. After a scrimmage Prentice took the ball past mid-floor and as Estabrook cut passed it to him in time for a pretty step shot after which Vermont took time out because of a nasty cut which Price had received on the outside corner of the left eyelid and which was bleeding profusely enough to obscure vision. The cut was bandaged and play resumed. Price took the ball after jumping for it and made a nice step shot from under the basket for another tally. He was fouled in the act and scored on the first free throw. Montreal then scored almost immediately on a floor basket by Lamb. Melville was awarded two free throws and made the first one. Fouling was frequent but neither side was consistent in scoring on their opportunities, the locals having a little the best of it. Both sides scored at intervals until near the end of the half when the Quebec coach substituted Godsell for Lamb and Day for Atchinson, while Coach McAvoy sent in an entire new team consisting of Moodie, Whitcomb, Pike, Morran and Mackay. Whitcomb made the only score for the rest of the period. At the very end Small went in for Gronau. The half ended with the score 20-7 for the Catamounts.

In the second frame the original Vermont team took the floor and the Montreal team did the same except for the substitution of Small for Laidlaw. The scoring teetered back and forth again for a time in this half with the Green and Gold retaining its edge, but nothing interesting happened until Prentice in making a step shot made a disqualifying foul on Atchinson and was put out of the game.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR HOCKEY ARE COMPLETE

The hockey season will soon make its yearly début. Preparations are now under way to make 1927 a successful hockey year.

Manager Eaman presents a schedule against teams which will at least test the prowess of Vermont's pucksters. The slate is as follows: February 3—Middlebury at Burlington; February 5—M. A. C. at Burlington; February 9—Middlebury at Middlebury; February 11—St Lawrence at Canton, N. Y.; February 12—Clarkson Tech at Potsdam, N. Y.; February 16—Army at West Point, N. Y.; February 17—Union at Schenectady, N. Y.

Arrangements for the rink have been made and practice will begin directly after the Christmas holidays. There will be a meeting for all those interested in hockey at the gymnasium Friday, December 17 at 4 p. m. The rink which will be used this season is the same as last season and located on the Winooski River at the foot of Chase St.

HOLIDAYS

Those who have been checking off the days on their calendar since November 1 in anticipation of the Christmas holidays are about to arrive at Open Lots sought haven. For that is what it is a haven in the college year, when that lost sleep is made up and old friendships renewed. All too quickly the days will fly by and we will be back here again with an opportunity to put in a few days of intensive grinding before those fatal two weeks in the last half of January. Those who are badly in arrears on their work would profit by taking a text book or two along with them on their vacation.

Vacation is not wholly a time when the University should leave our minds and go into oblivion. Those who have been here only a short three months have gained something of reverence and appreciation for their Alma Mater and the good times which it has given them. This is the time to tell someone of the advantages of an education and the points in which Vermont excels other colleges as a place to get it. There are many high school seniors who have not chosen a college or even decided that they want further training. Everyone will come in contact with them during the recess. Tell them of the progress made and being made by this University and invite them up to the Kake Walk that they may verify what they have heard.

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS

Roy Chapman Andrews, who spoke in the gymnasium, Monday evening, was not only a pleasing speaker and one of outstanding personality, but he may also be termed the most popular man who has been brought here to address us this fall, or in a long time. This was evidenced by the large number of students who needed no notices of a compulsory convocation to force attendance.

Mr. Andrews while he represents a field of study not taken up by many [illegible] his head possesses a wealth of [illegible]rience gained in his travels and [illegible] addition the power of describing [illegible] travels and the strange places where they have taken him in a gripping manner. The pictures which he carries with him to illustrate prove by their excellence and the scenes which portray the intense patience and thoroughness of the members of his Mongolian expedition in carrying out their work. After seeing these and hearing Mr. Andrews no one can doubt the immense value of his work in bringing to light accurate information of the transformations which our earth and its inhabitants have passed through in the last few million years. Anyone who went to [illegible] regretting the expenditure of [illegible] hours which furnished [illegible] so much knowledge of a very interesting subject about which most of us never before have had any accurate information.

The Wetness

Song with a Shifting Rhyme Scheme

[illegible] melancholy days have come,
[illegible] saddest of the year.
[illegible] these first two lines are not my own,
I simply took them, as a loan)
[illegible] know the time is here
When all my days are fraught with fear.

When I go out to walk abroad
[illegible] the piles of snow,
That so inevitable snow,
That melts but never seems to go)
The little boys by hundreds flock
And walk behind me, block on block

Their arms with snowballs high are piled,
I know they're meant for me
(But I must keep my dignity
Twould never do to turn and flee)
And though I'd give my soul to run,
I try to look as if twere fun

In moments such as these I'd like
To be a humble snail,
(And crawl into a shelly bed
While snowballs whizzed by overhead)
But I, alas, am only me
And I must keep my dignity,
Must seem to walk serene and straight,
And fearful, wait my snowy fate.

Is There a Santa Claus?

It was the night before Christmas, and that rare old Christmas spirit permeated (or is it percolated?) through the little house resting peacefully in the valley. The moon was shining; but the moon has nothing to do with our narrative; it is the lamplight that we are concerned with, the lamplight that sent its soft green rays into the farthest corners of the room and revealed eight radiant little faces, not a little expectant as they turned toward the fireplace where eight tiny stockings hung.

In the center of the room sat the Santa they awaited (only they didn't know it), calmly reading his paper and smoking a Chesterfield, the mildest of cigarettes. In fact the whole atmosphere was one of mildness, of beauty, of somnolent quiet just such as one always finds in the well-trained family of ten.

There were whispers in the corner, titters, and shushing; always terminated by an ardent S-s-s-h-h-h! Suddenly one of the little cherubs spoke. ..."Ma, there be a Santy, ain't there? Tommy says there ain't!"

..."I never did. You're a liar. I said....Ma, I said there wan't no Santer like wat yer see in them books Aunt Rose give us last Crismas. I says there's a Santer sure 'nuf ony he's yer ol' man, n' he don't wear none of them red leggins an' he ain't got no reindeer. Tha's wat I said, Ma, an it's so ain't it? Ain't it Ma? Ma, ain't it so?" (The patient little mother searched frantically for words.) Finally. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Tommy. Of course there's a Santa."

..."Well that's wat I says, Ma.... ...I says they's a Santer sure nuf....I says it's....!

Hush, Tommy, this minute!

Ah Gee, well let yer little baby think so....I know they ain't....!

....Thomas, go to bed! (this from the impatient father)

(Chorus for the corner)....He won't get nothing from Santer Claus. He wan't get nothin from Santy Claus, will he, Ma?

Of course he will. Hush!

Well once, you said, Ma, when I was naughty, Ma, you said Santer wouldn't bring me nothin, Ma!

....(Wail from the crowded corner) O-O-OH, Ma, O-O-O-H, Tobby pulled my hair!

...(Chorus) Ball Baby....tell cat, shut up....mommers little baby. Santer'll leave a snake in yer stocking'

A snake' O-O-O-H. Muvver will he.. I fraid of snakes, don't let him, muvver (Heart-breaking sobs.)

Hush children. The idea of your telling mother's baby any such dreadful thing.

Say, Ma, you said Santer'd bring Tommy sumpin, Ma, we ain't no badder n wat he is be we?

...I like snakes. Wish he'd leave me one, you hold 'em back of the head 'n they can't bite....last summer....!

(Voice from the corner) I know wat yer goin' to get, but I won't tell yer. ...you been peekin, I'm gofn' to tell Ma!

....No, I ain't, Smarty, shut up and I'll tell you!

(Whispers.)

Ma, where's the candy? Can't we have some now? We ain't got to wait 'till tomorrow for that have we? ....Ma, ain't we goin' to have turkey this year?

I know where the nuts are. I saw Ma hide 'em, but I won't tell you!

Ma said I could have all the cranberries, cause I like 'em so well, an' anyway they'd make you sick.

(Six assorted wails: no two alike.)

Hush children. Of course you can all have cranberries. Don't pay any attention to Paul. He's a naughty boy!

(Six assorted grins: no two alike.)

(Chorus) I told you so!

....I'm going to wait up for Santer Claus. Can we, Ma? Ma, can we? Say Ma, we can wait up for Santer Claus can't we? Last year you let us, Ma, an' we pretty near saw him. Ma....!

Go to bed, the whole gang of you, and if I hear a peep out of one of you, I'll come up there. You little hoydens ....you won't any of you get a thing! (This from the impatient father.)

(One long Howl that shakes the roof.)

....Alfred, for Heaven's sake, what did you tell them that for? (From the tired little mother.) Never mind children, come to bed.

College gentlemen prefer P. A.

BLOND gentlemen and dark-haired gentlemen, diffident* freshmen and august seniors . . . Prince Albert is the overwhelming campus-favorite of every type and every pipe. (Yes, the pipes do have a voice in the matter. They can act in a docile, friendly manner or they can be mean. It depends on what you feed them.)

Open a tidy red tin of good old P. A. That first fragrant whiff will tell you why gentlemen prefer Prince Albert. Tuck a load into the bowl of your pipe and light up. Fragrance and taste alone are enough to win you.

But P. A. doesn't stop there. It is cool-smoking. It is mild as Maytime, yet it has plenty of body. It is kind to your tongue and throat. You can hit it up all you like and it never hits back. Try a tin of P. A. You'll certainly prefer it after that.

*Not too diffident.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Berets

There should always be a distinctive lement in the college attire. It is the ittle touch that counts in the "chic" f a costume; and this little touch at the present time is the beret.

These little articles of clothing are f felt cloth and velvet. For those aving a boyish bob, a rakish way of earing the beret is far on the back f the head. Again, for those wearing long bob, it may be pulled down on he side—the "à la tam" style.

Next, one should consider color. To e really at the height of fashion, beret nd galoshes must match. If this is he impossible, then at least the colors hould blend. For a loyal Vermonter he bright green and gold holds first lace as a color combination.

Vermont is not alone in her accept- nce of berets as the popular apparel. mith and Wellesley have adopted em. Long live the beret!

A true friend is like new wine; let him become old and then try him, and then such a wine is a joy to man's heart making him young like the vine.

HOLIDAYS TIME TO CATCH UP SLEEP AND EXERCISE

Vacation is the best time possible to catch up on matters of sleep and exercise. Everyone looks forward with expectation to sleeping longer in the morning, not having to get up for a first-hour class. But do you stop to think that it is an equally excellent time to make up for some of the exercise you have been losing during the recent bad weather? Why isn't this just as important and as much to be desired? For those of you who live in this section of the country there will probably be snow enough for any type of winter sports. And for those who live a little farther south there will most likely be skating and at least hiking. Surprise your folks by going for a long hike they will think that you're getting some good common sense at college as well as specific knowledge. Anyhow come back in the best possible condition so that the number of illnesses for the next semester will be a minimum.

OUT OF THE MAIL BAG

Dear Mabel,

Oh dear, our beloved school dismisses us next Tuesday for our Christmas holiday. How I shall miss the boys and girls, and oh goodness yes! my deah professors. I wonder if I'd better send them all a pretty engraved Christmas card? "Of such stuff 'drags' are made!"

The one and only balm in our crowded and tumultous life this next week is the house dances, some formal and one or two informal. Then we go and wait with bated breath until the favors make their appearance (to see if it makes the fourth or sixth vanity case, or what have you, which we have received at some other similar function). Perhaps you haven't the correct idea as to just what favors are. They are some pretty little knick-knack which the men give the girls as a reward for attending their particular house dance in preference to any other!

Of course, Mabel, being a mere woman in the outside working world, you cannot know the terrible blow it is to have an hour test two days or a day before we go home. But alas—I have three! Can you feature that? I feel almost maudlin about it. I'd like to use profanity, but that would not be seemly!

Norwich is blowing her last "reveille" Thursday morning, and our beloved "Midd" is tooting her own horn Saturday, to be silent until after New Year's Day. Yet we love the atmosphere here (anything from cold damp rain, changing to snow, and finally "burning off" to a mere ten-below-zero) so well, that we're staying another week.

What are you going to give me for Christmas? I'd simply adore some of our good-looking writing paper with a dashing catamount for a crest!

Much love

Maria.

Cherry Square

GRACE S. RICHMOND

Grace Richmond's latest book is "Cherry Square." The author calls it a "neighborly novel." Most of the action takes place in a small town, but practically all the chief characters are from cities. The interest centers around the happenings of one summer in Cherry House. The townspeople are excited and curious when the house is reopened, but they little dream what drama is to be enacted there in the course of a few months.

There are elements of mystery in the plot. Why does the pretty school teacher, Joe Jenny, wish to be a maid to the Chases'? Who is the Julian she refers to so often in her diary? What is Gordan Mackay's story? Is he just a small town minister?

Norah, the philosophical Irish scrubwoman, says: "Any minister's wife is bound to get tired of bein' it."

All this is apropos, for Mrs. Chase, who reopens Cherry House, is a minister's wife. She plans to rest during the summer while her husband is touring Europe. However, her vacation is hardly begun when her husband, ill and threatened with blindness, returns. The summer proves to be turning point in the lives of the Chases. The Rev. Chase has for years unconsciously drawn much of his strength and powers from his loyal wife. During his illness he comes to realize his weakness. A double fight is then waged for spiritual as well as physical welfare.

The battle is lost, and won by a very unexpected event.

The sub-love story of Joe, who tries to be a "fascinating maid," adds to the charm of the book.

money. The urgent, all-important job was to find teachers. Not only is it hard to get talent and power into the teaching profession, he said, but our teachers themselves have been trained in a rotten system of education. "They have been taught technical scholarship, and not liberal understanding."

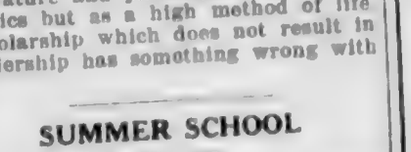
As for the student, Dr. Meiklejohn had little use for him as a guide of education. "Why, you can't even get a young American to play his own football games, let alone stand on his own feet intellectually. His papers are full of demands that we get rid of a certain man if the team fails, and you know who gets the praise if it wins. He doesn't manage even the finances of his team." And in study, "somehow we have got to the point where the teacher is responsible for what goes on in the student's mind; and if he can't make anything go on there, he throws in what he can of stuff and information, the result of which is zero."



In matter of subjects of study, the professor favored doing away, in college, with departmentalizing and specialization of learning. "I would like to take a group of Freshmen and take a look with them at one high civilization, the civilization of Greece: not as literature and philosophy and mathematics but as a high method of life. Scholarship which does not result in leadership has something wrong with it."

ROY CHAPMAN ANDREWS ASIATIC EXPLORER TELLS OF WORK IN MONGOLIA

Explorer Tells of Travels in Gobi Desert Searching for Evidences of Prehistoric Life

[illegible] Chapman Andrews, leader of the [illegible] expedition sponsored by [illegible] Museum of Natural His[illegible] spoke in Burlington Monday [illegible] evening he delivered a lecture [illegible] the expedition and its work [illegible] house crowd in the gymna[illegible] Professor A R Gifford in in[illegible] the speaker, characterized Mr Andrews as "the foremost of our [illegible] scientists" and gave a brief [illegible] of the romantic career.

Mr Andrews has a brilliant personality and held his audience interested [illegible] moment. He described the per[illegible] of the expedition, which includ[illegible] many of the most prominent spe[illegible]ists of today in all branches of [illegible]. Shared in command was Mr Walter Granger formerly of Rutland, [illegible] to which Mr Andrews paid high [illegible]. Mr Granger is a famous [illegible]ist. The expedition was equipped with a fleet of five Dodge Brothers cars and two Fulton trucks. One hundred and fifty camels carried gasoline and supplies starting from China four months in advance of the explorers for the rendezvous, which was one thousand miles away in the heart of Mongolia.

Travel Over Ten Thousand Miles

The winters in Mongolia are long and all exploring had to be done between April 1 and October 1. This made the trip of the camel train very hazardous as most of it was made during the winter over uninhabited wastes covered with snow. The main expedition left Peking as soon as the weather permitted, taking the railroad as far as it went which carried them about a hundred miles from the Chinese city and over the border. In the next six months the explorers traveled nearly ten thousand miles by motor car in the great Gobi Desert which covers the major part of Mongolia. The surface of the desert is hard bed rock with occasional sand dunes four or five miles in width. In the great sandy expanses of which most deserts are composed a motor expedition such as this would have been impossible.

Mr. Andrews accompanied his lecture with both still and moving pictures. Slides showing the members of the party, the caravan crossing rough stretches, the expanse of barren country, the flora and fauna of Gobia, and many geological phenomena, made the things of which the lecturer was talking very realistic. Moving pictures showing the discovery of the first dinosaur eggs evinced great interest on the part of the audience.

Asia May Be Cradle of Civilization

The purpose of the expedition was to establish the truth of the premise that Central Asia is the cradle of civilization. It is thought by many that life first came into being in this now desolate region, millions of years ago and spread from there over the face of the earth. Charts showing the probable migration of people in the neolithic period were cast on the screen. Much evidence was collected but it has not yet been completely classified and examined. This is expected to throw much light on the truth or falsity of the premise. Thousands of specimens of fossils and bone of prehistoric animals were found. Of particular interest to the audience were the Androsaurus and Baluchicerium respectively the largest carnivorous and herbivorous animals of all time which lived [illegible] millions of years ago.

Mr Andrews told of the existence of a palaeolithic people in Mongolia, who lived at the same time as did the famous Cromagnon man of Europe. These people were so far advanced from barbarism as evidenced by relics discovered that they were at first confused with the more recent neolithic man. Weapons, pottery and examples of neolithic art were found in the sandstone cliffs of upper Gobia.

The speaker gave an interesting description of manners of the fast disappearing race which at present dwells in the habitable parts of Mongolia. A moving picture showing the skill of the hunters in bringing down game with ancient flint lock rifles was very interesting. The huts of the natives are covered with felt which is made from the wool of the camels. The tedious process which its manufacture involves was shown on the screen.

Mr Andrews expects to lead at least three more expeditions into Mongolia if sufficient funds are raised.

The man who seeks a friend is worthy of a friend.

He who has no friend has never really wanted one.

Day went in for Atchinson and Moodie for Prentice. Melville scored and soon afterward "Archie" Post pulled off a side shot that made the fans sit up and take notice. Laidlaw went in for Melville and Godsell for Small. Moodie tallied on a floor basket and Post on a free throw and Lamb went out on personals, to be replaced by Melville. Gronau then caged one of the prettiest shots of the game from side court at a distance of about twenty-five feet. It was one of those high loops which are his specialty. Then the Green and Gold broke loose from the hoodoo of uncertainty which had apparently dogged their attempts at tallies during the rest of the evening and started dropping them in from all positions. Post made two in succession and a free throw followed by a floor basket by Price on a follow. Then the Canadians pulled a play they had been trying all night, one of their stock tricks. Godsell carried the ball to the eighteen-foot line on one side and hooked a pass to Day on the other side of the court, who scored. Estabrook failed a free throw and the game ended with the varsity [illegible]8-16 score.

He had always wanted a business of his own

HOWARD D. EGE

—and now, while he doesn't own the business, he's got what he had hoped for in a business of his own. He's gained the opportunity to bring out the best there is in human effort—to handle men rather than materials.

That's what Howard D. Ege had in mind during the time of his early schooling at Grand Island College. It was actively developed during 1919-21 when he worked nights in a Lawrence power plant while completing the work for his B. S. in Engineering at Kansas University.

Ege doesn't scorn the well-known dictum of Socrates—"Know thyself." But he gets more of a kick out of the practical application of "Know others."

Today—five years after enrolling in the Westinghouse Graduate Students' Course—he directly controls a staff of fifty persons. And he's responsible for coordinating the efforts of 1500 employees—half of them men and half of them women—on the production floor.

Ege is Production Supervisor in the Coils and Insulation Department at the East Pittsburgh Works. He is the link between the entire Westinghouse organization and thirteen foremen who directly supervise the work of hundreds of employees. He is engaged in a production job which turns out finished parts with a shop value of more than $1,000,000 a year.

How Westinghouse offers opportunity to engineers differing widely in outlook is demonstrated again in Ege's case. From the time he conceived his ambition to work with men his path has followed a straight line. His training course at East Pittsburgh was in Works Management. This lasted about a year. Then he became Chief Clerk in the Coils and Insulation Department. Only one year later he became Supervisor, reporting directly to the Works Superintendent of Production.

To the man who wants to work with men rather than with materials, Westinghouse offers promising opportunities.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know, first of all. The question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of typical college graduates, off the campus some five—eight—ten years.

MEMBERS OF DEBATING TEAMS TO BE PICKED

The men's and women's Varsity debating teams will be selected Monday and Tuesday of next week at 4 o'clock in the Old Chapel. The final try outs for the men will be held on Monday and for women on Tuesday. These try outs will take the form of actual debates and each individual will be allowed five minutes in which to speak.

Any who intend to try out at this time and who have not been assigned to sides should see Mr. Moore at once. The question for men deals with the cancellation of war loans by the United States. The women will debate the advisability of having uniform marriage and divorce laws.

Any who have not been able to secure access to books on reserve at the Billings Library should see Mr Moore.

THREE SERVICES MARK DEDICATION OF IRA ALLEN CHAPEL JAN. 14

Morning Address by Rev. Charles Jefferson—Dr. Thomas Noble to Give Concert in Afternoon—Seniors to Attend in Body

The newly erected Ira Allen Chapel, the gift of James B. Wilbur of Manchester, Vermont, will be dedicated in three services held in the morning, afternoon, and evening of Friday, January 14. The first of these services will be at 11 o'clock, with a dedicatory address by the Rev. Charles Edward Jefferson, D. D., LL. D., pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York City. At these exercises a choir composed of sixty students, both men and women, will lead the congregation in singing, and will also sing an anthem, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," by Bach, as a part of the service.

Admission by Ticket

Admission to the exercises will be by ticket only; townspeople may obtain these free of charge from F. W. Kehoe, registrar of the University. Since the attendance must be limited to the seating capacity of the chapel, Alumni who intend to go to the service should get tickets early. It is requested that holders sign their tickets on the line provided for the purpose. The Senior class will attend in a body, tickets being distributed by Akrata and Boulder. It is planned to run a wire to the gymnasium, over which the exercises may be transmitted for the benefit of students unable to find room in the chapel.

The afternoon service, set for four o'clock, will be an organ concert by Thomas Tertius Noble, organist and choirmaster of St. Thomas's Church, New York. The third service will be a recital at which the organ numbers will be played from the recorded rolls, under the direction of Dr. Noble, who will also furnish the music at the morning exercises. The organ in the new chapel is a three manual Welte Philharmonic pipe organ of the most modern electric type. It is considered exceptional as a chapel instrument, for apart from being instrumented for the most complete manual requirements, it is also available as a reproducing organ, faithfully re-enacting the personal recordings of famous European and American master organists.

Dr. Noble a Distinguished Organist

Dr. Noble, who will dedicate this organ, has the reputation of being one of the most distinguished organists in the world today. A critic says of him: "Among the distinguished musicians who maintain the traditions of the liturgic music of the great English cathedrals, T. Tertius Noble is the first to appear in America as a concert organist."

Dr. Noble was born in the ancient city of Bath, England, in 1867. He first appeared there in public as pianist when he was 11 years old. At 14 he became organist of a church. In 1889 he won a scholarship to the Royal College of Music, London, where he studied under Sir Walter Parratt, Sir Villiers Stanford, and Sir Frederick Bridge. In 1890 he became assistant to Sir Villiers Stanford, organist at Trinity College, Cambridge, playing in the famous Tudor Chapel, whence he went to Ely Cathedral in 1892.

He was organist and choirmaster of York Minster from 1897 until 1913. In 1898, Dr. Noble founded the York Symphony Orchestra. In 1910 he revived the famous York festivals, the last of which had been held in 1832. Sir Edward Elgar and Granville Bancock have both conducted works of their own at these festivals.

VERMONT MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN TOURNEY THOUGH LUCK IS BAD

Tufts Badly Defeated But the Green and Gold Loses To Holy Cross— Scoring of Prentice Feature of Tourney

On the 29th and 30th of January the Vermont basketball squad eight strong went down to New Haven to participate in the Yale Tournament and although they failed to bring home the bacon they showed the few fans that attended the games that basketball is just as freakish as any other game.

The first night the Green and Gold took on the fast Holy Cross team and although they outplayed them in all phases of the game the Purple and White sent them to the showers on the short end of a 35 to 29 score. All of us have seen games when one team has all the luck and the other couldn't make a basket if they had a basket as big as the Atlantic Ocean to shoot at. Time after time either Price or Prentice would dribble the whole length of the floor and shoot only to have the ball roll around the rim and finally after a minute of suspense roll off. It was such heart breaking shots that lost the game, for had 25% of these gone true Vermont would have snowed Holy Cross under worse than the North Pole is in January.

On the other hand every thing that the Purple and White threw went in. No matter if they shot from Hartford the ball would have gone threw the net without even touching the rim.

As a result of this game one of the Green and Gold team was forced to go bare headed for another day. (If you don't get this joke ask Kiki.)

On the second night things were far different and Vermont showed the fans what a real basketball team can really do when they get started on the right foot. The score at half time stood 33 to 13 and the way Vermont was going the champions of the world could not have beaten them even if Vermont had spotted them 50 points. During the second half Tufts got the jump on Vermont and scored 9 points before we got started but the Green and Gold quintet came back strong and Mac put in his subs during part of the last quarter. The final score stood 50 to 29.

Howard Prentice

Who was responsible for the overwhelming score piled up against Tufts

The work of Fish Ellis a forward on the Tufts team was a sensation the first evening against Yale when he scored 18 points for his team, but the second night Price held him to 2 baskets thus changing his name to Fishy Ellis.

The defensive work of Capt. Marvin showed up great in the tournament and both of Vermont's opponents worked some to get their passes by Doc. The scoring of Prentice was easily the outstanding feature of the tournament when on the second night he piled up eleven baskets besides giving as many assists.

On the first night Yale had a tough time in turning back the Tufts quintet and then barely nosed them out in the last minutes of play. While on the second evening they had little trouble in turning back Holy Cross. On this basis Vermont backers can

FOREBODINGS

Again the old saws buzz as friend meets friend and clasp hands with a fervor that implies a six months separation instead of a paltry thirteen days and an unlucky number at that. "I had a wonderful time but I will be glad unless I get some sleep pretty soon." This is the general trend of the conversation at the conclusion of each recital of the pleasures enjoyed during the brief sojourns under the parental roofs. But alas, we fear there will be many funerals before these two weeks end which so many have set aside as a sort of haven in which they may refit their sails for the stormy weather symbolized by mid-years. It appears that sleep and review of forgotten subjects will have to be eliminated. The downtown theatres are putting on their best productions now; concerts and lectures are scheduled to appear continuously; the chapel is to be dedicated; and the monthly tests are making their appearance more persistently than ever. We might go on ad infinitum with the list of diversions which no cultured collegian may avoid, but for lack of space we will stop here and trust that you are one of those lucky ones for whom mid-years hold no terrors. We will try to believe that you have headed the warnings which have been hurled out to the younger ones and felt intuitively by the upperclassmen, to do each day's work as it appeared and thus move up to January 17 with absolute confidence in your ability to have that most esteemed first letter of the alphabet stamped on those little blue books which the Registrar hands out in the gymnasium when the long tables are set up.

HE STILL LIVES

Occasionally we meet a man who sets his own personal comfort ahead of any discomfort which the rest of the world may suffer while he is attaining it, but we had prided ourselves on the absence of such an individual from the college campus until the exam schedules disappear from the bulletin board in the Old Mill. Someone must be enjoying great peace or absence of mind as he checks off the dates of his exams on the nicely mimeographed sheets while the rest of the college haunts the corridors note book and pencil in hand in search of said sheets. However the CYNIC came to the rescue and everyone is able to enjoy the same privilege as the aforesaid person but without the apparent loss of respect for the other man's rights. The schedule is printed in this issue.

DEDICATION

The long looked for event is approaching and next week will see the dedication of the first new building which has been erected on this campus in a generation, when the exercises take place which will mark the opening of the Ira Allen Chapel.

It is with a feeling of satisfaction that we observe the plans which are going forward to make this dedication a ceremony worthy of the commanding position which the new chapel holds upon this campus in the first place because of the ideals for which it stands and secondly because of its beauty which is but one more proof of our claim that we have the most beautiful campus in the United States.

Already the structure has begun to obtain a grip on the inner consciousness of the student body, before its interior has even been seen by most of the members. For nearly two months the clock has done valiant service in getting us to classes and there is scarcely a person who has not learned to trust it and look up to it many times each day. For several weeks in addition to being a regulator of our daylight pace the lofty tower has with its brilliant beacon guided our footsteps at night.

Now the noble edifice is about to become an influence in the inner lives of many. Whatever the uses it is put to and no doubt they will be plentiful, this structure cannot help but exert some influence on everyone even as it has already proven itself an agency for service to mankind through its external physical attributes.

NO KAKE WALKING TO BE ALLOWED IN MAIN STUNTS THIS YEAR

Plans for the Kake Walk are shaping up well. The committees in charge are busily preparing for the big event. All the fraternities, however, should cooperate, too! Peerade entries and stunts and ideas for costumes should be thought about so that the material will be ready to hand in on the dates which will be announced soon.

No Kake Walking in the stunts will be allowed this year as in former years inasmuch as the directors feel that it detracts from the actual Kake Walk which is a separate event.

easily convince themselves as to who had the best on the floor. It was the general opinion at the tournament even among Yale supporters that the Green and Gold should have come out on top.

From the score on the first evening some may think that Vermont layed down during the first game but they should get this idea out of their heads as Vermont played one of the best games that can be put up by any team, but the breaks were against them.

Three Services Mark Dedication of Ira Allen Chapel Jan. 14

He composed the "Pageant Music" for the York festivals. Other compositions of Dr. Noble are the incidental music to the "Wasps" of Aristophanes given at Cambridge in 1887, an opera, "Killibegs," given at York in 1911, and "Gloria Domini" (The Dedication of the Temple,) a festival cantata that has been given several times in New York. The first New York performance was at St Paul's Chapel, Trinity Parish, with full orchestra, the congregation numbering nearly 2,000.

Over a thousand recitals have been given by him in York Minster, Albert Hall, Exeter Hall, The Crystal Palace, The Bow and Bromley Institute, Westminster Abbey, Ely Cathedral, and Durham, Chester, Bristol, and Manchester Cathedrals. He received the Honorary degree of Master of Arts from Columbia University in 1917. He has been organist and choirmaster at St. Thomas's Church, New York, since 1913. He was president of the National Association of Organists from 1922 to 1924.

Praised In Ottawa Appearance

Dr. Noble gave an organ concert in Ottawa not long ago, and Dr. Herbert Sanders, writing in the Ottawa Journal says of his playing: "The recitalist displayed a facile pedal and finger technique, but these are his minor assets. The outstanding characteristics of his playing are his musicianly comprehension, and his ability to express this uncommon comprehension in an arresting and completely captivating manner. He is apparently a master of many moods and can appeal by the ingenuous way he plays a simple melody or by the dramatic vitality with which he invests a performance or a work of his own such as his glowing and glorious Toccata and Fugue in F minor which undoubtedly constituted his chef d'œuvre last evening."

The records of the class of 1875 at Princeton University show that college athletes live longer than non-athletic students. Of the members of the football, baseball, track, crew and gymnasium teams, ten are alive today, or an average of 50 per cent, while only 21 per cent of their classmates who were not athletes survive.

Here and There

The Holy Cross Dramatic Society is going to present Cyrano de Bergerac in February. This famous play has only been produced twice before in the United States; once under Richard Mansfield in 1898, and again under Walter Hampden in 1923. The latter ran 300 performances and set a record for the play.

The Military Arts department at the University of Arkansas has offered two prizes of $10 each, to be given to the best drilled cadet in each of the Freshman and Sophomore classes. Offering of this prize is intended to further interest in military work.

By a recent rule passed at Smith College students may spend only seven nights away from the campus out of each semester. President A. W. Neilson believes this new regulation will develop in the students the power of self-direction and arouse a greater interest in college life.

President Neilson held that students of today have greater opportunities to travel and spend their week-ends away from the campus than ever before, and unless one lives strictly on the campus it is impossible to profit by the atmosphere that the college has created.

After such an off-campus week-end the student's work is impoverished, President Neilson said; but, on the other hand, he claimed, a week-end spent on the campus participating in college activities, left the student anxious for work again on Monday.

Coach Welch of the Hobart football team feeds his athletes sauerkraut and sauerkraut juices to keep them fit and in condition. The excellent condition of the team throughout a long hard season is attributed by the coach to the judicious use of this diet.

According to Dr. Knight Dunlap, professor of Psychology at John Hopkins University, evidence so far indicates that the man who smokes will be a more dependable and steady worker. The reason for this is that tobacco is a sedative. Dr. Dunlap believes that even production in amount and quality are the natural results of smoking.

Y. W. C. A. WILL CONDUCT FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN THROUGHOUT NEXT WEEK

Beginning Monday, January 10 and lasting throughout the week the Y. W. C. A will hold its campaign for funds. In common with other organizations both on the campus and elsewhere, Y. W. must have funds in order to exist and carry on its work. Therefore it is hoped that not only members but also all students interested in the organization will contribute whatever amount they feel that they can. Watch the bulletin board for further details about the campaign and let's have everybody contribute, if only a nickel.

W. A. A. COUNCIL PLANS FOR WINTER CARNIVAL

BLUESTOCKINGS HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR AT GRASSMOUNT

Bluestockings held its first meeting of the new year at Grassmount last Tuesday evening. Many were present and enjoyed the several papers read by the new members. Plans for the social meetings being managed by each class were suggested and accepted. The members were encouraged to try out for the prizes offered by the local Theatre Club for a one-act play. The president read an article "Specialization in Writing" from the Reader's Guide. Papers were read by Priscilla Campbell, Dorothy Cottrell, Constans Holden, Mary Spargo, Dorothy Strong, Laura Thorpe and Mary Turner.

BREAKFAST EACH MORN BEST WAY TO PRESERVE HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Mid-years are drawing near and whereas ane should protect one's health at all times, this present time deserves special attention. One way to improve health is to be sure and eat breakfast every day. This is neglected by altogether too many students. Even if you have only time to get a sandwich at the "Coffee Corner" that is better than nothing. Few of us stop to realize what breakfast means. If you have eaten nothing, it is much harder to keep your attention on your lessons than if you have eaten just some fruit or a piece of toast. Breakfast improves health and health improves ability to think clearly and to study intelligently which in turn improve marks. Therefore let everyone try to remember breakfast as the first meal of every day.

Out of the Mail Bag

Dear Mabel:

"Back to H—and starvation." Who said that? Gee Mabel—we're here and we have ahead in the bright (?) future, hour tests and many other necessary cornerstones to our education laid down by our loving faculty!

The trains were jammed Monday night and our fair co-eds were bothered terribly by those noisy Norwich men. But don't forget—girls—bids to Freshman Week are in order, and all good things come to those who wait!

I had a corking vacation (so say we all!). It wasn't a vacation, it was a race with sleep, and so far, sleep hasn't caught up.

And those New Year parties, Mabel, have you heard about anything else but? The world danced on New Year's Eve, and what an eve! The precedent set down by some colleges. (not ours!) of dancing until two was demonstrated successfully, by the older people. What are we coming to? Oh well, this is dreadfully rambling, but—"who's happy?" "All of us!"—Maria.

FRESHMAN SUPPER THIS EVENING

There will be a Freshman supper at the city Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening from six o'clock until seven. All Freshmen are invited to attend. Professor B. F. ETA SIGMA PHI WILL ELECT OFFICERS TUESDAY

Eta Sigma Phi the Greek honorary society will have its annual business meeting at the home of Professor and Mrs. Bassett, Tuesday evening, January 11.

The election of officers will take place at that time as the terms of present ones have now expired.

As a result of the success of the voluntary chapel system at Yale University, the Princeton student body is overwhelmingly in favor of having a similar regulation there. However, President John G Hibben states that such a move will be impossible until next year when the new chapel will be completed.

THE DECLARATION

Glimmering with sunset, evening came.
Wilder tossed the flood,
And I sat by the shore, and peered out over
The white, tossing dance of the billows,
And my bosom surged like the sea,
And in my yearning a deep home-sickness took me,
A yearning for thee, thou holy form,
Thou who art with me everywhere,
And who callest me everywhere,
Everywhere, everywhere.
In the sighing of the winds, and the moaning of the sea,
And in the sobbing of my own breast.
With fragile reed wrote I in the sand
"Agnes, I love thee!"
But fell waves gushed up
O'er the sweet confession.
And washed it all away
Ah, brittle reed; ah, send too lightly scattered,
Ye rushing waves, no more trust I to such as ye'
The heavens darken, my heart beats more rapid
And with ruthless hand from Norway's forests
Tear I the highest pine tree
And dip it deep into
Aetna's fiery hell, and with this
Fire-dripping giant-like pen
Write I on the wide black clouds of heaven,
"Agnes, I love thee!"
Every night from that time on has gleamed
There yonder the eternal flaming line
And all generations growing up after us
Shall read, rejoicing the heaven-written words,
"Agnes, I love thee!"

—Heine "North Sea"

The University of Wisconsin has a Dolphin Club. To be eligible for membership a person must be able to swim the length of the pool ten times and do three different dives.

"Today's college student may wear a coon skin coat, pet, and carry his booze, but he is a better college student than his brother of bygone days," said Dean Armstrong of Northwestern University at a recent alumni meeting. "Figures prove that the hip flask and fur-coat age produces better scholarship," he said. "In 1915 eleven fraternities with 155 students had a general average of 14, the first semester of the present year our fraternities with three times as many students averaged 1.9. Our present student body of thirty-eight hundred on this campus had a general average of 1.7. All this despite the fact that the automobile is the parlor and our girls have grown independent."

An experiment is being made in the Junior Physics Course at Holy Cross. To develop initiative and self-reliance the Juniors will not be required to attend class, but will be given the usual exams at intervals.

ODD AND ENDS

But he who, having it in his power to do wrong, refuses.
—Philemon

Would I were heaven,
That I could gaze with its many eyes on thee!

Just think some night the stars will shine
Upon a cold gray stone,

Our handiwork the honor of our moil.—Goethe.

FOREBODINGS

Again the old saws buzz as friend meets friend and clasp hands with a fervor that implies a six months separation instead of a paltry thirteen days and an unlucky number at that. "I had a wonderful time but I will be glad unless I get some sleep pretty soon." This is the general trend of the conversation at the conclusion of each recital of the pleasures enjoyed during the brief sojourns under the parental roofs. But alas, we fear there will be many funerals before these two weeks end which so many have set aside as a sort of haven in which they may refit their sails for the stormy weather symbolized by mid-years. It appears that sleep and review of forgotten subjects will have to be eliminated. The downtown theatres are putting on their best productions now; concerts and lectures are scheduled to appear continuously; the chapel is to be dedicated; and the monthly teets are making their appearance more persistently than ever. We might go on ad infinitum with the list of diversions which no cultured collegian may avoid, but for lack of space we will stop here and trust that you are one of those lucky ones for whom mid-years hold no terrors. We will try to believe that you have headed the warnings which have been hurled out to the younger ones and felt intuitively by the upperclassmen, to do each day's work as it appeared and thus move up to January 17 with absolute confidence in your ability to have that most esteemed first letter of the alphabet stamped on those little blue books which the Registrar hands out in the gymnasium when the long tables are set up.

HE STILL LIVES

Occasionally we meet a man who sets his own personal comfort ahead of any discomfort which the rest of the world may suffer while he is attaining it, but we had prided ourselves on the absence of such an individual from the college campus until the exam schedules disappear from the bulletin board in the Old Mill. Someone must be enjoying great peace or absence of mind as he checks off the dates of his exams on the nicely mimeographed sheets while the rest of the college haunts the corridors note book and pencil in hand in search of said sheets. However the CYNIC came to the rescue and everyone is able to enjoy the same privilege as the aforesaid person but without the apparent loss of respect for the other man's rights. The schedule is printed in this issue.

DEDICATION

The long looked for event is approaching and next week will see the dedication of the first new building which has been erected on this campus in a generation, when the exercises take place which will mark the opening of the Ira Allen Chapel.

It is with a feeling of satisfaction that we observe the plans which are going forward to make this dedication a ceremony worthy of the commanding position which the new chapel holds upon this campus in the first place because of the ideals for which it stands and secondly because of its beauty which is but one more proof of our claim that we have the most beautiful campus in the United States.

Already the structure has begun to obtain a grip on the inner consciousness of the student body, before its interior has even been seen by most of the members. For nearly two months the clock has done valiant service in getting us to classes and there is scarcely a person who has not learned to trust it and look up to it many times each day. For several weeks in addition to being a regulator of our daylight pace the lofty tower has with its brilliant beacon guided our footsteps at night.

Now the noble edifice is about to become an influence in the inner lives of many. Whatever the uses it is put to and no doubt they will be plentiful, this structure cannot help but exert some influence on everyone even as it has already proven itself an agency for service to mank'nd through its external physical attributes.

NO KAKE WALKING TO BE ALLOWED IN MAIN STUNTS THIS YEAR

Plans for the Kake Walk are shaping up well. The committees in charge are busily preparing for the big event. All the fraternities, however, should cooperate too. Peerade entries and stunts and ideas for costumes should be thought about so that the material will be ready to hand in on the dates which will be announced soon.

No Kake Walking in the stunts will be allowed this year as in former years inasmuch as the directors feel that it detracts from the actual Kake Walk which is a separate event.

easily convince themselves as to who had the best on the floor. It was the general opinion at the tournament even among Yale supporters that the Green and Gold should have come out on top.

From the score on the first evening some may think that Vermont layed down during the first game but they should get this idea out of their heads as Vermont played one of the best games that can be put up by any team, but the breaks were against them.

He composed the "Pageant Music" for the York festivals. Other compositions of Dr. Noble are the incidental music to the "Wasps" of Aristophanes given at Cambridge in 1887, an opera, "Killibegs," given at York in 1911, and "Gloria Domini" (The Dedication of the Temple,) a festival cantata that has been given several times in New York. The first New York performance was at St. Paul's Chapel, Trinity Parish, with full orchestra, the congregation numbering nearly 2,000.

Over a thousand recitals have been given by him in York Minster, Albert Hall, Exeter Hall, The Crystal Palace, The Bow and Bromley Institute, Westminster Abbey, Ely Cathedral, and Durham, Chester, Bristol, and Manchester Cathedrals. He received the Honorary degree of Master of Arts from Columbia University in 1917. He has been organist and choirmaster at St. Thomas's Church, New York, since 1913. He was president of the National Association of Organists from 1922 to 1924.

Praised In Ottawa Appearance

Dr. Noble gave an organ concert in Ottawa not long ago, and Dr. Herbert Sanders, writing in the Ottawa Journal says of his playing: "The recitalist displayed a facile pedal and finger technique, but these are his minor assets. The outstanding characteristics of his playing are his musician ly comprehension, and his ability to express this uncommon comprehension in an arresting and completely captivating manner. He is apparently a master of many moods and can appeal by the ingenuous way he plays a simple melody or by the dramatic vitality with which he invests a performance or a work of his own such as his glowing and glorious Toccata and Fugue in F minor which undoubtedly constituted his chef d'œuvre last evening."

The records of the class of 1875 at Princeton University show that college athletes live longer than non-athletic students. Of the members of the football, baseball, track, crew and gymnasium teams, ten are alive today, or an average of 50 per cent, while only 21 per cent of their classmates who were not athletes survive.

Here and There

The Holy Cross Dramatic Society is going to present Cyrano de Bergerac in February. This famous play has only been produced twice before in the United States, once under Richard Mansfield in 1898, and again under Walter Hampden in 1923. The latter ran 300 performances and set a record for the play.

The Military Arts department at the University of Arkansas has offered two prizes of $10 each, to be given to the best drilled cadet in each of the Freshman and Sophomore classes. Offering of this prize is intended to further interest in military work.

By a recent rule passed at Smith College students may spend only seven nights away from the campus out of each semester. President A. W. Neilson believes this new regulation will develop in the students the power of self-direction and arouse a greater interest in college life.

President Neilson held that students of today have greater opportunities to travel and spend their week-ends away from the campus than ever before, and unless one lives strictly on the campus it is impossible to profit by the atmosphere that the college has created.

After such an off-campus week-end the student's work is impoverished, President Neilson said; but, on the other hand, he claimed, a week-end spent on the campus participating in college activities, left the student anxious for work again on Monday.

Coach Welch of the Hobart football team feeds his athletes sauerkraut and sauerkraut juices to keep them fit and in condition. The excellent condition of the team throughout a long hard season is attributed by the coach to the judicious use of this diet.

According to Dr. Knight Dunlap, professor of Psychology at John Hopkins University, evidence so far indicates that the man who smokes will be a more dependable and steady worker. The reason for this is that tobacco is a sedative. Dr. Dunlap believes that even production in amount and quality are the natural results of smoking.

A colossal twenty-nine story "Cathedral of Learning" is being erected at the University of Pittsburgh. The foundations have already been begun and when completed the building will contain over 100 classr numerous offices and imately $7,000,000. The cathedral will place the largest common room in the collegiate world at the disposal of the Pittsburgh students.

Insurance against any calamity befalling the students during their college career, from being injured in games to breaking clubs upon the golf course, is being offered by Oxford University. About the only calamity not insured against is "flunking."

A short course in embalming will be offered by the extension division of the University of Minnesota. It will run for 12 weeks.

In a small college in Kansas, the following rules were recently posted by the faculty for the improvement of students morals:

"No dresses shall be worn to which are shorter than six below the knee."

"Use or possession of lipstick the school campus is prohibited."

"No slang phrases or language shall be employed."

"Wearing of bobbed hair by the prohibited, their use to be supplied by that of suspenders."

Freshman coeds at Tulane University were recently paraded in the main buildings in a coed by the upperclassmen. The women were heavily chaperoned locked, and leashed. "You bet kickin' my dog around" is now for the Freshwomen.

Y. W. C. A. WILL CONDUCT FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN THROUGHOUT NEXT WEEK

Beginning Monday, January 10 and lasting throughout the week the Y. W. C. A. will hold its campaign for funds. In common with other organizations both on the campus and elsewhere, the Y. W. must have funds in order to exist and carry on its work. Therefore it is hoped that not only members but also all students interested in the organization will contribute whatever amount they feel that they can. Watch the bulletin board for further details about the campaign and let's have everybody contribute, if only a nickel.

W. A. A. COUNCIL PLANS FOR WINTER CARNIVAL

BLUESTOCKINGS HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR AT GRASSMOUNT

Bluestockings held its first meeting of the new year at Grassmount last Tuesday evening. Many were present and enjoyed the several papers read by the new members. Plans for the social meetings being managed by each class were suggested and accepted. The members were encouraged to try out for the prizes offered by the local Theatre Club for a one-act play. The president read an article "Specialization in Writing" from the Reader's Guide. Papers were read by Priscilla Campbell, Dorothy Cottrell, Constans Holden, Mary Spargo, Dorothy Strong, Laura Thorpe and Mary Turner.

BREAKFAST EACH MORN BEST WAY TO PRESERVE HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Mid-years are drawing near and whereas ane should protect one's health at all times, this present time deserves special attention. One way to improve health is to be sure and eat breakfast every day. This is neglected by altogether too many students. Even if you have only time to get a sandwich at the "Coffee Corner" that is better than nothing. Few of us stop to realize what breakfast means. If you have eaten nothing, it is much harder to keep your attention on your lessons than if you have eaten just some fruit or a piece of toast. Breakfast improves health and health improves ability to think clearly and to study intelligently which in turn improve marks. Therefore let everyone try to remember breakfast as the first meal of every day.

Out of the Mail Bag

Dear Mabel:

Back to H—and starvation." Who said that? Gee Mabel—we're here and we have ahead in the bright (?) future, hour tests and many other necessary cornerstones to our education laid down by our loving faculty!

The trains were jammed Monday night and our fair co-eds were bothered terribly by those noisy Norwich men. But don't forget—girls—bids to Freshman Week are in order, and all good things come to those who wait!

I had a corking vacation (so say we all!) It wasn't a vacation, it was a race with sleep, and so far, sleep hasn't caught up.

And those New Year parties, Mabel, have you heard about anything else but? The world danced on New Year's Eve and what an eve! The precedent set down by some colleges. (not ours!) of dancing until two was demonstrated successfully, by the older people. What are we coming to? Oh well, this is dreadfully rambling, but—"who's happy?" "All of us!"—Maria.

ETA SIGMA PHI WILL ELECT OFFICERS TUESDAY

Eta Sigma Phi the Greek honorary society will have its annual business meeting at the home of Professor and Mrs. Bassett, Tuesday evening, January 11.

The election of officers will take place at that time as the terms of present ones have now expired.

As a result of the success of the voluntary chapel system at Yale University, the Princeton student body is overwhelmingly in favor of having a similar regulation there. However, President John G. Hibben states that such a move will be impossible until next year when the new chapel will be completed.

THE DECLARATION

Glimmering with sunset, evening came
Wilder tossed the flood.
And I sat by the shore, and peered out over
The white, tossing dance of the billows,
And my bosom surged like the sea,
And in my yearning a deep homesickness took me.
A yearning for thee thou holy form,
Thou who art with me everywhere,
And who callest me everywhere,
Everywhere, everywhere.
In the sighing of the winds, and the moaning of the sea,
And in the sobbing of my own breast.
With fragile reed wrote I in the sand
"Agnes, I love thee!"
But fell waves gushed up
Over the sweet confession,
And washed it all away.
Ah, brittle reed, ah, sand too lightly scattered.
Ye rushing waves, no more trust I to such as ye!
The heavens darken, my heart beats more rapid
And with ruthless hand from Norway's forests
Tear I the highest pine tree
And dip it deep into
Aetna's fiery hell, and with this
Fire-dripping giant-like pen
Write I on the wide black clouds of heaven,
"Agnes, I love thee!"
Every night from that time on has gleamed
There yonder the eternal flaming line
And all generations growing up after us
Shall read, rejoicing, the heaven-written words,
"Agnes, I love thee!"

"Today's college student may wear a coon skin coat, pet, and carry his booze, but he is a better college student than his brother of bygone days," said Dean Armstrong of Northwestern University at a recent alumni meeting. "Figures prove that the hip-flask and fur-coat age produces better scholarship," he said. "In 1915 eleven fraternities with 155 students had a general average of 1.4; the first semester of the present year our fraternities with three times as many students averaged 1.9. Our present student body of thirty-eight hundred on this campus had a general average of 1.7. All this despite the fact that the automobile is the parlor and our girls have grown independent."

An experiment is being made in the Junior Physics Course at Holy Cross. To develop initiative and self-reliance the Juniors will not be required to attend class, but will be given the usual exams at intervals.

Magazine Writer Frankly Discusses Petting and its Relation to Divorce

Some time ago there appeared in [illegible] Mag an article by Mrs J [illegible] petting. Petting has perhaps done more to rouse and keep [illegible] attitude towards the younger generation than has anything else. The aftermath of the World War has to some extent justified this attitude during the past few years. Mrs Exner says that in recent years there has shown a marked trend towards freedom, an impulse to taste life to the dregs. Not the least of these trends has been the play at love commonly known as petting. Young people defy the protests of their elders with "What's the harm?"—the elders have answered with the customary curses or with evasions. Mrs Exner believes that in a question so vital, affecting their future, frank discussion is the only method to be employed.

Co-education Justified

Here he pauses to say that he thoroughly believes in friendship between the sexes. Attraction towards the other sexes and craving for their companionships are among the most deep-seated native impulses of every normal individual. Companionships, for if young people confine themselves to a single or even a few friendships they are going to be seriously handicapped in the most vital of all choices—the choice of a mate. Such companionships are necessary for the normal growth of the personality, for wise control and refinement of the sex urge. Separation of the sexes does not minimize these impulses; it renders them more insistent. The World War strikingly revealed this fact. In his opinion, the principle of co-education is thoroughly sound.

Indeed this modern freedom is an excellent thing if not misused. Tension control is the price of civilization. Animals and savages do not experience this tension—when the sex urge arises it is gratified like any other routine want. Civilization has brought postponement, courtship, marriage—has given love a higher esthetic and spiritual meaning. Our rank is superior to that of the savage, yet this superiority brings a challenge, a fight for self mastery. To win such a fight is the highest possible use of the new freedom.

Petting Leads To Mis-mating

The testing of love's responses between man and a young [illegible] does not call for a full abandonment to physical impulses such as we are inclined to indulge in. It does require abandonment to physical expression to sense the magnetism of personality. Indeed it is such excitement that tends to blind one to discrimination in the higher social values and so in the end to disillusionment and misery. Important choice of a mate must consider harmony of tastes, feelings, desires, aspirations, appreciations and interests more than mutual physical attraction. Petting is likely to lead to mis-mating by overstimulating merely physical urges and blinding one to the more essential personal qualities. The gifts of discrimination and appreciation are not inborn, they must be developed through friendships and companionships. And they are not to be cultivated by promiscuous petting.

"It Is Natural"

It is frequently said in defense of petting that "it is natural," implying that what is natural is right and good. And yet the course of civilization has been one of progressive departure from the natural to the artificial. The natural way to eat is to grab the raw victim, dash away and gulp it down in the shortest possible time. Civilization has made the act of eating more artificial, and incidentally the central feature of our sociability. In the same way civilization has made the sex urge, which is the basis of love, more artificial. To the mere physical gratification has been added courtship and the deeper and more lasting satisfaction arising from self-restraint. After all, doesn't the petter's, "It is natural," imply an acceptance of the lesser for the greater gift?

The object of love is the full identification of one's self with another personality. There is no limit to such identification. Petting is play at love. It is mock love. Indulgence in such blunts the capacity to develop the highest elements of true love. It leads to the failure to cultivate the art of love, a failure that renders many marriages beyond the honeymoon stage dull, and progressively unsatisfactory.

Essentially Selfish

Petting seems to be steadily drifting towards a rather careless promiscuity. Physical thrills are the object sought, not the interplay of the whole of two personalities. Such physical love is self-limiting. It can never satisfy the higher psychic longings and needs. This impersonality which is found in promiscuous petting must mean in the end that one person comes to exploit another for purely selfish conquest regardless of the consequences to that person. Real love seeks to give and finds its supreme satisfaction in giving. The petter seeks chiefly his own pleasure and uses other persons to that end as he would use a thing, each to be cast aside when it has served its purpose. Being essentially selfish it must in a measure lower self respect, and self-respect is of primary importance to a soundly integrated personality. Incidentally petting causes those involved to lose respect for each other.

Mr. Exner sees in petting one of the chief causes of divorce today. Young people who have developed their affectional capacities through petting are training for future marital troubles. The essential harm of petting lies in the fact that it is a cultivation of a low order of love.

In conclusion, he speaks of petting as a series of low hills, the climbing of each of which gives a certain gratification, but which unfits for the greatest peak of all—true love.

JUNIOR CLASS PICTURES MAY BE RETAKEN

The group pictures of the Sophomore and Junior classes were taken in front of the library on the Saturday preceding the holidays. A large percentage of the Sophomores were present but the attendance of the Juniors was quite small and the picture was not satisfactory. Another one may be taken. The proofs are not yet finished, but they will be displayed at the University Store upon completion.

"What Should Concern Youth" Conference Topic

What Should Concern Youth? Two hundred fifty young people with that question uppermost in their minds met for a two-day conference at International House, New York, October 23-24.

They met under the auspices of an organization, formed last May to foster social concern in young minds. The American Federation of Youth. The Federation's purpose is: "To unite groups of young men and women, to interest them in local, national and international problems, to secure an expression of youth opinion, to quicken response to the needs of humanity, to develop in youth a sense of responsibility, and to instill a spirit of fellowship and tolerance among all youth irrespective of race, creed, nationality, social condition, and political affiliation."

The fourteen affiliated clubs, for a large part local groups, include the Fellowship of Youth for Peace; the League for Industrial Democracy, and the Social Problems Club of Columbia University. Thirty-three other groups sent representatives.

Before thinking about their own situations the conference-goers listened to accounts of foreign youth movements: to the Secretary of the German Student Cooperative Association in America, the Secretary of the Chinese Student Association and two members of the student delegation to Russia. "The youth of China broke up the chains of traditional thought and created an atmosphere of intellectual freedom and stimulation," said a speaker. Most of the speakers had encouraging reports of youth's advance in other parts of the world.

Discussion followed under the guidance of Dr. Goodwin B. Watson of Teachers College, Columbia University. The consensus of this discussion was finally expressed in a resolution adopted by a vote of 54 to 33, as follows: "The fall conference of the American Federation of Youth, desirous of seeing the building of a youth movement which will embrace all youth organizations in a struggle against militarism, imperialism and child labor, recommends to the Executive Council of the Federation that it carry out a program of enlightenment on youth problems through debates, mass meetings, forums, and publications, in order to further effectively its fight for youth rights."—The New Student.

MORE VOICES NEEDED IN MEN'S GLEE CLUB TO FILL ORGANIZATION

Manager Don Rockwell announces that more good voices are needed in the Men's Glee Club. The Men's Glee Club, collaborating with the Women's Glee Club, is to sing January 14, at the dedication ceremonies of the new chapel. There are several trips in view, as in previous years, provided there is more spirit shown and more men try out under Professor Bennett.

HOLIDAY CONVENTIONS ATTENDED BY SEVERAL MEMBERS OF FACULTY

College professors from all over the United States attended conventions held at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., by the Modern Language Association, the American Philological Association and the Linguistic Society of America.

Professors Carpenter and Ladd of the German Department, and Professor Myrick of the French Department attended the Modern Language Association meeting held December 29, 30 and 31. Professor Carpenter served on a committee to turn in a report on the organization of German Clubs throughout the country.

Professors Prindle, Hamblin and Whitehead of the Latin Department and Professors Bassett and Kidder of the Greek Department attended the convention of the American Philological Association. Professors Bassett and Whitehead read papers before the convention.

ADVANCED CLASS IN FENCING IS FORMED

Among the newer sports at the University, fencing is proving to be one of the most popular. Classes in this sport, which was initiated last spring began the first of December under the guidance of Lieutenant Allison. Lieutenant Allison, an officer at the Post is quite well known in fencing circles as a member of the New York Athletic Club and a member of the Cornel fencing squad during his years there.

The U. V. M. squad which consists of twenty-one men has been divided into advanced and primary classes thus giving both those who have had experience and those new to the game an equal chance. The advanced class men are having individual bouts, and the primary class men are practicing the lunges and parries with Lieutenant Allison. The work is progressing very nicely and there are prospects of matches in the spring with Norwich and other teams. Dr. Aldinger is teaching the primary moves to his Physical Training classes and those who show promise and ability should sign up with the squad. The primary class meets Tuesdays and Thursdays at seven-thirty in the evening and Wednesday afternoons at four. The advanced class meets on the same evenings and afternoon an hour later.

DR. GEORGE A. HUNTLEY GRADUATE OF MEDICAL COLLEGE VISITS CITY

Having Returned From Work In Central China Dr. Huntley Will Speak Concerning International Relations

George A. Huntley, M. D., a student at the Medical College in the late nineties, returns to Burlington and will be heard in one address which he is dated to give Sunday night at the First Baptist Church. Since completion of his course here, Dr. Huntley has made a great record as physician and surgeon out in Central China, carrying modern medical science to this belated area. In 1915, he was assigned to Shanghai College as physician and instructor in physiology and hygiene. For the past two years he has been in America, and speaking constantly in the interests of the work overseas.

His story of the rough wooden building that served as a hospital and dispensary is thrilling enough with thousands of patient treated every year. For years he was the solitary physician and surgeon, serving a city of a quarter of a million people.

Dr. Huntley is a speaker welcome at the largest conventions and at colleges and universities throughout the States. His messages reveal a statesmanlike grasp of the economic, political and religious problems that confront China today. He is able to give a vivid picture of the educational and medical progress in the Orient.

The service will have particular interest to members of the Medical College and all who are interested in international relations. Dr. Huntley anticipates this visit as an opportunity to come into touch with the University and city once again.

An open forum will be conducted immediately following the address when Dr. Huntley will answer questions from the floor. While Mr. Oxley, pastor of the church, announced this was unusual procedure in such a service, the presence of Dr. Huntley commended it as most valuable in getting at further information on points of inquiry.

ARTHUR DOW PRESENTS LOUISE HOMER IN GYMNASIUM

Monday evening, January 10, at the University gymnasium Arthur Dow presents Louise Homer, known as America's greatest living contralto. Madame Louise Homer made her début as an opera singer in Paris in 1898. Since then she has sung in most of the countries of Europe and for nineteen successive seasons at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City. During this period she has sung practically all the leading contralto rôles of grand opera.

Track Dope

[illegible]

Although it is yet [illegible] early to [illegible] a true estimate of the track [illegible] we feel compelled to state that we see little but dark clouds on the horizon. Loss of last year's stars graduation, failure to return to college, and ineligibility, have practically wrecked the entire team. graduation we lost Hill, Wilcox Platt, Lord, Ottley. Their loss so keenly felt, however, because foreseen, and steps were taken to set it by developing [illegible] to fill their shoes.

A thrust of a more unkind was felt when "Sandy" Crouter to return to college this fall. State meet Crouter took first in the 440, and second places in the and 220 yd. dashes. Much time been spent on developing Crouter his loss is the greater because take at least two new stars to him.

Ineligibility, however, is our bugbear. Robbins, last year's man star is at present ineligible. There is a rumor that "Art" may not be eligible to compete spring. With our two and only lers out of it, we may as well 16 points in the hurdles to N As prospects now seem, the or failure of this spring's track lies in the eligibility of "Art" Ineligibility also seems to be what few high school stars are Freshman class. Nothing definite be said of the Freshman until mid-years. What is certain, however is that the above-named men for 44 of the points which we the state meet last year—a sufficient to throw the advantage either to Norwich or to Middlebury.

Our misfortunes seem, more or coincide with the good fortune Norwich and Middlebury, neither whom lost over 3 points by graduation. In addition, Norwich is receiving this year by Yarrington, the scholastic hurdle champion, and the champion pole-vaulter as well not to speak of several broad jumpers and distance men, and the addition of two coaches. From Middlebury have as yet no news except that Arnold is eligible, and good for at least 8 points in the middle distances.

Our hopes for success lie in the Freshman class. Two years ago were in the same predicament as the Frosh came through to win the State meet for us. We need [illegible] day after mid-years, and would like to see at least forty or fifty men reporting.

DR. SHOTWELL FAVORS A WAR OF DEFENSE NOT OF AGGRESSION

Columbia Professor Cites Importance of War in the History of Society and Denounces Pledges Against War as Such

There were only a few empty seats in the chapel in the Old Mill last Friday afternoon when Professor James T. Shotwell of the History Department of Columbia University, addressed the student body on "What is a War of Necessity?" The speaker was introduced by Dean Hills of the Agricultural College at the University.

Development of Society Through War

Professor Shotwell said that war was one of the oldest things recorded in history; it furnished culture and poetry being the last argument in settling human affairs. We fail to recognize the rôle played by war in the development of society because it has grown farther and farther away from us.

The realistic leaders of humanity, such as theologians, philosophers and statesmen have always protested against war. Even in our own times, war as a last reason in safe-guarding and establishing peace has been opposed by those who lead civilization upward and onward. This is a great paradox, and has been the constant and unresolved paradox of the Church since the time of Christ. War in society, peace in ideals, and war as a means of peace that is the paradox. This would have gone on for centuries had it not been that in our day war became such a vast tragedy as to cease to be an academic discussion. We must try to see whether the paradox can be solved in terms of practical affairs. The World War was a turning point in history.

A Review of the Dead

If all the dead of the World War were to form in ranks once again for a great review, four abreast and separated by the regular intervals, marching ten hours a day, and passing the reviewing stand at the rate of a hundred a minute, it would take over a year before all would file past. The line would fill the trenches from Paris to Constantinople. This is one of the ways of displacements of war.

The time has come when any great democracy must take up in earnest such a challenge as Lincoln uttered at Gettysburg. "Those who died shall not have died in vain." The responsibility has come upon our shoulders, and we cannot escape. We must find some other way besides the battlefield to settle the problems that were formerly settled by war. Unless we or our successors do this, our civilization in traditions and rich in science will go down before a capacity for destruction which in the hands of science, excels anything ever known. No pacifist denial of the rôle that war plays still will suffice to get rid of it.

Pledged Against Defense Unwise

War is legitimate so long as certain conditions exist that rest upon it, and as long as diplomacy is the weight of armaments concealed. Those who have pledged themselves to fight on no account will find that the occasion may arise for defending those who depend upon us for protection and safety.

We must misuse a world of peace by ignoring world-known truths. Intelligent minds alone are incapable of ending war. Leading statesmen of both sides have admitted that had it but once been known that both could not accept at the same time the terms the World War could have been averted.

History of League of Nations

The League of Nations began rather slowly owing to our grappling with domestic affairs. A commission, a technical army and naval force appointed, and failed. Next a commission was appointed, representing himself, and [illegible] bureau or nation. They took first great steps in progress. A plan was drawn up, and a League for defense formed. The idea of peace must be established by the quarrel of the poor debtor states. This treaty was not signed by the different governments.

RACKET MEN TO START MIDWINTER WORKOUT

Monday afternoon all candidates for the varsity court team were notified to appear in the cage at last. The net men have not a great deal of time for their midwinter workout so the practice will probably be intensive for the short time they will have. Of the veteran racket wielders only Captain Gould will not be with the team this year having graduated in the class of '26. Captain Nye will pilot the tennis men this year and will have three other letter men for a basis for the team as well as several likely looking aspirants who will undoubtedly give some of last season's men a hard rub if they wish to retain their places.

PICTURES OF CAPTAIN NOEL'S CLIMB UP MOUNT EVEREST TO BE SHOWN

A rare treat is promised to Burlingtonians next Wednesday evening when Captain John Noel, leader of the expedition to scale Mount Everest comes to Edmunds High School. Captain Noel has but recently come to America after a prolonged tour through the principal cities of Europe, where his lecture and pictures created a sensation.

The story Captain Noel has to tell is one romantic in every way. The attempts to climb Mount Everest—the "roof of the world" have not yet been crowned with success. In fact it is but comparatively recently that white men were allowed in mysterious Tibet. Tibet—land of monasteries and priests (about one-third of the males are Lamas); "barbarous yaks" and ovis poli; polyandry is common but polygamy is a serious crime; no schools except priest-training colleges where animal magnetism is taught. Many quaint customs are part of the daily life of the Lamas; no priest works but is supported by alms; absolution from sins is obtained by attaching little prayers to a wind mill, the inner being sure the powers that be will be propitiated so long as the wind blows!

Captain Noel's pictures show the progress of the expedition through the lofty Himalayas—"Goddess Mother of the World"—to Mount Everest. Here the expedition moved slowly up the steep and treacherous slope, establishing bases of supplies en route. Oxygen tanks were used as the intrepid explorers neared the summit. The tragic end of Malloy and Irvine is shown. These two brave men went on alone, literally crawling, so rare is the atmosphere, and reached within 600 feet of the summit when they disappeared suddenly as if the earth had opened up and swallowed them.

The entertainment is given under the auspices of Lafayette Chapter, Order of De Molay, of which many college students are members. Tickets may be obtained from Charles I. Overly '29 and John G. Medlar '29.

FOUR FROM UNIVERSITY ATTEND THE MILWAUKEE STUDENT CONFERENCE

Over 3,000 delegates attended the National Convention of Young People's Christian Associations held at Milwaukee, Wis., from December 28 to January 1. The University of Vermont delegates were Eleanor Davison '28 of Burlington, Ruth Moody '25 of Waterbury, Eleanor Taft '28 of Wallingford and Floyd Sears '27 of Stowe.

The delegates were quartered at the hotels and in private homes, the Vermont delegates being entertained at the latter places. The delegation left the Sunday following Christmas, by way of Albany and the New York Central Railroad. They spent Monday night in Chicago going on the next day to the Conference.

On the return trip the delegates were given a free excursion from Buffalo to Niagara Falls by the New York Central Railroad.

Convention reports written by the delegates will appear in the next few issues of the Cynic.

THE IRA ALLEN CHAPEL WILL HAVE ITS FORMAL OPENING NEXT FRIDAY

Tickets May Be Obtained at the Office of the Registrar Opening Service at Eleven O'clock Friday Morning

Admission to all of the services in the new chapel next Friday will be by ticket only. The seats are reserved, and will be held until ten minutes before the exercises begin. The Seniors will attend these services in a body. Classes will not meet the last two hours Friday morning, but the afternoon schedule will not be interrupted as the organ recital does not begin until four-fifteen. A wire will be run into the gymnasium so that all students who are unable to gain admission to the chapel may hear the services there.

The dedicatory address in the morning will be delivered by the Reverend Charles Edward Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York City. Dr. Jefferson who delivered the baccalaureate sermon here in 1921 was born in Cambridge, Ohio in 1860. He attended Ohio Wesleyan receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1886. He has been given the degree of Doctor of Divinity by Oberlin, Union, Yale and Vermont. His Alma Mater made him Doctor of Laws in 1905, and Miami University honored him with the same degree in 1907.

For ten years Dr. Jefferson was superintendent of public schools in Worthington, Ohio. In 1887 he entered the ministry and for two years served the Central Church in Cleveland. From there he was called to the Broadway Tabernacle.

Many books of a religious nature have come from the pen of Dr. Jefferson. Of these may be mentioned "Quiet Talks with Earnest People in My Study," "Quiet Hours to Growing Preachers in My Study," "Things Fundamental," "What the War Has Taught us," "The Character of Jesus," "My Father's Business," "Soldiers of the Prince," and "The Character of Paul."

The Afternoon Program

The program for the afternoon concert is as follows:

VERMONT TO PLAY ST. MICHAEL'S TONIGHT AT WINOOSKI PARK

This evening at Winooski Park the Vermont basketball team will face St. Michael's in the first game of the State Series for the locals. Last year Vermont won two games from the Saints but the game at Winooski was won only after a hard battle by the score of 25-25. St. Mike's has already lost one game for the State Title to Norwich by the score 29-25 which was settled after one overtime period. The Winooski Collegians can always be relied upon to give a good account of themselves on the home floor.

The Green and Gold team is going good this year and have a heavy scoring combination. The lineup will probably be the same with Estabrook and Peters playing in the back court and Captain Marvin at center and Post and Prentiss in the forward berths. St. Michael's will use either Connor or Kiley at one forward with O'Brien at the other, Brown at center and Connally and Captain Perrotta at guards.

Winooski Park is only about thirty minutes ride from Burlington and the cost of transportation is only twenty four cents, so there ought to be a large number at the game which is called at 8 P. M.

RENSSELAER DEFEATED BY CATAMOUNTS 34-21

The Catamount basketeers staged a comeback Saturday night by defeating R. P. I. by a 34-21 tally on the Troy floor after their N. Y. C. defeat. The game was slow at the start and the first half ended with Vermont on the long end of an 11-7 score. In the fourth period the locals speeded up and began dropping in tallies so that at the end the score showed a nice round 34 for the Green and Gold. Captain Marvin starred again for his team and thus gets credit for being the outstanding performer of the McAvoy men on the week-end trip.

CYNIC OFFERS PRIZE FOR BEST REPORTING DONE BY STUDENTS

In order that news stories of merit may obtain recognition and that care and efficiency in the writing of such stories may be encouraged the Cynic has decided to award a prize of five dollars for the best piece of reporting which shall be handed in by any regular reporter or others who are desirous of trying for it. Any regularly enrolled student male or female is eligible to compete. The period of the contest begins with the issue of January 14 and ends May 31.

RULES

The rules of the contest are printed below.

1. The material for the story may be obtained from any convocation lecture, athletic contest, interview with some important person or any other incident of interest to the student body. The facts concerning the event reported should require several hundred words in the telling. Short items of only a few lines in length will not be considered eligible for the award.

2. In writing care should be taken to include all the essential facts and to place them in order of their importance.

3. The article must be neat, legible and grammatically correct.

4. Cute attempts which do not require rewriting and are of unusual interest to a student public will be given to the judges.

5. Personal comment and the use of first and second person pronouns are barred.

6. No headlines may accompany the article but two inches of space should be left at the beginning of each story in case the editors may fill in the desired heads.

The stories which have met the above requirements will be checked off in each issue of the Cynic as they appear. A record of the authors will be kept. At the end of the allotted period the stories will be handed to judges who will be members of the English Department. The authorship will not be known to the judges until after the award is made.

DR. HUNTLEY ADDRESSES STUDENT GATHERING AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Last Sunday evening at the Baptist Church Dr. George A. Huntley spoke on the educational and medical situation of China stressing also her relations with other countries. Dr. Huntley is a graduate of this Medical College and has been serving as a medical missionary in China.

He spoke of the working conditions of a doctor in China rather clearly, not only in the equipment poor but the number of men carrying on the work is so small as to burden those who are engaged in it.

Dr. Huntley feels that education is making very definite progress in China that the young people are anxious and quick to learn and that the number of teachers especially native teachers is rapidly increasing.

A meeting was conducted by Dr. Huntley preceding the regular meeting.

WILL WE BE EXPLOITED?

There has been plenty of comment on the campus during the last few days concerning the increase in the rates charged by the Majestic Theatre on all the cinema productions featured there. Of such letters of protest and comment have appeared in the Free Press written and signed by representative groups of the collegiate patronage of the downtown theatres.

We have flood the press with letters for the remainder of the year but unless they produce action the time spent in writing them will be wasted, except for the thanks which some editor may give the author for the space filler. The question is "What are we going to do about it?"

We are not acquainted sufficiently with the financial affairs of the Majestic to say definitely that the extra admission charge was not justified, but if anyone asked our opinion, we would hazard the guess that the management considered their institution such an important part of its patrons' existence that the audiences would continue undiminished. In other words the Majestic owners are too good business men to let the luxury which they can just as well possess slip out of their hands. If we object the only thing for us to do is to show them that their entertainment is not so essential a part of our existence as they thought. If every student would join in a boycott of the Majestic, there is no doubt that the profits from the ten cent raise would dwindle or even disappear.

It is a commonly known fact that the social powers of the student bodies in many American colleges today has brought about unwieldiness, disorganization and lack of spirit because of their size which seems to be beyond the power of initiation of the ordinary student leaders to cope with. These great bodies of young men and women, who expect to be the future backbone of the country are continually rejecting the power which is theirs to obtain fair treatment (if we may call it such) at the hands of those whom they support by their patronage. They allow themselves to be exploited by those who are shrewd enough to see their weaknesses. It does not take anyone long to discover that the mass which each of us possess for attending the movies is worth a fortune to whoever will take advantage of it.

Most of us complain of the increased rate and therefore it is up to us as students of the University of Vermont to show those who would take advantage of us that we are still able to govern ourselves and that we will not be exploited. Otherwise we should bow our heads in shame or keep silence.

Milwaukee Papers No. 1

(Note: The last week of December Prexy "Tim" Mulvaney attended the Milwaukee Association of Commerce Convention.)

A large and unique audience representing nearly every state also most of the countries in the continents as well as very few foreign nations, met Monday morning to hear addresses and discussions and the King of Jingo and a chaplain who came especially for the conference.

As I surveyed the stage, set for the play suggested above, a thrill went through me. Imagine if you can being a part of such a gathering about equally divided between men and women representative of the majority of students in American colleges.

Prexy Richards showed where the different state groups were seated, and many of the college delegations could be spotted." The Dartmouth and New Hampshire University section was in front of us, Yale and the Connecticut Aggies in back, while the many Massachusetts colleges, Smith, Harvard, Wellesley, Simmons and the others, were found on the side. Delegations from other states were scattered about the auditorium with the largest ones, some from Michigan and other nearby states, in the vicinity. Almost every group had as a member either a negro or a foreign student, just to give it a cosmopolitan air.

The discussion groups gave one a good opportunity to meet all kinds of people from everywhere. The name cards had been well shuffled before they were divided up. In one group a Russian student from Columbia discussed economics and social service with a Rocky Mountaineer, while a football hero from Michigan talked over fraternity politics with a bespectacled man from Florida and up in the corner a negro student from Oberlin and a Chinese from Oregon State discussed their common problems. But the groups all melted in the heat of the common discussion, headed by the group leader, and some pretty knotty problems were tackled. Needless to say, few of them were settled, for what is the use of discussing a thing if it can be settled as easily as all that?

No gathering as large as this could be had without some hard luck, and it seemed to settle on one man. He was a delegate from Virginia, and was operated on for appendicitis the day after he arrived in Milwaukee.

One of the most noticeable facts about the feminine half of the conference was the large number of long-haired misses, and coon skin coats among the men were almost nil. This must have been a surprise to the good people of Milwaukee, prepared as they probably were for an avalanche of "collegiance."

Miss Dorothy Richards, the chairman of the Conference proved a very capable leader; she did a very good job of presiding over a group so large as to be unwieldy and hard to handle. The press quoted her very widely as being opposed to petting and in favor of smoking for girls, but she made no such statements officially, and neither question was touched on by the Conference as a whole. The sentiment seemed to be that they were personal problems, to be settled by the individual.

The report printed above is one of a series of such articles which will appear in this paper for the next few issues and which are written by members of the delegation which attended the Milwaukee convention.

THE BURLINGTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Next Sunday the Burlington Symphony Orchestra will offer its first concert of the 1927 season in the Gymnasium. The organization this year has among its members more representatives of the University than usual "Joe" Lechnyr, the leader of many college musical organizations, in this section will wield the baton. Some twenty of the instruments are played by University students. Mrs. Ladd, wife of one of our faculty members, and one who has secured considerable fame for herself as a singer will appear on the program. Finally in addition to all these reasons why we should patronize the concert, tickets will be sold to students at the phenomenally low price of one dollar and this will include the April concert also.

One may claim that he is unable to appreciate music, but the fact remains that such appreciation is worth cultivation. An opportunity is now presented to cultivate it by listening to an organization, whose concerts have excelled in quality for many seasons.

Aggression a Crime

Before 1923 war was legitimate, and the right of any nation to go to war was unchallenged. There was no one to judge whether it was right or wrong except the nation itself. But in 1923 it was declared that international aggressive war was a crime, and the criminal should not receive the protection of the other nations. That challenge was no mere idle theory, and became the chief subject of debate between governments. Up till this time there had been no definition of aggressive warfare. The first party to cross the frontier was not always the aggressor. There is no military test to find out which is the aggressor.

At Geneva the Protocol was drawn up, and it was decided that aggressive warfare was a war engaged on by a nation that refused to accept its already accepted peaceful means of peace.

The Locarno Pact stated that one nation must not go to war, but it need not accept the report of the committee.

Defense Is Legitimate

Defense is legitimate, and it is no longer necessary for youth to refuse to deny the state the support that he owes it. Problems will always exist.

In the Locarno Treaty there is the Court of Law, the Court of Arbitration, and the Court of Conciliation. The tribunal of conciliation does not impose a verdict; it recommends, not enforces. An aggressor is that party which goes to war without applying to the tribunal for peace.

The Geneva and Locarno treaties are working together to make a new day of international affairs.

SKIING AND SKATING CLASSES IN PROGRESS

[illegible] in Physical Education [illegible] graded for posture, apparatus [illegible] dancing. The grading began [illegible] and will continue through [illegible]

[illegible] Social Dancing Class met at the [illegible] Club House Monday evening at seven o'clock for the first lesson in ballroom dancing. Miss Annis [illegible] of Essex Junction is the instructor.

Instruction classes in skating meet Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 4:00 P. M. at the gymnasium and from there go to Kirby's. The instructors are: Monday, Margaret [illegible]; Tuesday, Florence Scott; Wednesday, Anna Ward; Thursday, [illegible] McKenzie. This is an excellent opportunity for beginners as well as for experienced skaters who are working for W. A. A. credits.

A construction class in skiing meets every Thursday afternoons, four o'clock, at the gymnasium. Miss Blanchard instructs. This is another splendid opportunity for everyone.

Now that winter is here there is an opportunity for every girl to take part in at least one outdoor sport. The best way to keep fit for and during mid-years is to exercise out-of-doors an hour more each day. The winter season is not far off, and it is not too early to start practicing for it and at the same time earn W. A. A. credits. Girls who do not have snowshoes and skis can rent them for only five cents an hour.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL WORK FOR MIDYEARS

This is the ideal type of weather for winter sports; there is plenty of snow for skiing, snowshoeing, and tobogganing. Skis and snowshoes provided by W. A. A. may be hired at the larger dormitories for a nominal fee. Mid-years will provide free time for such long afternoons of sport. Also getting outdoors during mid-years is the best way to keep in good condition for exams. Proper physical [illegible] is an absolute requirement for clear mental work. If you want to get the best marks for this first semester get at least half as much exercise as you do studying, during the next two weeks.

Out of the Mail Bag

Dear Mabel:

Here's how! Aren't we having just the best invigorating weather. The snow is just right for a corker snow shoe hike some nice moonlight night, or a sleigh ride with sleigh full of warming stones or hot flat irons. Doesn't that sound pretty chubby?

But dear me, Mabel, I didn't get any snowshoes, isn't that a shame. Santa evidently found the chimney very small, for he simply couldn't squeeze down it!

It's very fascinating to see these Freshmen (and a Junior or two) come back plus new hat, overshoes (don't forget the forty new varieties of foot gear!) new fur coats, and in a very few cases, the ultra-sophistic derby. You must come up, Mabel, and let me show you.

Marie.

CO-EDUCATION PROBLEM A LEADING QUESTION IN COLLEGE DEBATES

Whether co-education shall prevail is the debate question in eastern colleges this winter. In all the various strongholds of segregated learning debaters are arguing the question. "Resolved that a system of co-education similar to that in state universities should be introduced in Eastern Colleges." Harvard, Brown, Dartmouth, Yale and Wesleyan are some of the colleges participating. There are also debates between men's and women's colleges.

In the Yale-Wesleyan debate (Yale was the winner) the Yale team declared that non-co-educational colleges do not hamper women in search of education, since nine-tenths of the American colleges are co-educational and one-half of the rest admit women only. The Yale men denied the common statement that relationship between men and women in learning is intellectually fruitful.

Championing co-education the Swarthmore debate team defeated Wesleyan's team.

Feminism in Kansas

In the West, where co-education is a tradition the women are beginning to demand more equality. They want responsible jobs on the student government. As elsewhere the tradition at the University of Kansas has been for a man to be elected to Senior class presidency. And when the Men's Student Council recently called a meeting of the entire class to vote on nominees elected in senior caucus the women objected. The Women's Student Government Association demanded that the nomination be made in a mass meeting open to all.—The New Student.

NUMBER OF STUDENTS EARNING THEIR WAY FOUND TO BE LARGE

[illegible] Harrison on the [illegible] Students who work [illegible] for a [illegible] other labor to [illegible] way through college. The [illegible] Magazine estimates [illegible] are something like 1,000,000 young men and women, in state colleges and universities only, paying part or all of their expenses while they study. This does not take into account the vast number of private institutions.

In 24 state universities, the report says, 50,000 are paying for part or all of their education in dozens of strange and varied jobs. Fifteen thousand young men and women in these universities are weaned entirely from the necessity of checks from home.

Ten universities are of the belief that more than half of the student body earns some of its money by working. Ohio State places the estimate of these students at 85 per cent of the student body of 10,000.

Out of the twenty-seven schools questioned, twenty-four say that working students are prominent in activities.—The New Student

LAMBDA IOTA HOLDS ANNUAL DINNER DANCE

Lambda Iota held its annual dinner dance Friday the seventh at the Owl House. Chaperones for the evening were Professor and Mrs. C. D. Johnson and Dr. and Mrs. K. C. McMaster, and Pearson's orchestra furnished music from seven to one. Booths trimmed with the Fraternity colors were constructed for the occasion.

Communications

To the Woman's Editor of the CYNIC:

Honestly, won't we all be glad to have a new chapel opened and get it over with? It seems that not a day goes by without some co-ed or ed lets out a few remarks on the subject. Of course, all of them are complimentary, they couldn't help but be.

At first, when all we had to go by was a sketch, and the tower looked all crippled and out of proportion to the rest of the edifice, I'll admit, I, for one, was not particularly smitten with the idea of adding the building to our otherwise beautiful campus.

However, as our chapel has taken shape and blossomed out into a remarkably fine piece of workmanship, we'll all join in the chorus and assist in the rejoicing that we are to have such a welcome addition to University Place.

But to get down to the root of the matter, it seems the aforesaid Chapel is to be opened formally on the twenty-fifth of January. And it is hoped please do not misunderstand me—as authentic—that only Seniors and townspeople are to be allowed to participate in the exercises within the Chapel, and that all Juniors and underclassmen are to be packed off to the gym to listen by radio.

Now, boys and girls of the Junior class, this may appeal to you, but it doesn't to me. As for the underclassmen, it will be compulsory for them anyway, this and later, but as we Juniors are not being made to attend Chapel, why not give us the privilege—aye—it would be a privilege, and one we would be so grateful to receive—of going in a body with the Seniors.

How about it? '28

A snowshoe and ski hike was held Saturday afternoon. Elizabeth Pingree, president of Outing Club, led it. The hike was successful and such hikes will continue throughout the winter.

"The fact is, that civilisation requires slaves. The Greeks were quite right there. Unless there are slaves to do the ugly, horrible, uninteresting work, culture and contemplation become almost impossible. Human slavery is wrong, insecure, and demoralizing. On mechanical slavery, on the slavery of the machine, the future of the world depends."
—Oscar Wilde

SLAVES

In a quarter-century the General Electric Company has produced electric motors having a total of more than 350,000,000 man-power. Electric light, heat, and transportation have also contributed their part to the freeing of men. These are America's slaves. Through their service American workers do more, earn more, and produce quality goods at lower cost than anywhere else in the world.

The college-trained man is the first to grasp these facts which raise man from a mere source of physical power to be a director of power, thus realizing the true economic value of the human mind.

WEST VIRGINIA MAKES DEFINITE STAND FOR VOLUNTARY ATHLETICS

[illegible] is well known that football has [illegible] writes Dr. [illegible] F. Wark, president of West Virginia Wesleyan in a letter to [illegible] "The players have been re[illegible] pay in the form of tuition fees, [illegible] and board."

The Board of Trustees has declared for voluntary athletics in Wesleyan, and as soon as our present obligations are discharged, we shall put them on this basis."

Dr. Wark's revelations of hired athletes came at the end of a season which revealed football as one of the major industries, involving the use of more money than ever before. Several weeks ago the financial returns for the season of 1926 showed that 300 colleges took in more than $20,000,000 in gate receipts. Thirty teams averaged more than half a million. Another group averaged about $400,000 each, and a third group of twenty-five colleges averaged about $100,000 each.—The Ann Student

MR. CROCKETT FIGURES IN STATE POLITICS

The University is also represented in the Vermont State Legislature which convened Wednesday, January 5, at Montpelier by Walter H. Crockett, Editor of University Publications, Professor of Journalism and noted Vermont Historian. Mr. Crockett is one of the four senators representing Chittenden county at the biennial assembly.

Mr. Crockett has done more perhaps than any other Vermonter to obtain for the founders of this state and University the recognition which they deserve through his writings. The following resolution which was introduced in the Senate by him at the opening session was adopted by both Houses of Legislature:

"That we desire as a part of the formal observance of the completion of one hundred and fifty years of Vermont independence, to express our gratitude for, and appreciation of, the services, the sacrifices and the patriotism of the founders of this commonwealth.

"That as representatives of the people of Vermont, in justice to the memory of Ira Allen, conspicuous as a leader in establishing this state and in defending its integrity during the early years of its existence, we desire, during this anniversary period, to express our profound regret that the persecution of enemies should have driven him from the state he had been instrumental in founding to spend his last years in exile."

HOCKEY SQUAD HOLDS DAILY PRACTICE AT CHASE STREET RINK

Every afternoon since the Christmas vacation the hockey squad has been practicing under Coach Desautels. Kirby's Chase Street Rink on the way to Winooski is the scene of the rink men's activities and about fifteen or twenty candidates are cavorting about the ice getting familiar with stick and puck in preparation for the coming season. Sam Hebert, last year's center ice has graduated from the medical college but all the rest of the veterans are still out ready to fill their old places. The reserve material is scanty especially for goalies but probably enough newcomers will be whipped into shape to fill in in a pinch. Manager Egan is not entirely satisfied with the rink and other arrangements for a playing surface may be made.

A professor may be compared among other things, to a Ford—a crank in front of a bunch of nuts.

Camel attracts the quality smoker

CAREFUL observation will reveal that men of quality demand quality in a cigarette—smoke Camels. A Camel smoker goes straight to the point in cigarettes and demands enjoyment.

For there are no better tobaccos or blending than you get in Camels. There is no other cigarette taste and fragrance that can compare with Camels, because they are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. In a cigarette, as in the smoker, there is nothing that can substitute for quality.

If you want to know what experienced smokers like, just try Camels. Each year new millions try them all and find in Camels enjoyment realized. Camels never tire the taste. To test the quality of Camels, compare them with any cigarette made regardless of price. "Have a Camel!"

CYNIC PICTURE TAKEN TOMORROW

The annual picture of the Cynic Board will be taken tomorrow afternoon (Saturday, January 15). All members of the Cynic Board are requested to be at Bixby's Studio on College Street at 1:45 P. M.

ARIEL SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE TAKEN DURING REGISTRATION PERIOD

Anyone who has not yet subscribed for the 1928 Ariel will be given an opportunity to make sure of a copy when they are distributed next Junior Week, by signing up for a copy during the Registration period following mid-year examinations. Manager W. F. Reagan announces that a representative of the Ariel will be at the administration building during the paying of bills and registration, so that any students who may desire to subscribe will be promptly accommodated. To date there have been a large number of subscriptions, but the issue has not yet been exhausted. The Junior class has recently voted to raise $7.50 from each member of the class for the Ariel, this represents a 50 per cent increase in the tax over last year. Despite this increase for Juniors, the price of the year book will be the same as last year, i. e., $4.00.

SENIORS ELECT PARODY CHAIRMAN OF COMING COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Five Representatives Chosen for Faculty Student Council—Green Blazers With Gold Pockets Are Favored

Ovid F. Parody of Peekskill, N. Y., was elected chairman of Senior Week at a meeting of the Senior class held last Monday afternoon in Room 1, North College. Parody belongs to the Sigma Nu Fraternity, Wig and Buskin, Scabbard and Blade. He has been president of the Dramatic Society for the past year and is a well-known actor, who has taken part in several college plays. During his Sophomore year, Parody was chairman of the Football Hop Committee. Five representatives were chosen to sit on the Faculty-Student Council. Those elected were Hjalmar A. Aronson of Proctor, from the College of Agriculture, Floyd M. James of Hardwick, from the College of Arts and Sciences; Osborne B. Nye of Swanton, from the College of Engineering, Lillian L. Stillwell of Bradford and Anna P. Ward of Danvers, Mass., from the class at large.

The matter of purchasing class blazers was discussed. The class favored the purchase of blazers of a solid green with gold colored pockets. Floyd James was appointed to head a committee of his own election to look after the matter.

Following the meeting tickets of admission to the dedication services of the Ira Allen Chapel were given out by members of Boulder and Akraia.

SOCIAL WORK FORUM TO BE HELD IN MONTPELIER

An open forum of the Vermont Conference of Social Work will be held January 19 at the State House in Montpelier. Several speakers of note are to give addresses. Anyone who is interested in Social Work is invited to attend.

Among the speakers will be Professor Henry F. Perkins, head of the Department of Zoology, who is scheduled to talk on "Lessons from the Eugenics Survey of Vermont." Professor Perkins has been the director of the Vermont Eugenics Survey for the past two years. Dr George K. Pratt of New York, who has been connected with the University in an advisory capacity, will speak on "The Problem Child in School and Juvenile Court." Dr Pratt is on the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

Students who are taking advanced courses in the social sciences and who may have next Wednesday free are requested to attend the forum. The

TEACHERS' SECTION OF ARIEL IS COMPLETED

The entire Teacher Training section of the 1928 Ariel has been completed and is now being set up by the Free Press Printing Co. The Junior women's grind section, is nearly all written and is also in the hands of the printers. All the individual pictures of the Junior class have been sent to the Bureau of Engraving to have cuts made of them.

At this time the Ariel Board is making an effort to get the last of the questionnaires filled out and also a few of the Senior and Junior honor lists which have not yet been returned to the editors. Snapshots which will add to the interest of the year book are requested from all members of the Junior class by the engraving editor, K. R. Stephens, who may be reached at the Sigma Phi Place. Pictures with polished surfaces are preferable.

The group pictures of fraternities and societies will be taken during the next two weeks. With these pictures the major portion of the pictorial features of the Annual will have been completed. When interviewed recently by the editor, J. O. Phelps '28 stated that he was confident that all the work would soon be under way and that the Juniors would receive their Ariels during Junior Week.

OUTING CLUB TO PLAN FOR WINTER CARNIVAL AT MEETING SATURDAY

The Outing Club will have its first post-holiday meeting tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock at 3 South College to discuss the Winter Carnival program and various meets that are to be held during the next two months. President Sears attended the meeting of the newly-formed City Outing Club last Monday evening and will present some new suggestions to the meeting tomorrow morning. All those interested in interclass meets or winter sports of any kind should be sure to attend.

A triangular meet has been proposed by Norwich to be held at Northfield on the 27th, 28th, and 29th of this month. The events posted are a 100 yard dash for skiis and snowshoes, obstacle race, potato race, ski joring and jumping. Since this comes during the registration and examination periods, an endeavor is being made to change the date so that U. V. M. can participate in the event. The annual meet at the Post will be held soon but the University will not enter official starters.

The Winter Carnival will be of an interclass nature with the usual events and the possible added attraction of a baseball game on snowshoes or some thing of the sort. It will be on the back campus and it will come at about the same time as the Kake Walk. While the plans are not yet fully decided upon, the Cynic promises to furnish plenty of enjoyment.

VERMONT DELEGATES GO TO COLLEGIATE ATHLETIC MEETING

Vermont's delegation to the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting held in New York during the Christmas holidays consisted of Dr. Aldinger, Graduate Manager H. A. Mayforth, Coaches McAvoy, Dresser and Rattan.

At the meeting E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee forecasted that no fundamental changes in the rules would be made this year by the committee, although he averred that the shift and huddle systems would come under discussion.

The Association carried a motion to recommend to its members that pre season football practice be limited to three weeks and that practice before the opening of college be confined to the college grounds. The University of Vermont is already following a policy harmonious with the recommendation of the Association.

Dean E. H. Wilkins of the University of Chicago delivered an address on the evils of present day college football. Especially deplored the "excessive individual publicity" given to football players. E. K. Hall, Brigadier General P. E. Pierce and Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the Southern Conference then extolled the fine qualities of football.

NO RIFLE PRACTICE DURING MID-YEARS

There will be no rifle team practice during the two weeks that examinations are in progress. There are no authorized matches list'd until the week following that time. The trials that were shot last week eliminated several of the contestants for the team but as yet the entire team has not been selected.

SENATE NOT IN FAVOR OF FOOTBALL SCOUTING

A Student Senate meeting took place Saturday at ten o'clock to discuss scouting in the Vermont colleges. The body passed a motion to go on favor of the elimination of scouting to secure information for athletic contests between Vermont colleges.

Winter sports were discussed and Charles Blackall was delegated to interview Dr. Aldinger about the matter.

CHAPEL KEYS GIVEN UNIVERSITY AT THIS MORNING'S SERVICES

Large Number of Upperclassmen and Townspeople Witness Opening Ceremonies of Dedication—Rev. Charles Jefferson Delivers Sermon

This morning at eleven o'clock before a large number townspeople and upperclassmen a most impressive service which marked the official dedication of Vermont's new chapel was held.

The service opened with an organ prelude after which the Reverend I. C. Smart, Pastor of the College Street Church and Chaplain of the Day led in reading the responsive selection, the Twenty-fourth Psalm.

Following the reading of the Old Testament lesson by the Reverend Charles Edward Jefferson of New York City the keys of the Ira Allen Chapel were presented to the University by the Honorable James R. Wilbur, D. D. The words of dedication pronounced by the minister were these. "To the greater glory of God, to Jesus Christ the light of the world to the ministry of the spirit we dedicate this house."

After the dedicatory address by the Reverend Jefferson, the audience remained for a moment, following the benediction in silence until the postlude began to play.

The order of service for this morning's service is printed below:

Organ Prelude — Edward Bairstow
Sentences — I. C. Smart, D. D.

This afternoon at 4:15 o'clock Dr. T. Tertius Noble will give an organ recital on the new organ. At 8 o'clock this evening a number of organ rolls, the productions of leading American and European organists will be played under the direction of Dr. Noble. The programs for both these concerts are to be found in Tuesday's issue of the Cynic.

The last two classes of the morning were omitted in order that everyone might listen to the dedication. The afternoon classes are to be carried on as usual. All those who were unable to get into the chapel this morning were able to hear the program over the wire which was run into the Gymnasium.

DEBATING TEAMS WILL BE PICKED THIS WEEK

Tryouts for the men's and women's Varsity debating teams are being held this week. Open try outs were held Monday and Tuesday, but at that time no definite makeup of the teams could be announced. A rather large group of men and women tried for the teams, so that the judges have postponed their final selections until the latter part of this week or the first part of next week. When the judges have reached their decision, the list of teams will be posted on the official bulletin board in the Old Mill.

[illegible] we were able to listen to the fine speaking and musical talent which public could furnish. The ceremonies which marked the giving over of the college to the young manhood and womanhood of Vermont were in every respect with the expectations which we have cherished during the past two years and with finished product as it now stands on our campus.

We were sorry that the members of the underclasses could not witness the ceremonies from within the chapel instead of merely listening at the end of a wire but of course, it was impossible to accommodate anywhere near all the students which they would have made. As Seniors in future years they too will have the priority which this year's graduating class enjoyed today and there will also be many other chances to hear just as good programs at which [illegible] may attend.

When the first roar of protest greeted the announcement that only Seniors would be allowed to attend the dedicatory exercises anyone would have been inclined to smile a little if he stopped to think. His thoughts would have wandered back to the number of opportunities which those same protesting underclassmen have had during their time [illegible] to hear just as good speakers as the one who spoke this morning. It has usually been next to impossible to find anyone with the exception of a Cynic reporter on the day following a convocation who attended it.

It would seem that as University students in many cases already attained to the ages which make them legally men and women, they should be able to put away that contrariness which is a trait of young children. It has come to be the mistaken but nevertheless common idea that convocations are compulsory and therefore something to be avoided if possible. Now on the other hand when admission is refused to the three lower classes, the cries of protest arise thick and fast. It is about time we grew up and considered desirable things from some other angle than whether or not they are forbidden.

Before another issue of the Cynic shall have appeared the new staff will have taken over the paper. This will happen in accordance with the custom which was established last year of holding the elections at mid-years instead of after the Easter holidays as formerly.

All candidates for track will report the Monday following mid years. The hour will be posted later on the bulletin board and will also appear in the Free Press.

Equipment will be issued to the candidates on the first day. Each candidate, however, is expected to furnish his own running shoes (spiked, for use in cage and out of doors) and sneakers (for use on the running track). Footwear is as personal an item as is a glove in baseball, and one man's shoes cannot be passed on to another with any success. For this reason, every man is expected to have his own footwear. Consult the coach as to what to buy.

The success of this spring's track team, as well as of future teams, depends on the turn-out of the freshmen. There are many opportunities for freshmen to make letters on the varsity this year; it cannot be said, therefore that incentive for a large freshman turn-out is lacking.

The biggest gap in the team to be filled is the dash. Our first and second string sprinters of last year are now out of college. This statement is as true of the 440 as it is of the 100 and 220 yard dashes. We would like to see 20 candidates out for these dashes.

The dashes, however, are not the only events which have prospects for the new candidate. Ineligibility may hit our hurdlers on distance men and leave gaps to be filled in those events. Moreover, looking ahead a bit, it is clear that next year the team will lose Captain Simpson, Archie Post, and Dean Rowe, leaving vacancies in the shot put, javelin, discus, hammer, half-mile, mile, and two miles. This year ought to see understudies in each of those events.

One of the secrets of successful track teams (this is disclosed to the reader confidentially) is to have freshman understudies for the Junior and Senior varsity stars. This plan, besides insuring a strong reserve, has the advantage of enabling the new men to study the form and acquire the knack of the veterans by working with them. This has been the secret of the success of the Cornell team coached by Jack Moakley. Applying this principle to conditions on our own track team, we see that the following men should have freshman understudies:

Simpson, Post, Rowe, O. Wood Prentice and Shaw, covering nearly every event outside of the three dashes.

Interfraternity indoor competition in track is being planned on a large scale this winter, the details of which will be disclosed in a subsequent article. Inasmuch as every competition in these contests will have to have at least two or three weeks of training before being allowed to compete, it is advisable that every prospect report for track as early as possible.

A short play was put on by members of the club.

Volume [illegible] Section I E

Well, the mid-years are here, Freshmen. You never have seen them before and you're terribly worried and you probably have your grip all packed, but you don't need to have. Listen, let me whisper a little secret in your ear but for Heaven's sake don't tell the faculty I said so. These professors aren't half as hard-boiled as they would like to have you think and if you are clever enough, you can get just the kind of a mark you want. The following is a tested recipe:

First, never study until the night before. It stands to reason if you have covered eight or ten books, that you can't remember everything that's in them for long, so get it all in one night with a little concentration and a pot of black coffee. You will be surprised how logically events will fix themselves in your mind if you don't go to bed and sleep over them. Secondly, always take your book to the examination with you. Oh yes, I know it's against the rules, but that is just one instance where the faculty are trying to be severe. They really don't mean it. They rather like to see you with a book on ALL occasions It does look studious, more as if you meant business. Then when you come to the long tables, sit down as if you enjoyed it, open your book, tilt back your chair and offer your neighbor a stick of gum. This will make him so grateful and garrulous that he will tell you all he knows. When you have found how much that is, either draw your chair real close to his or go over to the next table where that white-faced, shell rim goggled personage is tapping his pencil.

Don't worry about an exam, even if you can't write a thing at first, sit and wait for it to all come back, and if it doesn't, simply write a little note on your paper, saying that your mother is seriously ill and you were so worried about her that you couldn't think of anything else. This sort of thing goes down fine with the faculty. They are easily touched and like to know that you stop long enough in this carefree age to worry. But if you can do half of the exam and the other half is impossible write something anyway and [illegible] room. As you [illegible] give the proctor [illegible] This will cause [illegible] paper to see what [illegible] and when he sees [illegible] and the other half [illegible] natural conclusion [illegible] a sense of humor [illegible] that.

Of course you are. Everyone is, either on the Winooski River at Chase Street or at Chiott's, which was opened yesterday.

There will be a skating coach at Chiott's every afternoon during mid years.

Lessons in figure skating are to be given after mid-years. If the weather holds good, a skating carnival will be held.

Scarfs

Dainty little wisps of silk constitute a scarf. Pale and languid-looking are some while others are startling in their bright and florid color scheme.

For the decided blonde let us suggest the pale shades of rose, blue, orchid and gold. In fact, all pastel shades are usually very becoming.

For the titian type, she of the auburn hair and blue eyes, shades of green, electric blue and brown are especially good.

The real brunette must have contrast to accentuate her coloring. She may have the greatest variety of shades for usually all colors are becoming except the too sombre hues of brown, gray and black. All shades of blue, rose and green are usually the favorites.

MRS. MARY EMERSON DIES OF PARALYSIS STROKE AT HER NEW YORK HOME

Mrs. Mary B. H. Emerson, wife of Professor E. Emerson, emeritus professor of botany and Dewey lecturer at the College of Medicine, died at her home in New York City following a stroke of paralysis. For twenty years she was a resident of Burlington, living at 36 Summit Street, now occupied by the Sigma Alpha Chi Fraternity.

Although physical infirmity kept her from sharing personally in the social life of the college and the community, she maintained an interest in both and gained a large body of friends among the members of the University and the city of Burlington.

GERMAN CLUB WILL BE REVIVED AFTER MID-YEARS

German students at the University met last Tuesday afternoon at the Vermonters Club to form a German Club. The meeting was well attended by an enthusiastic group who aim to re-establish the German Club or Deutscher Verein which has been in active for the past year.

Songs were sung in German and games which are in vogue among the students in the German universities were played. It was unanimously voted to hold a meeting the first Tuesday after mid-year examinations. At that time officers of the Club are to be elected. Anyone interested in the Club should see members of the German Department and signify their intention to participate in the re-establishment of the organization.

The apple that rocked the earth

"I wonder why?"

In Isaac Newton's mind that question clamored for an answer. Many men had seen apples fall, but this man with the question mark mind found out why they fall—and his answer has helped us to understand the workings of a universe.

Would that we all could get a bite of that apple if it would inspire us too with the "I wonder why" attitude!

Intellectual curiosity is a great and moving force. It mobilizes reluctant facts. It is the stern drill-master which whips into shape that most invincible of armies—sure knowledge.

Curiosity, with the will to sweat out the answer, is the greatest asset you can acquire in your college course. This attribute is needed by industry today more than ever before.

DESCRIPTION

The edifice is a product of the famous firm of McKim, Mead & White, who are the official architects of the University and was erected under the supervision of the veteran builder, O. S. Nichols of Essex Junction. It is built of local brick, is 125 by 90 feet in size, cruciform in shape. The main roof is 40 feet from the pavement and a low arched dome rises another 40 feet over the intersection of nave and transepts. Six superb columns support the pediment and form an impressive portico. A 170 foot campanile is a striking feature of the edifice. From the very top of the graceful tower shines at night a 1,000-candle power electric light. High above and stronger than any other light in the entire city, symbol of the lamp of learning which centers in the University seal, its beams are visible from Mansfield to Marcy, a landmark for the whole countryside. From the four facades of the campanile look forth the eight-foot clock faces and from the tower above the hours strike on a notably fine toned bell.

The auditorium is spacious, seating 1,000 in its colonial pews, and is dignified in its simplicity. Indeed, its general aspect is that of a fine old New England colonial church interior. The walls and ceilings are soft toned of a special kind of plaster said to be [illegible] well adapted to sound reflection. The acoustics are excellent. Great clear glass windows flood[illegible] the place. The vestibule has [illegible] marble floor and vaulted ceiling and the chancel is broad enabling large choruses to be used. The indirect heating system is employed, the boiler plant being located at the engineering building.

The organ is the product of the Welte-Mignon Studios, Inc., of New York City. It is a three-manual grand concert instrument and may be played either by hand or mechanically. Several hundred rolls, the product of leading European and American organists are available for future organ recitals. These should prove most helpful to University students of music and music lovers in general. It is contemplated in due time to broadcast organ recitals from the University broadcasting station WCAX.

The eating problem at Harvard University has become so intense that the Harvard Crimson has offered $50.00 to be divided into prizes of $25.00, $15.00 and $10.00 to be awarded to the three members of the University writing the best essay on the solution of the gastronomic question.

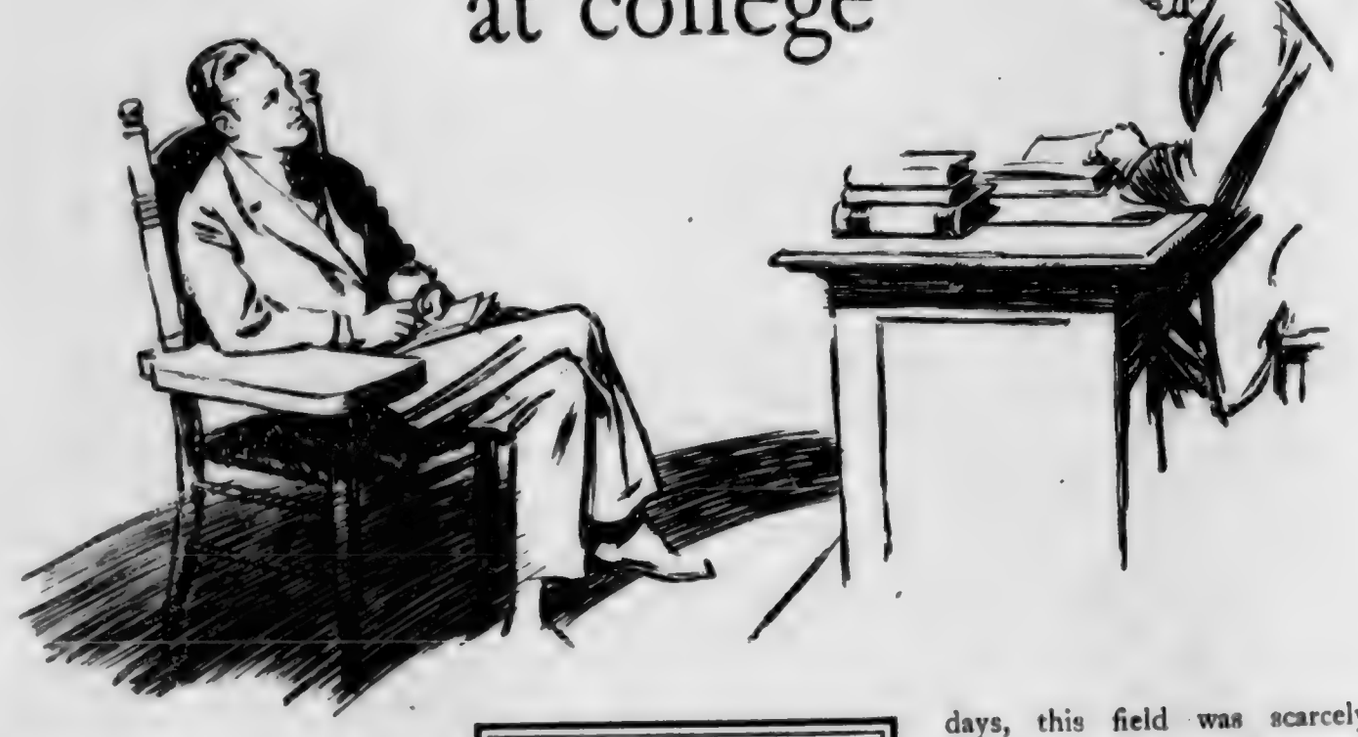
DEPUTATION CONDUCTS THE CHURCH SERVICES AT JEFFERSONVILLE

On Sunday, January 9 a deputation, composed of Oren Burbank '27 and M. Lane Cross '30, conducted the regular church service in the morning at the Jeffersonville (Vt.) Congregational Church.

A congregation of sixty townspeople enthusiastically acclaimed the efforts of the members of the deputation. Mr. Cross delivered his talk, "A Brief History of the Great Mystery," treating it first from the angle of the conceptions of a college man's religion and then connecting these with a description of the evolution of religious thought from the polytheistic religion of Exodus to Saint Paul's belief in the [illegible].

Oren Burbank, who attended the summer session of the Chicago Theological Seminary last year, spoke on the conceptions of God held by Jesus and in modern life. He congratulated the townsfolk for having carried on worship during the absence of their pastor and urged them to further efforts.



Lane Cross, bass soloist of the University Glee Club, rendered "Fear Thou No Evil" by Pearis.

The work of this deputation was of such a nature that another deputation has been requested for January 17, pending the return of their pastor to his labors.

Last Friday 24 Freshmen attended a University Y. M. C. A. supper at the Y. M. C. A. After a good feed they heard a very interesting and instructive talk by Professor Ladd on "Environment." Professor Ladd's thought was that one should study his environment, that is, his friends with great care, for on the one hand it means degredation, and on the other uplift and inspiration.

What he didn't learn at college

LAWRENCE DAY HOWELL

In his class work, Lawrence Day Howell, Princeton, Litt. B. '13, E. E. '19, never heard of marine applications for electrical equipment. In fact, they were practically unknown. Yet he now is in charge of the Marine Section, Transportation Division, of the Westinghouse Sales Department, located at New York.

When Howell came from college to the Westinghouse Graduate Students' Course, he had twelve months of thoroughgoing work in the shops at East Pittsburgh. Then he decided he wanted to enter the field which seemed most undeveloped and perhaps most promising of broad expansion. This was marine engineering.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know, first of all. The question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of college graduates, off the campus some five—eight—ten years.

Not five per cent of the present opportunities on the water have been opened for electrification. Yet there is more horsepower, in prime movers, on the ocean than there is on the land.

In Howell's undergraduate days, this field was scarcely scratched—just as radio was not known to many young engineers when they were in college. A college man's opportunities are not limited to the electrical developments now in existence.

In marine applications an order may assume large proportions. A single installation, negotiated by Howell recently, of the newly-developed Diesel-electric drive for a yacht, totaled $175,000. Such sales are not made overnight. They result from understanding fully a customer's needs.

To men with the knack of taking the other fellow's point of view, a career as Sales Engineer at Westinghouse brings returns in personal satisfaction as well as in worldly reward.

PRELIMINARY KAKE WALK ARRANGEMENTS ARE NOW UNDER WAY

Outline of Stunts Must Be Presented Before February 11—Elimination of Kake Walkers on February 14

No significant changes have been made in the rules for the Kake Walk, which were recently presented to all organizations by the directors of the event. As announced before in these columns no kake walking will be allowed on the stunts, so that the Kake Walk feature will not be detracted from.

The outlines of the stunts to be presented by the fraternities competing in the Kake Walk must be passed in to L. H. Averill '27 at the Sigma Nu house before Friday, February 11 for approval. Ideas for Kake Walkers' costumes must be sent to C. H. Blackmer, '28, at the Kappa Sigma house at the same time. Competitive walking by the Kake Walking couples will be held in the gymnasium at four o'clock Monday afternoon, February 14 to qualify for entrance in this event.

All fraternities should send a delegate to the gymnasium at one-thirty on Tuesday, February 8 to draw for places in stunts, peerade and Kake Walking. The peerade is an important part of the Kake Walk progress and its value varies directly with the quality and originality of the stunts entered. The directors request that those who plan to enter this event will put forth their best efforts to make this year's peerade of the best quality possible, and in this way add to the value of the Kake Walk as a whole, which has been criticized by some as having depreciated in quality during the past few years. There is no limit to the number of plans which may be submitted to the committee, which is composed of E. J. Moodie '27, E C Mower '27 and M. I. Gould '28.

It is announced that the following fraternities are eligible to present stunts at this year's Walk; Kappa Sigma, Delta Psi, Phi Delta Theta; Sigma Delta; Sigma Phi; Lambda Iota, Sigma Nu; and Phi Mu Delta.

FRATERNITIES START BASKETBALL SEASON WITH FAST CONTESTS

The ball started rolling in the inter-fraternity basketball league Tuesday night at the gym. There were three interesting and hard fought contests. Play started at seven o'clock. The games were played simultaneously on the crosswise courts.

Tau Epsilon Phi was defeated by the Phi Mu Delta team 20 to 13 in the first League I game on Court No. I. Play in this contest was fast and furious with Phi Mu Delta leading all the way after the first few minutes. Tau Epsilon Phi led at the beginning 4 to 3 until Rowe, Phi Mu Delta, broke into the scoring column. He was high scorer for the evening with five floor baskets. Manning played a clever game both on the offense and defense for the Phi Mus. Waterman and Rosenthal played well for the Teps.

League 2 had its first game on Court No 2 with a contest between the Phi Delts and Sigma Delts. The score after the final whistle was 24 to 14 with Phi Delta Theta on the longer end. This game was featured by the good work of the Phi Delts on the offense. Hoxie led Sigma Delta with three baskets for a total of six points. DeRoo, Phi Delta Theta, led both teams in scoring with eight points from the floor and one from the foul line. Hawley's floor work for the winners and Shaw's defensive work for Sigma Delta were especially commendable.

In a League III game, the Kappa Sigs downed Zeta Chi 19-10 in a fray which was well played. Chadwick, Kappa Sigma, and Wendt, Zeta Chi, starred on the floor for their respective teams. Roark, Kappa Sigma, was high scorer with four floor goals and one free try for a total of nine points. Wendt led Zeta Chi in scoring with seven points, three having been from the foul line.

MEDIC FRATERNITIES HOLD DANCE SATURDAY

A medic dance was held last Saturday evening by the three medical fraternities on the hill—Phi Chi, Delta Mu, and Alpha Kappa Kappa—at the Elks' club rooms on St. Paul Street. Music was furnished by Samson's Orchestra and dancing was enjoyed from nine until twelve o'clock. The chaperons were Major and Mrs. O. H. Stanley. Arrangements for the dance were made by J. J. Baker M '28, F. M. Bannon M '28, and E. R. Mitiguy M '29.

HOCKEY GAME GOES TO MIDDLEBURY WITH A FIVE TO ONE SCORE

Wednesday afternoon the Vermont Hockey team lost a fast game to the Middlebury sextet by a score of 5 to 1. Vermont's inability to carry the puck down the ice was the main cause of the defeat while the defense was not so strong. During the first two periods Vermont played the visitors on even terms. The first period ended with the Blue and White ahead 1 to 0, while the second was on even terms with Vermont and Middlebury each scoring one goal apiece. During the third the Middlebury team seemed to take on new life and scoring from almost any position.

Time after time one of the Green and Gold forwards would carry the ball up the ice only to lose it to Middlebury. This not only took up valuable time but also tired the players and left the Middlebury men much fresher than Vermont which probably accounts for their spurt in the last half.

Whittemore opened up the scoring with a shot in front of goal after a hard scrimmage. This ended the scoring for this period. In the second period Vermont evened it up when Bassow placed the puck in the net on a pretty pass from Woods. Middlebury however came through with another counter on a short shot by Kelley.

In the third period Middlebury ran wild and Whittemore and Kelley each scored again and Simmonds got in a pretty shot from mid-ice.

Whittemore was easily the star of the afternoon with two goals and an assist. He also showed the few fans who braved the cold wind something about carrying the puck.

STEAM INJURES MANY VALUABLE CURIOS IN UNIVERSITY MUSEUM

A steam pipe joint burst Monday in the Cannon Room of the University and ruined many curios and antiques of India which will be hard to replace. The system, which was installed about thirty years ago, gave no room for expansion, breaking thru at the joint when extreme pressure was applied. A few days previous another pipe in the same building broke, injuring the woodwork of the room.

Such intense heat occurred that nearly all leather materials cracked and wooden musical instruments fell apart. The ancient drum and Tom Tom heads of Hindu construction fell apart and are a total loss. A valuable hand carved rosewood screen and two handcarved teakwood chairs are warped and one of the chairs is coming apart.

Swords, armor and ancient guns have a coating of rust which will be difficult to remove. The handles of several of the weapons were inlaid by hand and these have fallen apart.

The rugs and tapestries of the room received a thorough soaking but it is thought these will dry out in perfect shape.

No estimate has been made of the total loss, but it will take many weeks to return the room to somewhat near its former appearance. Many of the articles will be impossible to replace.

Free text books are supplied to all students at Stanford University who are working their way through school. A loan library established by the alumni supplies the books on which there is no time limit.

The Advertising Club of the University of Southern California has been joined by the Los Angeles Club in sponsoring a movement to raise the standards of advertising as a profession and to furnish better training to future advertising men.

MR. WEBSTER DESCRIBES USES FOR CARBON IN LECTURE AT SCIENCE HALL

Mr G A Webster, representative of the National Carbon Company, spoke before a large group in the Williams Science hall upon the subject of "Carbon and Carbon Brushes," Wednesday January 12. Three reels of moving pictures entitled, "Behind the Pencils" showed the processes of carbon making.

Mr. Webster spoke first upon the use of carbon which is used in the making of adding machines, vacuum cleaners, lighting and power machines and various motors in electrical plants.

The first reel showed the making of lamp black by an oil burning process. This is tested sent to the blending and mixing department where it is mixed with tar and made into brick form. After being crushed and pulverized the substance is again hard ened. This is crushed and this time pitch is added. It is baked and goes to the graphitizing department. Grinding, cleaning and surfacing complete the first process.

The second reel showed the calcining process which consisted of hard coaling and testing for electrical resistance.

The last process is the drilling, chamfering, counterboring, and at taching the shunt. Finally it is inspected and tested thoroughly and is ready for the market.

SOPHOMORE HOP WILL BE OPENING EVENT OF SECOND SEMESTER

Social Festivities Will Commence Again After Two Weeks' Hibernation During Mid-Year—Green Serenaders Will Furnish Music

After a two weeks hibernation, the social festivities at Vermont commence once more with the Sophomore Hop, which takes place tonight at the Gymnasium. Committees working under the direction of F R Otto, '29, have been preparing for the occasion for the past month. All is now in readiness for the event, which is scheduled to last from nine o'clock until one o'clock. The dance will be formal.

Chairman Otto has announced that the Green Serenaders of Dartmouth College have been engaged to furnish music for this year's Hop. This group of students has made a name for itself among many of the New England colleges and it is anticipated that this evening they will be up to their usual standard.

Lieutenant and Mrs Frederick, and Mr and Mrs Dean, who have chaperoned many of the college dances in the past, are to be the chaperones this evening.

The subscription for the event will be five dollars per couple, and the ladies in attendance will receive purses as favors.

FIRST CO-ED VARSITY DEBATERS SELECTED

At the tryouts for the debating teams on January 15, a committee composed of Professor Frederick Tupper, Professor Aiken, Mr Dean and Mr Moore selected the Men's and Women's Debating Teams.

Emory C Mower '27, C H Wedell '27, L A Hince '28, J M Leavens '28, H M Macomber '30, and F A Sears '30 were chosen as the men's team. These varsity men met last Wednesday in the Marsh Room of the Billings Library to discuss and make plans. Emory C Mower was chosen captain of the team, which is going to debate on "The Cancellation of War Debts of the Allies."

The women's team consists of Gladys R Kone '29, Mabel L Freeman '30, Janice M Goodrich '30, and Bertha Klein '29.

The schedule for both teams is to be announced in the near future by Manager Emory Mower. Mr. Moore, who is an instructor in Public Speaking at the University, is coaching the teams.

VERMONT QUINTET WILL FACE NORWICH MENACE NEXT MONDAY

Team Remains Intact After Mid-year Exams—Contest Promises to Be One of the Hardest on Vermont Schedule

On Monday the 7th the Vermont basketball team will journey to North field where they will battle the strong Norwich five in one of the hardest games of the Green and Gold schedule. The soldiers have had a fairly successful season so far and are looking forward to the state championship. They already have one victory chalked up because of their win over the strong St Michael's quintet. It will be remembered that the horsemen turned the Purple and Gold five back in the most exciting game at Winooski Park thus far this season after two overtime periods.

The Vermont quintet has thus far weathered the storm of mid-years without any casualties. The team will remain intact for the rest of the season unless something unexpected happens. The most promising candidates of the freshman squad who would have been available after the mid-year exams have either flunked out or are under warning and thus are not able to strengthen the weak substitute material.

Capt Marvin will undoubtedly have his hands full in holding the fast Norwich center, Bedell who has thus far this season, been the scoring ace of the horsemen. Aimi former Spaulding High star will also give the Vermont backmen plenty of trouble in keeping him from scoring.

Vermont will line up the same as in the last game Prentice and Post forwards and Price and Estabrook in the back court with Capt Doc Marvin holding down the center position. Prentice has been the scoring threat thus far this season for Vermont and the Norwich guards will have their hands full in holding this fast dribbler and crack shot scoreless. Capt. Marvin has not shown up so well in previous contests on the offense but has been the mainstay of the defense.

Price and Esterbrook at the guard positions hardly need any introduction to the Green and Gold fans and all who have seen Price dribble down the floor for a basket know that he can stand up with anybody on either the offense or the defense. Esterbrook a newcomer on the team this year is showing up well and will be as good as his running mate before long.

SCHOOL-BOY CONTESTS RESULT IN LOSSES TO THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The University of Vermont has actually lost $90 in sponsoring the Interscholastic Basketball Tournament and the Interscholastic Track Meet from 1922 to 1926. Figures released for publication by the Athletic Council show that the net profits for the Interscholastic Basketball Tournaments for the past five years have amounted to $1550. During the same period the Interscholastic Track Meets have resulted in a loss of $1640. The Council has been criticised in the past for making profits on the Basketball Tournaments, which have proved popular since their inception in 1922. The losses in sponsoring the Track Meet has not been generally taken into account. With the publication of these figures, the Council feels that it has presented its side of the case with a degree of finality.

The Sixth Annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament to decide the championship of the secondary schools in the state will be held in the Gymnasium Friday and Saturday, March 11 and 12, according to an announcement recently mailed to interested schools. The preliminary games will begin Friday night at 7 o'clock. Semi-finals will take place on Saturday afternoon, while the final game for the state championship will be held in the evening. Entrants in the tourney will be eight teams chosen from all the schools in the state playing under the eligibility rules of the Headmaster's Club. The teams are to be chosen by a committee headed by Dr A. K. Aldinger, head of the department of athletics.

[illegible] board of editors assumes its [illegible] with this issue of the Cynic. We shall make no radical changes in [illegible] but shall endeavor to build up certain parts of the paper and in general, to work out the plans of the retiring editors.

We feel that great progress has been made during the last year. While the [illegible] of two issues a week instead of one is a matter of no little additional labor we feel that the benefit gained by the students and by the University makes the effort well worth while. The editors in charge during the past year have put untold effort into their work and much credit is due them.

Going back in the history of the Cynic, two editors, we find the man who saw the need of a semi-weekly, who went into the various details, therein involved, presented the proposition to the students, made the necessary financial arrangements and with untiring effort made a newspaper at the University of Vermont possible.

The retiring editor had an extremely hard task in that he was the first to meet the difficulties of the new system and the constant questions that are sure to present themselves in any new venture. However, he has handled the work faithfully and with good judgment and it is a credit to him.

The editors will be very glad of criticism and suggestions.

[illegible] dyear results have a way of leaving us sad and mournful, exchanging condolences with members of other fraternities and congratulating those who remain with us.

But, like all things, Midyears has its use—a use for us as well as for those who are to judge us. A good many of us wonder if we really do belong in college, if we are fitted for its life and if we are capable of its undertaking. Most of us do have the ability but many do not use it. We seem to need just such a shock as examinations are apt to bring, to tell us where we stand, and to tell us in language that we cannot help but understand.

If we come through the ordeal well, then achievement is ours. And if we flunk out, while it does put one in the depths of despair for awhile, the jolt is in many instances just what is needed to put a man on his feet.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of The Cynic:

It may seem rather early to begin a discussion of the Kake Walk, but there is one phase of it which should be taken into consideration now; namely, the selection of the judges for the stunt.

After every Kake Walk we hear a great deal of talk as to just what should have been the decision of the judges in regard to the winning stunts. Invariably there is much dissatisfaction with the awards. And this dissatisfaction is not just among the members of the runner-up fraternity or fraternities. Often the general opinion of the majority who see the entertainment is at variance with that of the judges.

The root of the trouble lies in the judges selected. One of the cardinal points of a winning stunt should be its originality, but how can a judge decide on this matter if he has never seen any Kake Walk stunts before. They all seem good to him. To have any foundation for comparing degrees of originality, one must have a number of preceding instances on which to base his conclusions. Yet many of the judges, in recent years at least, have been chosen more because of their records of public service or business prominence than because of their wide acquaintance with what constitutes a really original Kake Walk stunt. It does not necessarily follow that a man of good judgment in the business world can exercise the same amount of judgment in this matter, especially if he has no previous standards for comparison.

To my mind no one should be a stunt judge who has not attended at least two Kake Walks. The honor conferred upon a man by being designated a judge does not mean so much to him as the Briggs Cup does to the fraternity which has worked hard to win it. There is plenty of room for discussion of this matter, and the columns of the Cynic are the place for it.

To the Editor:

It seems rather peculiar to me and many others that the University does not do something about the south walk on the campus. At the present time it is a frozen stream which is negotiable only with skates and in the spring traversed only with the aid of rubber boots. How any lawsuits have been avoided due to falling on the ice resulting in serious injury is not understood but it is possible that an accident may take place anytime now. Like anything else we imagine that the walk will be taken care of only after a serious accident. A path may have been alright for the students of 1827 but I think the University ought to step in the running with the rest of the world and put in some decent walks.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The Gold Key Society has evidently been taking a very good sojourn during the last month or two in enforcing certain Frosh rules. They started out with a rush in enforcing all rules but it seems as if they could start a thing but not see it to a finish.

What the writer is driving at is the case of a large number of Freshman football men and others who parade the streets of the city night after night without their frosh caps. Are they any better than we were when we were frosh? Are certain fellows, just because they played on the Freshman football team, privileged and excused from carrying out this regulation which is as old as the college itself? In justice to the rest of the Freshmen, the Gold Key Society should get busy and see that every Frosh man wears the little green and gold cap. Members of Gold Key have witnessed these violations of the rules more than once but never have taken any action in the matter. Let's have these men live up to the Vermont traditions!

Fair Play.

THE SOUTH WALK

[illegible] who of other years! To [illegible] the unbroken continuity of [illegible] the writer feels called upon to declare that a new war is on, a war over the South Walk. But not alone for preservation purposes is this [illegible] precipitated. Rather, on the other hand, in the vain desire that something might possibly be done to [illegible] one of the most outstanding evils of our campus.

To people who must cross its precarious wilds and wastes, there invariably come the qualms and indecisions of a longer journey. It is truly a hazardous undertaking and a mere [illegible] lunch or dinner does not seem worth the trial.

There are different phases which occur in its existence as regularly as the sun reaches its zenith. When one attempts 8:30 classes, he has a slim possibility of reaching his destination, providing of course, he has his skates along. Later in the morning, its characteristics assume a more forbidding exterior, and by noon-time, the height of its impossibility is attained! It is then a question of sink or swim, and most try one method after almost suffering the other! For there is mud to left of you, mud to right of you, mud on all sides! What was once the green of the college campus is that no longer, but a monster of too horrible dimensions for description: mud!

There is no doubt that the students who use the middle walk will accuse us of harping upon the same subject. But for the sake of the poor, long-suffering, life-endangered individuals who daily have to cross its awful path, we make one last despairing appeal for a new South Walk.

And I use the middle walk!

PLEA FOR BROADMINDEDNESS

At a time when the whole college is apt to be upon its ears for various reasons as apparent as the nose on your face, it does not seem amiss that an editorial writer should resort to the present topic for inspiration.

Any individual who has not only reached college age, but is enjoying the fruits of a college education ought to have attained at least some measure of discretion. But added to this degree of discretion there is an underlying current that sways the whole matter of existence. And it is tolerance, forbearance, broadmindedness, or whatever you may wish to call it. It is inherent in the heart of every man.

What is sometimes lacking, is not the quality itself, then, but its expression. Simply because your opinions and ideas do not happen to coincide with those of your best or your least-known friend, is no reason why both may not be wise and correct to the final point.

And so it is that just at this opportune time, when opinions are bound to clash, and friendships may be strained to the breaking point, that I would like to make my plea, a plea for broadmindedness.

So this is February! and "Take Chance" week at the Majestic. Don't they have the best ideas? And Leon's back at the organ. 'Cording to him he must have been almost across the continent and back on his two weeks' vacation, and speaking of vacations, didn't we just have a great one? There's one thing about Midyears being a vacation, it's the only one on record which will let a cow reduce! Usually they come back looking like a fatted calf! (Not wholly—but just part of them!) and oh yes—rushing! The freshmen are getting pushed right off their understandings. No more studying for three weeks and then for three weeks more! But cheer up—we've a whole half year to do it in! Last, but not least—Kake Walk—when the boys all strut their stuff and work their head off to say nothing of those ghastly two minutes of "walking fo' de cake!" It's a great occasion—but it takes a lot of work.. ..no foolin'!

It seems a rather hopeless task to try to bring to the students here even a small fraction of what those who attended the National Student Conference gained from it. In spite of this I am going to try to give you what I can about two addresses that were delivered at the same meeting of the Milwaukee Conference.

The first of these was delivered by Prof. Harrison S. Elliott, Union Theological Seminary on "The Findings of Modern Psychology and the Potentialities of Human Life."

He started by asking the question, "Can we change the capacities that we are born with?" "What do these include?"

He said in answer to this that we cannot determine solely from what a person is, what his native equipment was but nothing can be developed in a person for which there is not some foundation at birth. Personality is not fixed at birth. It is merely there as a possibility. Environment is a very important factor in growth, so much so that it can overcome native [illegible].

He next compared the work of the psychologist with that of the minister. This was a very interesting comparison for it lies on the point that all college students are pondering over. Prof. Elliott said that the reverent psychologist and the open-minded minister are working together.

Once Christians come to believe in the ideals of Jesus they have capacities to make them become the foundation of civilization. "Nothing is impossible to him that believeth," and "Strength comes through endeavor." What can give one more confidence in a God than to find so many natural resources resident in the universe and these potentialities resident in human nature."

A. G. Mackay '29 of Peacham was elected president of the Gold Key Society at a meeting held Wednesday evening at the Sigma Phi Place. Mackay is a member of the varsity basketball squad, an assistant manager of football and a member of Sigma Alpha Chi Fraternity.

At the same meeting W. M. Hall '29 of Bennington was voted vice-president of the Society. Hall is a popular member of the sophomore class, who has been widely interested in campus activities. He is a Member of Sigma Phi Society. At the meeting, the matter of the attitude of freshmen came in for discussion. The consensus of opinion of the meeting was that the freshmen should be subjected to disciplinary measures as soon as possible.

tute of Technology, Pasadena California on "The Changing Conception of God and of Duty."

In opening his address Prof. Millikan spoke of the Scopes trial and the influence it has had. Some say that it is the greatest set back of all civilization but according to him it was a very valuable educative happening, because it has set so many people, who have never done so before, to thinking.

He pointed out four stages in the evolution of religion.

First, primitive man starting to think a little finds himself surrounded by enemies who seek his disstruction. All of these such as the sea, thunder, the dark, etc., he called gods and tried to appease their anger by sacrificing human life.

Second, started to think more for himself and decided that this was wrong. The experience of Abraham in the Bible exemplifies this. Third, when man decided that human sacrifice was wrong, he replaced it by animal sacrifice.

Fourth, the conception of today is that of a loving God who is willing to help us and is not trying to harm us if we neglect to make sacrifices in the form of life.

Conceptions about God and about duty are at the root of all religion. As a result of Galileo's discoveries, man got for the first time the idea of an orderly nature and of a God who works through law. These made it possible to utilize nature and its laws.

Modern science is the most effective preacher that we have today. It is the modern statement of the teaching of Christ. It is only following the changing conceptions of nature and God.

Everybody is religious. There are two kinds of religion, however. One is dogmatic, and the other is that of the open mind. This latter is the only real religion.

We have not reached or begun to reach what we are coming to in religion. The greatest thing of all is the education up through the growth of religion.

In concluding he asked what does the Lord require of us except mercy, love and a helping hand.

Owing to the fact that the competitive season is far off as yet, and that hockey, varsity basketball, and interfraternity basketball are now in full swing and using most of the track men, it has been decided to hold varsity track practice three times a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4 p. m. After Kake Walk, practice will be held every afternoon.

The turn-out from the freshman class has been disappointing so far. There are a number of men of ability in the Freshman class who have done track work in high school but who are not out for the varsity merely because they think that the varsity team here is too fast. Far from being fast. This year's team bids fair to be the weakest since 1924. With Fred Robbins ineligible there is but one man out for the hurdles. There should be at least two men out for every place possible in a meet. In other words, there should be five or six men out for each event. If anything should happen to Art Shaw, our only hurdler, there wouldn't be a single hurdler to represent Vermont in any meet. There is no upperclassman of much ability in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes. It's up to the freshmen to fill these holes in the team. The ineligibility of Martinetti leaves only Archie Post to run the mile and two-mile.

We need men from the freshman class out for every event: runs, hurdles, jumps, and weights. Many varsity men are graduating this year, and this means freshman candidates will be next year's varsity, and in many cases they will be this year's varsity.

The inter-fraternity relays will be staged in March as part of a big indoor inter-fraternity track and field meet. This meet will require a large number of track men, for no one star will be allowed to compete more than two events plus the relay. Let's have [illegible] out Monday!

Over the Rim of Grand Canyon

He Threw This Pen and It Struck Unharmed on the Jagged Rocks a Half Mile Below

Non-breakable Pen Barrel? Dr. F. C. Morse of the National Park-to-Park Highway Association was unconvinced.

So recently to test the new Parker Duofold barrel, he stood on the rim of Grand Canyon and threw this pen into the rock-lined chasm.

When the pen was recovered amid the jagged rocks a half mile below the canyon's edge, it was scratched a bit, but quite unbroken.

When the cap was removed the point was as good as ever—a point guaranteed for 25 years, not only for mechanical perfection but for wear!

You cannot get Duofold quality in any pen save that stamped "Geo. S. Parker." Look carefully for this. Any good pen counter would like you to try this classic.

SEMI-WEEKLY CHAPEL SERVICES PROPOSED BY HONOR SOCIETIES

Plans for Compulsory Mid-Week and Voluntary Vesper Services on Sundays Submitted to the Faculty Committee

Chapel services twice a week were recommended by the representatives of the four honor societies at a meeting held at the Billings Library Tuesday afternoon. The proposal of the honor societies was presented to a committee of the University Senate headed by Professor E. Jacobs. According to the plan suggested by the students, there will be two services during every week of the college year. At the Sunday afternoon meeting, speakers of note will conduct the exercises and address the students. Attendance at these services will be voluntary. The second Chapel service will be held in the middle of some mid-week morning. All academic students, except those whose religious faith interposes a reasonable objection, will be required to attend.

The mid-week exercises will be of the simplest nature, consisting of a short prayer, responsive readings and hymn singing. A member of the faculty will be in charge of the service. Such details as the taking of attendance will be arranged by the faculty if they accept the suggestions made by the students. The representatives from Boulder, Akraia, Key and Serpent, and Gold Key evinced a desire to show proper appreciation of Mr. Wilbur's gift to the University by immediate and appropriate use of the chapel for religious exercises.

The chapel committee headed by Professor Jacobs will meet in the near future and if the plans made by the student- meet with their approval, the exercises will undoubtedly commence at once. The committee has taken considerable pains to procure the best hymnal for college use. Since an excellent one has been found this completes the preliminary arrangements for chapel services.

MUSEUM HAS ACQUIRED NEW BUSTS AND SET OF UNCOMMON EGGS

Through the efforts of Professor Henry F. Perkins, head of the Department of Zoology, the University Museum has recently acquired two fine reconstructed busts of Neanderthal and Cro-Magnon men. The busts have been reconstructed from fragments of the skulls of these two races of men, by Professor McGregor of New York City. The busts will be used in connection with several courses given in the University.

Another addition to the University collections, is a set of ovis poli which are casts of the originals found by the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition to the Desert of Gobi. The casts may be found in the mineralogical collections kept in the Science building. The casts are very expensive, being quoted at over $20 a dozen.

LARGE PRIZE OFFERED FOR ESSAY ON WILSON

Two $5,000 prizes are offered by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation of New York City for the best two essays expounding Woodrow Wilson's ideals and principles. These prizes are extended to any young man or woman between the ages of 20 and 35.

The purpose of these essays is to bring the ideals of our great war president before the youth of America. The judges will be literary men of international repute, who are familiar with the works of Wilson. The essays must be submitted before October 1, 1927.

Professor Jacobs and his class in Geology spent Friday morning analyzing the rocks about Overlake Quarry.

A delegation from the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. conducted Sunday evening services at the Congregational church in Essex Junction. Delbert Merrill '28 gave a talk on "What It Means to Be a Christian." R. F. Vinson told of his experiences in Epworth League. Misses Dorothy C. G. Rowe '27 and Margaret B. Corbin '29 rendered the musical part of the service.

UNIVERSITY Y PLANS GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY FOR COMING SABBATH

On February 13, the Y. M. C. A. intends to have their second "All out for Church Sunday." A committee of the cabinet headed by Delbert J. Merrill '28 of Wallingford is working out the details of the plan to increase the student attendance on that day. Arrangements have been made with the pastors of the various downtown churches to preach on topics especially of interest to the students. It is hoped that fraternities will attend church services in a body.

"All Out for Church" Sundays have proved popular with the women students. In many churches student attendance has been doubled on these days. The Y. M. C. A. campaign is non-sectarian. Students are asked to attend the services of the church of their preference.

OVER TON OF PAPER WILL BE CONSUMED IN PRINTING ARIEL

Material For the 1928 Annual is Being Collected Rapidly—Junior Cuts Nearly Completed

Over one ton and a half of paper in a natural lustre finish has been ordered for the 1928 Ariel. This paper is being used in most of the other big year books of the country, and has worked out satisfactorily. A special double-tone ink in a landscape green-black color has been chosen for the campus view section.

The Bureau of Engraving of Minneapolis writes that nearly all the Junior cuts have been completed. The Free Press Printing Co. of Burlington is getting a good start on the printing. They have already finished setting up the entire teacher training section and the women's grind section.

Editorial Work Progressing

The humor, men's grinds, and the athletic section are nearing completion. Many of the division pages have been completed by the art editors. The work of compiling various data is going on with the help of members of the Sophomore class who are scrubbing for the 1929 Ariel.

The details of the feature section have not been definitely decided upon. The board is working on several ideas, but they cannot be made public yet. Many novel features are being considered, which will make the 1928 Ariel distinctive.

More Snapshots Needed

Individual snapshots of members of the Junior class have not been coming in with sufficient rapidity. The editor requests that all Juniors make a special effort to pass in their snapshots this week.

Organization pictures are also coming in rather slowly. This matter is being called to the attention of the heads of all societies and clubs who expect to have their pictures in the Ariel.

WIG AND BUSKIN ELECTS NEW OFFICERS TONIGHT

Election of officers and initiation of new members of Wig and Buskin, honorary dramatic society, will take place this evening at 7 o'clock at the Sigma Alpha Chi House. Officers to be elected for the coming year are president, secretary, manager and advertising manager. Other business will also be brought before the society.

Herbert Crandall '28 and Lyman Corcoran '30, who took part in "Captain Applejack," will be introduced into the society as a result of their work. President O. F. Parody '27 requests that all members attend as important business is to be transacted.

SUB-COMMITTEES FOR JUNIOR WEEK MEET TO CONSIDER PLANS

Chairmen of the various sub-committees of the Junior Week Committee met Thursday afternoon in the Old Mill to listen to advice given by L. H. Averill '27, chairman of last year's Junior Week. Averill went over the difficulties met with last year. He urged the chairmen to get cooperation from their committees.

Plans for the Junior Prom were discussed. It was the consensus of opinion at the meeting that the gymnasium floor was altogether unsuitable to have the Prom there. The committee felt that the Prom should be held elsewhere unless the condition of the floor was improved. A Junior Boat ride and Banquet at some hotel on the lake were discussed. It was voted to go on record as favoring the reinstatement of these two events on the Junior Week program.

M. C. Robbins, Jr. '28 reported that he was contracting for some programs which would be novel in the history of the Junior Week institution at Vermont. It was also announced that bids had been received for the orchestra, but no final selection has been made.

FRATERNITIES PLAY SECOND ROUND GAMES

On Thursday night the second round of the Interfraternity basketball tournament was run off with Sigma Phi turning back Sigma Nu 28 to 12 and Sigma Alpha Chi sending Delta Phi back to the showers on the short end of a 21 to 16 score.

In league one the Sigma Phi had little trouble in beating the Sigma Nu. The Sigma Phi team had all kinds of luck and this coupled with good teamwork made the Sigs look the best of any in this league so far. Conway and Mace starred for the winners while Parody and Talcott looked good on the losers side.

In league three the game was much faster than the score indicates. The score at half time stood 12 to 0 in favor of the Sigma Alpha Chi. During the second period Peach let loose with a bunch of shots that sent a scare into the winners and they tightened up to come out on top at the whistle on the long end of a 21 to 16 score. Tiny Blodgett and E. Mackey starred for the winners while Peach and Bradish looked good for the losers.

NEWS IN BRIEF

In the current number of the Arts & Crafts Review, a publication for students interested in college annuals, there appears a set of reproductions from the 1927 Ariel. The large picture of the Old Mill, the dedication page, a page bearing the picture of Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternity and the division page for classes are among the pages displayed.

Freshmen are growing lax about wearing their distinctive caps. Members of various honor societies have found it necessary to halt the Frosh, while the latter were walking with some fair coeds. As yet the Gold Key Society, which is intrusted with the duty of enforcing the Frosh rules, has not applied sufficient force to impress the Freshmen.

Estimates of the damage done by steam in the Museum have not been completed yet. It is doubtful whether some of the valuable articles can be replaced at any price.

Professor Evan Thomas has been confined to his home by sickness for the past two weeks.

Dean Votey of the engineering college has been unable to attend his classes due to illness.

Due to weather conditions, the work of the Extension Service has been mostly confined to the local office. As soon as the roads become settled, it is planned to continue the field work.

The privilege of initiation will be denied fraternities at Northwestern University whose scholarship averages or moral conduct fall below certain standards.

RIFLE TEAM MATCHES COMMENCE FEBRUARY 7

Vermont will be represented by the following men who will live in the Intercollegiate Rifle League matches which start February 7: L. A. Reynolds, team captain, A. J. Bisson, manager, H. G. Adams, F. W. Allen, K. C. Ball, F. S. Bird, H. K. Buckland, C. E. Brow, H. G. Bruce, D. Donaldson, J. E. Emmons, N. B. Gray, A. R. Hill, F. J. McGill, R. E. Metzer, H. M. Martin, C. L. Morse, A. L. FIRST SOCIAL EVENT OF SECOND SEMESTER PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Green Serenaders from Dartmouth Furnish Music—Decorations in Form of Triangles Lend New Effect

Vermont opened the formal season of the new year with the Sophomore Hop last Friday evening in the University gymnasium. About 100 couples attended. The Green Serenaders of Dartmouth College, well known for their excellent music proved to be the very essence of the affair. Dancing was enjoyed from nine to one o'clock.

The gymnasium was elaborately decorated with colored streamers in the form of a triangle. Much of the credit for the excellent taste of the decorating is due to Miss Mary Comstock, who was the head of the decoration committee. The hall was lined by divans from the various fraternity houses.

During the intermission, refreshments were served. Favors distributed to the ladies were handsome purses. Lieutenant and Mrs. Frederick and Mr and Mrs. Deane were present as chaperones. The chairmen of the committees in charge were as follows: Mary Comstock, decorations, Eugene Knapp, music; Jack Hyland, favors. Frank Otto was chairman of the entire affair.

E. L. INGALLS ATTENDS BOSTON CONFERENCE

Mr. E. L. Ingalls, state leader of Boys' and Girls' Club Work, left last Friday for Boston to attend a meeting for the purpose of making out the Camp Vail program. He will remain in Boston for the annual Extension Conference of the North Eastern States.

This divisional conference is to be held in Boston from February 22 to 25 inclusive, and will have its headquarters at the Hotel Bellview. The club work section of the conference is devoted to the training and use of leaders.

Sorority home doors at the University of Denver will be closed and locked and lights will be out at eight o'clock on Monday night so that fraternity men will attend their meetings more promptly.

CATAMOUNT QUINTET MEETS BLACK PANTHER AT THE MIDD LAIR

Vermont is Scheduled to Win Over St. Michael's Without Much Trouble in Thursday's Battle

Tomorrow night the Green and Gold quintet will line up against the strong Middlebury five in the third game of the state series. Not much is known about the downstaters as they have not yet played any teams which Vermont has. But a game in any sport with the Blue and White is always a battle from start to finish. A large number of fans will remember a battle last fall when Vermont was slated to win by a good margin, but the dope did not run true to form and Vermont was forced to take Middlebury's dust for the first time in two years.

On Thursday night Vermont takes on the St. Michael's fast quintet in a return game of the series on the Vermont floor. St. Mike's chances are much better than they were a month ago because the Green and Gold outfit will probably be tired out from their game of the night before coupled with a hard ride on the train. But even with this handicap the Green and Gold team had ought to come through. If they do the state championship will come to Vermont for another year.

As this paper goes to press too early to get the results of the Norwich contest we are not sure of the starting line up but from all indications it will be the same as it was last half. Captain Marvin will be seen at center with Prentice and Post forwards. Price and Estabrook will hold down the positions in the back court.

OVER THREE HUNDRED VERMONT GRADUATES TEACH IN THE STATE

Records in the Alumni Office of the University of Vermont show that there are 352 teachers from the University now teaching in the schools of the state, ranging all the way from little white standard school houses to the colleges. To include the college teachers and the teachers in schools who are not listed for one reason or another would raise the total to about 400.

The number of towns represented in the list of teachers is 125 out of a possible 261. They are Alburg, Bakersfield, Barton, Barre, Bellows Falls, Bennington, No. Bennington, Benson, Bethel, Bradford, Brandon, Brattleboro, Bristol, Brookfield Center, Burlington, Cabot, Charlotte, Chelsea, Chester, Concord, Craftsbury, No. Craftsbury, Danby, Enosburg Falls, Essex and Center Essex Junction, Fairfax, Fairfield, No. Ferrisburg, Fletcher, Franklin, Georgia, E. KAKE WALK

[illegible] when the Kake Walk Com[illegible] were first aware of the ap[illegible] of that strenuous though eager[illegible] period, and now a few [illegible] are beginning to do [illegible] work to supplement the [illegible] and suggestions that [illegible] thus far been made for stunts, [illegible] walking costumes, and the many [illegible] that must be taken care [illegible].

It is hard to overestimate the value [illegible] this annual affair has for the [illegible] In the first place, it appeals [illegible] and brings many of [illegible] back to the old campus of their college days. It cannot be said that [illegible] entirely fills this need, [illegible] owing to business duties there are [illegible] who cannot come at one of these times but can at the other; thus a convenience is afforded, and the alumnus is sure of finding other graduates with whom to go over the old days, whether they be of the distant past or the near past, at Kake Walk time. Such is the value of the alumni to be [illegible]. The success of the in[illegible] depends in large part upon the interest they take in it, as the close connection between the condition of the institution and the attitude of its alumni goes to show.

The advertising that the University gets from this two days' performance takes several forms. People that come are sure to talk of it, and no Kake Walk can be discussed without the creating of favorable impression. Of late the moving pictures have recognized the importance of the event and the larger Boston and New York papers always give us mention.

Perhaps one of the most important points to be mentioned is that in connection with the sub-Freshmen, Kake Walk gives the University an almost ideal opportunity for the entertainment of High School Seniors—men who are wondering whether or not they want to go to college, and if so, where. The cleverness and general spirit observed while here on one of these visits has undoubtedly been of decided help to many a fellow in making up his mind.

The financial side of most questions is a thing to be avoided -not to be mentioned unless necessary. But Kake Walk is different. It is thanks to Kake Walk that our baseball team can make the Southern Trip.

For many years the problem of Kake Walk consisted in getting material—getting stunts to put on; but now we are at the stage when quality is the problem, and quantity is being decidedly cut down. With this condition a better performance is insured.

All we can ask for now is the whole-hearted support of everyone, and support in person as well as sentiment. Female Stunts and Kake Walking [illegible] opportunities to every man, whether participating in a main stunt or not.

Students from sunnier parts may be interested to know that we will have six more weeks of real winter weather, dating from the second of this month.

Tradition tells us that if on Candlemas Day, when the ground-hog is sure to come out of his hole, he sees his shadow, then winter follows for forty days more. On Candlemas Day the sun shone brightly, so we might as well make up our minds to the inevitable.

After all, Nero was no opportunist. While Rome burned he merely fiddled about.

OUR DANCE HALL

The Sophomore Hop was undoubtedly a great success. The committee worked hard and spent a few people interested had reduction. Yet notwithstanding the boring, as at no dances lived up to [illegible].

The decorations were good but like all decorations ever put up in the gymnasium, they were not equal to the task of making that rooftop even appear as the appearance of a dance hall. Nothing more need be said of that floor.

Certainly the social life of the college is important and is demanded by the student just as the athletic phase of life. The college dance is supposed in part at least to take care of this, and yet conditions as they are work against the aim. Many students do not care for a "gym" dance at any price and are driven, especially the male students, to find halls about the city or, when the roads permit, to go outside of the city entirely.

While these outside dances may promote no harm, and indeed some of them are as respectable in every way as the college dances, yet it seems too bad that such a condition exists. It does not seem to be necessary.

It is a well-recognized fact that a new floor in the gymnasium is needed but it will not come without an effort on somebody's part. It has been suggested that permanent decorations be purchased which would be taken down after each dance, this job to fall to the freshmen in place of their former bleacher work.

This might be a way out. Others have suggested that the Billings Library be used or that college dances be held down-street, say at the Hotel Vermont, though that floor is not large enough.

The Cynic will be glad to print any letters relating to this matter.

JUNIORS

Grinds are always an important part of a year book. They are read with perhaps more interest than any other section, by the majority of students. Whether this popularity is just or not, we must admit that the Ariel is published for the pleasure, direct or indirect, of the student body, and accordingly their whims must be taken care of.

As is usual at this time of year the grind editors are in sore distress and about to make up their minds that there is no such thing as co-operation with the student body, or, more particularly, with their own class. To pick a group of grind editors that know their classmates intimately enough to work up good grinds on them would mean, putting it conservatively, about one-fourth of the class. This is obviously impossible; yet to have grinds of the type we want it is necessary that those writing them do have an intimate knowledge of their subject—the more intimate the better.

These little skits will not die with the end of our college life, but will be glanced at from time to time as long as any of those now concerned with the book may live. Furthermore, their meaning will sink in deeper as the years go by and a pleasant or an unpleasant slant will tend to make a deeper impression upon the individual. It is possible to bring to light many secrets, to mention high spots in a college career, and even to bring in a bit of friendly teasing, without saying anything which may either now or in later years cause anyone to wish the Ariel had never been printed, or to suffer even slight ill-feeling.

The editorial staff is doing its bit and doing it well, but the pleasure to be found in this year's Ariel will depend in no small measure upon the way we get going on grinds and the choice of material we make, to put in them.

The questions posted by the Health Council are being answered now. Many of them are very good.

The skating carnival will be held at Chiott's rink the evening of February 16. If the weather conditions are unfavorable it will take place the evening of the 17th. Besides skating races there will be fancy skating.

Basketball teams will be chosen this week. It is important that all practices be made up immediately, for no one can make a team unless all practices are made up. Extra practices will help much towards winning the interclass games, which are near at hand now.

RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS IN PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY AND IN ELECTRICITY

General Electric Company Makes Generous Offers to College Students Needing Funds for Advanced Work

Announcement was made recently of the conditions under which the Charles A. Coffin Foundation fellowships will be awarded for the academic year 1927-1928. The Foundation established by the General Electric Company, provides for the award of five thousand dollars annually for fellowships to graduates of the universities, colleges and technical schools of the United States who have shown, by the character of their work, that they could with advantage, undertake or continue research work in educational institutions, either in this country or abroad. The fields in which these followships are awarded are Electricity, Physics, and Physical Chemistry.

The committee desires to make the awards to men who, without financial assistance, would be unable to devote themselves to research work. The fellowships will carry a minimum allowance of five hundred dollars. This allowance may be increased to meet special needs of applicants to whom the committee decides to award the fellowships.

Candidates should file applications on forms provided for this purpose. Applications will be welcomed from Seniors desiring to do work as a part of the requirements for an advanced degree as well as from graduates, but any award to a Senior will be conditioned upon his graduation. All applications should first be sent to the Dean of the educational institution which the applicant attends or has attended. The Dean will, in turn, file all applications received by him at the same time, together with a statement naming the two men applying who in his opinion are best qualified.

Applications must be filed with the committee by March 1, 1927, and should be addressed to Mr. W. W. Trench, Secretary, Charles A. Coffin Foundation, Schenectady, N. Y.

Four graduate students and one undergraduate have been awarded fellowships for the year of 1926-27. In addition the committee granted one renewal and appointed one alternate.

Those receiving the awards are as follows:

The Old Bee Hive

A prime favorite on the campus

IN ANY group of regular fellows, you'll find Prince Albert. It belongs. It speaks the language. You get what we mean the minute you tamp a load of this wonderful tobacco into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and make fire with a match.

Cool as a northeast bedroom. Sweet as a note from the Girl of Girls. Fragrant as a woodland trail. Prince Albert never bites your tongue or parches your throat, no matter how fast you feed it. You'll smoke pipe-load on pipe-load with never a regret.

Buy a tidy red tin of P. A. today. Throw back the hinged lid and breathe deeply of that real tobacco aroma. Then . . . tuck a neat wad into the business-end of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Now you have it . . . that taste! That's Prince Albert, Fellows!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

"The writer enjoyed greatly operating one of those fiddles. At the appointed hour the dancers began to arrive. The ingenuity displayed in the various costumes presented was surprising, considering the impromptu nature of the party, and all seemed to have tried to produce something unique. There were couples from the highest in military glory to the most abject barbarism of the South Sea Islands. There were highly tinted, but comely ballet maids, howbeit of masculine proportions, clowns, gypsies, and many that I cannot now recall.

"When enough had arrived the music began its unearthly noise, and to its inspiring (?) strains the dance was on. There were quadrills, lancers, round dances and a Virginia reel. Before things had gone very far spectators had begun to peek in at the doors and windows, and the scene, though crude must have been enlivening. At any rate hilarity was the order of the day, and everybody did 'stunts.' There may have been some who got more platonic than was really necessary for correct behavior, but that side of the affair was not conspicuous and need not be dwelt on. The 'Kake Walk' itself was the concluding event, and was conducted along the usual lines of such functions. A procession of couples marched around the hall several times, and then each couple separately, doing their grotesque best. The conclusion of the affair should have been the award of the cake, but I have no recollection of its being won, and my impression is that the whole company fell upon it and incontinently devoured it.

"Thus ended the first 'Kake Walk,' and as it broke up, I believe that each person realized that as a piece of college fun it should have a place reserved every year. This sentiment was largely due, I presume, to the temporary breaking down of class and fraternity barriers, always a healthy relaxation in a college of supposedly democratic traditions, and to this feature may possibly be ascribed the continued popularity and development of the 'Kake Walk.'"

PHI MU DELTA WINS FROM SIGMA NU IN FRAT SERIES

The Phi Mu Delta basketball team defeated the Sigma Nus at the Gym Saturday afternoon in one of the best games in the interfraternity league this season. The contest was nip and tuck from the first to the last whistle. Sigma Nu led at the end of the first half with a single point margin, the score being 11 to 10. In the second half the Phi Mus, led by the superior shooting and floor work of Manning, outscored their opponents 11 to 4, bringing the final count to 21 to 15. Price was high scorer with three baskets and two foul shots. Sigma Nu brought the ball down the court time and time again but could not seem to make their shots count. Kersey starred for the losers with his clever floor work, while McGinley scored five points—one basket from the floor and three from the foul line.

This was the only game played since the Alpha Tau Omega team forfeited to Zeta Chi and since the Owls are not entering the league.

The next games are scheduled for tonight, when Kappa Sigma plays Sigma Alpha Chi, Sigma Delta plays the Independents, and Sigma Phi plays Tau Epsilon Phi.

FROSH PLAY DEMOLAY TEAM IN SECOND GAME

Any Member of the DeMolay Society in College is Invited to Tryout for Their Team

Tomorrow night at the University Gym the frosh basketball team will face the DeMolay team in the second game of the season for the yearlings. Fresh from their 29-22 victory over Company K at the Armory, the frosh are confident of setting back the Purple and Gold quintet, who have lost but one game this season and that by two points. Last week the Mollies trimmed the Winooski High School team by a 48-35 score.

The DeMolay team is composed of former B. H. S. stars, most of whom are in college. Any DeMolays who are bona fide members of other chapters are eligible to play. Morse '29 and P. Scutakes '29 will play the forward positions, with Madden '30 or Strong at center. Palmer '29 and J. Scutakes '29 will play in the back court for the DeMolay.

The probable line-up for the frosh is as follows: Halligan and Bernstein, forwards, Wallace, center; Mace and Manning, guards.

On Thursday of this week the DeMolay team will face the Burlington Y. M. C. A. team, composed of former high school and prep school stars, at the Armory on Cherry Street. Charlie Mace, freshman president and guard of this year's frosh quintet, will probably start the game as one of the guards for the DeMolay. All DeMolays in college are asked to support the team and to be on hand at both games.

Football teams at Notre Dame and New York University adopted silk pants and rubber pads as part of their regulation uniforms during the past season. We wonder if galoshes will next be in order.

CATAMOUNT ICEMEN LOSE TO M. A. C. SEXTET

Vermont Makes Freak Goal in Third Period—Final Score is 2-1 —Game Played at Kirby's

A fast hockey game took place Saturday afternoon at Kirby's rink, when Vermont played M. A. C. The game was witnessed by a small crowd that was thrilled from start to finish.

The first game came after 7 minutes and 45 seconds of play. It was made after some pretty pass work and skating by Price and Cook of M. A. C. The rest of this period was hard fought and evenly matched, no scores being made.

The second period opened with Winchenbach and Captain Lenning doing some fine defensive work. This with the work of Vermont's two hard-working goalies, Foote and O'Wood kept the M. A. C. men down. This period was hard fought all the way through. No scores were made in this period.

The third period opened with a rush, Vermont being on the offense the latter part of the time. A freak goal, went through, there was some discussion, came soon after the period opened. The puck clicked off the skate of the M. A. C. guard, Galanie, for a goal. Referee Clark ruled the goal counted for U. V. M.

M. A. C. was not to be stopped, however. After some nifty puck carrying, [illegible] scored again for M. A. C.

Referee Clark performed his duties [illegible] to the satisfaction of everyone.

Captain Wood and Sherman [illegible] deserve credit. This game was a decided improvement over the Middlebury game from all standpoints.

J B Phelps '27 of Milton has been appointed chairman of the Kake Walk usher committee to fill the position now vacant by the resignation of W R Jones '27. Phelps has been a member of the committee for three successive years and has been widely interested in campus activities.

The directors announce that all fraternities eligible to compete in the Kake Walk must have their Kake Walking couples at the gymnasium at five o'clock on Monday, February 14 for examinations of incompetent walkers. On Tuesday and Wednesday nights beginning at six o'clock, there will be two hour rehearsals for each fraternity. On Thursday night beginning at 7 o'clock dress rehearsals of 5 minutes each will be held at the gymnasium before a set of judges. At this time any inferior stunt will be eliminated from the Kake Walk program.

To advertise the event, films of the 1925 Kake Walk will be shown at the Majestic Theatre during the week. Elaborate posters have been prepared. Any students who happen to be going home are asked to apply to the directors for posters to take with them.

Student tickets will be on sale at the box office store-room of the gymnasium on Saturday and Monday afternoons from 1 to 6 o'clock. All unclaimed tickets at 6 o'clock Monday, February 14 will be put on public sale Tuesday, February 15 at P. F. Roddy's.

The order in which stunts will be presented was decided by lot at a meeting of the fraternity representatives last Tuesday. This feature cannot be made public at this time. The order in which Kake-Walking couples will appear have likewise been determined but will not be formally announced at this time.

CATAMOUNTS SUBDUE NORWICH AFTER FAST BASKETBALL CONTEST

Cadets Lose Game on Home Floor After Desperate Struggle—Score is 32 - 17

The Green and Gold basketball team journeyed to Northfield, Monday night, to clinch a 32-17 victory over Norwich in the second State series games. The contest was all Vermont after the first few minutes of play. Norwich had little success against the stiff defense of the visitors. Prentice, flashy Catamount forward, drew first blood for Vermont when he scored a tally from the foul line. Norwich forged to the front with a goal from the floor by Bedell. The Cadets then counted five more points to Vermont's two making the score 7-4.

From then on the Catamounts ran wild. Led by Price, Prentice they seemed to score at will with an attack that completely bewildered the Cadets. When the whistle blew ending the half the score stood Vermont 22, Norwich 7.

In the second half the soldiers showed a better brand of basketball, holding their opponents to 10 points. During the fourth quarter Vermont presented a new team some of the representatives wearing the Green and Gold for the first time. This team played brilliantly and were an even match for the Cadets, causing the game to end in a flashy style.

The outstanding star was Capt. "Doc" Marvin, who played a great defensive game, smashing up many Norwich attacks and starting plays that ended in tallies for his team. Prentice alone scored enough points to tie the home team and was high scorer for the evening. Bedell, the elusive forward for the Cadets, played a brilliant game and furnished plenty of trouble for the Catamounts. Hourin was the star of the Soldiers defense.

This makes two State contests for the Green and Gold. St. Michael's having already been defeated. The Catamounts now look forward to the hard game with the fast Middlebury five, which has also defeated Norwich.

VERMONT SCORES WIN OVER BLACK PANTHER IN EXCITING CONTEST

Catamount Quintet Subdues Midd in its Lair—Local Icemen are Blanked

The combined hockey and basketball attack, which the Catamounts launched against the Black Panther in the latter's lair, resulted in victory for courtmen and defeat for the ice sextet.

In a basketball game which will long be remembered, in the annals of Vermont athletic history, the Catamount quintet succeeded in subduing their opponents by a score of 20 to 18. Vermont lead 11 to 7 at the end of the first half. The second half was hard fought. Middlebury tied the score in the closing moments of the game. A single basket thrown in the net by a Vermonter saved the day for U. V. M. as the hard battle came to a close.

Middlebury had things much her own way in the hockey game. The superb Midd. offensive netted six goals for the Black Panther, while Vermont was held scoreless.

WRITER'S WORKSHOP

A notice appears in this issue re[illegible] a Writer's Workshop. The [illegible] appears to have depth and worth [illegible] was worth while for anyone at [illegible] interested in writing to look into [illegible] The classroom can be made very [illegible] and is in many cases. However pleasant, however informal, the class may be it nevertheless is bound down to certain restrictions, is made to correspond in some degree to courses at other institutions and worst of all is attended by people whose only reason for coming is that they may receive a [illegible] degree ultimately.

[illegible] proposed organization will, from its nature be composed only of those persons who have real interest in the [illegible]. Its purpose will be merely to develop the ability of each member as much as possible.

As well as filling a very important need at the University this movement has a great possibilities in that it is headed by a man with ability and experience and who is thoroughly interested in the work and in sympathy with the students.

THE ATTITUDE TOWARD WAR

It is interesting to note the attitude [illegible] students in regard to possible participation in this country. Just [illegible] indicates many of the men [illegible] have [illegible] of enlisting at once if the opportunity came and [illegible] to be the sentiment of [illegible] conferences.

It is remarkable how little effect the [illegible] that has been expended since the World War has had on the mind of the college student. He does not seem willing to admit that [illegible] pacifist views would be beneficial to mankind but his inner feeling [illegible] to keep him from opposing [illegible] to all expenses to get into the ranks of [illegible]. he still clings to the old idea that to show patriotism is to fight. Perhaps this [illegible] statement is not generally true, but it does hold in a good many instances.

Whether due to the presence of the Military Department at the University or to other causes there is certainly a militaristic spirit on the campus. It is not always evident, but it can be found if looked for.

The Military Department, however, can in no way be blamed for the attempts of fight when the opportunity arises as for not promoting [illegible] There seems to be a lot of young [illegible] and there is possible for some [illegible] of community service to be found [illegible]

ANTI-EVOLUTION LAWS PROVE UNPOPULAR IN STATE LEGISLATURES

Tennessee Anti-Evolution law was [illegible] by the State Supreme Court in a decision which barred recourse to the United States Supreme Court. The [illegible] of guilty against Jess T. [illegible] was reversed because of the [illegible] of the judge in fixing a fine of [illegible] upon a fine in excess of $50 can only be assessed by a jury. The court [illegible] that "Nothing is to be gained by prolonging this bizarre case." It was ruled that the case be not pressed instead of retried.

The trial was a [illegible] fireworks. William Jennings Bryan [illegible] Clarence Darrow was in Mobile at the time, and John T. Scopes, is studying [illegible] at the University of [illegible].

The court was divided on what the law actually forbade. Two judges held that a topical teaching in the schools of the state the theory that man descended from a lower order of animals was proper. A dissenting held that the act also prohibits the teaching of the [illegible] theory of evolution which denies the hand of God in the Creation of Man.

A rehearing has been demanded by the defense.

While the Tennessee Anti-Evolution law is confirmed by the courts attempts to institute a similar law in two other states is meeting with hostility.

In Missouri an anti-evolution bill introduced in the State Legislature was greeted with laughter by the House.

In Minnesota the evolution issue was joined when a joint resolution was introduced in the State Legislature expressing regret that an anti evolution bill is about to be introduced. The enemies of evolution who have been extremely militant of late, are not likely to meet with success in the legislature, where university graduates occupy 22 per cent of the seats in the two state legislatures and are members of every important committee.—New Student.

He is to speak again next Sunday at the Baptist Church at 9:30 a. m. on the "Situation in China."

NEWS IN BRIEF

The art room in the Medical Building has taken on the guise of an historic museum during the past few days. A rare exhibit of mannequins, accompanied by lectures, has been shown to [illegible] students to teach the history of costumes. The lectures were prepared by M. D. Crawford, research expert of Women's Wear and were given by Miss M. M. Patrick and Miss Gladys Gray. The types of dresses illustrated the most important kinds of clothing and fabrics were reproductions of the actual cloths of each period.

This week 53 of the second year Teacher Training students started practice teaching in the city schools. The students who are taking the four year course in Education, have started observing in the Burlington High School.

There will be a Frosh supper at the city Y. M. C. A. rooms Friday evening at 5:45. Bishop Booth will give a short talk.

There will be a meeting of representatives of all the fraternities in the Y. M. C. A. office tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. Plans will be discussed for getting as many members of fraternities as possible to attend Church on "Go to Church Sunday," February 13.

"Long enough to reach the ground"

LINCOLN'S famous answer to the question "How long should a man's legs be?" suggests a similar answer to the question "How large should an industrial organization be?"

Large enough to do its job, of course, which simply means that there's need in this country of ours for both small and big businesses and both can prosper.

The job of providing electrical communication for the country calls for a vast organization backed by vast resources. And that's what the Bell System is.

Here great size has advantages in greater operating efficiency through which its customers benefit, and advantages to those engaged in the industry who find here a wide range of interesting work offering opportunity to men of varied talent.

Campus Comment

To the Women's Editor of the CYNIC:

In the first place it is not as natural for women to play as square deal a game as men in a competitive contest. The present rushing rules are so generally misunderstood that one wonders what is the matter.

In other colleges Pan Hellenic plays a big part in promoting better inter-fraternity spirit. But does it on Vermont's campus? How many know who is president of Pan Hellenic? Not many and why?

Because Pan Hellenic rules are not printed and because they are not made clear and hence each fraternity interprets them differently. If representatives feel like going to a meeting of Pan Hellenic, they do; if not, they let it pass by unnoticed.—Does this create better feeling? Certainly not. It is up to each and every member to make Pan Hellenic an active, influential organization, rather than a stumbling block as it now seems.

There is a common tendency to feel that each individual fraternity is greater than Pan Hellenic and hence the latter acts as a screen for any or all of the misrepresentatives that appear. If it does not punish offenders of its own rules and the impression created is one of disillusionment.

Pan Hellenic can be the best and most helpful organization for the protection of fraternity welfare and it is the duty of the unit at Vermont to show a more active interest and influence.

PAN-HELLENIC APPOINTS FACULTY ADVISORY BOARD

Forming a new precedent, and one that ought to prove a great aid to Freshmen, Pan-Hellenic Association has appointed an advisory board, whose service will continue over the present two weeks. Any of the members will be glad to discuss fraternity and rushing matters, and may be interviewed at any time.

The following compose the board: Misses Eleanor S. Cummings, Alice Blanchard, Laura J. Parker, Ruth J. Ball.

For the benefit of those who do not chose the above plan, a question box has been attached to the Y Room bulletin board. Written questions placed here will be answered in three days and found in the "answer box" adjoining.

SKATING PARTY WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY

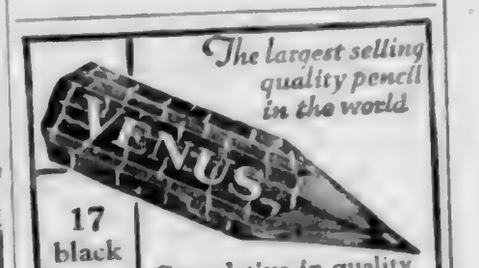
Plans have been completed for the annual skating party, which will be held at Chiott's on February 16. The feature attraction will be staged by Miss Phillips, who will do fancy and stunt skating.

Skating classes have scored a greater success this winter than ever before. Not only have a greater number of experienced skaters attended, but many novices have come out with the determination to become proficient in the sport.

HEALTH COUNCIL NOTES

It is the opinion of the House Directors in general that the chief cause of illness among the women students is due to immoderate eating between meals. This would not be so bad if the proper things were eaten at such times. Fruits of all kinds, especially dates, figs, and oranges, are beneficial and are required for a healthy diet. But constant munching of candy, cake, and other sweets, keeps the digestion continually upset. There is a general strain on the entire constitution so that such persons are much more liable to colds and grippe. Eat properly at meal times; then if you are hungry in between times, buy fruit instead of harmful sweets.

Modernism in Valentines



"To my sweet pickle."—"Will you be my cucumber?" were the vogue in beautiful sentimental valentines last year, and now in 1927 we have remarkable advertisements of Black Jack, and Wrigley's well-known chewing gum! What next? Undoubtedly the beloved Saint would be terribly shocked could he look down and see all the pretty(?) valentines, and the still more astonishing verses attached to them.

The other day, I saw a couple of college people, male and female, deeply engrossed in a counter display at the ten-cent store. Curious to know the object of their study, I went closer, and they were buying valentines!

Western Union advocates telegraphic valentines with such appropriate verses as: "The hills of life I wouldn't mind, I'd trip along so free, if you would be my Valentine, and think as much of me."

imaginable, marched by the delighted spectators.

But alas for "June Training'" In the small hours of the night, when all were in the arms of Morpheus, some boisterous fellows sneaked up stealthily, loaded with an enormous [illegible] an ancient custom and caused it cease to the end. Mrs. Lad[illegible] long fuse they ran off. There was a flash, and a roar which resulted in the Mt. Mansfield to the Adirondacks, and a shower of frightened white-robed students came pouring out of the Mill to find out whether it was a meteor storm or an earthquake that had so rudely awakened them. "Prexy" and the "Profs" ran wildly about, stumbling over each other in the darkness, trying to find out what nobody knew: "Who caused the disturbance?"

The next day the Faculty published an edict forbidding all "June Training," for they considered the disturbance of the night before to be a direct result of it, and the students spent the rest of the day putting newspapers over the holes in the windows where two hundred panes of glass had been smashed by the shock of the cannon's report.

However two years later they tried to start the custom up again with the result that six students were expelled and many were suspended. Then and there "June Training" died. Requiescat in pace.

FENCING IS BECOMING AN ESTABLISHED SPORT

Over 15 Men Report Regularly to Coach Allison for Practice and Instruction

About fifteen men are reporting [illegible] and fencing class directed by Lieutenant Allison of Fort Ethan Allen. The class has been held three times a week since early in December and the men are developing very well. Among those who look promising are [illegible] Birchall '27; T. F. Rich '28; and M. L. Munn '29. With these and other promising material Lieutenant Allison should be able to shape up an excellent team. The outlook for fencing as a permanent sport of Vermont seems quite favorable.

The class is divided into a primary and advanced section. In the primary section the fundamental movements are taught. As soon as the student is able to go through all of the movements without making a single mistake he is given practice in bouts. The students in the advanced section have practice bouts between themselves and with the instructor. At the present time the class is being held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p. m., and on Wednesdays at 4 p. m.

PROFESSOR BENNETT TO DIRECT CHAPEL CHOIR

The organization of the new chapel choir will be made under very auspicious circumstances, since Vermont is fortunate enough to have a musician of Mr. Bennett's renown and genius to supervise and direct the work. With the advantages then that many a metropolitan choir would exchange, a choir is under process of formation. Under Mr. Bennett's able supervision, it will have an educational and artistic as well as religious function similar to the plan of many other universities. The works of the great composers and those of modern Russian composers will be used.

The choir, which will be limited to twenty-five members, both men and women, will sing at the weekly Wednesday service and occasionally at the Vesper Service. It assumes a professional aspect since both rehearsal and choir time of the student singer will be paid for by the university.

Although tryouts have been held for the various parts, another opportunity will be offered this afternoon at the Music Building from 4:00 to 4:30 P. M. If anyone is unable to tryout at that time, they should phone Mr. Bennett immediately for a later appointment.

"Why do they always give a shower for a girl who is going to be married?"

FAST CONTESTS OCCUR AS FRATERNITY MEN PLAY FOR TROPHY

Three more games in the interfraternity basketball tournament were run off Tuesday night. As it looks now there is going to be some fast competition for the cup donated by Key and Serpent.

The game between the Sigs and the Iron Eggs went to Sigma Phi in an overtime period by a score of 26-23. The game was hotly contested all the way. Beer and Conway starred for Sigma Phi, while Bernstein and Rosenthal did fine work for the losers.

Another closely contested game came off between Kappa Sigma and Sigma Alpha Chi. This game went to the Kappa Sigs by a 26-18 score. The Kappa Sigs led all the way thru but the scrappy Sig Alph team put up a fine fight. Chadwick played a nice game for the Kappa Sigs while Valenti and Mackay did nice work for the Sig Als.

The game between the Independents and the Sigma Deltas went to the Independents to 24-11 count. Hammond and Bjorn did the big scoring for the Independents. Knapp was the mainstay of the Sigma Delts.

H. O. DRESSER WILL BE COACH OF GREEN AND GOLD BASEBALL TEAM

New Diamond Mentor Has Enviable Record and Wealth of Experience

[illegible] (Hank) Dresser has been appointed coach of the Catamount Baseball team, it was officially announced today by Graduate Manager Harold A. [illegible]. For some time it has been rumored that the Athletic Council had signed Dresser, this morning's announcement clears any doubts.

For the past two years Dresser has been connected with the coaching staff in the capacity of assistant coach. He has been line coach of football and assistant to Ray Collins in directing baseball team. Besides his coaching here, Dresser has also been instructor in physical education.

Has Enviable Record

Beginning his baseball career with the Kansas Aggies in 1912, Dresser became captain of the baseball team in that college in his senior year. In 1916 and 1917, he took a two-year course at Springfield College.

Dresser has also participated in professional baseball. During 1913 and 1914 he played with and managed the Iola team, Kansas semi-professional club which won the championship of Kansas both years. In 1915, he played with the Spokane, Wash., club of the Northwestern League.

Following the war, the American Thread Company of Southbridge, Mass. secured the services of Dresser as manager of the team, he won the Massachusetts Industrial League championship in 1919 and finished his season a second place the following year. In 1921, Dresser played with the Albany, N. Y. team of the Eastern League.

Has Pulled Teams from Cellar Positions

Under the management of "Hank" Dresser, the Norton Grinding Co. team of Worcester, Mass. climbed from cellar position to second place. Dresser piloted the team on July 5. A similar comeback was staged under Vermont's tutelage when the Halifax, N. S. baseball team climbed from last place to first place. The team was in the cellar position when Dresser was appointed on June 30, 1924.

Successful High School Coach

In the line of coaching, besides his two years at Vermont, Dresser has gained an enviable reputation. He coached the Abilene, Kansas High School teams in 1915. The high school were champions of the Central Kansas High School League.

While the Springfield Tech High of Springfield, Dresser placed his schools at the top of the New England high school baseball teams. His team won the year for the first place in the Connecticut Valley League.

Dresser Teams Finish High

So far Coach Dresser's baseball teams have never finished lower than second place in any league which they have been connected with. With such a background, the hopes of Vermont's fans is at a high pitch.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS WORLD FAMOUS TENOR

Signor Mario Cappelli, world celebrated tenor, delighted a capacity audience with his singing at the Christ-Episcopal Church last Wednesday evening. He was accompanied by Chester Cook.

[illegible] grand opera and folk-songs were sung by Signor Cappelli, who in addition rendered several negro spirituals in a delightful manner. He spoke about his experiences among the negroes in North Carolina, and helped interpret some of his songs with anecdotes from his own life.

Several piano solos were played by Mr. Cook, who showed himself to be a master of his instrument. The audience was enthusiastic and both musicians were encored again and again.

Mr. C. W. Norton, instructor in Civil Engineering, has returned to his work at the University after a protracted period of illness.

PROF. MOWER SPEAKS AT COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

Wednesday evening Prof. E. C. Mower addressed the members of the Cosmopolitan Club on the Nicaraguan situation. Prof. Mower has subject with his usual force and insight. Prof. Mower gave a very enlightening exposition of our present relations with Nicaragua. The meeting which was held at the Vermonters' Club on Summit Street, was well attended, there being a few townspeople present in addition to the students.

Since the organization of this Club the interest in international subjects has rapidly increased. The name International Club was assumed for a short while but it is now known as The Cosmopolitan Club. Anyone interested in this form of discussion is invited to be present at the meetings.

SENIORS DEFEAT WORLD COURT ISSUE IN DEBATE

In a Senior debate that was lacking in oratory and clever reasoning the negative won in a controversy over the proposition "Resolved That the United States Should Join the World Court." The debate was held at the Science Hall last Friday afternoon before an audience of seniors.

F. S. Devine '27, leader of the negative was easily the best speaker. He marshalled his case in such a way that the result was decisively in the negative's favor. His colleagues were J. Shapiro and J. F. McGaughan. The affirmative consisted of O. S. Orton, V. K. Johnson and E. L. Boyce.

Speech is the temple and altar of persuasion. Euripides

Conn. Aggies Lose to Vermont in Most Exciting Contest of Year

Final Score 31 to 16—Prentice and Post Play Star Game at Forward Positions—"Bunny" Scores 18 Points or Enough to Defeat the Aggies Single Handed—Marvin Shines on Defense—Williams Stars for Aggies

In one of the most exciting games seen on the Vermont floor in a long time the Green and Gold quintet turned back the last Connecticut Aggies Saturday night by a 31 to 16 score. The game was nip and tuck all the way. During the first half the lead seesawed back and forth with first Vermont and then the Aggies on the long end. The defense of both teams was as near perfect as ever seen in the Vermont gym especially the five-man defense that the Vermont strong arms cast the floor for the greater part of the first half. During the last part of the first half Vermont forged ahead on a series of long shots and chalked up a lead of 14 points before the gun went off ending the period.

The second half was much faster than the first. With Vermont ahead by a pretty good margin the Aggies started to uncork some long shots that brought the house down. They broke up their tight five-man defense and took man for man in an attempt to obtain possession of the ball. This proved quite a task for the Aggies as not any of them were as tall as Doc Marvin and wherever he was the ball was sure to be. Time after time Saturday night the Aggies would take the ball up the floor and shoot and miss and Doc would take the ball off the backboard and start it up the floor for another score.

The stellar work of Williams at guard for the Aggies was worthful to watch both on the offense and the defense. He is one of the fastest guards for his size that the Vermont fans have watched in a long time. His long heaves from the side court probably brought back to the minds of the fans the playing of Cayward two seasons ago. Schofield at forward for the visitors also looked good in his offense work, particularly his ability to take the ball up the floor with about three Vermont men all trying to take it away from him. His playing was much the same style as that of Makolski of Union, who gave the fans such a thrill last year by his wonderful dribbling.

Another factor which makes Vermont's victory all the more remarkable is the fact that the Green and Gold quintet was forced to play without the services of its star guard, Kitt Price who underwent an operation yesterday morning. "Kit" Moodie, who took Price's place, played a wonderful game, however, and strange as it may seem, the Vermont teamwork went along as smooth as if Price were playing at his old position. Moodie held his man, Eddy, to one basket and also rung in a twin-counter from center court which tied Vermont with the visitors after about five minutes of play.

Post found his old eye again Saturday night and he sure did ring up the twin counters from all positions. He must have a grudge against the Aggies as he is always at his best when Vermont faces them on the court. Although he was removed on personals the first part of the second half he succeeded in piling up 9 points for Vermont before he was forced to withdraw.

Prentice, who thus far this season has been high point man each game, must have got peeved when he saw "Archie" piling up the points and so not to be outdone Prentice started

E. D. Drew Chairman of Investigating Committee—M. V. Taylor Elected Secretary of Organization

MEMBERS FAVOR ACTION

The advisability of publishing a literary publication at the University of Vermont was discussed by the Pi Delta Rho honorary journalistic society at their meeting last Thursday evening. The society met at the Phi Delta Theta House. There was considerable discussion in favor of a literary magazine but no agreement was reached on how the object was to be achieved. Following the discussion J. B. Phelps president of the society appointed a committee to look into the matter. E. D. Drew '27 was made chairman of the committee and with him will serve C. H. Stevens '28 and F. A. Lucchina '28.

M. V. Taylor '28 was elected secretary to fill the position left open by the resignation of W. R. Deane '27. Other business brought before the society was the matter of taking a picture for the Ariel. The society voted to have such a picture taken the following Saturday at Hyde's Studio. The matter of having various organizations whose members are elected to the society furnish the keys of the society was brought up for discussion. A committee consisting of A. C. Hayworth and W. F. Reagan was appointed to investigate the possibilities of following this idea.

A regular meeting of the society will take place the first Thursday in March at the Owl House. At that time the committees will report. It is also expected that an honorary member of the fraternity will address the meeting on the possibilities of publishing a literary magazine at Vermont.

CHOIR NOTICE

Additional tryouts for the University student choir will be held in the Music Building, 85 South Prospect, from 4 to 4:30 P. M., and from 4:30 to 5 P. M. Tuesday February 15 and from 4 to 4:30 P. M. and 7 to 7:30 P. M. Wednesday February 16. Men and women singers are especially desired, tenors, baritones and bass. The choir will sing every Wednesday morning occasionally on Sunday afternoons and will rehearse twice a week. Members will receive an honorarium of 50 cents for each service and rehearsal. Music will be chosen from the master pieces of sacred choral music.

CUPS AND CAKES ARE ON DISPLAY AT RODDY'S

An audience vote on both stunts and kake walkers will be taken at the Friday night performance of the 20th annual Kake Walk. The directors of the event have announced that a score card will be included in the Kake Walk program. The card will be identical with that used by the judges. After the event, the audience will be given an opportunity to hand in their score cards to the management. Consideration of the audience's judgment will be made in determining the winner of events. This feature is novel in the history of Kake Walk. It is a departure from the policy of Kake Walk directors for the past 20 years. The directors wish to emphasize the fact that an audience vote will be count only on Friday night.

No Classes Saturday

There will be no classes held on Saturday morning. At that time movies pictures of the best stunts will be taken in the Baseball Cage. All the cake walkers will be given an opportunity to appear before the camera. The pictures of Kake walk will be released and shown in many large cities throughout the country.

Tickets for the Kake Walk are fast being sold out. The Saturday night performance is especially popular, nearly all the tickets for that night are now sold. On Friday night a block of the seats will be reserved for the high school seniors who will be the guests of the University during Kake Walk. Arrangements for the entertainment of the sub-freshmen are being completed by a committee headed by Nahin Abell '28.

Prominent Men to Judge

Not all the judges for the Kake Walk have been picked. As in previous years the judges will be men prominent in the State of Vermont. A complete list of the judges will be printed in the next issue of the Cynic. Although the audience is to vote on Friday night there will also be a board of judges.

The large cake for fraternity stunts and the small cake for the winning cake walkers will be displayed in the P. F. Roddy store on Church Street next week. The big cups for the winning stunt and procession entry and the Boulder cups for the best kake-walkers will also be displayed there. Tickets may now be secured at the Roddy store.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE BY KEY AND SERPENT TO AMUSE SUB-FROSH

The Key and Serpent Society has completed arrangements to entertain the sub-freshmen at the University Friday, February 18. The society is making special efforts to give the prospective Vermont students a good time during Kake Walk. The visitors are to have the use of the city Y. M. C. A. and are to be accommodated over night at the fraternity houses and Converse Hall.

Each high school senior in Vermont has received an invitation to Kake Walk from Nahin Abell, secretary of Key and Serpent society. Provisions have been made for all students who have accepted invitations.

Good Key and Key and Serpent men will meet all trains Friday. The sub freshmen on presenting their admission cards will be given tags and escorted to the fraternity houses where they are to stay.

At six o'clock they will be entertained at a banquet at the Sherwood Hotel. Speakers from the faculty of the University and the student body will be present. After the banquet they will go to Kake Walk. Saturday morning they will be given an opportunity to look over the University.

Would to heaven you were as chary of your words as of your deeds!

A LITERARY PUBLICATION

We are glad to see that the Honorary Journalistic Society, Pi Delta Rho, is functioning so actively, and we congratulate its members upon their activity and initiative regarding a literary publication on the campus.

It has been suggested that the Cynic serve the purpose of both literary magazine and newspaper. It is hard to combine the two, however. At odd times when news is scarce a story might be published but we would hardly want to cut out college news to make place for literary effort however worthy it may be. And were we to get out special literary issues apart from the news sheet the one finance would present difficulties. Furthermore, the idea is entirely out of keeping with that of a newspaper.

From time to time various efforts have been made along this line, but they never have had sufficient backing; and soon disappeared with the graduation of their promoter, if not before. An organization, such as the Honorary Journalistic Society should be able to put the project across and undoubtedly it will, if the students deem it worthy of their support. It would seem that the needed support is largely financial which presupposes favorable sentiment for the idea. Short stories would be in demand for considering our English department with its short story courses there is good reason to believe that sufficient material is available.

Judging the reactions already made to the Delta Rho and student opinion about the idea the Cynic will foster any literary project that may be started until such time as it shall have gained enough recognition to be issued as independent publication.

The Burlington Theater Club has announced itself as full minds of local people and offers students as an organization of no little talent and therefore a perfect right to the University to take pride in the work of this society. Those who saw "The Importance of being Earnest" know that many faculty and graduates of the college showed real ability, and there is no doubt that they set a good example for the undergraduate college players.

The Czecho-Slovak Ministry of Education offers five scholarships for men and women, who desire to study in that country. Applications must be in the hands of the Institute of International Education of New York City by March 1.

THE VOTE

The new feature of payment voting introduced by the Kake Kalk directors this year will undoubtedly take on much interest and may prove a fairer means of making the great decision. [illegible] The men of Kake Walk should be the ones and entrusted the greatest number of people possessing such an honor to a group of men who are by many cases not in possession of a college diploma.

Just as governmental power affects the interest of a people so it is hoped now and added interest will be caused for the Kake Walk performance. It will present a decision the entire decision may in future years be left to the popular vote

It has been suggested by a few pessimists that this system will put competition in the way of fraternity [illegible]. This is very improbable however, viewing the spirit of Kake Walk, and is highly impracticable Popular government has never been perfectly workable and yet it is the choice of the people and accordingly we should not be too critical of the newly inaugurated plan.

CHAPEL SENTIMENT

With the commencement of Chapel services there is a new atmosphere settling over the campus, indefinable, perhaps somewhat uncertain and incomprehensible, yet very real and present.

There was undoubtedly much rejoicing when Chapel services were discontinued owing to the lack of seating room. Such a feeling is bound to accompany the release from any compulsion. But as time has gone on there has been in the minds of many a sense of something lacking. Perhaps there are not many of us who look forward to the compulsory chapel certainly few admit it, yet there is very little real antagonism expressed and much interest is indirectly shown.

The student body seems to appreciate the privilege of so fine a building in which to meet and also feels that the authorities will be reasonable in the requirements laid down. With this spirit it would seem that the Ira Allen Chapel is in truth a blessing and not as many had feared it would be, a white elephant.

We will be interested to see how the new baseball coach fits into the situation at Vermont. He has had much valuable experience, unquestionable ability, and knows something of the existing conditions here, yet a great deal will be expected of him by old admirers of Keady and Collins.

POMINENT MEMBERS OF VERMONT SOCIETY MEET

Miss Jean W. Simpson, chairman of the reception committee announced at the annual dinner of the New York City Vermont Society that the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the State will be celebrated, February 28 at the Hotel Plaza. Among the native Vermonters who will speak are Prof. Byron S. Hurlbut of Harvard, Judge Frank L. Fish, Dr. Charles L. Davis, Henry S. Warder, Walter C. Love, president of the society. Any Vermonters not members of the society are at liberty to attend.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Since [illegible] has taken upon [illegible] the Council of editorship the "Campus Comment" I consider it my duty as a patron to submit his second [illegible].

This weekly [illegible] may be small and quite [illegible] a task, a "plot in [illegible] Corner" [illegible] the undeniable fact remains that [illegible] present hour to the most confirmed grouch, even the most confirmed pessimist must admit we deserve at least one-half of a page in the Cynic.

But did our friend look as deeply into the matter as he might have? Was it not only a few weeks ago a young man of the junior class was heard to remark that his first interest lay in the "Campus Corner"? Is this a poor recommendation for our section?

The Cynic, with the exception of the page under discussion, may be perfect, but if one takes into consideration the length of time the men of the University have taken to attain this end, is it not perfectly legitimate to expect that nothing short of this perfection be produced?

We, as women, realize we are not superior beings, but we hope in time to acquire what we lack!

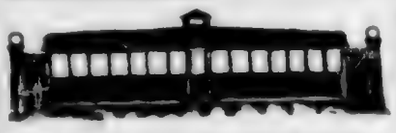
Intercollegiate News

In a recent basketball game between the girls' team of Kingston High School and Warwick, New Jersey High School, Miss Dorothy Compston of the latter school made forty-nine baskets. Miss Compston, who is a senior, made twenty-four baskets from the floor in the first half and twenty-five in the second half. Can anyone beat that?

Drexel Institute, which has shot matches with the Vermont Girls Rifle Team for the past few years, is the first college to form a girls pistol team. Their first match resulted in a victory for them over the team o Michigan State College.



Next winter, Norwich University plans to hold a Vermont School Hockey Tourney according to present plans announced recently by Dewey Graham, coach of hockey. Promotion of the ice sport in Vermont is one of the principal objects held in mind by the Norwich athletic authorities in attempting to bring together schoolboy hockeyists of the Green Mountains.

The last issue of the Maine Campus was edited entirely by members of the faculty. Coaches wrote the athletic stories, student news was reported by deans and faculty members. Former newspaper men connected with the faculty were among the board of editors for the issue.

Middlebury appears to be the leader in hockey among the Vermont colleges with Vermont rapidly endeavoring to come to the top. The Cadets did not take up the sport until this year but now are in favor of it.

COLLEGES WILL MEET TO DISCUSS ATHLETICS

Representatives from Norwich, Middlebury and Vermont Discuss Scouting, Schedules and Better Relations

MEETING IS IMPORTANT

Representatives from Norwich, Middlebury and Vermont are to meet at the Hotel Vermont March 1. At this meeting athletic relations between the colleges will be thoroughly discussed. It is expected that ap roposition about the abolishing of scouting will be brought before the conference. Schedules for all sports between the colleges will probably be discussed. Some agreement will probably be reached so that the three institutions will co-operate in arranging for trips for out-of-state teams so that better teams may be given the opportunity to come to Vermont state.

This meeting marks a step toward athletic cooperation between the colleges of this state. The problems to be discussed are of vital interest to the students and supporters of the three colleges. For Vermont Coach MacAvoy, Graduate aMnager Mayforth, and Dr. Aldinger, head of the Athletic department may act as official representatives. The other colleges are to be represented by their coaches and athletic directors.

DEAN PATTERSON GIVES TEA AT ROBINSON HALL

On Wednesday, February 9 at Robinson Hall Miss Patterson entertained the officers of Student Union and the House Residents at a dinner given in honor of Miss Hunt who was the speaker for the Women's Convocation Thursday afternoon.

JOHN MINOT TO SPEAK BEFORE BLUESTOCKINGS

John Clair Minot, literary editor of the Boston Herald and prominent lecturer on current literature, will speak under the auspices of Bluestockings directly after the Easter vacation.

Mr. Minot has been literary editor of the Boston Herald for the past seven years, after having been one of its editorial writers for the preceding ten years. His Wednesday and Saturday book pages have become one of the most popular features of the Herald and have brought him more and more invitations to lecture before various organizations—women's clubs, men's clubs, college clubs, associations of teachers and community forums all over New England. For the past four years the number of these engagements has run to more than a hundred each season. Last season fully half of his engagements were with organizations that he had visited from one to four times. Before the season closed he had twenty such engagements for next year.

Mr. Minot is a graduate of Bowdoin College, which conferred upon him the honorary degree of Litt. D. He has been a member of the Board of Overseers since 1913 and is past president of its Boston Alumni Association. Before coming to the Herald he had been in turn an editor of the Kennebec Journal and of the Youth's Companion. He had also done much writing and public speaking. For several years he has conducted a department on books in "The Open Road."

Amunsden, the arctic explorer, with the league behind him raised money, took ships, sailed to Vladivostok in Russia and did that which no nation alone could do, but that which was accomplished when all cooperated, liberated the refugees of many nations imprisoned in Siberia.

The League also alleviated a terrible situation in Greece. As a result of the Greco-Turco Treaty, the Greeks in Turkey left Turkey for Greece, and the Turks in Greece left Greece for Turkey. Many of these refugees came to Greece without so much as a pocket handkerchief, but the League had anticipated the situation and relief was sent at once.

Miss Hunt, having told what the league is really doing, vividly described the meeting of the assembly. This is an assembly of the representatives of the 57 nations which are members of the league. It meets every year in September in the Glass Room. In the front of the room around a long table sit the members of the council, behind each man's chair stands his secretary ready to hand him the needed paper. On each side are the interpreters who in the most marvelous way repeat the words of the speaker in English or French, those being the two languages commonly understood. Also on each side are the experts ready to supply any fact, along any line, when needed. The rest of the main floor of the room is filled with delegates from the nations of the world. While outside every building is covered with waving flags, the flags of 57 nations, but the stars and stripes are not in sight.

FRATERNITY RUSHING CULMINATES SATURDAY

Pan-Hellenic has adopted a system of rushing this year. The ... system of lessening the pressure ... the last week before all pledges ... pledged the classes. As a result the ... last Saturday it will be possible for ... who are in town for basketball ... to be with their chapters at ... time.

Parties have been held during the past week and will continue until February 11, when bids will be sent out. Silent period starts Wednesday night at 10 P. M. and lasts until bids are sent out.

Each fraternity places its bids in the hands of a lawyer. Through him notices are sent to all girls who are bid by one or more fraternities. The girls state that they have received a bid from some fraternity, names of bids and names of fraternities are not mentioned and requests that the fraternities of her choice in order of preference. The girl takes the paper to the Dean's office before Friday at five o'clock where they are opened and returned to the lawyer in charge by messenger.

BLUE STOCKINGS URGES MEMBERS TO ENDEAVOR

Since the principal function of Blue Stockings is a literary one its president is at present advocating the carrying out of the letter of the law. The chief reason for such a radical view probably lies in the fact that the field of endeavor is nearer home just now than otherwise.

For with the Theater Club of Burlington offering a prize for a one act play, it is certainly within the scope of Blue Stockings' members to try one. Each member should attempt a one act play, which will be submitted at the next meeting at the club, if not directly turned in with Theater Club Contest intentions.

HEALTH COUNCIL NOTES

At this particular time of the year there is a great deal of grippe and colds prevalent on campus. Such diseases are contagious and one of the places in which they spread most rapidly is in the dormitory. It would be the best thing for everyone concerned if when anyone has a cold, her good friends would stay away from the room instead of continually coming in to entertain her. It is in such ways that disease is spread and the percentage of colds rapidly increased. It is the opinion of the house directors that most colds are caught from visiting afflicted people than from any other source. Let's make a special effort this year to prevent the spread of colds and grippe by staying away from everyone having them and thus promote better health in our University.

Old Grad Describes Chapel Services of Three Quarters of Century Ago

Reminiscences of Daily Chapel by "Onondan College Boy" Printed in the Cynic of 1896 Gives Interesting Comparison with Prospective Chapel Services

[illegible] had spent a good part of the study hours (7 to 9) and later on other matters than study. And even men who had prepared their lessons the night before, sometimes wished to refresh their memories a little just before appearing in the lecture-room.

Changes After the Sixties

Not long after this—in the late sixties—morning prayers came to follow breakfast, then Sunday evening devotions were abolished, then those of Sunday morning, then finally evening prayers were abolished altogether. For a good many years now, as I am informed, instead of calling the students together fourteen times a week, as in the old days, by bell, once a day, requires attendance only at six mornings. And it strikes an old boy as a very strange thing that not a few of the students are reported to object to this minimum requirement. To us the time-honored regulation always seemed just and wise. It was the rule everywhere—a rule assumed to be justified both in reason and by long experience.

Evening Worship

Most grateful to me in the retrospect however is the hour of evening worship. The date was then always signed by the President a sheet of solid foolscap of decent print, a very father to the young men. I can hear even now his good, firm, vibrant voice as he read from the Holy Word. We felt that he believed it every syllable, and his faith made its impression on every listener. And when he came to speak of thanks and our confessions and to entreat for us the divine forgiveness and the continuance of daily mercies we felt as if a parent were pleading for his sons. We knew the great father's heart of the good book, and we doubted not that his prayer at least rose with acceptance.

I am sure the service was helpful to the major part of the students. We were instructed, soothed, restrained, encouraged by the Word of God and prayer. Ten minutes twice a day never seemed too much to give to special thought on the eternal (always present) realities. Nor did the fact that attendance on these exercises—and at church on Sundays as well—was required, seem to deprive them of any part of their intrest or fruitfulness.

DEMOLAY BEAT FROSH IN BASKETBALL GAME

Last Wednesday night, the Frosh Basketball Team opened their home season with a defeat at the hands of the local DeMolay Five. The game started slow and it was several minutes before the first tally was made by the DeMolay. Wallace caged the only point for the Frosh in the first half, making the score 8-2 with the DeMolay leading at the end of the first half. At the beginning of the second half the Frosh staged a comeback but never during the game were they in the lead. Throughout the second half, the Mollies were three or four points ahead.

For the Frosh, Halligan put up a good game scoring six of his team's points. The whole DeMolay team worked well as a unit with P. Scutakes starring with five baskets from the floor, while Palmer and J. Scutakes put up a wonderful defensive game. In the last three games P. Scutakes has scored eighteen baskets and is the leading scorer of the team.

The line-up is as follows:

DeMolay

P. Scutakes, f.	5	0	10

VERMONT WINS FOURTH GAME IN STATE SERIES BEATING ST. MICHAEL'S

Game Characterized by Strongly Defensive Tactics of Both Teams—Moodie Is Star for Catamounts

Vermont continued her string of victories by defeating for the second time the St. Michael's quintet Thursday night, 19-11. After the first few minutes of play, during which neither teams scored, Prentice netted the ball on a brilliant follow-through shot. Post dropped in another for the Catamounts and twice more Prentice found the hoop. From the tap-off Post sank another and Prentice scored a point on a free toss. The score stood 11-0 when the Purple called time out. The Catamount defense was impenetrable and their offense dazzling. The "subs" were called on and Lyman, Morgan and Whitcomb entered the fray. The Green and Gold continued their eagle-eye shots, Morgan and Lyman connecting. Finally Perrotta scored the first tally for St. Michael's by a pretty heave from the side. Lyman dropped in another and the gun sounded, ending the half with Vermont on the long end of a 17-2 score.

During the second half the Vermont team passed the ball around at will, and could break through the Purple's defense with ease. The Catamounts had little desire to score and kept up their flashy passing around the floor. O'Brien scored for St. Michael's and for a short time the Purple team came out of their shell to score a few points, O'Brien and Kline counting. Vermont scored their lone basket of this half and with only a few minutes of play left the regulars were sent in. Neither team scored again and the game ended with the Green and Gold on the long end of a 19-11 score.

The game was much slower than the score would indicate. There were a few shining lights, however, Vermont's being Moodie, who, although the smallest man on the floor, showed that this did not handicap him. He was the only Catamount to play the entire game and anywhere there was action you would see the blond-headed Catamount in the middle. He was the main cog of the defense. Lyman played a good offensive game. Connally and Perrotta were the best of the Purple hoopsters.

This makes the fourth game of the State series that the Green and Gold has tucked away and it now looks as though the State basketball champs will be at Vermont again this year.

Next Tuesday evening the Frosh will face the K. of C. on the Cathedral surface. Last year the DeMolay broke even with the Crusaders and with practically the same team this year, winning from the Frosh, it looks as if the game Tuesday will be a hard fought affair, but the K. of C. have lost but one game on their home floor in two years.

SUB-FRESHMEN TO WITNESS KAKE WALK

Nearly Three Hundred High School Seniors in Town Today As Guests of the University

BANQUET TO BE HELD AT VAN NESS HOTEL

About 300 seniors from the high schools of the State are guests of the University of Vermont at the Kake Walk festivities. Gold Key men were appointed to receive the visitors and conduct them to the various fraternity houses and dormitories where they will be quartered for the night. Most of the sub-freshmen are to attend the performance of the Kake Walk this evening although those arriving too late will be given an opportunity to see the event tomorrow evening.

The early arrivals had an opportunity this morning to see a little of the serious side of college life by visiting the Old Mill and Billings Library during class hours. The city Y. M. C. A. has opened its club rooms to the sub-freshmen to use as their headquarters during the day. Quite a few of the visitors were entertained at the Y rooms at the corner of College and Church Streets.

Sub-Frosh Banquet

This evening at 5:30, the annual sub-freshman banquet will be held at the Hotel Van Ness roof garden. There the high school seniors will enjoy the gustatory festivities until 7:30, when Professor James Donahue, acting head of the Mathematics department will act as toastmaster. President Guy W. Bailey will address the sub-freshmen in person. Other speakers will be Forrest Kehoe, the Registrar of the University, and a member of the Bounder, senior honor society, who has as yet, not been chosen. Music will be furnished for the banquet by Lechnyr's Premier Orchestra.

Immediately after the banquet, the crowd of high school men will adjourn to the Gymnasium, where the Kake Walk will take place at 7:30. This evening they will constitute part of the first audience to participate in judging the stunts and Kake Walkers. After the performance they will return to the rooms assigned them upon their arrival during the day.

Upon arrival each sub-freshman was presented a copy of the current issue of the Cynic by the Gold Key men. The entertainment of the high school seniors is in charge of the Key and Serpent, junior honor society. The committee in charge consists of Sabin Snell '28 of St. Albans; J. J. Curran '28 of Florence, Massachusetts, and Robert Holden '28 of Bennington.

WINTER CARNIVAL PLANS RAPIDLY TAKING FORM

In addition to the regular snow events some unusual features are going to be offered at the coming Winter Carnival which will be staged at Redstone on Saturday afternoon, February 26. One of these is human scooring. Ski-joring will offer thrills and spills that even the most jaded fan only will anticipate but really enjoy.

The obstacle and suitcase races will undoubtedly prove as humorous and exciting to the onlookers as to the participants. Pictures of previous winter struggles are posted in the Y. Room and indicate the measure of fun to be had.

Of course the usual races and dashes will be the order of the day, as well as a class tug-of-war, and bonfire which promises to add color to the occasion.

Not the least important by any means will be the semi-annual awarding of college numerals, and other W. A. insignia to girls whose points aggregate the required amount for such distribution.

Interest in the carnival is keen the committees in charge report active cooperation on the part of all students, and the outlook for a successful affair is very promising.

Be not afraid; speak thou the truth, and then thou shalt not fail.

DEAN ORGANIZES NEW LITERARY WORKSHOP

Instruction and Criticism to be Given to Students Interested In Magazine Writing

To increase the interest in magazine writing Mr. Leon Dean of the English Department has attempted the supervision of a "Writers' Workshop" at Vermont. The purpose of the workshop is to instruct and criticize the student in preparation for a career of magazine writing. Every member of the aspiring group is requested to write daily articles or stories, with view of publication.

The points to be played up for publication are discussed by the members and Mr Dean. Mr Dean is an expert at criticism having studied magazine writing from all angles and has contributed to the columns of many publications.

Beginning at writing short articles the would-be authors are gradually brought up to the stage of short story writing. Each person is allowed to follow their own interest and write on subjects of their own choosing. They are advised that it takes many years to make an author but the goal is worthy of whatever effort they may put in.

At the present time 22 members are meeting once a week but it is presumed that the number will decrease in time. With a smaller group the individual attention necessary will be more easily given.

UNIVERSITY FOSTERS HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING IN STATE OF VERMONT

Twenty-eight Schools Form Membership of Interscholastic League—Winners Receive Scholarship

For the past few years much interest has been shown throughout the state in high school debating. Largely responsible for creating and stimulating this is the Vermont Interscholastic Debating League, an organization fostered by the University of Vermont, which now numbers among its members of twenty-eight high schools and academies of the state. The league has already begun to function this year: the executive committee consisting of DeForrest Barton, Superintendent of Schools at Essex Junction, who was again chosen president of the league; H. Dean Pearl, Supervising Principal of Burlington High School Secretary and Treasurer, and E. H. Clowse, Principal of Richmond High School selected as the subject for this year, "Resolved: That Congress should enact legislation embodying the principles of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. Constitutionality waived." Mr. Pearl has obtained bulletins from Washington dealing with this topic which he is sending to all the members of the association. The public speaking department of the University has offered to assist the debaters. With an interesting subject,

VERMONT LOSES CLOSE GAME TO ST. LAWRENCE

The Vermont hockey team lost to St. Lawrence by a 1-0 score in a hard fought game played on the latter's rink last Friday. The Green and Gold sextet played a great game and were only prevented from scoring by the excellent work of the St Lawrence goalie. During the first two periods the Vermont men had a decided edge over their opponents. Denning played an especially good game for the Green and Gold. Clark and Appleton starred for St Lawrence. The single tally of the game was made by Appleton in the final period when he scored on a follow up shot by Clark. The play was fast and clean throughout the entire game. The line up:

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZES THREE MINOR SPORTS

Wrestling, Fencing and Boxing Added to the List of Sports —Tentative Basketball Schedule Arranged

At the regular meeting of the Athletic Council last Monday afternoon it was decided to make wrestling, fencing and boxing minor sports at Vermont. Doctor Aldinger suggested the action after a year of investigation into the feasibility of the project. Dr Aldinger acted as chairman and Professors Carpenter and Butterfield were present. Professor Butterfield substituting for Professor Jenks who is on his sabbatical year. It was moved to have an eligibility advisor and Professor Donahue was selected to act in that capacity.

The Basketball Advisory Committee met on the same afternoon, consisting of Professor Carpenter, Dr. Aldinger, Manager Averill, Captain Marvin and Graduate Manager Harold A May forth. The tentative basketball schedule for next year was drawn up but cannot be released until all the participating teams have been heard from. It is expected that there will be two more home games next year than there were this season. An attempt has been made to get games with Dartmouth and Holy Cross, playing return games with each team. The U V M team will probably not enter the Yale tournament next year owing to the lack of sufficient funds.

FROSH BASKETMEN WIN TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

The Frosh started the week off right by turning in two wins on Monday and Tuesday, the first a victory over Battery B by a 59 to 32 score. In this game the boys had things pretty much their own way, the score at half time being 36 to 11. DeRose at guard turned in a high score for a guard with 6 baskets and a foul. Wallace at center was high point man with a total of 16 counters.

On Tuesday night the Frosh took on the K of C in the fastest game of the year. The score was nip and tuck all the way with the lead changing every other minute. The score at the end of the first quarter stood seven up at half time the Knights held a two point lead. At the end of the third quarter the Frosh were on the long end of a 22 to 20 score. During the last period they uncorked an offense that dazzled the Knights and piled up a 13 point lead before the gun went off ending the game.

There was no starring by any one in particular for the Frosh but they all played a hard game. Wallace was high point man again with 9 counters and Manning was not far behind with eight points. The final score stood 35 to 22 in favor of the frosh.

GRAND PEERADE IN TWO SECTIONS OPENS EVENT

Kake Walk the unique mid-winter show which has become a distinctive institution at the University of Vermont opens tonight for its thirtieth year. From an impromptu affair, which was put on in the winter of 1896-97 to take the place of the Military Hop promoted by Colonel Tuttle, the Kake Walk has evolved into a highly organized and permanent institution.

The history of the Kake Walk is novel and intensely interesting. The story of its evolution from a spontaneous affair to an annual show is intriguing. Perhaps the reason underlying the continued success of Kake Walk is the good natured competition between the various fraternities on the Hill. That competition has surely resulted in a high standard of production which no spontaneous show could maintain.

New features are being incorporated into Kake Walk as the years go by. Former Kake Walks occurred but once a year around Washington's birthday, but for the past few years there have been two performances on successive days. A feature called "Koon Kutups" was dropped in 1924.

This year, the Peerade, which opens the Kake Walk, will be in two sections. The first section will parade thru the Gymnasium floor at 7:30 p. m. this evening and tomorrow night. When the first section has come out of the Gymnasium, the second section will be introduced.

Tonight's Audience to Vote

A new feature which has been introduced this year, is the balloting on the stunts and Kake Walkers by the Friday evening assembly. There will be score cards in each program on which every member of the Friday night crowd is requested to vote. The ballots will be collected and counted. The vote of the audience will have some effect on the final results. The Kake Walk directors positively announce that there will be no audience vote on Saturday night, as the ballots could not be counted in time to announce a result. An announcement of the result of the audience vote will be made in the Cynic in the near future so that a comparison may be made with the results as announced by the board of judges. The list of judges which are to award the prizes will be found in another column on this paper.

Kake Walk Similar to Caul

Like Caul the Kake Walk is divided into three parts. There is the Grand Peerade, the Fraternity Stunts, and the strenuous Walking to do Kake.

The Peerade is the opening event on both nights. It will be marched through the Gymnasium in two sections as has been noted before. In the Peerade clever take-offs on current topics of interest will be relied upon to gain the Wright cup, which is awarded the winner. An honorable mention will also be given by the judges. The winners of all events will take place on Saturday evening after the performance.

Stunts and the Walking

A large cake and the possession of the Briggs cup is the basis for hot competition among the fraternities in the presentation of stunts. Eight fraternities are scheduled to put on stunts this year. The stunts consist of dramatic presentations, which are very elaborate at times. Last night the competing fraternities performed their stunt before a board of judges consisting of faculty members. The results of the eliminations have not been made known at the time the Cynic is going to press.

The final feature on both evenings will be the grand Walk for de Kake. Twelve couples representing the fraternities will each be given an opportunity to strut before the audience on the floor, while the crack University band is playing the "Cotton Babes."

How useless is learning, if you don't put your mind into your work!

TO THE SUB-FRESHMEN

In behalf of the student body we wish to extend a hearty welcome to the sub-freshmen. Many of us were introduced to this University in a similar way and in looking back upon the experience we have but one recommendation to make: see and [illegible] all that you can of and about the colleges while you are here.

Vermont has much more to offer a student than is sometimes realized by those about to decide which of the many colleges they shall make their alma mater. Tradition is one of the glories of every institution and Vermont abounds in it. The Old Mill, with its corner stone layed by Lafayette, the bell in the old tower that has announced Vermont's victories through all the years; the boulder that came to us in mysterious manner, the fountain on the campus. The history of the University and of the State is very closely connected and where the State has a rather remarkable past the students of her University have so much more of which to be proud. Our campus is recognized as one of the most beautiful in the country and is claimed by many to be second to none.

Though a relatively small institution, yet we have some very fine men on our faculty, men outstanding both in personality and in the knowledge of their respective fields. They are in general willing and ready to receive a student as a man and to work with him rather than as a mere professor who expounds knowledge. Certainly anyone interested in learning need seek no further after coming to this University, until he shall have graduated therefrom.

James: Sorry old man, that my hen hit Lizzie and scratched up your radiator.

Scott: That's all right, my dog ate your hen.

James: Fine! I just ran over your dog and killed him.—Wiff.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

What a fuss! And all over nothing. Why do you let two terriers like J M L K and E B splash so much ink and waste so much perfectly good space discussing whether or no the Co-ed's Page is as good as it should be? Of course it isn't, but why should paper be wasted crabbing about it. It (the Co-ed's Page) isn't worth it.

It does get my dandruff up though, to see (as it so happened a couple of weeks ago) the editor of "Co-ed's Corner" and two other different neophytes write in identically the same manner about identically the same thing. And tell me truly—do co-eds really read the kind of books that are reviewed there?

Why can't it be cut down to two columns, and those snappy quotations from Goethe, Euripides, Pluto, or whoever be left out. To me it seems the Co-eds, in a typical woman-fashion spend an awful long time and waste an awful lot of ink saying absolutely nothing at all.

In brief:—the Co-ed Page is tough, but if boiled down and not so covered with gravy would be lots better. It is inevitable that along with Co-eds we have a Co-ed's page. Troubles never come singly.

While we have it, and can't get rid of it, let's leave 'em alone, let them have their old page however unkept, unhonored and unsung it may be.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The Vermont hockey team in its short existence has developed remarkably. Whatever progress it has made, however, is due entirely to the active interest shown by a few men in this sport which is peculiarly adapted to our campus. The college body as a whole has given these men no encouragement or support. Vermont, like every other college which boasts of its athletic prowess, talks a great deal about loyalty, especially does it condemn the student who does not display this necessary quality. In the case of our hockey team, at least, it seems a matter of leaving it to the other fellow to show the much-lauded college spirit. However no obliging freshmen turn up at the rink to brave the cold and cheer on the team. We all get cold feet. Before we start criticizing the season's scores why don't we all prove our loyalty by actually going to a hockey game?

To the Editor of the Cynic:

I am not a religious fanatic nor do I particularly favor chapel services at the University, but in as much as we are to have them I do think that they should be put through in good form. At the service last Sunday afternoon there was one usher who caused much comment among the audience and who cast very poor reflections upon the University.

It hardly seems fitting that an usher should be attired in odd coat and trousers of different shades of gray, in light tan shoes and a yellow shirt and collar. Undoubtedly the student knew no better but there certainly must have been some one in charge of the ushers who should have prevented such a happening.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

In response to the complaint in the last issue of the Cynic regarding Pan-Hellenic and general complaints regarding the organization we would [illegible] to ask if this had been considered. The strength of any organization depends on the spirit and cooperation of its component parts. Two members from each group can do little [illegible] welfare if they [illegible] the support of all whom they represent.

As to the enforcing of rules, when a girl believes that someone has broken a rule it is her individual duty to report it to Pan-Hellenic. The majority of the Senior Committee live outside a dormitory or in a dormitory where there are no freshmen so they don't come in contact with them as much as others do and would consider it a favor if such things were reported to them.

If there is a feeling that the existing rules aren't satisfactory and if those who are crabbing would utilize their energy by drawing up a new plan to be used next year it would help the organization to carry on its work more successfully.

HEALTH COUNCIL NOTES

Among the prime requisites for a healthy diet everyone knows that vegetables must be included. But anyone who has eaten with a large group of people knows that a large percentage of them eat only a few vegetables and some eat none at all. It seems to be a characteristic of human nature never to like anything which is good for it and the above statement apparently bears this out. Many of the dislikes which we have for different foods are purely imaginary, leftover ideas from our childhood, or impressions based on one or two trials of a food. Due to the food values which are to be found in vegetables everyone should try to learn to eat them. If such an attempt is honestly made it is surprising how quickly one can learn to enjoy a food which they formerly would not touch. Let's all make it a point to eat at least one vegetable besides potato every day and more than one whenever possible.

CO-ED NONSENSE

Lights! And presto we have passed from the bowery to old feudal times, all in two minutes. Kake Walk's a great and glorious occasion! Even though it costs a lot, it's worth it. We can't try to recognize the Kake Walk. It's impossible!

The stunts are funny, to say the least. This is the only time during the year that we co-eds are supposed to look at the all-potent eds! And what a treat to us!

Oh, the thirteenth annual Walk-Kake promises to be the best yet. Why? Because everybody's going....to root for their favorite fraternity. But there's a drawback,—there always is, you can't have any of the Kake!

A Co-ed's Diary

Don't think I've forgotten you, little Diary, because it isn't the fact that you were neglected to tell the truth it was those hateful two weeks called mid-years that caused you to be blanketed for a time. But those are over now so let's have pleasant subjects. Such a scramble! Why does everything happen at once? Rushing among the co-eds, poor Freshman women don't know where they are and all those private conferences and whisperings in the halls of the Old Mill—my isn't it mysterious it fairly changes the whole atmosphere surrounding the campus. And then Kake Walk! Are you going and have you heard who is taking so and so? Basketball came to the center of the stage last week—my that game with the Connecticut Aggies was some swift. Hope that they'll often have wrestling matches' and 'Oh those naughty medics," etc., etc. Theatre Club put on a play "The Importance of Being Earnest." Evidently there are a few members of our faculty who will need lessons in the gentle art of prevaricating on the fair sex. One thing is sure, Mr. Carroll isn't going to have people sleep in his classes neither Eds nor Coeds. Valentine's Day seems very near, who could have said such a cute one but that other one a month ago. The Sophomore Hop was a great success for the last term—but we've heard that we can't have some place with a floor which is intended for dancing. The new Chapel arrangements were all passed off and if all the Vespers are as good as those last Sunday we will guarantee that the question of attendance will not be a troublesome one. Now on with the dance and next time, old dear, I'll try to remember you more regularly.

VESPER NOTICE

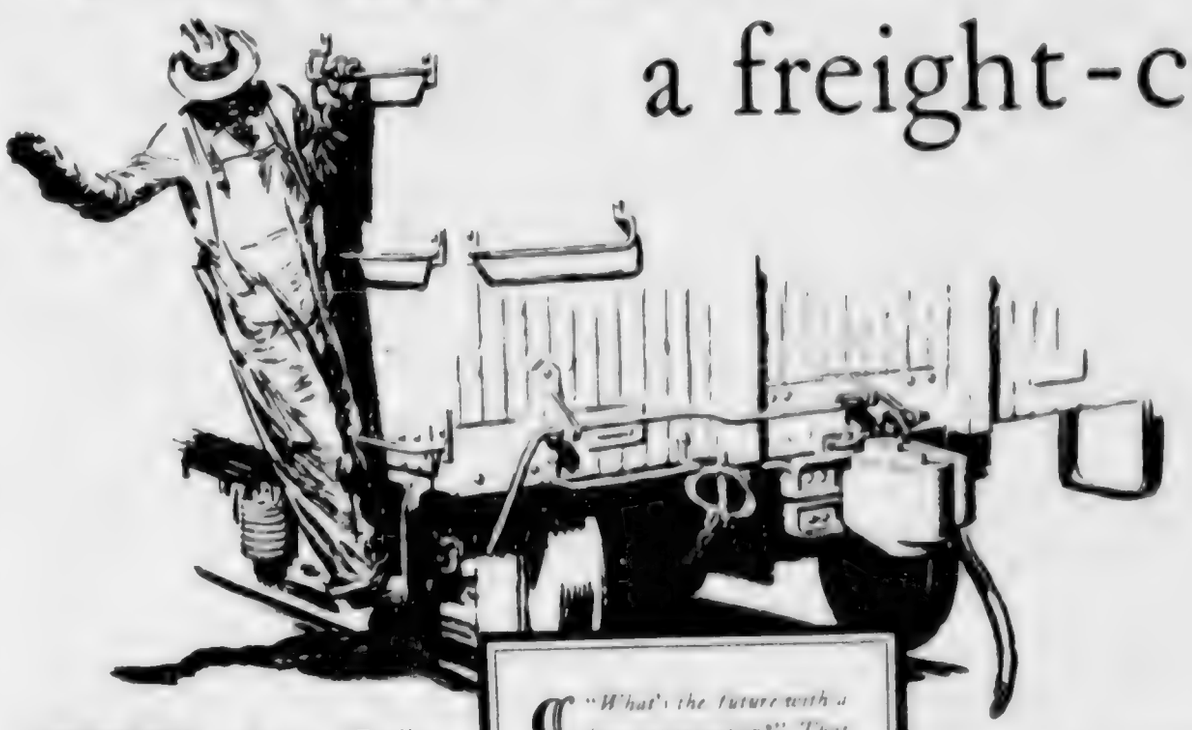
Twelve Years Have Changed the University of Vermont Many Ways

Twelve years have changed the University of Vermont in many ways. Much credit is due to Vermont's retiring president and the faculty for the co-operation in regard to enrollment and the colleges. In 1914 the total enrollment was a little over five hundred and last fall over twelve hundred were listed as students.



During these twelve years an extensive building program has also been carried out. The baseball cage was built allowing the members of the team to practice during the winter in preparation for their extensive southern trip. Centennial Field was improved, at the cost of more than $100,000, new football bleachers being installed and one of the largest college baseball grandstands in the East erected. James Wilbur contributed the latest addition of our college group in the form of the Ira Allen Chapel, a much needed and long felt want.

Vermont athletic program has also been developed with a director and efficient coaching in practically all [illegible]. Three years ago Vermont entered into an agreement with several other New England colleges in boycotting the one year rule, thereby separate Freshman teams and making it impossible for any player to play not having attended the institution for more than a half a year.

The marked increase in enrollment is exceptionally noticeable in the following statistics:

Year	Women	Men	Total
1914-15			560
1915			580
1916-17			615
1917-18	188	405	593

CORLISS A. BERCAW

WHEN Corliss A. Bercaw went down to the tracks to get facts for his thesis in 1918, he was only following a lifelong habit.

From the time he was old enought to delight in the shrill whistle of a locomotive, through his student days at California Institute of Technology, the most fascinating thing in the world to him was a railroad train.

It isn't just happy chance that, at 29, he is a Sales Engineer in the Transportation Division of the Westinghouse Company, at Philadelphia. And it was quite natural that Bercaw should have an important share in the negotiations involving one of the most revolutionary transportation developments of the century—the development of the gas-electric rail car.

This design provides locomotion within the passenger car itself. So on many branch lines locomotives can be discarded with great saving to railroad companies and with increased convenience to passengers.

But to perfect this new car required thorough cooperation between the Westinghouse and Brill Companies, whose engineers supplied, respectively, the electric generator and gas engine which, combined, give this car its practical advantages. Bercaw acted as a liaison man during this development stage, and now he is engaged in selling, among other things, these cars, representing the newest idea in railroad transportation.

When Bercaw entered the Graduate Students' Course at East Pittsburgh in May, 1919, he was fresh from college and naval aviation. His enthusiasm for railroading was not allowed to cool—he wasn't shunted into unfamiliar lines. For thirteen months he was a student in the Railway Shops. Then for six months in the General Engineering Department he learned how to apply Westinghouse Equipment to railroad needs. It was a logical step next to the Heavy Traction Division of the Sales Department at East Pittsburgh. And two and a-half years there landed him in his important work in Philadelphia.

To men who find a railroad train fascinating, Westinghouse opens a field that has unlimited opportunities for success.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know first of all. That question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of college graduates, off the campus some five—eighteen years.

The Catamount Lair

[illegible] Green and Gold Hockey team [illegible] although it has not yet entered its s[illegible] season has shown some fine work. [illegible] The sextet has played against veteran [illegible] teams which are much stronger and has put excellent showings against these fast opponents. Coach Dessautels is doing some fine work with this comparatively new sport and the prospects for another year seem bright. This year's team should be considerably stronger by another year. Bassow and Carr two first year men, are showing up very well and undoubtedly will show some great work next year. All of the veterans such as, Denning, Winchenbach and Woods can be counted on as the mainstays of the team. With these and probable newcomers Coach Dessautels should be able to stage a star sextet next year.

Fencing is becoming an established sport at Vermont. The class in fencing is under the direction of Lieutenant [illegible] of Fort Ethan Allen. The class is divided into a primary and advanced section. In the primary section the fundamental movements are taught. As soon as the student is able to go through all of the movements without making a single mistake he is given practice in bouts. The students in the advanced section have practice bouts between themselves and with the instructor. There are a number of men who look promising as candidates for the first varsity fencing team. Those who are showing up best at the present time are: C. H. Blackall '27, T. F. Rich '28 and M. E. Mills '27. With these and other promising material Lieutenant Allison will be able to shape a team which will be a credit to Vermont.

This season wrestling is being taught for the first time under the direction of Raymond Holtz M. '28. The college is fortunate in securing the services of a man with Holtz's ability and experience. He has been very active in wrestling circles in Hartford, Conn. There have been about 20 men reporting regularly at the wrestling class since early in December. The class is held three times a week. The men are doing very well. The exhibition last Saturday night of Damon and Foster and of Robinson and Crowley shows that we have excellent material for a college team. With these men and other good prospects Coach Holtz should be able to develop a crack wrestling team. It seems very probable that Vermont will soon be represented in intercollegiate wrestling in the near future.

HOCKEY TEAM TO PLAY TWO GAMES THIS WEEK ON LAST TRIP OF YEAR

Tuesday noon the hockey sextet left [illegible]ington for the last trip of the season. As yet the team has not turned in a win, but the members feel that they will bring home at least one victory and maybe two on this trip. On Wednesday they take on the fast Army sextet and according to all reports the game is going to be a scrap from start to finish for the Vermonters are going into this battle with the determination to win and by a good score. Last Saturday the sextet lost a much harder battle than the score (5 to 0) indicates. An eye witness to the game declared that it was the best and hardest fought battle that he ever witnessed, and since this spectator was none other than "Hank" Dresser this report ought to bear some weight.

On Thursday the team will play [illegible] whose team is rather an unknown quantity. They will probably put up a scrappy fight however and Vermont will have to travel some to turn in a win.

The line-ups for these two games will be the same as last week with Carr or Bassow at one of the wings and Schurman at the other. Wood will play center ice. Captain Denning and Winchenbach will hold down the defense positions.

PRELIMINARY TRAINING FOR BASEBALL MEN TO BEGIN AFTER KAKE WALK

Many Vacancies Due to Graduation of Last Year's Stars—Dresser to be Head Coach—First Game on April Second

With basketball season over half gone thoughts naturally turn to the next major sport baseball. Some of the men have already taken their equipment out of the closet corner and a few have been seen tossing the horsehide about the cage. With 27 games ahead and the first only six weeks away, the preliminary training is soon to begin. The general call for candidates will come February 23. A great number of prospects are looked to turn out. The team of last year is greatly weakened by the loss of Thompson, a catcher, Guild and Morse outfielders, and Randall, a first baseman. All positions in the outfield are open. Coach Dresser hopes that something of value may be found among the freshmen.

In checking up on material from last year the pitching staff, with Fogg, "Lefty" Shoppe, Moriarity, "Lefty" Roark and Talcott, is intact, but for the backstop position there is only Aronson and Winchenbach, neither of whom can be classed as real first string material. In the infield the keystone sack is the greatest worry with Prentice the only man now on the horizon for that berth. Second base will be ably taken care of by Jack Smith, who can also be used as a hurler, and short will be covered by Jackie Conway. There are two men from last year's squad to take care of the hot corner; Valenti and Morse, both snappy players, so that the competition for this position will be keen. The only real outfielder, "Bill" Morse, who was also captain of this year's nine, has left school thus leaving a large gap in left field. Although from last year's second team "Kiki" Price and Macomber, outfielders and Cogswell, an infielder, are due for a promotion.

The first game comes April 2, with Catholic University, on the southern trip, and with such strong teams as Dartmouth, Princeton and Holy Cross on the schedule, a strong outfit is needed this year.

"Hank" Dresser will be head coach of the varsity this year for the first time, and many are curious to see what kind of a team he will be able to develop. With the experience Coach Dresser has had, and some good material a fast nine should represent the Green and Gold on the diamond this spring. Vermont should be able to annex another State title, besides basketball and this should be of the baseball type. There will be plenty of stiff competition however, as both Norwich and Middlebury will have strong nines representing them. The Catamounts will have to fight hard to claw their way to the championship.

FAST CLARKSON TEAM DEFEATS CATAMOUNT ICEMEN IN HARD GAME

The Green and Gold sextet was defeated Saturday 5-1, in a fast game with Clarkson on the latter's rink. The Clarkson team is one of the fastest in the East, having victory over such teams as Army, N. Y. U., Syracuse and St. Lawrence, the last named by a 12-1 score. The play was fast from the start. Vermont had the edge for a few minutes but Clarkson soon opened up and scored three times during the first period. Vermont came back strong in the second period and scored after sensational work on the part of Winchenbach who passed to Wood who scored. The third period was a hard battle with neither team getting within scoring distance. Excellent work on the part of the Vermont goalie prevented scoring by Clarkson during this period; there were 32 stops made, some which seemed like sure goals. Denning and Winchenbach played excellent hockey for the Green and Gold while Wayland and McCartney were the stars for Clarkson. Line up:

NEW CLUB PLANNED BY UNIVERSITY FOR STUDY OF WORLD RELATIONS

Steps are being taken to organize an International Relations Club in the Arts College. The Club will be one of many similar groups established at various colleges and universities under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

For several years the Endowment as part of its program of education in the field of international relations has been encouraging the formation of such student organizations and promoting and directing their work. To this end the Endowment sends to each Club a selected list of the latest books on outstanding aspects of current international relations, together with a fortnightly summary of international events and other material useful in the work of the Club. This material will be available to club members at the library for use there. The National Secretary in charge of this branch of the Endowment's work aids in the preparation of study outlines and in securing material on special topics, on request.

The Club is open to graduate and undergraduate students especially interested in the study of international relations. Regular meetings will be held, at which topics of outstanding interest and importance will be discussed; due notice of the time and place of such meetings will be given.

a wealth of material, and expert advice, there should be some hotly contested discussions this winter among the state preparatory schools.

The Vermont Interscholastic Debating League is entering upon its third year of activity; it is open to any preparatory of high school standing, public or private, in the state. The league decides what teams are to meet, and has drawn general rules to govern the debates. A school may maintain two teams of three members each, a negative and an affirmative, or one team prepared to argue on either side; girls as well as boys may take part. The state is divided into districts, with five members of approximately the same size in each precinct. Thus each team debates four times for supremacy in its district; the decision is rendered on the merits of the debate, not of the question. The championship is decided on a point basis; the vote of each judge counts one, and the victory counts one. Then these district winners meet, and the two best teams are selected by straight elimination. The final debate is held at Burlington, sometime in May. Each member of the team awarded the decision at this time, including the alternate, is awarded a scholarship at the University of Vermont to cover full tuition for one year; to the runners-up are given scholarships for half of the tuition.

In 1925 Brattleboro defeated Bradford in the final debate. The subject under discussion was the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States. Last May Brattleboro was again a finalist, the team this time however upholding the affirmative of the question of the government ownership and control of coal mines, was defeated by the representatives of Goddard Seminary.

There's nought more beneficial to mankind than wise distrust.

"P. A." letters of recommendation

EXPERIENCED pipe-smokers from Cape Lisburne to Cape Sable (get out your map of North America!) recommend P. A. to you as the finest tobacco that ever lined the bowl of a pipe. You'll check-in with their recommendation.

Why, the instant you swing back the hinged lid on the tidy red tin, your olfactory nerve registers a fragrance like that of a pine-grove on a damp morning. And when you tuck a load of this wonderful tobacco into your pipe—say, Mister!

Cool as Cape Lisburne, mentioned above. Sweet as the plaudits of a first-night audience. Mild as morning in Cape Sable. (That's working-in the old geography!) Mild, yet with a full tobacco body that completely satisfies your smoke-taste. Buy some Prince Albert today and make the test!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bite of bite and sting removed by the Prince Albert process.

Vermont Professor Describes Visit to Danish Folk High School at Vejen

On Request, Professor B. Franklin Ladd Gives His Impressions Of the Secondary School System in Denmark

[illegible] High Schools are [illegible] and universal. They impress [illegible] with enthusiasm [illegible] is the result of knowledge [illegible] They they are able to [illegible] to the straightforward [illegible] and likewise [illegible] the present hysterical rush [illegible] text books.

[illegible] of the writer, the [illegible] of the student is the [illegible] element in his make-[illegible] The mental attitude with which [illegible] his studies will spell [illegible] or failure from the very out-[illegible]

[illegible] coming in our own [illegible] institutions of higher [illegible] will so be constituted that [illegible] will select his subjects and [illegible] with eagerness and joy.

[illegible] present moment we in Ver-[illegible] are particularly interested in [illegible] education for the farmer and [illegible] of the rural districts [illegible] is very well provided with [illegible] schools and innumerable colleges [illegible] universities, which are open primarily to a different social stratum. [illegible] rural citizen is still neglected in [illegible] At this fact it may be of interest to describe a successful system, which has worked out both in theory and in practice among the peasants of Denmark.

The Danish Folk High School, is the special destination given to the institutions which virtually bring the higher learning with all its attendant cultural advantages to the poor farmer boy or girl and even adult.

The Folk High School, which in the last analysis is a school home begins its semester the 3rd of November. Students take a train if coming from the direction of Copenhagen, westward bound for the quaint and picturesque little town of Vejen, where [illegible] the name of the particular Folk High School we visited, is located.

Arrived at Vejen, the students rush from the train compartments out on the little station platform, littered with baf and baggage. There is much confusion and excitement, this being for many the first trip away from home. Extricating ourselves from the throng we secure a bil (automobile): the average Dane however employs the bicycle as the most convenient and cheapest form of rapid transit.

Upon our arrival, we are cordially greeted by a teacher, who is waiting for us in the court yard, with a "Velkommen til Askov!"

Askov is the largest and most famous of the Folk High Schools. It is really the university or graduate school of the smaller high schools and is not unlike our colleges.

The buildings are simple and unpretentious grouped about in characteristic Danish fashion around a hollow square forming a courtyard enclosure.

The students are billeted throughout the village and with the married teachers each of whom is expected to have about twelve.

Here are altogether some hundred and fifty sturdy youths, all bent on securing a crude backless bench, which answers the purpose of dining chairs in vogue at most Danish Folk High Schools. Tea and smorrebrod, the latter one sided Danish sandwich are served. The plates, heaped with the delicious cold cuts, is passed around from one student to the other with the polite "vaere saa god" (if you please) and the equally polite response of "Tak" (Thank you). When the plates are empty they are stacked in order to help the maids. At the end of the meal the hostess, who is the wife of the principal concludes with a "Velbekomme." (I hope you have enjoyed the meal.)

We proceed next to the Store Foredragssal (the big lecture hall), a [illegible] square room, rather bare, containing some pictures of very prominent looking individuals, a platform with a table, a black board, some maps and rows of wooden benches complete the equipment.

The two brief talks of the evening, in the nature of a welcome are given to the new students, schedules distributed, questions asked and answered. They are then dismissed to their rooms for the first night's sleep.

At 7:30 the next morning, the men appear for their oatmeal and at 7:45 take part in the morning song. This service is voluntary, yet everyone seems to attend.

At 8:15 the bell rings for the first lecture. The newcomers go to the Store Foredragssal, the second year students to the smaller lecture room in the main building.

After the first hour of geography, we pass back through the campus, a little past nine. Classes are already assembled as one may gather from the various choruses arising. In Hvide Hus (Whitehouse) one division of first year men are singing lustily in preparation for the German class, in Gul Hus (Yellowhouse) the second year men are singing about viking times, before beginning their English. In the court-yard we hear sounds of tramping feet and singing of the girls. Above in the dining hall is heard the refrain:

For government by the people, stand out, stand out!
For church, for school, for freedom!
Free yourself from the mists of winter, from the slavery of habit!
It all depends on you. Stand out!
Stand out!

An hour later, all file back for 15 minutes to partake of coffee and smorrebrod before the main general lecture for all. Next follow physics, history or geology at 10:30.

At 11:30 classes again divide, first and second year men and women each to themselves, until 12:30 when the men repair to the gymnasium and the women occupy themselves with handwork until dinner at two. There is about a two hours recess after dinner, the interim often being utilized for extra chorus practice, study or debate. At 4 classes begin again.

The last lecture for the entire school, from 6 to 7 is given over to church history, world history, history of literature or to a subject by a visiting lecturer. Back again, we trot across the dark campus to smorrebrod and tea, followed by a little reading, a class meeting or an occasional debate, then study and bed.

VERMONT BASKETBALL TEAMS BOAST ENVIOUS RECORDS SINCE 1920

Sport Originally Instituted in 1900 Died Out For Lack of Interest—Revived After World War

Basketball as a major sport has been largely a post-bellum development at Vermont. While the University has been represented on the court almost every year since 1900, the teams put out after the interim of the Great War have far out-shadowed their predecessors. Vermont basketball history since 1920 has furnished a bright page in the glorious annals of athletics at the University.

Two New England championships have been won by the Catamount basketeers. Since 1920 the state championship in the court sport has rested in Burlington.

Sport Begins in 1900

In the year 1900 basketball was started at the University of Vermont. During the 1900-1901 season there were only eight men on the varsity squad—not even enough material for two teams so that practice games might be played. The managers were members of the team, and there was no coach to guide and help those who were doing their best to put U. V. M. on the map in the collegiate basketball world. For a few years the University had a fairly good team to represent it, considering the infancy of the sport. However, from the year 1903 interest began to wane on account of lack of material and support until the fall of 1906. That fall was the first time a paid coach was hired to look after the varsity basketball squad. The season of 1906-1907, therefore, turned out to be the first successful season compared to those of previous years. The team of that year won half of the games on its schedule. In the fall of 1907 it was feared that there would be no basketball team on account of insufficient funds. A considerable sum of money was necessary to carry the team through a season. It was at this time that the true Vermont spirit and courage came to the rescue. The student body, of their own volition, voted affirmatively for an extra tax to be paid by them on their term bills. The material turned out to be above expectations and the team enjoyed a very successful 1907-1908 season. Only one game was lost on the home court, and the majority of the games played in opponents' territory were won. The following season a little trouble arose between the faculty and the players and a varsity basketball team was prohibited.

Post-bellum Revival

Meanwhile the United States entered the World War. This made visions of another basketball team seem all the more remote in the minds of the student body. Consequently there were no basketball teams until the year 1920.

Late in the fall of 1920 the students petitioned the trustees for the right to maintain a varsity team once more. The petition was granted. There was not much time to prepare for the season since most of the other college teams had been practicing for weeks. Major Larned of the military department was engaged as the coach, and, despite the fact that it was the first year that basketball was taken up in the University on a large scale, and that the start was late and slow, the team won the Stae championship for the first time. Out of a schedule of fifteen games ten were won by Vermont. The next year was "Tom" Keady's first one at U. V. M. Under his able coaching Vermont annexed another state title and turned out to be one of the best collegiate teams in New England. Fourteen games won and four lost was the envious record established for the season. The 1922-1923 season was another prosperous one. Twelve of the 18 games played ended in victories for the Green and Gold. Despite the loss of the captain at mid-season, the team finished gloriously. Semansky '24 was captain during the second half of the schedule. He and Cayward constituted one of the best pairs of guards seen at Vermont thus far.

New England Champions

The following year Vermont won the New England Championship in collegiate ranks. Springfield was the only New England team to score a victory over U. V. M. in 1924 but that team was defeated later in the season. All other leading claimants for the championship were also defeated, leaving U. V. M. on top. Cornell, the intercollegiate champs of that year, and the Springfield College team were challenged to post-season games, but the invitations were not accepted. The year 1925 brough Vermont another New England Championship as well as the State Championship. That year only three games were lost. Two were lost by only one basket each, while Boston University, the winner of the third game was defeated at the end of the season. The victory of Boston University was the only New England defeat for Vermont. Yarnall hung up an individual scoring record for a single game when he scored 25 points in one of the games played in 1925. Last year Vermont won the State championship for the sixth consecutive time.

Compositely, from 1921 through the 1926 season Vermont has won 77 games and lost 29. Opponents have scored 2484 points against Vermont's 2357 points. The approximate average score per game has been Vermont 32, Opponent 23, showing that the scoring combinations of Vermont teams have been powerful and the defense has been tight.

Dvorak, the famous [illegible] composer, will be represented on the repertoire of the University Glee Club in their concert on [illegible] though the composition [illegible] not his best known [illegible] are characteristic of the [illegible] his country.

KOLLEGE KAR KONFESSIONS

By C. Y. [illegible] Horn

On September 15th in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and twenty-[illegible] when I was just entering college, I thought that I would be one of the [illegible] and buy myself a car. The appearance wouldn't matter so much, if it would only go. After a month and a half of school had passed by, I was [illegible] able to get one. A fellow collegian, [illegible] short of money, agreed to sell his car and the way I beat his price down would have made a Jew turn green with envy.

[illegible] time it should have a name I christened it "The Sand Flea," for that is caused so much like one by the manner of its actions. Every now and then when I go too fast it runs by me, consequently I'm up in the air over it.

As you might guess it's a ford. (No need of explaining by the name of a car.) There are no fenders, no [illegible] and practically no chassis on it, with a piece of tin wrapped around it for a splash-boards. The color of the car is hard. The entire home like a hideous [illegible] probably on account of the radiator being open. I don't like to go on Main or Church St. with it as I'm afraid I'd get hauled for driving in the city with the cut-out open. There's plenty of pep in the motor even if it is old, and no wonder—I feed it with castor oil. Outside of having a self-starter on it there is nothing remarkable about this car so I will pass on. There is no windshield on the car so that the fresh air is not restricted in any way. I have to wear goggles as the wind makes my eyes water so much that I'd lose weight if I didn't wear them. There are only two seats, one for the driver and one for the mechanic: only I never have a mechanic with me. I have to double up my legs in order to get into it. I am thinking of boring two holes in the floor of the car to allow my feet to dangle over the engine. There are lights to be sure but the fellow that put them on was a joker as I might just as well have a pair of lightning bugs in their place. On the back end of the car I have a box of sand in order to give the car more weight, and also to make it stay in the road when I want to "step it up."

This car must have a different arrangement of gears than the ordinary ford, for it always starts off with a jerk and seems to gain speed as tho it had a will of its own. As for tires I have plenty, four on the wheels and six spares. Some upperclassman wisely remarked that I ought to call it the "Lifesaver," since I had so many tires and they looked like life-preservers. There is one improvement that I would make on the car. Since my brakes are not of the best, I would add an accessory, an anchor.

There is a variety of names all of which are very applicable to this car of mine, one of them being "The Shark," as it tries to eat up the road. It could be called a boat, as it rocks like one now. For the past two months I have been looking for a place to park it for the winter. If I don't find one soon I'll have to run it into the landlady's hen-coop.

More than once this car of mine has tried to "cut up." It is a very interesting thing and you can never tell what it's going to do next. I think perhaps I should call it "La Femme."

And they lived happily ever afterwards!

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a man whose life's ambition was to take unto himself a pipe. Time and again his heart was set on some particular pipe—but poor fellow, his dreams never came true. . .

Until one day a friend, experienced in such affairs, gave him a few pointers. He took his friend's advice; he got some Granger Rough Cut... It worked! In a few weeks' time he was solidly wedded to a wonderful pipe...sitting pretty, fixed for life!

Indeed, but for Granger many a man would never know the joy and comfort of a pipe! Granger is so mild, so mellow, so cool! Ripe old Burley tobacco, mellowed Wellman's way. And cut in rough flakes that burn slow and smoke cool . . .

Granger's mission in life is to see that no man ever experiences a pipe disappointment. . . Just stick to Granger and your old pipe'll be a perfect pal—right through the years. Forever!

WINTER SPORTS MEET AND SENATE LOVING CUP GO TO THE OWLS

Six Fraternities Place in the Interfraternity Meet Which is to Be Annual Event—Lambda Iota Claims Both High Point Men

The Owls won the interfraternity winter sports meet held Saturday afternoon on the back campus. They scored a total of thirty-five points, winning by a comfortable margin of seven points over their nearest rival Crandall '28, Owl, was high scorer for the meet, capturing first place in every event he entered. His total for the afternoon was twenty points. He was also on the victorious team in the snowshoe relay. Edson, also an Owl, was second individual star.

With the victory went the loving cup presented by the Student Senate. The Senate plans to make the meet an annual event. About thirty-five men participated a wonderful turn-out for its first year and indications are that in the future the meets will interest the entire student body, making winter sports at Vermont come up to the standard of the larger universities.

Saturday's events and winners are:

Potato race—skis.—Sears, Zeta Chi, 1st; Lang, Owls, 2nd; Cowles, Independent, 3rd.

Potato race—snow-shoes.—Crandall, Owls, 1st; Werner, Tau Epsilon Phi, 2nd; Edson, Owls, 3rd.

Ski dash—100 yards.—Adams, Kappa Sig 1st; Robinson, Sigma Nu, 2nd; Cowles, Independent, 3rd.

Snowshoe dash—100 yards.—Crandall Owls, 1st; Edson, Owls, 2nd; Peron, Zeta Chi, 3rd.

Obstacle race—skis.—Donaldson, Independent, 1st; Wood, Zeta Chi, 2nd; Robinson, Sigma Nu, 3rd.

Obstacle race—snow-shoes.—Crandall Owls, 1st; Edson, Owls, 2nd; Werner, Tau Epsilon Phi 3rd.

Ski relay.—Bragg and Cowles, Independent, 1st; Sears and Wood, Zeta Chi, 2nd; Foster and Peterson, Zeta Chi, 3rd.

Snow-shoe relay.—Crandall and Edson Owls, 1st; Sears and Phelon, Zeta Chi, 2nd; Bragg and Cowles, Independent 3rd.

Cross-country — skis.—Wood, Zeta Chi 1st; Cowles, Independent, 2nd; Robinson, Sigma Nu, 3rd.

Cross-country — snow-shoes.—Crandall, Owls, 1st; Phelon, Zeta Chi, 2nd; Edson Owls, 3rd.

First place counted five points, second place counted three, and third place counted one. One point was taken from the Owls' total because Edson set an obstacle in the snow-shoe race.

Of all the fraternities competing, the following were the only ones to place: Owls, 35; Zeta Chi, 24; Independents, 9; Kappa Sigma, 5; Sigma Nu, 5; Tau Epsilon Phi, 4.

VERMONT ENTERTAINS HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

Nearly 200 high school seniors were entertained by the University of Vermont at the Kake Walk. The students were met at the station by members of the Key, who conducted them to their homes in dormitories and fraternity houses. During the day many of the visitors took the opportunity to see over the campus and the city of Burlington.

The annual sub-freshman banquet was served to the high school seniors at the Hotel Van Ness 5.30 in the evening. At the banquet, Professor J. E. Peterson, who acted as toastmaster, introduced Dr. A. K. Aldinger, professor of physical training. Professor Aldinger told the sub-frosh what the physical training department is doing at the University of Vermont. Following Dr. Aldinger's speech, Emory Foster '27 gave a short talk on the advantages of coming to Vermont. Mower Cowles emphasized the undying spirit of old Vermont, which the alumni possess.

After singing a few songs, the sub-frosh adjourned to the Gymnasium to witness the Kake Walk. The committee in charge of the sub-frosh consisted of three men from the Key and Cynic Society, S. C. Abell '28 acting as chairman.

Kake Walk Notes

This year's Kake Walk has been the most photographed performance of all time at the University of Vermont. Movies of the stunts were taken at the eliminations on Thursday evening. Again on Friday, powerful lamps were set up in the Gymnasium and movies were taken during the performance of the peerade and the kake walking. On Saturday morning several stunts and peerade entries were again filmed. The movies were taken by companies releasing news reels. It is expected that the movie record of the Walk will be released in the near future.

The directors made a special offer to the local high school students. Tickets were offered to them for the reduced rate of 50 cents. A large number of the students availed themselves of the opportunity to attend.

UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCES FELLOWSHIPS FOR GRADS

Announcement has been made of the University of Vermont fellowships and scholarships for graduate students for the year 1927 1928. There are 7 fellowships of $700 each, the first year and $800 each the second year, with exemption from tuition charges. These fellowships are to be awarded to graduates of colleges and universities of recognized standing, who have shown superior proficiency in the subjects in which they wish to specialize. The holders of the fellowships will be expected to work for the Master's degree and to give a certain amount of assistance to the department in which they hold the fellowships.

There will also be 10 scholarships of $200 each amounting to full tuition to those pursuing graduate courses. These are to be awarded to graduates of colleges and universities, as are the fellowships. In awarding five of the scholarships, preference will be given to applicants who are not graduates of the University of Vermont.

The purpose of the fellowships and scholarships is to assist students whose undergraduate record and personal qualities give promise of success either in research or in the profession of teaching. Applicants for fellowships and scholarships should send, not later than April 1, 1927, a transcript of their undergraduate work, special consideration will be given to the regular record in the major and minor subjects. At least two letters from persons acquainted with the character and personal qualities of the candidate should be filed. Application blanks for the fellowships and scholarships may be obtained of Professor George F Burns.

VERMONT HOOPSTERS GO ON SHORT TRIP BEFORE SEASON ENDS

Catamounts Will Meet Harvard and Springfield—Price Returns to Guard Position After Illness

The U V M. hoopsters will play their last games away from home on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 22nd and 23rd. "Kiki" Price, who has been unable to play in the last two games on account of illness, will be back in his regular position at guard. His presence in the line-up will give Vermont full strength. Tuesday's game is at Springfield and Wednesday's game is with Harvard at Cambridge.

A glance at Springfield's record this year indicates that Vermont will have to face a classy team. The Bay State team is one of the strongest to represent the school in years. U V M lost to Springfield twice last year, each time by three points. The score of the game at Springfield was 32-29. In the game on Vermont's home court, the Catamounts led at the end of the first half, but Springfield forged ahead in the second half and emerged the victor for 35-32. Incidentally Springfield was the first New England college to defeat Vermont during the 1925 1926 season.

Vermont did not play Harvard last year so comparisons can not be made. Nevertheless, the Crimson has made an impressive record this year and is hoping for a victory over Vermont. On the other hand, Vermont has practically clinched the State Championship and has had a very successful season, winning all home games and losing only to Holy Cross and the Crescent A C of Brooklyn, N Y. At the present pace of the U V M cagers, who have been hitting on all five, their remaining opponents must travel fast to defeat them.

Springfield will be seen in action at the U V M gym on February 25. Middlebury will be here on February 28, Norwich March 1 and M A C, the last opponent, March 3.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A group picture of the Key and Serpent Society was taken Monday, February 14. The society is planning for a banquet in the near future, but no definite arrangements have been completed.

Organ recitals are being held in the Ira Allen Chapel every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from four to five o'clock. The recitals are open to all students and the general public.

Jack Conway addressed the weekly assembly of the Burlington High School last Wednesday. He gave a short talk on sportsmanship to enlist interest in the Y M C A.

Estimates show that students have earned over $1,600 through the employment bureau of the college "Y". This is an increase of $300 over the total earnings reported for last year.

A Y M C A deputation, whose personnel consisted of Milton B Ricker '27 Errol Slack '28 and Cornelius Irons '29 went to the Winooski Methodist Episcopal church last Sunday. This group conducted one of a series of special meetings under the auspices of the Winooski church.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC OFFERS ORGAN COURSE

The Department of Music announces that a limited number of organ pupils will be accepted this semester. Applicants should be regularly enrolled students of the University and show some proficiency in piano playing.

If the number exceeds the accommodation for organ practice, preference will be given to advanced students. Those interested should confer immediately with Miss Miriam Marston, instructor in organ, or with Professor H G Bennett of the Department of Music.

PHI BETA KAPPA ELECTS SENIORS TO MEMBERSHIP

Three Seniors were elected to the Honorary Scholastic Society at the meeting of the Alpha of Vermont Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa held Wednesday afternoon in the Billings Library. The new members are Dorothea F Baker, of Upper Montclair New Jersey, Claire L Cormier of Keene New Hampshire and Lawrence C. Whitman, of Richford, Vermont.

The speaker at the mid-winter meeting of the society, which will be held on Wednesday, March 2 will be Professor Waugh of the History Department of McGill University.

TUFTS STARTS SEASON'S DEBATING ON THURSDAY

Vermont's first debate of the year will take place in the Old Chapel next Thursday evening at 7 30 o'clock. The strong Tufts team is to uphold the affirmative of the question "Resolved That the United States Shall Cancel the War Debts of Her Allies." The Vermont negative team is to consist of E C Mower '27 of Burlington, C H Wedell '27 of Lynn, Mass., and L A Hince '28 of Lawrence, Mass.

The American system of debating will be used in this debate although it is quite probable that some of the later debates will be conducted under the English or Oxford rules. Vermont's team is composed mostly of men having only E C Mower having had previous experience in college contests. According to reports, the Tufts team is up to the high standards set by its predecessors. The night before appearing in Burlington, the Tufts debaters are scheduled to meet Middlebury.

Kappa Sigma Sets Record at Thirtieth Kake Walk

First Prizes for Stunts, Peerade and Kake Walking are Taken by One Fraternity—Leary Brothers Easily Win the Boulder Cup

IS THAT BEWILDERMENT COMMON TO FRESHMEN A VIRTUE OR A SIN?

What is it all about? "Five Bewildered Freshmen" asked the Cornell Sun, after two months at the University. They had found no coherence, no purpose in their college studies. Consequently they were unable to develop an interest in their work; they were simply, Five Lethargic Freshmen.

"Just as we suspected," said the Cornell Sun in effect. "We suggest an Orientation Course as a possible effectious means for supplying the Arts College with a rudimentary implement for performing its undeniable duty of stimulating those who can be stimulated." Such a course would adjust the student to his environment, train him in thinking, convince him of the seriousness of college work, give him a birdseye view of the nature of the world and of man, survey the contemporary scene of civilization. Such a course is offered at Columbia University and at other institutions.

Free Advice

To the Cornell Sun came dozens of suggestions, by post. Some tendered advice to the Freshmen, others indicted the method of teaching Freshmen, others, the entire educational system. Still others confessed to a similar condition of bewilderment. Some blamed the students, others the professors.

One letter, from Professor Carl Becker the distinguished historian, suggested that bewilderment was a desideratum in Freshmen. They were to be congratulated, not blamed.

Neither are professors to be blamed, the professor wrote. It is a mistake to think that they are holding back some secret that would set the bewildered ones right. "I could write you a letter on behalf of Five Bewildered Professors which would make the five bewildered Freshmen appear cocksure by comparison."

Everyone is Asking

"We live in a world dominated by machines; a world of incredibly rapid change; a world of naturalistic science and of physico-chemic libido psychology. There are no longer any certainties either in life or in thought. Everywhere confusion. Everywhere questions. Where are we? Where did we come from? Where do we go from here? What is it all about? The Freshmen are asking and they may well ask. Everyone is asking. No one knows; and those who profess with most confidence to know are most likely to be mistaken. Professors could reorganize the College of Arts if they knew what a College of Arts should be. They could give students a general education if they knew what a general education was, or would be good for if one had it. Professors are not especially to blame because the world has lost all certainty about these things.

"One of the sure signs that the intellectual world is bewildered is that everywhere, in colleges and out, people are asking for orientation courses which will tell the Freshmen straight off what it is all about. If we were oriented we shouldn't need such courses. This does not mean that I am opposed to an orientation course for Freshmen. I would like an orientation course for Freshmen. I would like one for Seniors. I would like one for professors and trustees. I would like one for President Farrand and President Butler. Only, who is to give it? And what is it to consist of? . . . If we could get a really top notch man to give a course, no matter what, and call it an orientation course, I should welcome it. H G. Wells might give such a course and it would be a good course. I doubt if it would orient anyone or settle anything, but it would stir the students up and make them think. That would be its great merit. That is the chief merit of any course that it unsettles students, makes them ask questions."—The New Student.

"Are ship captains very good at cards?"

"Not especially, but I've heard they're up on their bridge."—Red Cat.

LANOU TAKES WRIGHT CUP TWICE IN SUCCESSION

Kappa Sigma set a record at the thirtieth Kake Walk which has never been equaled in the history of the event. All first prizes awarded were received by members of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

In Welcoming to de Kake," Louis G Lanou '28 and George Leary '27, both Kappa Sigs set a pace which easily won them the Boulder cup and a cake. The Sigma Phi couple, composed of Kellogg Kyle '28 and Corbin Lyman '29 drew second prize. Frank Lanou '28 won the Wright cup in the Peerade for the second consecutive year. His presentation was the "Lazy Man's Paradise" which consisted of a bed with all conveniences on it. Lanou's acting added considerably to the unique bed and the award was well received by the audience.

"The Unknown Soldier" presented by Kappa Sigma was awarded the Briggs cup and the large cake. The story of the stunt is built around an American boy who answers the call to arms in 1917. In the first scene the boy bids his mother farewell and promises to return. Subsequent scenes show the young soldier in training camps. A typical top-sergeant is introduced in a humorous way. Then a gripping scene in the front line trenches is depicted. The soldier is sent on a mission to inspect enemy wire. He never returns. The burial of the Unknown Soldier is depicted and the stunt closes with the mother deriving consolation from the fact that her son might be the Unknown Soldier. The stunt was simple in its plot and did not depend on humorous situations but it was well presented.

Phi Delta Theta won second prize for stunt. This specialty was exceedingly popular with the audiences on both nights. A synopsis of the stunt is given elsewhere in this article.

The Peerade

For the first time in the history of Kake Walk the peerade was split into two sections. Each section was allowed to go through the Gymnasium alone, doing away with the crowded conditions which have prevailed at previous peerades. The processions marched slowly to music furnished by the University R O T C Band. A movie operator was at hand to take pictures of the various peerade features.

In the first section of the peerade was Peaches and Browning, the Maple Sugar Special gone West," two foot ball players armed to the teeth representing Harvard and Princeton. The "Lazy Man's Comfortable Bed" met with great applause. A collegiate person undressed to his underwear and proceeded to go to bed before the large audience. The second section contained "Custer's Last Stand," a hot dawg stand, a person covered with advertisements to represent the Saturday Evening Post, and a student on a pony with a Latin "trot" in his hand. Due to the queer antics of the pony the spectators seemed to be of the opinion that live animals below homo sapiens should be expelled from coming peerades. On the whole the peerade was worth one of the best in years.

Stunts of Good Quality

Interesting Here and There in His tory won the title of the first stunt. Kappa Delta presented a very clever conception of such characters as Queen Alden Priscilla Alden John Alden Captain Myles Standish Paul Revere. The surrender of Ticonderoga was presented in a unique and comical manner. John Alden's courtship was also made the basis for considerable laughter from the audience.

"Modern Mother Goose" the second stunt was by the Sigma Phis. Mother Goose appeared on the Gym floor with a large book of rhymes. As she turned over pages and recited rhymes her famous characters appeared. Some very clever dancing was done by two of the cast. Music merriment was produced when three professors were impersonated by students. The impersonations were perfect for two of the faculty members.

Crowds were much amused by the Phi Delta Theta stunt. "The Evolution of Education." In three scenes the

THE WOMEN'S PAGE

In recent issues of the CYNIC, "Campus Comment" has had quite a little to say regarding the Women's Page. It is, of course, useless to talk of doing away with such an important part of the paper, nor do we want to do so. There are in the University more than two women to every seven men, and under these circumstances certainly the women are entitled to space in the student publication.

The Women's Editor and her staff are a very essential part of the board and fill a place that could not be taken care of by the men. It is undoubtedly true that some of the material published by the women is not of interest to everyone, particularly to the men, yet we must remember that very few articles are of interest to everyone, and that while a write-up may be of no account to one party, yet it may be of special importance to others. This condition must be faced in every paper. It is true that very often more of a story could be developed about certain events than has been, but this fault is no greater than some existing in the work of which the men have charge.

However good or bad the Women's Page may have been in the past, there is no doubt that it is improving, that news is being covered better and that a newspaper form is being more closely adhered to. Also, women's editorials are being introduced. This improvement may, if continued, make the men strive a little harder to keep up their part of the paper.

CYNIC AWARD

The Cynic boasts a new possession in the form of a National College Press Congress Award, presented for distinguished rating during the year 1926-27 in the National College Press Congress Publication Contest.

The Commission of literary authorities was formed at the University of Illinois and their recognition of merit in the Cynic is something of which Vermont may well feel proud. Accordingly we extend our hearty thanks and congratulations to the board which recently retired and which gained us this distinction, to the printers who cooperated, and to those students and members of the faculty not on the board who helped to make the paper a success.

PRESS CLUB

The Press Club was recently brought to our attention by the election of officers. This club is an old institution at the University and worthy of support, but being of a quiet nature and working in the background rather than directly before the public eye, it arouses little interest in the students. This should not be the case, however.

The function of the club is to give the University publicity and this is done by mailing news of scholastic or athletic achievements and of other accomplishments to the home-town papers of the students directly concerned. This insures prompt service to interested friends at home and at the same time does a tremendous piece of advertising for the University.

Students who support the club have the opportunity of developing themselves through the assuming of responsibilities, practical English work, more or less of a business training, and at the same time of doing a very worthy service for their alma mater, and it is hoped that a greater number of the student body will take advantage of the opportunity.

We feel that one very important pep parade stunt was omitted last Friday and Saturday. There should have been a combination mud, snow and ice plow wending its way across one end of the campus with a group of students patiently following in its wake.

CAR OR CARELESS

Under the heading "The Car Less Campus," James E. Cutlip, in the February issue of the American Motorist, quotes what the presidents of some of the leading colleges, both men's and women's, have to say regarding the automobile on the campus. The majority placed heavy restrictions or forbid it entirely. We can only quote from a few:

"The problem of student automobiles is a serious one in our American colleges and universities and we are working toward a solution."—President Ferrand of Cornell.

"We do not object to use of the automobile except by two groups—one, those incapable of keeping up their scholastic work while running about in automobiles, and the other, those too immature to be responsible about anything. We prohibit automobiles to students failing in their courses or students on probation for conduct."—President Hopkins of Dartmouth.

"We realize that we are living in a motor age, and are not arguing against the automobile as such, nor against its use in general, but its unlimited use by young men and women while in college produces complications which cannot be ignored. While there is no doubt that there are cases where a car is a necessity for certain students, these cases are relatively few."—President Little of the University of Michigan.

The women's colleges are more decided in their disapproval. At Wellesley only seniors are permitted to have cars. W. A. Neilson, president of Smith College, seems to voice the sentiment of many when he gives the reasons for these restrictions. "Our purpose is to safeguard time for academic purposes, as a precaution against accidents, and to keep jurisdiction in the social life of the students. Our rules do not apply to students living in their own homes."

President L. W. Coffman of the University of Minnesota takes a different stand from the majority. He does not believe in solving the problem by restrictive methods. "For universities to take the position that they will refuse automobiles to students is not, in my judgment, the proper way to solve the problem. Responsibility for self control must be built up in each student and restrictive legislation should be reduced to a minimum."

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

As an alumnus of the University, having taken part in several Kake Walks and also having followed the event with great interest since leaving college I would like to express a few sentiments which may be of interest to your readers. First, knowing the difficulty which presents itself to those who produce stunts, it is a matter of great interest to note that the Kake Walk spirit is perennial, and that in spite of the limitations of the facilities for producing, and growing scarcity of subjects which have not already been dealt with, stunts of great merit continue to be produced year after year. Congratulations are due the student body, and the various fraternities for their efforts and their successes.

Only one adverse criticism appears to me to be in order, and this is not one which could not have been made of several other Kake Walks the writer has seen. There seems to be a growing tendency to get away from what has been thought to be the purpose of Kake Walk. First, the word "originality" appears to be construed in too broad a sense. In some cases material seems to be borrowed quite freely from current theatrical productions, movies and published stories and similar sources. Where such material is introduced as a subject for burlesque it is quite in line with the spirit of Kake Walk, and in a sense original. But in many cases not only the subject matter, but the themes with unnecessary obvious moral and patriotic implications are used. Needless to say, in an event where wit, humor, cleverness and other manifestations of undergraduate genius are intended to be displayed such second-hand moralizings are apt to degenerate into a maudlin sentimentality, quite out of harmony with the spirit of the occasion.

This brings us to the second criticism. In addition to a lack of originality, the tendency seems to be away from the light, humorous and spirited, to the patriotic moral, and even religious, appealing to the emotions rather than to the sense of humor. Such things have their place, but it is hardly at such events as the Kake Walk.

A factor in the situation seems to be that judges are quite prone to select such stunts as winners, and in spite of the fact that the choice is made in a definite way which is intended to give a careful rating to the stunts in an unbiased manner, one must wave flags and depict weeping mothers rather than display wit, cleverness and ingenuity to obtain the decision of the judges. It is perhaps natural to expect that they will react favorably to such seeming outbursts of idealism and the exploitation of conventional prejudices when there is so much criticism of the present generation of young people for a lack of these things. In so doing, however, is it not possible that they are bringing about indirectly a departure from the real spirit and purpose of the event? Cleverness and wit do not seem to have a chance against the sentimental type of thing, and of course it is to be expected that stunts will be produced with a view to winning.

Can we not in some way remedy this and put a premium on the qualities of stunts which really represent the traditional spirit of our great yearly event?

AN ALUMNUS.

RADIO CLUB REBUILDING BROADCASTING STATION

After a year of inactivity, the University Radio Club is beginning to function again. There are five or six students actively interested in the work and they under the direction of J. R. Morton '27, are re-building the amateur station, the call letters of which are 1ARY. This station, which transmits code messages only, will broadcast on a wave length of forty meters. If there are no unforeseen delays, the set should be in operation within two weeks. Work of rebuilding the station is proceeding slowly because the Radio Club is constantly confronted by a lack of funds.

The Radio Club was organized in 1923 by George Brodie, an Instructor in Chemistry. The first venture of the Club was a one kilowatt spark apparatus, broadcasting on two hundred meters. The station was gradually improved until it became well known among amateurs. During 1921 the station affiliated with the American Relay League. In the fall of that year the station used the continuous wave apparatus for the first time. By December when the amateurs were conducting their Trahsatlantic tests, 1ARY was one of the first stations picked up across the ocean. At that time the station was made an official Relay Station for the American Relay League. For a time, also, it was an official Broadcasting Station for the League, sending out every week the official bulletins issued from headquarters, which contained information of interest to amateurs.

On December 11, 1924, 1ARY held its first two-way communication with a foreign station. Since that time the station has picked up messages from France, the Netherlands, England, Denmark, Italy, Cuba, Spain, Brazil, Costa Rica, Bermuda, New Zealand, and Australia. The last named, ten thousand miles away, is the most distant station heard. The communication from Brazil was carried on with the Hamilton Rice Expedition, which was exploring the Amazon. On one occasion, the University Radio Club station received a message from one of the party, relayed it to New York and forwarded the answer to Brazil the following night. It would have required three months for a letter to go from the interior of Brazil to the United States.

NOTES FROM THE SKY

Chimes, by Robert Herrick. Macmillan Co. $2.00.

"Do I know what a University is for, except to pay salaries?" muttered Clavercin, wearied by the jumbled impressions of his first visit to the Eureka campus. The thought gave him no peace. As his train lurched at a crossing, the young professor of General Literature woke with a start, crying aloud, "I have it, a university is to discover and teach the Art of Life."

Robert Herrick's book is an ironic study of "the pleasant walks of the Academe." The author, a professor for thirty years or more, knows the intrigues, the compromises, the tragedies, of a university as only a man in his position can. What are four years in the age of a university! The teacher, who gives of himself to two generations or three of students, can understand and what we in fleeting college days never penetrate.

At Eureka, every faculty meeting invited the warfare of the humanities against science and business. As eloquently as any Demosthenes, the old German, Harden, pleaded for the spirit of the University. The academies, Beckwith and Harden and Clavercin, were howled down where the enrollment swelled to thousands and the football team defeated Yale and Eureka became one of the big six.

Clavercin joined Barnum's Show because he wanted a salary. Seas of praire mud, pseudo Gothic piles of stone, drab students—he could endure all this when he had money enough to bring Louise to a bungalow on Professor's Row.

Middle-age brought no happiness to Clavercin. Louise was never a helpmate. Jessica was more fond of analyses of life than of life itself.

Only notes from the sky cheered Clavercin. Long years ago, when he first came to Eureka, Edith Crandall had been the "mother spirit of the University." Even Eureka seems less ugly and barbarous because of this romantic personality, plunging so unsparingly into the lives of others.

Then this lovely grinding spirit passed away: and as a memorial Clavercin had suggested chimes, like a chime of tuneful bells, like those English chimes you hear across green meadows at twilight."

The war brought holiday to the professors. Many of them went to the front and enjoyed their freedom "under orders." Clavercin too was restless when he resumed his lecture platform.

When Clavercin died, Eureka University lost its greatest opponent of progress. Eureka was then free to change itself into a factory, where artisans work and shirts are made. Clavercin once said, "The university is to discover and teach the art of Life!" Perhaps.

Who was it who told that one about the absent-minded professor who came to teach a class but couldn't remember what he taught?—Bison.

Only Child: Daddy! Daddy! he kissed me!

Fond Parent (appearing in robe de nuit): Well, what do you want me to do with him?

O. C.: Make him do it again.—Wet Hen.

DRAMATIC CLUB HOLDS PLAY TRYOUTS SOON

Some time in the near future try outs will be held for the class plays which are given each year under the auspices of the Dramatic Club. There will be a few rehearsals before the Easter vacation, and the recess should give a good opportunity for the thorough learning of parts. Rehearsals will be resumed with classes and the plays will be presented shortly after.

Anyone who is interested is eligible to try out for her own class play. If one lacks histrionic ability, the positions of prompter, property manager, and so on, are open. In previous years considerable interest has been shown in these presentations, and it is hoped that there will be the same response this year.

PROMINENT LECTURERS WILL CONDUCT SERIES OF INFORMATIVE TALKS

Leaders of Scientific and Literary World will Speak—Astronomer Shapley Here Thursday

A series of lectures has been planned by the University to be given during the spring term, the first of which will be held on Thursday evening of this week. Four men, leaders in their respective fields of work will address the student body on their chosen subjects. The second of these speakers is Prof. Robert Andrews Millikan, 1923 Nobel Prize winner for his work in physics. The other speakers will be Prof. Harlow Shapley, Harvard Astronomer; Dr. Richard Cabot, Professor of Social Ethics at Harvard and George Lyman Kittredge, well-known author and scholar.

Professor Shapley, the astronomer will base his address on the evolution of the stars and man. Stereopticon slides taken through the largest telescope in the world will illustrate the talk. Prof. Shapley has done his most important work in conceiving the Galactic system of measuring the heavens. This talk is scheduled for Thursday evening, February 24.

Professor Millikan is at present director of the Norman bridge laboratory of the California Institute of Technology. He is chiefly known for his accurate study and measurement of the electron. Both the United States and Great Britain have awarded him medals for his notable contribution to the field of scientific research. As a public speaker he has proved to be most interesting and the students who heard him speak at the Milwaukee Conference last Christmas say that he will be well worth hearing.

Dr. Richard Cabot, who will speak later in the year, has taken "The Study of Personality" as his topic. He is well known throughout the country as a keen and interesting speaker. He established the social service department of the Massachusetts General Hospital a modern innovation in medical service.

The last speaker, Professor Kittredge holds the place among his contemporaries of an Olympian, among literary men. He will speak on a Shakespearean theme. He is an acute critic and a writer and scholar of note.

Mary may be only a photographer's daughter, but she gets a mean exposure.—Carnegie Puppet.

Hush little sea juke, don't you cry,
You'll be a drama by and by.—Columbia Jester.

Motorist: Is there any speed law here?

Native: Naw, you fellers can't get through here any too fast for us.—Minnesota Ski-U-Mah.

"Haven't I a wonderful voice?"
"Well, it's sort of grateful."
"How grateful?"
"Oh, a few clinkers now and then, you know."—Lafayette Lyre.

Alumni Quartet Sings

A short recess was enjoyed between the first four stunts and the remainder. An alumni quartet dressed in [illegible] costumes sang songs of the South and after continued [illegible] they sang the student songs of the University of Vermont.

Four More Stunts

"The Unknown Soldier" by Kappa Sigma was very intense and gripping in several scenes. The audience did not applaud often during the playing, but gave the stunt their approbation as the last scene closed. In stunt a student leaves his mother and goes to war. After a brief stay at a training camp he is in France in the firing line. He is sent to inspect the enemy's wire and loses his life. The burial of the Unknown Soldier was pictured, as giving consolation to the dead boy's mother.

The Sigma Delta fraternity had as their stunt "The Light That Never Fails." Omar, the famous Oriental poet is shown looking thru a crystal to see another Omar at the University of Vermont. The early freshman days, the good times in a fraternity house, the Junior Prom, and graduation were different scenes of the stunt. Finally, after the younger Omar has received his diploma, he sees the Ira Allen Chapel light and in poetic language, he makes it the symbol of his college career.

In a "Word to the Wise," the Delta Psi fraternity gave examples of proverbs. In the stunt, a reporter from the American magazine goes to heaven to interview William Shakespeare. The famous English poet asserts that his fame was due to his use of proverbs. On a revolving platform, the examples of the proverbs are acted out. The stunt ends with the devil coming to heaven and in a rapid interchange of old sayings the red-clothed Tempter turns the reporter away with [illegible].

A foreign observer studying these young people is amazed at their prodigious capacity for study and compliance with rules. The work is not compulsory yet no one wishes to miss a lecture'?

Hour after hour, day after day, they hurry to the lectures, sitting quietly, good-humored and unwearied, to receive their education. They do not seem restless and are very modest in their demands in the way of change and recreation.

What is the secret of this mental attitude? Does the answer lie in the kind of teaching, the harmonious relationship of Faculty and Students or—the lack of any element of compulsion?

We must remember that the students come to these schools of their own free will, after a number of years of practical work in field, creamery, shop and home.

Returning to the routine of the school:—Saturday and Sunday nights, the young people get together for social purposes; sometimes they are given an illustrated lecture, dramatics or a concert—a concert composed largely of classic music, which strangely enough these peasant boys and girls up from the farms, thoroughly enjoy and appreciate! These activities always end with the Danish grand march.

Sunday morning practically every one goes to church, although there is no compulsion! The afternoon is given over to hiking and tramping about the beautiful country roads singing merrily as they trip along. Very often they will take a book along to read 'neath some sheltered tree. One student was reading Molière, which he said, he found "mor somt" (delightfully entertaining).

In passing we may state that Abraham Lincoln is a favorite Folk School character.

The Folk High school is a privately conducted institution, which demands of its students tuition, but should one not be able to afford the necessary sum, the government will give him material assistance.

[Note: Mrs. Olive D. Campbell has placed a folk high school on the Danish model at Brasstown, Cherokee County, North Carolina, among the mountaineers, building with their volunteer labor the necessary structures. It is an experiment in adult education in memory of John C. Campbell, who, after 25 years of study and service in the Southern Highlands, felt the need of vitalizing and dignifying the whole content of our rural civilization. In a type of education based on the folk high school of Denmark he saw a hope of preserving what is best in Highland culture and of opening the way to a deeper and richer life.]

Ira Allen Chapel Cupola Recalls Old Dome That Was Ancient Landmark

Few Vermonters of the present day remember the famous dome which used to adorn the "Old Mill." When the old college building was being remodeled in 1883-84, the Gothic architecture, which was to be employed in renovating the face of the "Old Mill," made it impossible to retain the historic dome. For many years, the dome was the landmark of the Champlain Valley. Vermont students looked upon it as an essential part of their college. When the decision to scrap the historic dome was made known, a storm of protest arose from the alumni and undergraduates. It was all in vain, the present spire replaced the beloved dome. In the late fifties an alumnus apparently returning to attend Commencement, composed an Ode to Alma Mater, which well expresses the spirit of loyalty and admiration to Vermont and its symbols, Champlain and the Old Mill dome.

ALMA MATER

The crystal wave of the calm Champlain
To us shall symbolize
That mirror of truth, which not in vain
She has held before our eyes;
Whose clear revealings again and again
Have filled us with glad surprise.
You glistening Dome that her sons may see
From afar as they near their home.—
The last thing seen as they turn away,
The first as again they come;
An image that never erased can be
From their minds wherever they roam,—
Shall be type of her high Philosophy,
That stands as a beacon, far-seen, on a sea
Where pilots deceive, false lights flash and flee,
And perilous breakers foam.

After an absence of almost half a century, the Vermont skyline has a dome and a cupola, which are the landmarks of the Champlain valley. Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Wilbur of Manchester, the Ira Allen Chapel brings back to Vermont a tradition which would delight the old graduates, who revered the ancient dome. The beacon, which is mentioned in the alumnus' poem, has become a reality. By day the cupola shines as a beacon, at night a powerful light from the top of the campanile can be seen for a long distance in the surrounding country.

YOU'RE an experienced smoker. You know good tobaccos. You know taste and fragrance.

And you insist on the best—that's Camels. Only the primest tobaccos grown are good enough for you—the experienced smoker. Whatever you do you are going to do right, if you know it.

If Camels weren't the best, they would not be far and away the first. If Camels weren't quality supreme, they would not be the overwhelming preference of smokers who have tried every brand.

STUDENT ATTENDANCE DETERMINES FATE OF COMPULSORY CHAPEL

Faculty Committee Rests Final Decision on Undergraduates' Interest in Chapel Services

Whether there shall be compulsory chapel attendance or not, depends largely on the students of the University of Vermont themselves. The faculty committee of which Professor F. C. Jacobs is head, has decided that voluntary attendance will be tried at first to determine how many students are willing to attend without being compelled. Should the attendance be poor it is quite possible that the faculty will make attendance compulsory.

The first chapel exercises were to be held this week Wednesday, but due to the fact that the hymn books had not arrived, the services will be held for the first time on Wednesday, March 2. During the first week in March the Wednesday and Saturday morning schedules will be interchanged so that classes will begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and 8.30 a. m. Saturday. The services will take place from 10 to 10.30 a. m. Wednesday.

At the request of the student representatives, attendance will be taken at the services. On the basis of student interest in chapel exercises, the faculty committee will make a final decision on attendance in the future. Professor Jacobs announces that there will be organ recitals in the Ira Allen Chapel every Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. These recitals are open to the public.

FROSH ENJOY WEEK-END REMOVING BLEACHERS

Instead of attending church last Sunday afternoon the Freshmen celebrated the passing of the Thirtieth Annual Kake Walk by removing the bleachers from the Gymnasium to the barn in the rear of the Campus House where they are stored. A number of them took the occasion to demonstrate the fact they had not outgrown their knee pants by riding the bleacher supports down the icy walks of the campus. The bleachers were removed in record time under the supervision of Builder and Gold Key men, in spite of the fact that only about one-half of the Frosh were working. Many Frosh not present at this annual exercise await the posting of their names as an invitation to one of the whaling social parties the Gold Key has always been noted for.

Intercollegiate News

AS OTHERS SEE US

These clippings were taken from the Connecticut Campus referring to the recent basketball game between Vermont and the Connecticut Aggies.

"Vermont with practically the same team that furnished the Aggie rooters with the most exciting game of the season last year, turned the tables on the Nutmeg men Saturday night, winning handily."

"Prentice was the outstanding man on the floor, caging seven baskets and two free shots for a total of eighteen points."

"Connecticut's weak spot in the Vermont game was its offensive. It didn't seem to get going at all. The defense was too weak in the first period, but tightened up in the second, the Vermonters being able to score only two points as compared to twenty-one in the first stanza."

"Vermont had the better team without a doubt; but they also had the assistance that the Aggies had up at Burlington. Every man on the squad had a good night and could not seem to miss the basket."

FRATERNITIES ATTENTION!

Fraternities are requested to hand in itemized expense accounts for the Kake Walk to Director Underwood at once. No fraternity will be allowed more than $25 for a stunt or $5 for the Kake Walkers.

VERMONT GRADUATE A SENATOR

Courtesy of Rochester Daily News

CHARLES W. WATERMAN of Colorado, who is to become a United States Senator on March 4, is pictured here with Mrs. Waterman at Washington, D. C. Senator Waterman is a graduate of the University of Vermont

Senator-elect Waterman From Colorado is Graduate of Vermont

When the seventieth Congress of the United States meets, Charles Mansfield Waterman of Denver, Colorado will take his seat in the Senate. Judge Waterman is a graduate of the University of Vermont in the class of 1884. He was born in Wallsfield, Vermont and was prepared for college at St. Johnsbury Academy. Since leaving his Alma Mater, Senator Waterman has studied at the University of Michigan from which institution he received a LL.B. degree in 1889. That year he was admitted to the Colorado bar and started practicing in Denver. Judge Waterman has been successful in his profession being advisor to several large railroads and corporations. He was manager of the Coolidge pre-convention campaign in Colorado.

He married Miss Anna R. Coop of Burlington in 1890 and has resided since then in Denver.

For several years, Senator Waterman was a trustee of the University of Vermont. In 1922, the University conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws on her distinguished alumnus at the commencement exercises. Senator Waterman is a member of the Delta Psi fraternity. His election last fall was won by a large majority over his Democratic opponent.

Several graduates of the University of Vermont have been members of the Senate before, but it has been some time since a Vermonter has appeared in the Senate wing of the Capitol. The news of Senator Waterman's election was received very enthusiastically by the many Vermont graduates.

BATTERY CANDIDATES PRACTICE IN THE CAGE

The first practice for battery candidates was held Wednesday afternoon in the cage. Coach Dresser, Assistant Coach Callopy and Dr. Aldinger were on hand to start the ball rolling for a successful season. It is still early and only about fifteen candidates presented themselves. Among the hurlers were "Lefty" Shoppe, "Lefty" Roarke, and Fogg from last year's squad. Moriarity another strong hurler, has not as yet shown up, but it is expected that he will make his appearance in a few days. Sloan is another man out looking for a chance to shoot them across for the Green and Gold this season. More candidates are looked for as soon as practice gets under way.

Aronson and Winchenback, the two backstop mainstays, have not come out yet, but are expected to be seen in their togs by next practice. Macomber, Chadwick and B. Bloomstrom, a Freshman, were the receivers for the first day. Coach Dresser gave the whole squad a little early season "dope" and also announced that practice would be held every afternoon. He put his men through a few exercises with Indian clubs and had them toss the ball around a while.

Conway, Valenti and Morse, infielders were also seen in the cage getting limbered up and picking up a few off the ground. The general call for infielders and outer gardners will probably come Monday or Tuesday. After the next call Coach Dresser plans to get in full swing so that he will be able to put a fast, hard-hitting team on the field for the first game with Catholic University on April 2.

The value of a dollar depends a good deal on the gumption of the owner.

FRATERNITIES BATTLE FOR BASKETBALL CUP

Three more games were played off in the Interfraternity series Tuesday night. From the results the dopester predicts Phi Delta Theta, Kappa Sigma and Phi Mu Delta to head their respective leagues. There should be much competition for the coveted cup.

Perhaps the most interesting game played was the one between the Phi Mu Delts and the Sigma Phis which went to the Phi Mus to the tune of 22 to 16. The first half was completed with the Phi Mu Delts leading by a 15 to 5 score. The Sigma Phis came back strong in the second half and for a time it looked like a win for them. Then Phi Mu Delta got going to set them back 22 to 16. Price and Manning were the big guns of the Phi Mus while Conway and Mace did good work for the Sigs.

The Phi Delts beat the Independents in another game by a score of 32 to 10. The game was not so one-sided as the score might indicate, although the Phi Delts led throughout the game.

Devose and Kropper did the scoring for the Phi Delts while Harwood and Scutales brothers were best for the Independents.

Delta Psi had little trouble in winning over the A. T. O. However there were bright spots of good defence by the A. T. Os. Winchenbach was about all the A. T. O. had. "Stretch" Norris had the old eye for the Delts. Score 37 to 17.

All the teams were well supported by their various cheering sections.

No chapel exercises were held on Wednesday. The hymn books have not arrived yet according to a notice signed by President Guy W. Bailey.

Representative Vermonters' Section to be New Feature in 1928 Ariel

Subscribers to Annual Will Elect Six Seniors, Who Represent Most Closely the Ideal Vermonter

A new section to be called the "Representative Vermonters" will be a new feature of the 1928 Ariel according to a statement made today by the editor, J. O. Phelps '28. The special section to be devoted to this feature will consist of 12 pages. On each of these pages will appear the photograph of a member of the Senior class who has been elected as one of the six representative men or women in the University of Vermont. Three men and three co-eds are to be elected.

Subscribers to the Ariel will alone have the privilege to vote for the candidates for this honor. According to the plan released, the voters will choose from a list of Senior candidates the three men and three women whom they think represent most closely the ideal type of college woman. All subscribers including those who have made only the initial payment as well as those who have already paid in full will be given the opportunity to make their choice. The members of the academic and medic Junior classes and the Sophomore teacher training classes are considered as subscribers.

Nominations by Petition

A petition system of nomination will be used. The backers of each candidate must secure 20 signers on a petition form furnished by the Ariel. No person may sign more than one petition. All eligible names must be handed in by Friday, March 11, to J. O. Phelps, W. F. Reagan, R. T. Holden or Elizabeth Billings. The complete list of nominations will be published in the Cynic on Tuesday, March 15. On Wednesday and Thursday, representatives of the Ariel will have a booth in the Old Mill corridor, at which a mimeographed ballot sheet will be given to each subscriber for marking. Men will vote on the men candidates only, and women on the women candidates.

Votes will be counted as soon as possible after voting is finished. No results will be made public until the annual is published. Every effort will be made to insure the secrecy of the winning candidates. Photographs of the 10 highest among the men and among the women will be collected so that even the winners themselves will not be aware of their selection.

The managers of the contest state positively that only subscribers will be allowed to participate in the choosing of the representative Vermonters. While the usual limit of the Ariel's edition has nearly been exhausted, the business manager, W. F. Reagan '28, announces that arrangements can be made to have more copies printed, if the demand warrants it.

JUNIOR NOTICE

A picture of the Junior class will be taken Saturday morning at ten o'clock, in front of the Library.

VOLUNTARY CHAPEL

The faculty seem to have placed our fate in our own hands with regard to ... chapel, and it would seem the duty of every student to keep the Wednesday morning service a voluntary affair. There is more than one reason for wanting to do this. Anything that is compulsory, it must be admitted, has just that much added distastefulness and why make chapel unpleasant for ourselves by this feeling of necessity. It would certainly be a matter of great convenience if the service were voluntary, and would also make it easier for certain individuals whose religious convictions are rather unsettled.

In as much as we do not have to go to chapel many of us may be slow about getting started and figure that the first two or three meetings will not matter so much. However good our intentions may be about going in the near future, this will be defeating our own good. The authorities are waiting to see if we are capable of exercising the freedom they are giving us by trying out voluntary chapel services, and it is up to us to assume the responsibility.

SIX SENIORS

We are informed that this year's Ariel will contain the pictures of the six Seniors who best represent the true Vermont spirit. Though many do not approve of the idea, yet since such a thing is to be done it is up to the student body to make the winners of the contest as truly representative of Vermont ideals as is possible.

We wonder what qualities a man or woman should possess to be voted such an honor. Straightforwardness of character, executive ability, and above all the ability for getting along with one's fellows, are points for consideration. Vermont tradition frowns upon a person who is not entirely above board, whose sentiments are not the same regardless of present company, or who in any way proves to be a poseur. Though modern times and advanced civilization have brought with them many superficialities, yet straightforwardness is still a trait that is honored at Vermont. The student who shows his or her ability to do things and to carry responsibility is looked up to in an unconscious way by the entire student body, and this quality is essential to the six honored Seniors. Vermont is proud of her democratic spirit and her cordial greetings and good feeling that exists about the campus, and here again we find the true spirit of our University expressing itself in the men and women who have best developed their personalities.

To pick the six Seniors who best represent Vermont is no easy task, but is one that deserves the earnest thought of those students who are eligible to vote.

There are still those who persist in handing in unsigned letters for publication in the Cynic. Such articles receive no attention from the Editors.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

One could not be in the city over the week-end of the Kake Walk and not hear a great deal of comment concerning the decisions. Since there is so much comment being made I think that it is a very good time for the student body to find some remedy for the situation which has existed for some time. However if something is to be accomplished which will be constructive mud-throwing and bickering between the fraternities is certainly not the way to do it. As I think that the only way to get at the situation is to speak frankly and not use insinuations to let the reader guess what one means, I shall endeavor to do so in the following paragraphs.

There has been for some time a very strong feeling that if the judges were selected from some other source and by some other means that we would have a more satisfactory type of Kake Walk. Everyone likes to have an original and varied program; if however the judges persist through several years to give the decision to the same type of stunt, the result will be that all the stunts will become more or less standardized. I believe that this will happen, for unless fraternities have changed a great deal, they do not put on stunts for the mere joy of participation, but to win prizes, and if they believe that one type of stunt will win, because of the precedent which has been established, then that is the type of stunt that they will put on, or at least one which is very much like it. It is from this source that trouble over Kake Walk arises.

We all like to look for something tangible on which to throw the blame and thus the Kappa Sigma fraternity gets much of it. If they observe the type of stunt to which the judges award the prize and then proceed to write one of that type, why should we criticize them? They have accepted the standardized type of stunt. I do not believe that the Kappa Sigma fraternity enjoys putting on flag-waving stunts any more than any other fraternity, for the present tendency is away from that sort of thing, but if it wins prizes then why blame them for using that type of stunt. However if we were to have judges that have seen several Kake Walks and who are also experienced in some branch of dramatics then I think we would find all of the fraternities bringing their stunt up to the best they could produce in originality, and variety, thus giving the audience a very delightful evening's entertainment. We do not have actors in our courts judging cases for us and so why do we persist in having lawmakers act as judges of our Kake Walk?

I think that all of those interested in Kake Walk would like to see something done about this situation, but in order to have this accomplished the fraternities must get together and work out the solution, not stand at arms length and throw hard words at one another.

AN ALUMNUS (ALUMNUS No. 2).

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

I am an "out-of-stater," so that ye fond reader may be very sure that any compliments herein contained are not actuated by any biased motive.

Three years ago, I came to Vermont, which was in itself a matter of pure originality, no one in my section of the horridly metropolitan country to the South being aware apparently that such an institution existed. My first intimate acquaintance held before me a vision of "Kake Walk" which was alluring in the extreme. The very name sounded interesting and intriguing to me, with the result that I looked up the history of this annual event for my own edification, and found that the entire function was the startling result of the originality of thirty years before.

I witnessed a "Kake Walk," and saw more evidences of clear, unmuddied originality than I ever expect to see again outside of this particular function of the Vermont college year.

One may conclude most fairly that the "Green Mountain State" has been a plentiful producer of that exceedingly valuable asset, Originality. If this is doubted, witness the slightly refined methods of authorized piracy employed during the early evolution (allow me the word) of the state, in the good old days of Saint Ethan Allen and rum, when Vermont was progressing. But here I wander off on paths where my alien feet are forbidden the right to trespass.

To continue with "Kake Walk": The second that I saw impressed me nearly as much as the first, with the possible reservation that the good old mountain originality in its true green form seemed a bit lacking in one or two instances.

I have just returned from my third "Kake Walk," and may I state here that my return was shrouded in a chastened haze; youth at last discovers its errors.

I am thankful that I attended this particular performance and its sequel, for it will make me an infinitely better citizen of Vermont for the remainder of my college days. I shall abide strictly by her laws and statutes in so far as modern habiliments and customs of another part of the country will allow me. Should I, however, by some unavoidable circumstance, be caught in the toils of the law, may Heaven fend for me. Such judging as I have recently witnessed would make the Spanish Inquisition resemble an R. O. T. C. court-martial by comparison.

"The people's choice" hereabouts seems to totally lack originality.

In effect, it is disheartening to me to think that in the course of a year or two (if events follow their present course of movement), the merit of the various fraternity stunts will depend wholly upon the moving-picture and publishing industries. It disheartens me because my dearest friends are all members of the Vermont student body, and some of them are destined to remain here longer than I.

I can see one benefit in such a continuance: The younger generation will continue to show a knowledge of current pictorial and literary productions far superior to that of their elders.

Now must I retire in order that during the waking hours of daylight which remain of this the Sabbath after "Kake Walk," I may efficiently attempt, at least, to eliminate my opposing bit of faculty advantage occassioned by two weeks and more of hard work on the part of the student body which has not pertained directly to the scholastic.

May this small morsel of personal expression one day find its way to light, and perhaps help a bit to boost "Kake Walk" originality back to its old high standard.

Peradventure mellow, pleasing, originality will reign again in spite of * * * * * O, lots of things.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE TRIES COMPLETE REVOLUTION IN TEACHING METHODS

The new "self directed study plan" of Antioch College (Ohio) has been characterized as the "most daring attempt of an American college in the last ten years" to put its students on their own. The plan has not yet been developed in detail, but the main features have been outlined in The Antiochian.

At the center of the plan is the idea of abolishing all mass method and permitting every student to do independent work to his own capacity, at his own speed, with his own resources—the teacher acting as helper and advisor in the pinches.

The semester's work in every subject will be carefully outlined and every student allowed to master it in his own way. The only requirement will be that he pass the periodic examinations and cover the work. Lecture rooms will be turned into study rooms.

The semester's work in every subject will be carefully outlined and every student allowed to master it in his own way. He will be required only to cover the work and pass the examinations: not to attend lectures or go through rituals. Lecture rooms will be turned into study rooms where instructors and student assistants will be ready to help on particular problems. No student is to apply for aid till he has done all he can for himself. Frequent individual conferences with instructors and group discussions will take the place of classes; but lectures will supplement the other work if it is found they are needed.

VERMONT FROSH WRITES ODE TO THE PACIFIC

In the Free Press for February 16, 1927 there appeared the following poem by Robert E. McGee '30 of Natick, Mass.

ODE TO THE PACIFIC

Oh! Great Pacific, broad and deep
So calm and peaceful in your sleep,
Your gently heaving bosom blue
Informs the curious world that you
Could never rant and rave and roar
And storm the bulwarks of your shore
Till, when thy thundering voice they hear,
The good-folk tremble in their fear.

Upon thy breast so still, so calm,
The tropic sun shines bright and warm.
The mermaids here may sport and play
And never know a dull, gray day;
The seagull here oft checks his flight
And, sure of safety through the night,
He seeks his couch upon thy breast
And to thy foam commends his rest.

Thy swells, Oh Sea, caress the feet
Of tow'ring cliffs, as if 'twere meet
That they should thus express to man
The peace that was their Maker's plan.
Through caverns unexplored by ma...
To him unknown their depth and ...
Is heard your deep majestic ...
The voice that calls to ... your ...
The hardy mariner of yore
Who lived, who loved—and was ... more.

Upon thy slowly heaving breast
I fain would lay me down to rest
There, sheltered in thy ... blue
I'd know the peace thy children ...
Upon thy wave, with pleasure ...
I'd know no more the cares of life
Till, sheltered 'neath thy foam, ...
I'd sleep in peace, Oh! Sea for ...

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

When you get what you want, you usually want it—usually. At least that seems to be the case with a great many people who are out for various activities on campus. The zest of competition and ambition carries with it a thrill to the "making" of an organization which interests her: whether literary, musical or athletic. But once the coveted membership is achieved there remains nothing to be gained from further endeavor. Enthusiasm dies a hard death sometimes, but ultimately it gets them all. Perhaps the officers keep up a semblance of activity, and succeed in spurring on the members to some interest. But it is a difficult task, at the most, and usually a thankless one.

The secret of any successful organization lies in the spirit of its members—the spirit to carry on. The lack of this spirit with the resultant lack in cooperation, general efficiency and lowered morale is one of the outstanding problems of our campus. Its solution rests with each individual unit. Each knows what her own failings is, and knows, too, that it is through better individual work that the general standing of the organization of which she is a distinct part, will improve. As a member, she has definite responsibilities which cannot be ignored. And if she realizes this, and strives to cooperate both generally and specifically, then the progress of Vermont's activities will speed on with each semester, stronger and better: a source of inspiration and incentive to the students, and a credit to the university which fosters: studiis et rebus honestis.

SKATING PARTY IS HELD AT CHIOTT'S TUESDAY

The skating party, three times postponed by inclement weather, was held at Chiott's rink Tuesday evening and was well attended by people from the hill. Lights and red flares around the rink and overhead made pleasant effects on the ice. Miss Phillips and her partner gave an exhibition of dancing and balancing glides. Miss Cummings and Miss Blanchard assisted beginners. At one end of the rink instructions were given in fancy skating. There was music throughout the evening.

Twelve girls have learned to skate during the season at Chiott's, and the cooperation between instructors and skaters has been especially good.

FIFTH ANNUAL WINTER CARNIVAL TO BE HELD ON COMING SATURDAY

Provided King Sol is kind-hearted, tomorrow at 2:15 p. m., the bugle will announce the official opening of the annual winter carnival. The officials have been appointed, and events will be run off in regular order. The ladies of the faculty have signified their intention of witnessing the spectacle, and as there is undoubtedly interest among the students, the prospects of a good audience are decidedly favorable.

There are going to be three prizes for each event. The class getting the most points, will get five points toward the All-Sports Cup, which is awarded at the Spring Rally. Then there will be individual honor for the person winning the most points. And a prize goes to the dormitory having the most girls in attendance.

The awarding of emblems will be the feature of the afternoon. For the first time, a V will be given a university girl. In addition four sweaters, and several U. V. M.'s will be awarded.

Refreshments in the form of hot wennies roasted over the bon-fire will add to the general fun.

HEALTH COUNCIL NOTES

Just at present we are having the best of weather for outdoor sports that we have had all winter. Let everyone get out and make a final try at skiing, skating, and snowshoeing. Never mind if you don't know much about it, every bit of practice this year will help you so much next. The Winter Carnival this week ought to give everyone a chance to get out, have a few laughs, and also see some good performances. Let's not have all of this perfectly good snow wasted. Get out and give your skiis a good try before they are put up for the rest of the year.

BLUESTOCKINGS MEET

Bluestockings Society will hold its first meeting of the second semester at Grassmount, Tuesday, March 1, at 8 o'clock. Members are urged to submit one-act plays, but stories or verse in lieu will be accepted.

HELPFUL ADVICE FOR CO-EDS

If you wear gay colors and startling hats, man will hesitate to take you out, but if you wear quiet colors he will take you out and lose both eyes on some female in orange or red. If you are a "snake" hates to have you meet his mother or sister and if you are a flapper he inevitably remarks to his fraternity brothers that you are only a kid trying to be wicked. If you are the sweet old fashioned clinging vine type, he doubts if you have any brains. If you are the advanced modern independent type, he doubts if you have any hearts or scruples.

If you are too affectionate and allow him to embrace you he tires of your kisses and if you do not he gets offended at the start. If you are boyish and cute he longs for a soul mate and if you are brilliant and deep he longs for a playmate.

If you join him in his vices—drinking, swearing and the like, he swears you are driving him to the devil, whereas, if you do not he takes you home early and goes out with someone who will.

If you flatter him he thinks it is your line. If you do not he wonders why not. If you are jealous of him he cannot endure you and if you are not he simply cannot understand you. If you always agree, you cease to interest him, and if you do not you cease to charm him.

If you call him or write him a quiet hint he is convinced that you are trying to "rush" him. If you admire his wonderful fraternity pin he thinks you are scheming to obtain the fool thing. If he asks you to wear it and you refuse he is terribly hurt. And so on—

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

At the new John Wesley College in [illegible] Illinois, dances, athletics and fraternities are barred and the use of liquor or tobacco is tabooed. Why not ban students and make a good job of it?

Hugh Butchart a student of the University of Denver was kidnaped and tapped into unconsciousness by two masked men for helping, as vice-president of the Thinkers Club to organize a debate on marriage between a progressive and Judge Ben Lindsey. Miss Lillian Snyder his fiancee, who was with him when he was seized by the masked band and dragged into an automobile, was reported prostrated with worry and shock. The Harvard Havoc

Now that the smoke of battle and bandages have cleared away, we can [illegible] to see a few of the things connecting the now [illegible] famous Harvard Havoc which took place last week. These so-called "riots" are an integral part of every great university here and abroad, and are regarded as [illegible] institutions. Every university has them and is proud of them—that is, if not the faculty, the graduates. However Harvard has certainly learned one thing from the recent encounter, that is that the Harvard men are unspeakably SOFT. Each man as he is sent to college anywhere, hears from his father and friends about the great fights which it will be his duty as an undergraduate to perpetuate. They also hear how their Dads with the class of —— had taken the badges away from the policemen and made them sing songs and dance and so forth. However the policeman of then and now are two different species. In those days a policeman was chosen chiefly upon his ability to wear a nice long drooping moustache in a cute, coy manner. Nowadays the metropolitan policemen are great big brutes who know how to fight and furthermore have no regard for the private right of college students or for that matter anyone who wants to start a fight, private or otherwise. The police of Boston are especially well qualified to handle college men as the result of their very frequent contacts with them. Besides all this, a metropolitan policeman is not especially noted for his kindness to sailors or soldiers or college students.

So—the other evening when the Harvard boys had finished amusing themselves by playfully deluging the actors of the University Theatre with decayed fruit and other inviting missiles they decided that it was about time to stage a "rescue" party. So taking the excuse that one of their number required rescuing (no one yet knows who it was) they started in by assaulting the college police force which consists of two men. They were not very successful in this as one of them notified the Boston police and then the famous battle began. Imagine if you can, a thousand furry warriors descending upon thirty mere policemen and, receiving a terrible defeat. The casualties of the Harvard forces were terrific and the policemen in spite of the superior number of the attacking party were able to arrest about fifty and break up the mob. It is indeed a sad spectacle to see a thousand college men quelled by a mere handful of policemen and all the Harvard graduates certainly must be heartily ashamed of the present undergraduate body. One of the Boston Technical schools recently staged a riot which was a huge success and every one was happy, they accomplished something which they could justly be very proud of and something which the graduates could mention with pride. And then there is the famous battle which Yale featured last year in the spring. Both of these affairs did much to keep the romance of college fresh in the minds of the public. However, this last affair which was conducted by Harvard was a very sad failure and the entire college body of the country feels the stigma as keenly as the Harvard men do.

This is a very serious condition to have in this country and it is sincerely hoped that at the next meeting of the Alumni Council of Harvard that they will provide the necessary means of protecting the student body from such insidious attacks by the inconsiderate police. So the entire student body of the country joins Harvard in its bereavement.

Yours for bigger and better riots.
Senator Snodgrass

HOOPSTERS ALLOW THE CRIMSON TO WIN GAME

The Harvard basketball team turned back the Vermont hoopsters, 32 to 28, in a whirlwind game at the Hemenway gym February 23. With three minutes left to play the score was tied at 24 all. Bailey, who had just entered the game in place of Dorn at right forward, caged two goals in rapid succession that gave Harvard the lead and the game.

Harvard led at half time, 17 to 11. Prentice, left forward of the visitors, was the individual star of the contest, scoring six goals from the floor and one from the foul line. Greene, Harvard center, almost approached his total, with 11 points made by netting four goals and three free tries. Barbee and Malick, Harvard guards, played almost as well on the offense as on the defense. Leekly and Slocumb also played well for the Crimson. Price and Marvin did some great work for the Vermont quintet, but could not overcome Harvard's superior passing attack. The line-up and summary:

Harvard		Vermont
Dorn, Bailey	r. f.	Prentice
Leekly, Slocumb, Eaton	l. f.	Post
Greene	c.	Marvin

CATAMOUNTS TO PLAY SPRINGFIELD TONIGHT IN RETURN CONTEST

Vermont Hoopsters Are Determined to Break the Red and White's Winning Streak—Price to Take Guard Position

After an absence of two weeks from the home court the Green and Gold quintet will take on the fast Springfield five on the gym surface tonight. From the looks of last Tuesday's game with the Red and White the contest this evening should be a hard battle. The Vermont boys are going into this scrap with the determination to win and by a large score and thus break up Springfield's winning streak. From report of Tuesday's game Vermont played on even terms with the Red and White all through the game only to lose out on a bit of hard luck in the final minutes of play. With this in mind the Green and Gold quintet will go into to-night's contest to show the down country boys who is the best team and that their last win was pure luck.

The fans who attend this game will see "Kiki" Price back in action again tonight and he is out to show the Red and White that he can score points as well as hold down a position in the back court. Down at Springfield he was held scoreless by his man, a thing that has never happened before in his basketball history at Vermont. The Vermont line-up will be further strengthened by the return of Pike a substitute guard who will undoubtedly be seen in action before the game is over.

"Doc" Marvin will hold down the center court job and is also out for revenge over Springfield as Doc's man ran kind of wild last Tuesday night.

If Vermont gets any kind of a lead they will probably keep going and as fast and as hard as they can for the Red and White showed that they can make a comeback no matter what the odds are, against them. Vermont had the Springfield boys 21 to 7 at one stage of the game and this lead during the second half looks like a sure win for most any team but accidents will happen and boys will be boys.

The line-ups:

Vermont	Springfield
Prentice, r. f.	r. f., James
Post, l. f.	l. f., Duncan
Marvin, c.	c., Wagner
Price, r. g.	r. g., Erickson
Estabrook, l. g.	l. g., Bitgood

To Kake Walk Committees

The Directors of the Thirtieth Annual Kake Walk take this opportunity to thank all those who did so much to make Kake Walk in 1927 successful. We believe that the assistant directors of this year will, as directors next year, stage a production which will uphold the reputation Kake Walk has made for itself.

To the committees we owe a most hearty vote of appreciation, for upon them rested the details of a somewhat naturally unwieldy performance. Never have we known the duties of the seating committee to be carried out so well or with less expense. For this, much credit is due Chairman Aronson and his able committee as well as the Freshmen who displayed the truest sort of Vermont spirit.

The work of the ushering committee probably never went more smoothly than this year under the direction of Chairman Phelps and his committee. We wish to express our appreciation of the fine work done by the co-eds as ushers, who were so well made up and directed by Miss Loretta Jennings.

A most difficult and yet highly essential factor in Kake Walk is good lighting, which we feel could not be better managed than it was by "Ozzie" Nye, chairman of the [illegible] committee.

It has been remarked that the advertising of Kake Walk [illegible] weak point in the [illegible] happily there is nothing [illegible] dation for S. H. Martin and [illegible] mittee for the well managed [illegible] ing of this year.

The Peerade was [illegible] form and more [illegible] due to the efforts of Chairman [illegible] and his assistants.

Some of the best Walkin' [illegible] Kake in years was [illegible] Thirtieth Annual Kake Walk. Walkin' fo' de Kake was [illegible] rection of C. H. Blackall and [illegible] mittee.

The stunts this year were in opinion of many, above the and exceedingly well timed and aged. Chairman L. H. Aronson committee are to be congratulated this. The audience was well [illegible] of the program of the evening announcer O. F. Parody.

Last, but far from least we [illegible] thank the fraternities for [illegible] work and effort which are in real essence of the success of Walk not only this year but in year that Kake Walk is presented.

Let old Squire Pipe be the judge...

His HONOR, old Squire Pipe is unquestionably the world's ablest judge of pipe tobaccos. Who else is by nature, training and experience so well-qualified to try a tobacco and hand down a decision on it? . . So, in the case of Granger Rough Cut, the plea is that Judge Pipe's verdict be accepted as FINAL!

To make a long brief brief: Character witnesses everywhere have sworn to Granger's sterling quality. Experts have vouched for the superiority of its rough cut. Chemists have testified that the new "glassine-sealed" foil-pouch keeps the tobacco in perfect condition.

Finally, it has been shown that by using this foil-pouch (instead of a costly tin) it is possible to sell Granger at just ten cents. On these arguments Granger rests its case! A couple of pipefuls will convince Squire Pipe that it is the world's greatest pipe tobacco . . . and any good judge of tobaccos will confirm the decision!

GRANGER
ROUGH CUT

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the foil-pouch package, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

Made for pipes only!

VERMONT BEATS TUFTS ON QUESTION OF WAR DEBTS CANCELLATION

Home Team Debators are Given Unanimous Decision By Judges Employing American System On Points

The Vermont Debating Team, upholding the negative of the question, resolved that the United States should cancel the loans made to its associates during the World War,' defeated the representatives of Tufts college by an unanimous vote of the judges. The decision was rendered on the ability of the speakers, and not on the merits of the question. In this debate the American system was employed in which each speaker has ten minutes for constructive argument and two minutes for rebuttal.

The Tufts team was composed of Ernest Adams, Hugh F. McKenna, James E. Nickerson, and Raymond J. Pye, alternate. For Vermont, the speakers were Carl H. Wedell, Lawrence A. Hince, and Emory C. Mower. The discussion throughout was spirited. The affirmative based their claim on the arguments that it was impossible for the debtor nations to pay without great sacrifice on their part, and injury to the industries of the United States, and that this country was indebted to Europe for fighting her battles. The negative contended that the debts, being legal and moral debts, should be paid, that Europe could pay, and that it was possible for the debtors to fulfill their contract without injury to the business interest of the United States.

Mr Leon W. Dean of the English department acted as chairman. The judges were Harry L. Ford, secretary of the Burlington Chamber of Commerce, Harold W. Buzzell, local manager of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Alton R Briggs, General Agent for the National Life Insurance Company.

NEWS IN BRIEF

All Freshmen who appeared before Gold Key at the latter's party last Wednesday night at the Kappa Sigma house, have been acting as sandwich men on the campus advertising the Springfield game.

Monthly examinations are being held in many courses this week.

Geno B. Lucarini '24, instructor in mechanical engineering has returned to his classes after being absent over two months on a sick leave. C. E. Fast who substituted for Mr. Lucarini has been relieved of his duties.

Freshmen who are accustomed to make strenuous objections to erecting and demolishing the basketball bleachers were put to work erecting the bleachers by Gold—Key last Friday evening. Although the Women's Glee Club concert was to be held in the gymnasium last Saturday, the bleachers are to be allowed to remain standing until after the Norwich game.

Tentative plans for Junior week are about ready for publication, according to a statement made by Sabin Odell '28, chairman of Junior Week. There are still a few minor events which must be arranged for before the program is announced. It is expected that several new and interesting features will be added to this year's program, if early reports from committee chairmen are to be believed.

Garrison Householder '28 was severely burned about the head and shoulders in chemistry laboratory last Wednesday afternoon, due to an explosion of chemicals he was mixing. He was taken immediately to the Mary Fletcher Hospital and is now resting comfortably at his home.

The Newman Club held a dance at the rooms of the Catholic Daughters of America on Friday evening. Dancing was enjoyed by a large number of students from 9 to 12 o'clock.

According to a report received recently, the Vermont Rifle Team was defeated by Johns Hopkins by the score of 1388 to 1364.

The Junior class picture which was to be taken last Saturday, was postponed on account of snow. The date for picture has not been definitely decided yet.

Professor E. C. Jacobs and several of his classes in geology spent Monday afternoon at Rock Point on Burlington Bay. The students examined the overthrust fault which is present at the Point.

Requests have come to the Cynic office to publish the result of the vote taken at the Friday performance of the Kake Walk. Investigation by a Cynic reporter shows that only a handful of votes were cast and that the votes were therefore not a true expression of the opinion of the audience. It is quite probable that the feature of allowing the audience to vote, will be dropped next year.

FORMAL INITIATIONS OF FOUR FRATERNITIES ARE HELD THIS WEEK

Several fraternities are holding formal initiations of new members this week. Kappa Sigma and Zeta Chi held their initiations last evening. Delta Pst and Phi Delta Theta will initiate on Friday.

Kappa Sigma fraternity held its formal initiation at the fraternity house. The following men from the Class of '29 were initiated: H. C. Adams, Burlington; F. S. Bird, Bristol, Conn.; E. P. Bigelow, Shrewsbury, Mass.; J. Elliot, Manchester; H. E. Stearns, Rutherford, N. J.; L. W. Meehan, Fitchburg, Mass.; and J. C. Puffer, St. Johnsbury.

The Zeta Chi Fraternity held their formal initiation at the fraternity house. The initiates were: W. F. Stuart '29, Burlington; A. A. Piche '29, Winooski; Russell Gage '30, Manchester, N. H.; James Foster '30, Stowe.

WILBUR IS MENTIONED IN CURRENT REPORT OF LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS

Donor of Ira Allen Chapel Has Subscribed a Liberal Endowment For Library—Has Aided in Securing Valuable Photostats

Considerable mention is made in the last report of the Librarian of Congress, December 6, 1926, of Hon. James B. Wilbur, of Vermont. Mr. Wilbur, who is compiling a history of Ira Allen and presented the recently dedicated Ira Allen Chapel to the University of Vermont, is a member of the Library of Congress Trust Fund Board, designed to take and administer endowments for the benefit of the Library, its collections or its service. Mr. Wilbur himself has subscribed a liberal gift as one such endowment.

The cooperation among libraries having special collections of importance to students of history is fast increasing, with the development of the photostat as an adjunct to library administration. The photostat makes possible a reproduction of pages of manuscripts, records and books. Several photostats have been secured by the Congressional Library during the past year through the fund made available by Mr. Wilbur. Among these is a "Correct Map of Burlington, Vt.," by William Coit, 1810, presented by Mr Wilbur. For hints as to where other rare maps may be found credit is also given Mr. Wilbur.

A sketch of Mr Wilbur and a full page photograph are also included in the report. "Mr. Wilbur, a native of Cleveland, Ohio, after a varied career in finance and industry (ill health took him early to Colorado after he had already established himself in New England in the railroad and iron business, he became a rancher, and later a banker, organizer, and president of a national bank, and from 1891 president of the Royal Trust Co of Chicago), having retired from affairs in 1909 and established a home in Manchester, Vt., is an ardent collector of Americana and investigation in American history, and particularly the history of New England, the promotion of which also he aids by membership in and support of numerous historical societies, including the Massachusetts Historical Society, the New York Historical Society, and the American Antiquarian Society."

Snap shots of all Juniors must be handed in this week to Marjorie Wood, Julian Phelps or any other member of the Ariel Board. A snap shot is to appear in the year book with each photograph.

SENATE TO DECIDE ON FUTURE MEETING DATE

Student Senate held its regular weekly meeting at room 1 South College last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Due to the change in schedule brought about by introducing chapel services on Wednesday, the half hour given over on Saturday for Student Senate has been abolished. The Senate had a discussion on the time for future meeting, but no decision was reached. A meeting will be held Friday, March 4 at 1.30 p. m. At that time, the time of regular meetings will be decided.

A committee consisting of senators Simpson '27, Blackall '27 and Gustafson '29 was appointed to look in the matter of furnishing a cup for the winners of honorable mention in Kake Walking. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion in the Senate that the couple winning second place in the main event of the Kake Walk should be suitably rewarded. The committee was instructed to approach various societies on the Hill to see if one of the societies would award the cup. The Senators also approved a bill from the treasurer to pay for the loving cup given to the winners of the inter-fraternity winter sports meet last Kake Walk.

NEW HEATING SYSTEM FOR VERMONT MUSEUM

A new heating system is being installed in the museum, owing to the recent accident which damaged many of the relics in the Cannon Room. The system will be attached to the boiler installed last summer which heats the new Chapel and the Library. This system will not permit a reocurrence of the disastrous pipe break, as pressure is not necessary to return the water to the boiler.

Two new cases are also being installed in the building which will relieve the overcrowded condition of the other cases on the first floor.

STEREOPTICON LECTURE BY PROFESSOR SHAPLEY DRAWS MANY LISTENERS

"Evolution of the Stars and Man" Subject of Lecture By Director of Harvard Astronomical Observatory

Professor Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Astronomical Observatory, addressed a large group of students, faculty, and townspeople at the Gymnasium last Thursday evening at eight. The subject of his lecture was "The Evolution of the Stars and Man," and was illustrated throughout by stereopticon slides.

The subject was presented in a very interesting manner by Professor Shapley, who kept his audience good natured by his humor. Several pictures of star clusters, of nebulae, of sections of the galaxy or milky way, of the planets, and representative drawings of our sidereal universe were thrown upon the screen and the spots of interest in each picture were pointed out.

Doctor Shapley showed by slides of spectra of the different stars just how their chemical make-up is determined. Each gas or chemical element has its own individual color when shown through a spectroscope. Thus a picture of the spectroscope of the stars show their chemical make-up.

Anyone's general idea of evolution is confined to the earth. Professor Shapley showed that it extended much further, and explained that the earth evolved directly from the sun after an enormous gap of time. Human bodies are composed of the same chemical as the sun, such as hydrogen, oxygen, calcium, etc. The only difference is that the elements in human bodies are solidified, while those in the sun are in a gaseous form. He also showed how the sun was evolved from a huge mass of gas. This mass contracted and became hot, after this process had continued for many millions of years the mass began to cool. The sun is

Catamounts Repulse Springfield in Most Exciting Contest of Season

Vermont Quintet Turns Tables on Red and White and Wins 20 to 17—Estabrook Holds James Star Springfield Forward and Tallies Five Points Himself

In the fastest and most exciting game of the season Vermont turned back the unbeaten Springfield quintet by a 20 to 17 score. Revenge is sweet and if you don't believe it ask any member of the Vermont team. After having a 25 to 11 set back down at Springfield last Tuesday the boys came back in great style and in the most perfectly played contest ever witnessed by any crowd of fans attending a Vermont game. The playing of Estabrook was easily the feature of the game both on the offense and the defense. He was all over the court at once and seemed to be the only Vermont player who had his eye with him last Friday night. The game was never a sure victory for either team the lead swayed back and forth all during the game. James of the visitors was easily the star for the Red and White.

If ever a Vermont team deserved to win the Green and Gold did on Friday night for the simple reason that they had no breaks and everything they got they earned and worked mighty hard for. Time after time Friday night Vermont men would shoot the ball only to have it roll off the hoop no matter where they shot from. Springfield also came in for their share of hard luck because they also missed a large percentage of their shots. Although "Doc" Marvin failed to make any points he played a whale of a game and held his man, Wagner to five points which was some different than down at Springfield where Wagner rung up six baskets and a foul.

The red head of Estabrook was everywhere on Friday night and he sure lived up to his reputation of being a star performer. He seemed to be everywhere on the floor and came through with the baskets at critical moments. Added to this he held James scoreless throughout the entire game which is some job for any man because James is one of the best forwards in the East.

A college record was probably established in this game when only four points were scored during 13 minutes of play. Vermont obtained both their points by fouls both by Prentice while Springfield rung up theirs on a basket by Duncan. Prentice made 5 out of 7 tosses during the game and one of these clinched the game for Vermont. With 29 seconds to play Vermont was on the long end of a 19 to 17 score. Springfield needed only one basket to tie. Here Prentice's ability as a basketball player showed up when he was called on to shoot a foul with the final outcome of the game hanging in balance. But "Bunny" came through and rung up the extra point and clinched the game for Vermont.

The old reliable "Kiki" Price was back on the job again Friday and he sure made his presence known. He played a whale of a game many times last Friday night he took the ball off the backboard to start it up the floor for a score. "Kiki's" height and long arms came in handy for there was plenty of shooting on both sides. He also heaved in the basket that sent Vermont into the lead with one minute and thirty seconds to play.

Archie Post also came in for his share of honors and the fans saw why he has been a regular forward for three years. There was no man on the floor Friday night with more fight than "Archie" Post. Time after time he took the ball away from a Springfield man when he least expected it and "Archie" was given a great hand by the crowd.

Duncan was high point man for the Red and White with 3 baskets and 2 fouls. He seemed to have his eye right with him all during the game and rung up a couple from mid court.

From the tap off anyone could see that both teams were out for blood and it was not long before Duncan had rung up a twin counter from the center. Prentice was fouled and made one. The game went along for about 5 minutes before any more scoring was done and then Prentice made another foul tying the count. For six minutes no body scored and there was plenty of scrapping for the ball during this time. Wagner opened up with a foul and Prentice with another. Duncan made a basket putting Springfield once more in the lead. With only 30 seconds to play Prentice brought the house down with a twin counter from the center of the floor ending the scoring for the

SENIORS FAVOR FREE THINKING IN AMERICA

At the Senior debate held last Friday a team composed of Alfred Phelps and Stafford won a decision over Aplin Rowe and Lyon. The winners upheld the negative of the question Resolved: That Congress should suppress all societies advocating the overthrow of the U. S. government by force or violence. The debate was characterized by forceful speeches by both sides and the decision was very close.

CELEBRATED RUSSIAN CHOIR WILL APPEAR HERE FRIDAY EVENING

Singers Under Leadership of Kibalchich Give Concert in Gymnasium Under Management of Arthur Dow

The world celebrated Russian Symphonic Choir is to appear at the university gymnasium on Friday evening, March 4, under the management of Arthur Dow. It will be its first appearance in Vermont.

The Choir has received many flattering tributes on its American tours. One of the most remarkable criticisms accorded this unique organization was by the Boston Evening Transcript, which wrote as follows:

"The singing last evening was almost beyond belief. It was not the periodic or sporadic rise and fall, the continual ebb and flow of a normal chorus, but the subtle and marvellous flexion of a complex and living organ. Mr Kibalchich has made a particular study of the humming tone, the tight lipped headtone, and the rounder sonorities of the full throated bass. It is in the daring and original employment of these that a shifting brilliance of the vibration makes the legato string or the clinching pizzicato. Nor must there be the most imaginative mind to fancy the piquant oboe or the dry and biting bassoon."

Indeed it needs little imagination to hear the various instruments of the orchestra in the individual voices of the Russian Choir. Mr. Kibalchich selects his voices with careful regard to timbre and his frequent use of the hummed tone creates the illusion of a human orchestra. Very often the bass accompaniment resembles closely the percussion section of the orchestra. Sometimes one can clearly distinguish the saxophone the cello the muted violin. Local music lovers may well look forward to the forthcoming concert by the Russian Symphonic Choir which has been acclaimed in the large music centers as the most perfect choir ever heard.

VARSITY DEBATERS ARE TO MEET EIGHT TEAMS

This years debating varsity will participate in 8 collegiate debates. It is expected that four of the contests will take place in Burlington, while the remainder will be debated on a trip to various colleges in New England and Pennsylvania. Tufts College has already been defeated by a Vermont team upholding the negative of the proposition Resolved: That the United States Should Cancel the War Debts Owed by the Allies.

Manager Emory Mower '27 has completed the debating schedule and announces it as follows:

Debates in which Vermont will uphold the negative:

BASKETBALL

The Springfield game was surely a treat for anyone to witness. It is very seldom that two teams come together each possessing such skill and so evenly matched. There were no weak spots, but every man starred in his position especially Estabrook, who showed surprising ability both on the defensive and offensive, and whose team is assisted by holding his opponent to a zero score. Marvin showed some clever tricks in keeping the ball out of reach of the Springfield men, while Post did some very effective work getting hold of the ball. Prentice could not make quite so many points against this team as against some others, but he was high point man of the game, and as for Price, it would seem that a little sickness left him in trim for a good showing.

The spirit of the game was remarkable. Ill feeling and foul play were suppressed and although the fastest, yet this game was probably the cleanest one seen at Vermont this year. The Springfield men deserve much credit for their spirit as well as for their skill and the same may be said of our men.

Our chances for the New England championship do not look very good with three defeats against us, yet we have good reason to feel proud of our record. Apart from the game played on the Springfield floor there was a large element of luck in our defeats, and this is no discredit to the team or to us. Springfield is undoubtedly the strongest team in New England exclusive of our University and we have lost to that team by two points and won from them by three points.

Prentice will undoubtedly stand at the head of the list of individual players of New England and Price is well up in the list. Both of these men, as well as Estabrook will be with us next year.

DEBATING

Debating took on a sudden interest last night at Norwich with the defeat of the Tufts team last Thursday night in past years interest has been held down by the deadening effect that defeat seems to bring with it, not that all the debaters have ended in defeat, but we must confess that that has been the outcome in the majority of cases. Now to start off the season with glorious victory. The team this year has very good material in it, and substitutes ready if called upon who are nearly as good as the first three. The ability of the men is quite equally distributed, leaving no weak spots, a contrast to the recent teams which have featured some one or two stars but which have not been at all well balanced. Accordingly, it is with much interest that we await further results from our varsity debaters.

THE COMING NORWICH GAME

With the basketball season now nearing the end, the Green and Gold are counting on winning all of their remaining games. The State Championship already belongs to the Catamounts not yet having met defeat at the hands of any State team. Norwich will invade the Green and Gold court Tuesday night in an attempt to mar the Catamounts' clean slate. Vermont defeated the soldiers in their first game, 32-17, and should repeat this victory, but the cadet teams always play their strongest game against the Green and Gold and this is not to be looked on as a cinch game.

The strongest player on the Norwich quintet is Bedell, who is a fast, clever player, with an eagle eye. He can be used as a center or a forward and in either position he will need considerable watching. Hourin, the cadet's right guard, is one of the best defense men in the state and capable of taking care of a fast man. The rest of the soldiers' lineup will probably be the same as before, with Aimi, the other defense man, Molter, tapping them off and Plumley occupying the other forward berth.

Vermont with her smooth-working team will undoubtedly start its regular lineup, although the relief men will probably see service before the final whistle. Prentice, the high-scoring man of the state will be seen in his forward position and Post will team up with him in the front court. The middle of the picture will show Capt. Marvin jumping. He is having his best season of basketball since playing for the Green and Gold and will be missed next year. "Kiki" Price, who has entirely recovered from his recent illness, will be back at his defensive position. The other guard post will be held down by "Red" Estabrook, who is playing brilliant basketball, such as he displayed to the fans against Springfield. "Red" is only a sophomore and he has the making of one of the best athletes that Vermont has ever known.

If the Catamounts uncork the same brand of basketball that they did here against Springfield, the cadets' chances are rather slim. With the defense that was used against the "student coaches," the soldiers will have to use their bayonets to penetrate it. The Norwich cadets can also be shown a little about sharpshooting by Prentice, as when he is in his best form he very seldom misses a basket.

THE ATHLETIC EDITOR.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The faculty has gone to great pains in having prominent speakers come [illegible] yet a relatively small number of students take the opportunity to hear these men. Are we students playing fair with the faculty?

Of course many distinguished men are proverbially poor lecturers, but from personal experience I can say that nearly all the speakers have been interesting. Yet the convocations are poorly attended by students.

While the student opinion compels practically every member of this University to attend a mediocre football, basketball or baseball game, evasion of educational convocations is sanctioned by the college community. There is something radically wrong with this situation.

A small turn-out of students does not create a favorable impression on the lecturers, just as surely as a small crowd at an intercollegiate athletic contest reflects on the good name of the University. Too many students fail to realize that the national reputation of Vermont can be made or unmade by the few distinguished men who come here to speak. Attending convocation, then, becomes a matter of Vermont spirit and college pride. Vermont should be hospitable to its visitors, not cold and aloof.

C. E. '28.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Beginning this week the University schedule will be rearranged to do away with the half hour on Saturday provided for the use of the two student government bodies. In its place will be introduced a half hour for chapel on Wednesday. This is only by way of introduction, since these facts are sufficiently well known to require no further broadcasting. Furthermore, the writer understands that this was done with the consent of the two organizations concerned.

The present trend in American colleges is away from chapel observances and toward an extension of student government. In this innovation at Vermont we are therefore taking a backward step which will do much to hinder the functioning of Student Senate and Women's Student Union, and may very possibly end in abolishing the latter altogether, because of the new difficulties raised.

It seems to the writer that if we must have chapel, which is evidently the case since we have a new building that must be used, the authorities should arrange for some convenient hour for student meetings. If there is any value at all in them, they ought to be helped instead of hindered, and most of us believe that there is some value in them.

On the other hand, students interested in religious services can find them in quantity and quality sufficient for their needs in the city churches and at Sunday afternoon services in the chapel. If mid-week exercises must be held on the hill, cannot they be arranged for in the late afternoon, where they will not interfere with other work. If the student is interested in the services, he can come just as well at such a time.

Most people agree that chapel will not amount to much in the lives of students who are not interested in it. We all remember the dismal failure of one compulsory convocation held during the winter.

If the Student Senate and Student Union expect to amount to anything in the future it is time they do something to save themselves, and it had better be done before the funeral.

A JUNIOR.

To the Cynic Editor:

On passing through the Chapel room in the Old Mill recently I have noticed a number of fellows smoking. These seem to have been, in most cases, Freshmen. I believe that the Freshmen men are not supposedly allowed to smoke on the campus. Whether they are or not, I think that these men ought not go so far as to smoke in the chapel. How about it?

THE HONOR SYSTEM

Recently at the University of Southern California the students voted down the idea of conducting examinations strictly under the honor system. Opinions as to this are varied. Some think that the students realize that it will not work and hence do not care to try it. Others say that indifference was the reason. The general opinion of the S. C. Campus, however, is that individual honor and integrity will have to increase a great deal before an honor system would be practicable.

We are fortunate at Tech to receive, on the whole, men to whom the honor system can be entrusted, but there are many imperfections and petty violations on our campus, with an occasional major violation. The gravest of these violations come to the attention of the Board of Control and are dealt with on their merits.

But it is the spirit that permits many small violations, that allows a man to escape even his own conscience that it is serious, for it is increasing and tends to undermine the entire system. Magazines that are intended for the entire student body are appropriated by individuals, problems copied from files are submitted as original [illegible] revealed to a student and many small things are carried out. Let courage the spirit of the honor [illegible] in all phases of campus life and vent the complete ruin of the system.

Student Government Desired?

To the Women's Editor of the CYNIC:

This is a question which seems to [illegible] paramount in the minds of the faculty and slowly but surely growing [illegible] the minds of the students.

From the point of view of this student and if I may be permitted to say so I think from that of the majority of the women students, it is desired. And certainly more so than people would give us credit for.

Even though we may have a well-trained faculty with the power to understand us better than the average official, yet it cannot be denied, officials picked from the student ranks, students themselves, can and do certainly understand us to the nth degree.

The second great reason why we should keep student government is that in every group there is bound to be feeling. Whether this is a common good-will or universal revolution depends wholly upon the government of the group. Now, of course, no group of people are going to be model Sunday school pupils with one hundred per cent. good behavior. Someone is going to, from time to time, overstep the bounds set down by the government. That is to be expected. But isn't it infinitely better to have a more or less successful government, proven by the years it has been in use, than to have a government which would be unsatisfactory to us and to everyone concerned?

And I don't want to go for a ride. I've seen the moon already, and I have been to all the shows in town. The beach is all right and if you want to go there, go ahead, and I hope you go into the water and come up on the Sahara Desert. I've had my dinner and anyway, I'M not hungry. If you are, go ahead and bite the dust. I like to dance and I would like to go to a dance—without you. I don't drink and if I did, I'd feed your self to a goat if it wouldn't singe his whiskers. I've got a little horse in my vanity case, that I've raised from a colt and I'm ready to send him at you. HEALTH COUNCIL NOTES

Recent questionnaires given to the various gym classes show a large number of people to believe the greatest detriment to health is worry. If people really do worry while in college sufficiently to undermine their health it is certain that there is something wrong somewhere. Now a majority of these cases are undoubtedly due to improper planning of time in the daily schedule. Granted that there is much to be done in college and that some people have a much fuller schedule than others. This can be remedied by proper time-planning. Regular sleep and eating should be the fundamentals of this program, with exercise also playing an important part. Studies should be arranged and kept up-to-date; it is the continually being behind that causes so much worry. Outside activities should be fitted in where possible and if there is no place for some of them, they should be dropped. Anyone who gets into college should have intelligence enough to plan their own schedule so that they may be well, happy, and get the most out of college.

The Wetness

A GLOOMY BALLAD

Rubbers'n'rain rushing 'round.
There is nothing left to do.
Nothing left, no not a thing.
Lose 'em outside studying.

All the profs grin cheerfully.
Say: "Now let's all try to see
Now that all the fun is through
How much hard work we can do."

Cheerful prospect isn't it?
And we must perforce submit.
Easter's dim and far away.
Meanwhile, there's a test today.

Our latest communication from the w. k. Aunt Deborah strikes a more cheerful note.

Dear Little Boys and Girls

We should always look for the cheerful thing of this world and for this cheer Message" I have selected the weather. The output of weather this year has been remarkably interesting. Beginning with a late fall and continuing through a remarkably snowless Christmas, combined with some lovely cold spells in January and several thaws, we have at last arrived at the most interesting period of all, that of the slop, slush, and slime. There is nothing more interesting than this time of year. It offers so many and varied opportunities. There is plenty of rather dingy snow to fall into, there are unbounded amounts of ice to fall from; and there is an abundance of slush, ranging from the thick pasty kind to water. Slush is extremely interesting. It spatters beautifully from a heavy tread; it forms the most remarkable color combinations when mixed variously with sand, dirt, or ashes, and it is fine inside the overshoes, where it insidiously disintegrates into an unbelievable amount of water. Oh, this is a great season, and I sincerely hope that all you little boys and girls are enjoying it as much as I am.

Affectionately
AUNT DEBORAH

Which has inspired in us the following [illegible]

I crave not California's sun
Nor Quebec's stainless snows
Alaska Maine and San Moritz are not for mine
Their weather lacks variety.
It's always just the same
No, me I like New England's fretful clime
The weather there is weather.
You have samples of all kinds.
And whate'er it does is number A 1. prime
When it rains it rains like thunder
When it's hot it's hot as sin
When it melts perhaps you've seen our slush and slime"

CHORUS

The slush of old New England is like none else in the world
Oh, I want to go back there where slush comes from
Other slushes may be wet.
But I never can forget
The sticky, tricky slush of my New England Home

Everything comes to the man who lets the other fellow do the waiting.

NEW FLOATING COLLEGE TO BE CO-EDUCATIONAL

The report that the next University Afloat would not be co-educational has caused considerable confusion and [illegible] to considerable discussion. This is occasioned by the fact that there are two separate projects contemplated, one coeducational and the other for men students only.

Original plans for the first Floating University, which is on board the "Ryndam" and is now cruising around the world, were made for men only. It was found desirable, however, to change these plans at a late date and [illegible] about one hundred women. Some of those at present on board the boat have given as their opinion that the venture would have been more successful had the original plans been carried out and men only taken. This is no doubt due, in part, to the fact that the group which started off was not entirely coeducationally inclined.

Mr A J McIntosh, who was the president of the University Travel Association and who organized the Ryndam cruise, is so firmly convinced as to the advisability of coeducation that he has organized a new concern known as the International University Cruise, Inc., and has joined forces with the Cunard Line, who will operate the "Aurania" for such a cruise.

Mr McIntosh says regarding coeducation:

"Coeducation has been for years a never-ending subject of controversy. We are believers in coeducation. The faculty on the coming trip are believers in coeducation.

Governor Henry J Allen in his statement aboard ship says that he believes the time is not quite ripe for coeducation. America has always taken the lead in progress; a trip for men students only would be a step backward and would not properly represent the spirit of America. The war settled the question for all time. How many of our girls went into France and Russia? Previous to 1914 women did not walk alone on the streets of Paris. That statement is today hardly believable—the boulevards of Paris are now almost like Fifth Avenue. We think the trend of thought in the world is decidedly in the direction of coeducation and we are taking our stand on that side.

The theory that the presence of young women on board a Floating University distracts the minds of the men students presupposes a world of men—this is a coeducational world. The verdict of modern educators in the majority of American institutions has been that contact with women working along the same lines of thought is normal and healthy where no contact with 'outside girls' may be most distracting. There are always girls of one sort or another. Most parents prefer to have their sons studying with young women of like background and outlook to having their only contacts with women those of social functions or chance acquaintance. I am more in favor of coeducation on a trip like this than I am in a college ashore, as it combines a university and all that makes up a normal home life with its social activities."

Practice will commence soon in the Middlebury camp in preparation for the coming baseball season. At the first call, thirty-four men reported to Coach Marshall M. Klevenow. Only two of last year's letter men were lost by graduation, Joseph C. Novotny and E. L. Rice. Coach Klevenow is depending upon the Frosh to furnish some battery material as it is in this department that the prospects are not bright.

STUDENT SUICIDES NOT DUE TO COLLEGE LIFE

With the suicide of J. Morgan Derr, Jr., twenty-year-old sophomore at the University of Rochester, the total of student suicides since January 2 reaches nine. Despondency over ill health and dissatisfaction with his marks in mid-year examinations caused Derr to end his life, according to J. Morgan Derr, Sr.

This suicide is closely linked with the first of the series, that of Rigby Wile on January 2, as Derr and Wile were fraternity brothers and close chums. Rigby Wile was the son of Dr. Ira S. Wile, director of the Mt. Sinai Hospital mental clinic in New York.

Various reasons have been left by the student suicides. Wile left a note declaring that he had read all the philosophies, that he "couldn't see any use in life." Another killed himself in order to report to his fraternity brother the phenomenon of the spirit world. Another, a twenty-year-old Freshman at James Milliken University (Illinois) declared to his roommate the night before his death, "If I flunk out, I won't care to live. I'll never be able to go back home to face my parents."

As in the Leopold and Loeb case, and other instances of aberrant undergraduate behavior, many are engaged in adorning the moral to this student suicide epidemic.

The students lacked faith in hereafter in "the present belief in God, in the dignity of life," says President Daniel D. Marsh, Boston University. It is no wonder students commit suicide," Bernard Iddings Bell, President of St. Stephen's College, commented.

"Knowledge and knowledge alone is almost certain to remove from man that courage which results from ignorance without substituting anything for it. Cowardice is the besetting sin of our modern life. To be brave one must believe in something. Too much education takes away belief in love and hope, the ruling forces of the universe. Those who believe in nothing become the slaves of everything. If education is to be defined as the accommodation of man to his environment then it is more of a curse than a blessing."

A poor sense of balance resulting from lack of worldly experience is the base of most of these student suicides is the opinion of President Mark Penney of James Milliken University. A crisis appears which distorts the vision and destroys the ability to see the relation of the present circumstances to the future. With a larger experience in life, the students would see such a failure as a mere incident."

More in consonance with the facts is the opinion of Dr. Charles A. A. Bennett, professor of philosophy at Yale University. "I firmly believe each of the cases was an individual case," he is reported to have said, "the outcome of personal troubles or infirmities of which persons removed from the case cannot possibly be aware. I certainly do not believe there is any general attitude among young American students that would account for a number of deaths such as these."

FRATERNITY BASKETBALL

The fight in the fraternity basketball series for the Key and Serpent Cup has now narrowed down to three teams; Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, and Phi Mu Delta. The semi-final will be played Tuesday night as a preliminary to the Norwich game, and the winner will be decided Thursday evening as a preliminary to the M. A. C. game.

The Kappa Sigs and Phi Delts will entertain in the semi-final game as the Phi Mus drew a bye. This contest will be close and should be a hot contest all the way. The Kappa Sigs, with their two fast offensive men, Chadwick and Reark, are favored to win, but the Phi Delts boast of a good five-man team with De Rose as their most aggressive man. None of the three teams have been defeated in their respective leagues and the Phi Mu Delts have had the stiffest competition in their league. The Kappa Sigs had little trouble in winning in their league and have a fine, smooth-working team. Every man of their five is fast and are sure shots for the basket. Many wise ones figure that the Sigs should add another cup to their already full shelf. The Phi Delts may have a little something to say about that, and although their team is composed mostly of Frosh, they are to be feared. The Phi Mu Delts have a snappy little team, but don't seem to be as strong as the other two teams.

First Sig: You were found in a dark car with a married woman. What have you to say?

Second Sig: She was my neighbor and I was loving her.

"Are you a college man?"

"No. My hat blew off, a truck ran over it, and it rolled into the sewer."

RATTAN PICKS RIFLE MEN FOR PRESENT SEASON

Captain Rattan has picked the following men to constitute the Rifle Team Squad for the present season. These students have made the most consistent showing in the preliminary try-outs. Captain Reynolds, Manager Hisson, Whitman, McColl, Hill, Tudhope, Brown, McGee, Donaldson, Morse, Ball, Wright, Wardswell, Emmons, Allen, Bruce, Adams, Gray.

A report received recently shows that the Vermont Rifle Team lost to the Michigan Aggies by the score of 3618 to 3588.

The following matches are scheduled for the week ending February 26, 1927: Emory University, University of Cincinnati, Rhode Island State, and the United States Naval Academy.

Intercollegiate News

Continuing our articles on student cars, we take this extract from The California Tech.:

"Caltech Students" Autos Analyzed

They are lined up on San Pasqual Street from Wilson to Hill Avenue. They occupy both sides of California Street from Wilson Avenue to Arden Road. The driveways are full of them. The oak tree in front of the gym always shelters a few. Some look as if they had just come out of the factory, while others have the appearance that they were used by the Neanderthal man. Two Packards and several Chryslers in unscarred paint seem to stand over the rest, a motley collection of Buicks, Overlands, Moons, Dodges, and Chevrolets as overlords.

Rusty Junk

There is one class of Tech machines, however, that respects no master. The Fords, of which there are between eighty and a hundred on an average school day, for an army of their own. They all bear the Ford nameplate, but a look at some of them shows that the name Ford covers a multitude of parts. There are few that have not had parts of Cadillacs and pieces of scrap iron added to their original construction. Some of them have paint, but most of the genus Ford abhors all types of makeup. But, and this is the surprising part, they all run.

Many Varieties

The machine holding second place in the race for supremacy as a campus machine is the Chevrolet. But it is a poor second, there being only ten or fifteen of them parked among the 150 cars in the vicinity. The Dodge brings up third with about ten always present. The balance of the Tech Transportation System is made up of fifteen different makes of cars, including the Stars, Haynes, Velie, Studebakers and Essex. No, not quite, for there may still be seen two motorcycles and two bicycles parked in the shed at the north of Troop Hall.

MORTON IS ELDERMAN OF ENGINEERS' SOCIETY FOR SECOND SEMESTER

J. R. Morton '27 of Montclair, N. J. was elected chairman of Kappa Mu Epsilon for the second semester, at a meeting held last Wednesday evening at the Sigma Alpha Chi House. Morton has been actively associated with the activities of the Radio Club of which he has been president. He is a member of the rifle team and a mechanical engineer. His fraternity is Alpha Tau Omega.

At the same meeting A. R. Hill '27 of Lyndon Center was re-elected to fill the office of secretary-treasurer. Hill is a member of Scabbard and Blade, and Sigma Alpha Chi. He is also interested in the rifle team, and is a mechanical engineer.

Several standing committees gave reports at the meeting, but no final action was taken on any matter. It was announced that a picture of the society will be taken at the Bixby studio this week.

A few weeks ago a professor in Electrical Engineering Department of California Tech was halted by a policeman one night as he was going home from a meeting.

Officer—"There is a man of your description annoying householders of this neighborhood. Now tell me who are you? What do you do? How long have been in Pasadena? And what have you in that brief case?"

Prof.—"I am Prof. —— —— ——; I spend most of my time flunking juniors in the electrical course at the California Institute of Technology. I have lived here for sixteen years and I have school papers in the case."

Officer—"I guess that you are not the man I am after."

MASS AGGIES DEBATES CATAMOUNTS THURSDAY

Vermont's debating team, which was successful in its contest with Tufts College last Thursday, is to meet the Massachusetts Agricultural College affirmative team in the Old Chapel the coming Thursday. The proposition will be the same as used in the Tufts debate: Resolved, That the United States Should Cancel the War Debts Owed by the Allies.

The Vermont negative team is to consist of L. A. Hince '28, C. H. Wedell '27 and E. C. Mower '27. Judges for the debate have not yet been picked.

Attendance at the last debate was quite promising and was much better than has been customary in past years. Several members of the faculty who attended the Tufts contest declare that the debate was a very good discussion of the war debts problem. It is expected that, if the M. A. C. debate receives considerable support from the students, future debates will take place in the new Ira Allen Chapel.

Catamounts Repulse Springfield in Exciting Contest

first period. Vermont 5, Springfield 5.

Estabrook gave Vermont a two point lead at the beginning of the second half when he dribbled the length of the floor for a step shot. Wagner knotted the count and Duncan once more put his team in the lead on a foul. Prentice came through again and tied it up on another penality point. Enslee made a circus shot from center court and the Red and White was again in the long end. Estabrook added one to Vermont's column; Price came through with a pretty step shot putting Vermont in the lead once more. Wagner evened it up and Post dropped one in from midcourt. Duncan rung one up and Marvin added one more to the Springfield's total when he tapped one in from a jump ball. At this point things looked doubtful for Vermont for a four point lead in a game like this was a pretty good margin. Estabrook came through however and sunk one from the side quickly followed by a twin counter by Prentice tying the count for the last time. With the score standing 17 to 17 the crowd went wild and nobody could hear themselves think. With only one minute and a half to go Price scored a step shot after a hot scrimage under the basket this proved to be the winning basket. Prentice however was still to come into the lime light when he called on to shoot a foul with 30 seconds to go and maybe the results of the game in his hands. He came through with flying colors however and made sure victory out of the fastest and cleanest game ever witnessed in the Vermont gym.

The handling of the game was of particularly fine quality and was the best ever seen at Vermont.

Lecture by Professor Shapley Draws Many Listeners

in one of the later stages of its evolution, but there is no need to worry as it will not change appreciably during the next few million years.

Sidereal Universe Like Watch

Earth and the planetary system were formed from fragments broken off from the sun by the attraction of a huge star that passed nearby. Stars that appear to be points of light are in reality suns like our own or many times larger. Nebulae appear as small patches of light, but in all probability they are sidereal systems in themselves, some of them several million light years away. Our sidereal universe, that we think of as a sphere is in reality shaped like a watch, and the earth instead of being the center of this universe is quite near one edge. This universe contains about three hundred million stars.

Time and space in astronomy cannot be conceived by the human mind. A million years in the evolution of a star is as a second in the life of an individual. Distances are so enormous that they are measured in light years. The light that reaches us from some of the stars is more than one million years old.

Planets are not inhabited by anything other than very low forms of life. Even if one stops to consider the enormous number of stellar universes, it is highly probable that somewhere there exists a planet similar to our own that is inhabitated. Professor Shapley compared the attempts to signal to Mars to trying to signal to a bowl of carrots or a cake of ice. If one does not get any response from them he should give up the attempt to signal Mars.

First Student Play "Wm. Warren's Welcome" Presented in 190

One of the most important events in the history of dramatics at the University of Vermont was the presentation of "William Warren's Welcome" at the Strong Theatre on June 3, 1909. The fact that it was the first play to be produced at Vermont written by an undergraduate made it the outstanding event in dramatic history at U. V. M. The play was the work of Roger Gibbs Ramsdell '09 of Bennington.

Press reports state that the play was cleverly constructed and brightly written. It was received with incessant applause by an audience that completely filled the theatre. From the rise of the first curtain until the end of the play, the audience was highly entertained.

The action of the play is brisk, comical situations following close on one another and made more comical by the witty and flowing dialogue. The play hinges about a case of mistaken identity, or rather identities, no less than three masquerading as the real William Warren. The latter appears and experiences some difficulty in establishing his identity. The p[illegible] ingeniously contrived.

VERMONT STATE TO BE THEME OF ARIEL

Junior Year Book Will Contain Special Section on State—Frontispiece and Division Pages Will Feature Vermont Scenery

ANNUAL DEDICATED TO GREEN MOUNTAIN STATE

Vermont, the State, will be the dedicatee of the 1928 Ariel, and will serve as a subject for the central theme to be built around. All year books are coming to the idea of a theme running through the entire work, and many elaborate methods have been worked out. "Tradition" was the theme used in the 1927 Ariel and was well developed through the opening section and the division pages.

A six-page section in the front of this year's Ariel will contain a short write-up of Vermont, together with a large number of illustrations. The division pages and the frontispiece will carry out the theme still further. Small pen sketches will also be used in the special border for the part devoted to the junior class.

Most of the art work has been completed and the few drawings still unfinished will be sent to the engraver soon. Members of all four classes are contributing material to this department, under the direction of the art editors, Gloria Young and D. W. Merrill.

The page border and decorative work for the title page, frontispiece, dedication, etc., are being prepared by the Bureau of Engraving, of Minneapolis. This company handled the engraving for the 1927 Ariel and is continuing its service satisfactorily this year.

MANY STUDENTS ATTEND FIRST REGULAR CHAPEL

The new Ira Allen Chapel was well filled with students and faculty members at the first of the mid-week services, held Wednesday morning. If the attendance continues large, it is probable that the voluntary system will be adopted. The student choir of twenty-five voices led the congregation in singing the two hymns. Dr. I. C. Smart, chaplain of the morning, read the Scripture lesson, offered prayer, and pronounced the benediction. President Bailey spoke briefly, expressing the hope that the chapel might be a creator of memories and influences. His subject was based on the scripture that describes Christ leaving his parents to converse with the teachers in the Temple, at the age of twelve. When his mother reproached him he said "Know ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

VERMONT SIGS ATTEND CENTENNIAL AT UNION

Catamounts Win Basketball Title For The Sixth Consecutive Year

Vermont made a clean sweep of the state series by taking Norwich and Middlebury into camp on Monday and Tuesday nights. On Monday evening Vermont turned back the Middlebury team by a 27 to 19 score, and on the following night, Norwich by a 26 to 22 score. This makes the sixth consecutive time that Vermont has cleaned up on the state series. Both contests were much closer than the fans who turned out expected. After witnessing the battle between Vermont and Springfield, both of these games seemed rather unexciting.

Monday night's game was close but not very interesting to watch as the players were a little inclined to be rough at times. Middlebury's lead by Palmer showed both offense and defensive play that was on its toes all the time always waiting for the breaks and they succeeded in scoring a few double counters from the middle. Price and Prentice were the main stays of the Catamounts with the latter having a little advantage not only on the defense but also on the offense. Price was high point man of the evening with 10 points to his credit although Palmer wasn't far behind with 9 points. Both Price and Palmer play in the back court and it seemed rather strange that they should be high scorers of the game.

Although Vermont won by an 8-point margin it was not until the game was nearly over that they succeeded in turning in a clean victory for with about 4 minutes to go the Green and Gold was on the long end of a 27 to 19 score.

TWEEDY WILL APPEAR ON HILL NEXT WEEK

When Dr. Henry Hallam Tweedy appears here next week, he will present to his audience the latest aspects of the student religious life. He is scheduled to give two addresses on Thursday and Friday. The first meeting will take place at 4.00 p. m. in the new chapel and the second in the old chapel at 7.00 p. m. The subject which will come up for discussion is "Science and Religion." An open forum will be held following Tweedy's addresses.

For many years Dr Tweedy has been intimately connected with undergraduate Christian Movements. Reports coming from Dartmouth College where he is at the present time, as well as from those who attended the Northfield and Silver Bay Conferences, rate him as an outstanding favorite among students.

Professor Tweedy is a graduate of both Yale Academic College and Yale Divinity School. After studying at the Union Theological Seminary, he went to Lebanon College in Pennsylvania where he received his D. D. degree. For the past 16 years, Dr. Tweedy has held the position of professor of Homilectics at the Yale Divinity School. He is also the co-author of several books, among them being, "Training the Devotional Life."

MRS. TAGGART DIRECTS JUNIOR WEEK PLAY

Mrs. C. Ives Taggart of Burlington was unanimously elected to act as coach of this year's Junior Week play at a meeting of the Wig and Buskin combined with the Masque and Sandal Society. Mrs Taggart has directed the last seven plays produced by the combined dramatic societies. The high standard of college plays at Vermont has been in a large measure due to the efforts of Mrs. Taggart and her election insures another dramatic success at Junior Week.

A committee was appointed to choose a play by Roger Allbee '28, president of Wig and Buskin. The committee consists of Dorothea Baker '27, Muriel Cleveland '28, Eunice Cook '27 from Masque and Sandal and E. A. Lucchina '28, W. D. Safford '28, H. D. Crandall '28 from Wig and Buskin.

The committee will meet and will report to the combined societies in two weeks. Tryouts will be held before the vacation.

Results of two rifle team matches have been received by Captain Rattan, Culver Military Academy beat the local riflemen 3746 to 3588. On February 26 the University of Cincinnati won 3721, to 3667.

Green Mountain Conference Formed By Representatives of Vt. Colleges

Vermont, Middlebury, Norwich, and St. Michael's Enter Agreement On Athletic Policies—The Handling of Games to Be Standardized—A. K. Aldinger Elected President

At a meeting of the representatives from the four Vermont colleges, the Green Mountain Conference was formed at the Hotel Vermont last Tuesday afternoon. The new organization is for the purpose of cooperating more closely in handling athletics and agreeing upon the solution of problems involving sports in the member colleges. Another aim of the association is to be of service to the State in developing better athletics. It was agreed that a conference will be called at one of the colleges next September. At that meeting all officials in the State who handle either college or high school games will be invited to attend. The rules will be reviewed and agreements reached as to standardization in the handling of games in Vermont.

No Football Scouting

Representatives from Middlebury, Norwich and Vermont agreed on a policy of no scouting in football during the coming season. St. Michael's College does not have football teams and consequently was not in the agreement. The policy of having no football scouting is not new in the annals of Vermont history. Coach MacAvoy reached an agreement with Springfield Y. M. C. A. college two years ago to the effect that there should be no scouting between Vermont and Springfield. The Student Senate of the University of Vermont has gone on record as favoring the abolishing of the practice.

In agreeing to refrain from scouting the University representatives acted in full accordance with the will of the students and the administration.

Several Decisions Made

The representatives decided that the name of the annual State triangular track and field meet should be changed to the Green Mountain Conference Track Meet. The first meet will be held next spring in Northfield.

Major Potter in behalf of Norwich University invited the three other colleges to participate in the winter sports carnival to be held next winter at Northfield. The conferees agreed that the winter sports should be given more attention by the various colleges.

Agreement was reached on the officials whom they desired to handle the football games between the colleges in 1927. It was voted to request the Central Board to send these officials to handle the games.

Officers Elected

Dr. A. K. Aldinger, director of physical education, was elected president of the Green Mountain Conference. H. A. Mayforth, graduate manager of athletics at Vermont, was made secretary. The representatives present were besides the above-named Major Potter, Captain Baker and Coach Graham of Norwich University; Coach Klevenow and A. M. Brown, Middlebury College; Father Linnehan of St. Michael's College, and Coach MacAvoy of Vermont.

STUDENT UNION

Student Union Council will meet this afternoon at four in the Y Room. Nominations for new officers will be made at that time.

ON FEATURING FRATERNITIES

The Cynic next week will publish the first of a series of articles upon the academic fraternities at Vermont. The Fraternity system here is so ... imbedded in college life, that whether or not we admit all the benefits derived we must at least recognize its strength and importance in various ... of Campus life.

The college had only existed about forty years before fraternities began ... in one form or another to make their ... Since that time their growth has been largely spontaneous, due partly to the great tendency among American college students to ... with their fellows and also to the fact that facilities at the University in the form of Commons, dormitories and club rooms are very inadequate.

Because the Greek letter organizations are so strong and because in many instances they prove the link between the alumnus and his Alma Mater, and lastly, because many interesting facts in their individual histories remain untold the Cynic feels justified in featuring these articles in its columns.

ATHLETIC POLICY

We note among the athletic developments of the week the formation of the Green Mountain Conference. This organization will attempt to foster and promote cordial athletic relationships with the three other Vermont colleges and may possibly promote an extension of athletics into the minor sport field. The Conference itself is not really an innovation in that other predecessors have risen and then gone into obsolescence for some reason or other.

We believe that the Conference will in some respects be beneficial. It should continue to improve the already friendly feeling existent among the four colleges and will iron out any eligibility wrangles that may appear. We hope that it may eventually succeed in building up a system of appointing officials for all athletic contests since the present basketball season has pointed out an urgent need for some system whereby satisfactory basketball referees may be alternated for the season games.

On the other hand we may suggest that if Vermont is the gainer because of this Conference, the other colleges will gain to an even greater degree. The University Athletic Department, in that it of necessity offers the larger guarantees, bears the greater expense and at the same time is the sole reason for some of the larger colleges sending their teams into this state for athletic contests.

By and large the advantages may outweigh such shortcomings as the plan may have. At any rate it is a sincere attempt to maintain the already fine feeling that exists between the four colleges and time will establish whatever disadvantages the Conference places upon the University.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Recently there appeared in your paper an article concerning the Women's page. I believe that the discussion so far has been conducted by persons who were misinformed and who were merely moved by prejudice.

Women are rarely first-class journalists. But in comparison with other coeducational college papers, our co-eds need not be ashamed. They are putting out a grade of work which is fully as good as that of the large women's colleges.

I agree with J. M. L. K that there should be no special co-eds' page. If the co-ed news has value, it will be published in the regular columns of the Cynic it would seem. While I do not want to pick out any feature in particular, I do think that the so-called Health Council is being overworked. But that takes up a small bit of room and it does not reflect any great discredit on the CYNIC. The news items and stories are not fully developed although lately they have improved remarkably in the right direction.

Isaak is all wrong when he lays the blame on the co-eds for the quotations of Aeschiyus, Paraxides, Pluto and Peroxide. I have carefully noted the make-up of the Cynic and have found the said quotations on pages other than that in question. It would seem that these objectionable quotations are being used by the editors to fill in odd spaces. Ed. 29.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The forum on "Industry," which Professor C. G. Frost was to hold last Thursday has been postponed indefinitely because of other activities taking place on the night designated.

Hymn books for the Ira Allen Chapel have not yet arrived. At the first chapel exercises Wednesday, slips of paper on which hymns were printed were used in the absence of the books.

Mr. J. M. Fox of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of New York was interviewing students of the engineering college on Wednesday.

The annual Women's Issue of the CYNIC will be published on March 15 according to present plans of the board. Last year the date of the issue was advanced two weeks from the tentative day set, because of the irregular practices alleged to have taken place during elections of officers of the various Women's organizations.

Mr. Paul Apell of Dorchester, Mass., has been interviewing members of the Senior class in the engineering college in regard to opportunities to be had in working for the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company. Mr. Apell also granted interviews to a number of students taking commerce and economics.

The choosing of the teams to participate in the annual interscholastic basketball tournament held at the Vermont gym will take place Sunday afternoon, March 6 at the Hotel Vermont. A complete list of these will appear in a later issue of this paper along with the individual record of each team entered.

Dr. G. K. Pratt of New York City, Mental Hygiene Consultant for the University, has gone to Europe for three months. During his absence, Dr. George Thom of Boston will continue Dr. Pratt's work here. Dates on which Dr. Thom will be here are to be posted on the bulletin board.

Collegiate pipes aren't all 'non campus mentis'

APPEARANCES may be against the modern college pipe; he may look 'superfish'... he may sound a bit blotto, slinging his six or seven slanguages, including the Scandinavian... But when he talks 'TOBACCO' lend him your ears. For that's one subject he's studied and knows from the ground up!

Listen to his learned lingo and you'll see why the one perfect pipe tobacco is grand old Granger Rough Cut. It's all spicy old Burley, the choicest pipe tobacco known to man... all mellowed Wellman's way... and cut, especially for pipes, in large slow-burning, cool-smoking flakes. It's breaking all collegiate records for pipe-popularity.

Of course, some collegiate pipes, who judge everything on 'price', can't afford to smoke Granger... it's too INEXPENSIVE. But notice any pipe that is sufficiently sure of himself to BE himself, always; and notice also his Granger.

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the foil-pouch package, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

Made for pipes only!

Granger Rough Cut is made by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company

BY THE WAY

We have before us a month of tranquility, comparatively speaking. Although it may be difficult it would be well to settle down and hit the studying. There are very few dances or affairs scheduled, rushing is over, and hour tests are in full swing. So it behooves every one to look to the present rather than to Easter vacation, and pause a little to make the most of the opportunity for study. Now or never. After vacation the mad whirl will start and there will be no time for any minor operation such as studying.

HEALTH COUNCIL TELLS WAYS OF KEEPING FIT

Irregular eating, lack of sleep and exercise, worrying and doing too much, and poor ventilation are the chief detriments to health at Vermont. The results of over 250 questionnaires filled out by members of the Freshman and Sophomore physical education classes have been carefully investigated with the foregoing results.

The Health Council of which Anna Ward '27 is chairman has been waging an intensive campaign of education against minor and serious illness which are detrimental to college women. Posters for the health campaign have been placed on the bulletin board of the Y. W. C. A. room. Short notes have been printed in the Cynic by the Council every week.

In a recent bulletin, the Council has made recommendation regarding the proper methods of checking the detriments to health. The proper way at combating irregular eating according to the statement is: "eat three regular meals at definite times. If you do not eat breakfast in a dormitory buy something nourshing at the coffee corner. Eat nothing between meals except fruit." Lack of exercise and sleep is to be corrected thusly, "Planning your program so that eight hours a night can be left for sleep and one hour during the day for exercise. If no outdoor sport is available, try hiking." For worry and doing too much work, the bulletin advises, these only can be remedied by properly balancing your schedule, using all available time and eliminating the least beneficial activities.

And Leerie stops to light it as he lights so many more."

"The Lamplighter"
Robert Louis Stevenson

The Lamplighter

GOOD old Leerie, the lamplighter, worked cheerfully to make the streets bright. And the lamps sputtered a friendly glow into the darkness.

The citizens of the country have taken Leerie's job. They are the lamplighters of today, and they spend 3½ cents of each tax dollar that their streets may be bright.

Good street lighting means more flourishing business sections, safe traffic, convenience, and protection.

Leerie, the faithful, has gone—but streets still need lighting. And in whatever communities college men and women elect to live, they should take a lively interest in civic improvements—including street lighting.

Interfraternity Indoor Track and Field Meet and Relays

It has been the custom at Vermont [illegible] track competition [illegible] during the winter months [illegible] event alone. This year will witness a radical change that will put interfraternity [illegible] on a basis of much greater interest, and of greater interest to the entire track spirit and help the cause.

The inter-fraternity relays will be held next year on Saturday afternoon, March 19, as part of a big interfraternity meet which is to be conducted at college [illegible] the leading sport. The events are as follows: 40 yard dash, 30 yard low hurdles, 40 yard high hurdles; [illegible] jump, Pole vault, [illegible] 16 pound shot; [illegible] relay race, 440 yards, Mile; 2 mile.

Relay Race and Points

In the meet not more than two [illegible] compete in the finals, therefore [illegible] heats and semi-finals will be run [illegible] the previous week. The meet will be held on Wednesday, March 21. The six victorious fraternity [illegible] compete on Friday, March 18 in the four semi-finals two of the three remaining March 21, and the [illegible] on the day of the meet. First place in the relay shall count 10 points, second place 5 points. In all other events the points shall count as follows: 1st place 5 points; 2nd place 3 points, 3rd place 2 points, 4th place 1 point. The scoring is individual not team scoring as in the outdoor meet. No student is barred from competition. Each contestant is limited to entrance in two events besides the relay. Each competitor, except baseball men, shall be required to have reported to the coach for 10 work-outs before being allowed to compete in the finals, and 5 work-outs before being allowed to compete in the trials. For this purpose each candidate must be sure to have his attendance taken at each work-out. Trials in the 440 will be held Wednesday, March 23 six candidates to qualify for the finals. A trophy cup shall be awarded the fraternity which wins the meet.

Twelve Events

There will be twelve events in addition to the relay, for a total of 48 possible places. Since no contestant is allowed in more than two events plus the relay and since it is difficult for any contestant to run more than one race in the runs, it will take a large number of candidates to make the most interesting.

Let's have all candidates out soon, so that the training requirement may be fulfilled. Every candidate intending to run should report by Monday, March 7, because the first relay trial is on Wednesday, March 16. The relay team will practice from 4 to 4:45, a different hour may be permitted by consulting the coach.

time 12 to 10. Vermont came back with the aid of "Bunny" Prentice and went into the lead shortly after the beginning of the second half although it was no walk-away then. The game started off nip and tuck with both teams on their toes but Vermont was a little the better for the first part of this period and held a 3 point lead up until about one minute before the half ended.

This lead was partly due to absence of Prentice who suffered a bad sprain the night before. Moodie played a good game in his place but lacked the scoring ability of his teammate. At the start of the second half Prentice appeared in the line up with a heavily bandaged foot but even with this handicap he soon put the Green and Gold in the lead again. At one time during the second half Norwich crept up to Vermont and the score stood 22 to 20 in favor of Vermont, but step shots by Post, Price and Prentice soon put Vermont in the lead which they held for the remainder of the game.

The offensive work of Price was the feature of the first half, of the ten points gathered by Vermont during the first session nine were turned in by Price. This is unusual for a guard but not for Kiki who can score from most anywhere. The playing of Estabrook was also very noticeable and the crowd gave him a great hand when he withdrew in favor of Moodie in the latter part of the second half.

FRIENDSHIP IS SUBJECT OF TALK BY PROF. LADD

Professor B. F. Ladd's address on "Friendship" at the Baptist Church Vestry last Sunday morning proved to be of absorbing interest. He pointed out that the necessary thing for friendship is common interests. Rapid friendships often lead to disagreeable happenings. The status of friendship among the German people is much more pronounced. A German calls a person an acquaintance until he has known him for at least a year. Then if they find a mutual attraction draws them closer they begin to call each other by the informal pronoun you.

The professor will continue his talk on "Friendship" next Sunday at 9.30 a. m. Time will be allowed for people to attend their respective churches. An open forum will be held after each talk.

LITERARY PERIODICAL BEING INVESTIGATED BY PI DELTA RHO

Pi Delta Rho will hold a meeting at the most opportune date next week to continue discussion of a literary publication. A committee is working diligently on this matter and has much to report at the meeting. The committeee has been investigating, by correspondence, the way in which this is worked out at Middlebury. There will also be a report on the financial possibility of putting out a periodical. The date of this meeting will be posted on the bulletin board late this week or the first part of next.

When the plutarchs start plutarching

AT THE night sessions, when class philosophers vie with class Merry Andrews in deciding the heavy problems of the world—or burlesquing them — notice the royal guest, Prince Albert. Chiming in with the spirit of the occasion. Filling the air with the finest tobacco-aroma ever.

Do you smoke Prince Albert? It will bring you more pleasure and satisfaction than you ever thought a pipe could give. The instant you throw back the hinged lid and release that wonderful P. A. fragrance, you suspect you are in for some grand smoke-sessions.

The very first pipe-load confirms your suspicions. Cool as a gate-tender. Sweet as the week-end reprieve. Mild as the coffee in Commons—mild, yet with a full body that satisfies your smoke-taste completely. Get yourself a tidy red tin this very day.

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A. S. "Red" Taylor '27, crack hurler for the Vermont Catamounts two years ago, has again signed a contract to play for the Springfield (Mass.) Eastern League baseball team. This is Taylor's second season with the Springfield team.

Hayes A. Slate, son of Indian chief of Mass. has signed up with the Albany Eastern League baseball outfit. Slate is a graduate of Springfield (Mass.) Technical High School and has attended Penn State College one year. He was considered to be one of the best high school pitchers in New England in 1923.

Petitions for nominations of Seniors in the Representative Vermonter contest which the Cynic is conducting are being circulated about the campus. Additional petitions may be obtained from J. O. Phelps at the Sigma Alpha Chi House or from Miss Elizabeth Pellings at the Campus House. Twenty signatures of Vermont students must be obtained before a nominee is accepted.

In the current issue of the National Geographic Magazine there is a good account of the State of Vermont in which the University of Vermont is mentioned.

Senior theses for the first semester have been corrected and graded. They are now piled in the corridor off the English office and may be secured at any time.

Student Union Council that was to have met last Friday afternoon in the Y Room postponed the business of the meeting until a later date because there was not a sufficient number present to establish a quorum. Nominations for new officers were to have been made at that time.

The manager of the Ariel, W. F. Reagan '28, has made the announcement that all classes except the sophomore have been liberal in giving their subscriptions to the Ariel. He also states that only a few more copies are available and that all students intending to buy an Ariel should do so at once to avoid disappointment next May.

PARODY TO HEAD NEW INTERNATIONAL CLUB

The International Club held a meeting last Monday afternoon at four o'clock in Room 3, South College, for the purpose of electing officers and adopting a constitution. At this meeting O. F. Parody '27, was elected as president; G. F. Alfred '27 as vice-president; and Constans Holden '29 as secretary-treasurer. A program and membership committee were also appointed at this time. It was decided that the program committee should have charge of all meetings which should be held every other week.

For some years the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has been carrying on the work of education in international affairs by the founding, in the various colleges and universities of clubs similar to the one at Vermont. The endowment sends such organizations a selected list of the latest books on outstanding aspects of current international relations together with a fortnightly summary of international events and other material useful in the work of the club. The club is open to graduate and undergraduate students especially interested in such matters. At the meetings current topics of international relations will be discussed. Due notice of the time and place of such meetings will be posted, and the attendance of all interested is desired.

PHI MU DELTS TAKE FRATERNITY TROPHY

Phi Mu Delta won the interfraternity basketball championship by beating the Kappa Sigma in a game played here to the M. A. C. Vermont contest. The game to decide the championship was started after the Chimes had sounded the hour of nine. The Kappa Sigs were much peppier than in previous games and it is quite likely that fraternity competition is here to stay.

Both Phi Mu Delta and the Kappa Sigs were undefeated up to Tuesday night, Kappa Sigma as champion of league three, owned the right to [illegible] Phi Delta Theta last Thursday.

The closing of the league championship game was [illegible] exciting. It was a [illegible] affair from [illegible] Doc Smith at the half time, stood 9-6 in favor of the Phi Mus.

At the start of the second half the college spirit increased and the cheering section of each fraternity tried their best to help their team to victory. The Kappa Sigs fought bitterly and with the aid of brilliant shots by Smith, brought the score up to 12-11. At this point Antonini entered the fray for the Phi Mus and in record his fraternity's lead to 13-11.

For the winners Rowe, Price, Antonini and Manning were the best [illegible] Smith [illegible] the outstanding star for the Pearl Street quintet.

NEW EMPLOYMENT LIST TO BE COMPILED BY "Y"

The Y. M. C. A. employment bureau has discovered that its filed list of students desiring work is not adequate enough. As the spring season is drawing near it has been decided that a new list should be drawn up to meet the increase in requests for student workers.

All those who desire work now and later should fill out information cards to be obtainable at the Y. M. C. A. office. Anyone who has already done so must make sure that his card is included in the new files.

It is expected by the Y. M. C. A. bureau that the increased efficiency will help bring the total amount earned by men getting work up to the year's goal of $5,000. This sum represents an amount nearly four times that reached a year ago.

MOVIE STARS WILL BE SOUGHT IN COLLEGES

A nation-wide search for college men whose personalities will permit development in the motion picture world conducted by the screen's foremost motion picture studio is being announced in College Humor, a comic magazine.

First National Pictures with studios at Burbank, Calif. and College Humor of Chicago, Ill. are joint sponsors of the idea which is destined to bring to the studios a number of collegians who will be given every opportunity to develop their histrionic talents and to cash in on their photographic personalities.

In conducting the search for new faces and new talent First National Pictures will send competent directors, camera men and make up men to the leading colleges and universities in the country within the next few weeks to study present day college men and to make screen tests of those whose qualifications merit most considered [illegible].

Directly responsible for the plan to bring college men into the ranks of future screen stars are John Metcalfe, General Manager of West Coast productions of First National Pictures and H. N. Swanson, Editor of the College Humor magazine. They are now making out the routes to be taken by the party to get the tests and the manner in which they will be made will be announced at a later date.

Motion pictures provide a splendid opportunity for the college man who possesses all progressive ideas and enterprise of present day young Americans and First National Pictures is desirous of determining the talents of those who have personalities and who are willing to work industriously for success.

JUNIORS NOTICE!

A picture of the class will be taken Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in front of the Science Hall. Directly after the picture a meeting of the class will be held in the same place at which a member of the class will deliver a Founder's Day address.

So successful has the University Afloat proved that the College Cruise Company, a permanent institution, The University Travel Association, Inc., sponsoring this new school, has announced a Second College Cruise Around the World to leave about September 15.

Dr. Charles F. Thwing, President Emeritus of Western Reserve University, who was president of the First World Cruise College with Dr. Joseph E. Trench, A. Graduate of Harvard and Oxford in psychological collaboration on educational questions, will accompany the latter part of the trip.

The Cruise College is to be a school on board ship, one year with [illegible] limited to [illegible] Women [illegible] will not be included in the student body on this cruise. However, certain [illegible] are under way for a Women's Round the World College at some future date.

PRENTICE IS HIGH MAN ON VERMONT QUINTET

After the smoke of the basketball season has blown away, it appears that Bunny Prentice is high man in the scoring department of the Catamount keglers. Price ranks second while Post is third in the basket shooting. Marvin, Estabrook and Moodie do not figure heavy in scoring but their work in the back court undoubtedly did much to keep down the opponents' scores.

VERMONT WINS SECOND DEBATE BY DEFEATING M. A. C. WEDNESDAY EVE

Catamounts Take Affirmative On Cancellation of War Debts to Allies and Win By A Two to One Decision

Vermont won its second debate of the season, defeating M. A. C. by a two to one decision. The platform battle followed the basketball game with the same contestants on the same platform. Two Vermont debaters took part, consisting of L. W. Hopkins '28 and H. J. Harris and M. H. Goldberg '27. The speakers for Vermont were the same ones who debated Tufts the week before. L. A. Peters '27 and H. Wedell '27 and E. C. Mercer '27. The question was "Resolved: That the United States should cancel the debts made to its associates during the World War."

The Aggie debaters, M. A. C. held that the debts should be cancelled first, on the grounds of sound business policy arguing that payment created an investment in international commerce. Second, because the Allies could not pay, without injury to both parties and third, because the loans were America's contribution to a common cause. The Aggie debaters on the negative contended that the debts were loans and special debts, that the Allies could pay and did not deserve cancellation, that the United States had been most lenient in her attitude and that cancellation would be unjust to the American taxpayer. The feature of the evening was the last speech, the rebuttal of Mr. Hopkins of M. A. C. Judges were Dean Sherman R. Moulton, Rev. Chester J. Oxley and George W. Perry, Professor Welling and E. Allen of the English Department presided.

On March 16 the varsity debaters will meet in the Old Mill Chapel, on the campus of Lawrence University. Vermont will uphold the affirmative side of the same question.

RUSSIAN SYMPHONY CHOIR CONCERT ONE OF BEST THIS SEASON

Native Songs by Russians Take Well with Burlington Audience—Concert Is the Last of a Series

The Russian Symphonic choir which appeared last evening at the University gymnasium surpassed all expectations as to their excellence. Garbed in colorful costumes of red, blue and gold, the ladies further adorned with glittering head bands and ropes of beads these singers made a fascinating picture. Their singing proved that they had well chosen their name for they were indeed like a symphony in tone, character and balance. Humming to which they frequently resorted in their interpretations made the impression of a string choir particularly marked. Very effective were the arrangements where in one part of the chorus sang the melody and the other performed an accompaniment.

The program was almost entirely made up of Russian compositions. The enthusiasm of the audience could not be curbed except by a repetition of several of the numbers. "Lord, Have Mercy," by Lvovsky was a very interesting number wherein the melody [illegible] the male with varying chords and sounds similarly, while volume is increased and diminished in the same manner. The Temple Bells by Lieut. Woodford Linden was the only song done in English and excellently performed. The Volga Boatman heard as often and so variously received a fitting compliment to spirit.

Perhaps the most original feature of the program was the interpretation of a movement in a Beethoven symphonic. It was a remarkable performance and here particularly the [illegible] voices stood out like strings of a violin quartet. Basile Kibalchich the director of this worthy choir is a man of great and keen [illegible] ever alert and ever complete mastery of his choir. Many of the most beautiful arrangements on the program were from his pen. The numbers were all satisfying and fully adequate to set demands of voice as well as choir work. The whole chorus seemed at the end of this big program as at the beginning.

Vol. 45 March 8 1927 No. 37

A POSSIBILITY

There is rumor about the campus of a Senior honorary society that is to be inaugurated by the men. Reasons for such an organization seems to come from three sources, first that Boulder because of its limited membership and the many activities in which its men are engaged does not have the time that should be expended or to take care of various matters that arise on the campus. Secondly that for a college of this size, Boulder is not sufficiently representative in its membership, and thirdly that if more men, men who are presumably leaders, were admitted to honor societies more interest would be taken by them in the work and welfare of the university.

The question of the advisability of having two men's Senior honorary societies is a very debatable one, hinging to no small degree upon the possibilities of cooperation or of rivalry between them. While rivalry is often encouraging, yet it would hardly seem fitting for such a matter to be going on between two groups of honor men of the Senior class. Furthermore, tradition favors the Boulder Society in not any suffer in honor or in prestige. There is much to be said however in favor of such a new organization as there are certainly more Seniors than are worthy of some such honor now it is possible for Boulder to increase its membership, and in the case of many individuals, whether the people be right or wrong, more interest might be taken in working for the honor were such an honor announced. On the other hand however the human equation may be taken into such a question there will always be some will lose out and it may be the Boulder people so aid in carrying on the fitting after all.

If another society is formed it will undoubtedly be formed to Boulder, be so organized as to insure cooperation, and its membership so chosen after thorough consideration. We understand that the proposition has come before President Benton and other officials and that some action the attempted result will be forthcoming so that a new society will come into existence.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

This letter is occasioned by another [illegible] appeared in this column Tuesday, March 1 signed "A Junior." We grant that in many cases the trend in American colleges does appear to be away from chapel observances; but as to our having a backward step at Vermont by the commencement of mid-week chapel services, never. While these other colleges have had chapel services we have been unfortunately without such an institution, which has been, in the past a distinct part of college life practically everywhere and which ought so to be. Since the time of the World War Vermont has felt the loss of this institution. It is high time we continued that custom and caught up, if possible, with the other colleges.

It seems natural for humankind to hesitate to confess a desire for or even an appreciation of chapel, but it is certain that within the past year many favorable comments have been heard on this campus. At least, there should be some feeling of gratitude for our beautiful building and for the opportunity offered us to become better men and women. Chapel has been a long felt want here, and now that we have this new building, why not admit our appreciation instead of acting, as is inferred from the Junior's remarks, as though it were a burden and an apparently necessary evil thrust upon us?

Never does the student body get together in such large numbers or in such an uplifting cause as in chapel. Convocation has been the only substitute, and we all know about how successful that has been. In convocation, too, the student body has little part except in attendance, such as it is, whereas in chapel we take part in the entire service. Nowhere are people so closely bound together as in a religious service especially of the simple but beautiful type furnished in our mid-week exercises. Truly it should be one of the happiest and most lasting memories of our college days. The writer recalls with pleasure the assemblies of high school days which in part were similar to chapel except that the latter is wholly a religious service and therefore should carry with it greater, better, and more beautiful thoughts.

It seems that the whole world is in great need at the present time of religion, and where is there a better place to develop it than in our colleges? The Junior stated that we could get sufficient religious services in the Burlington churches, but we need it as a strengthening and a unifying force on our campus.

Regarding its interference with student government it seems that there ought to be no thought of such a thing. Religion is the highest governing and guiding force for humanity and therefore should be placed first. Student government is undoubtedly a good thing, but it seems as though an hour could be found without difficulty for those weekly meetings which interest a smaller group of students than are attracted to chapel. Practically all students are on the hill for morning classes; accordingly chapel would be much more convenient for the student body as a whole at its present hour than in the late afternoon. For the smaller group who participate in the Student Senate and Women's Student Union, afternoon meetings should prove successful, as the hour would not prove objectionable or inconvenient for those who are really interested in the welfare of those organizations.

As the majority of the student body are affected by the decision to have voluntary chapel as long as there is good attendance, or on the other hand compulsory chapel, it seems that the old saying of "the majority rules" ought to hold here, by having chapel as it is at present and by making new arrangements for student government.

—A Sophomore.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Having read the letter in the last issue signed A Junior I have come to the conclusion that he must have written it to pass the time or else to pass on his own warped viewpoint to the non-thinkers. You may say, "What's the fuss about?" It is simply this: There is no reason at all for which the Student Senate, which has [illegible] through the deletion [illegible] part at some time convenient for them. As for the Women's Student Union, why not run it on the same plan as the Student Senate, with occasional mass meetings of all co-eds at a time such as a W. A. A. rally? The men's system seems to have functioned well enough without calling for weekly mass meetings.

Our Junior's remark about not letting chapel "interfere with other work" seems to bespeak a rather perverted line of thought. I do not go to church twice Sundays and once on the other days, but I do believe that as long as we have a chapel, it will be a step forward and not backward. The greatest men, and by that I don't mean merely the scientists of the last few decades, and the greatest deeds have had a background of appreciation of and reverence for religion.

It is up to the students to make a go of non-compulsory chapel. The student government should not suffer thereby either. Wednesday morning's chapel showed that we have the right spirit. Let's keep it! IL PENSEROSO.

ARIEL CONTEST DRAWS SEVERAL CANDIDATES

Four senior men have so far been nominated for the Representative Vermonters contest. Petitions bearing the names of Ralph H. Blodgett, William M. Lockwood, Ellis J. Moodie, and Carl G. Simpson have been received. Blanks are being circulated among the women students, and it is expected that the number of nominees will be increased several hundred per cent. before the period is over on Friday. All petitions must in the hands of the Board by that time.

The medic editors have completed their work and the entire section is now at the Free Press. The revised fraternity lists have been made out and the faculty section is nearly ready. The scrubs have collected additional data on the professors so that their respective Alma Maters and years of graduation can now be published. The Board is making a last call for snapshots. There are still a few left over after last week's campaign. Cooperation of the class in this matter is necessary if the Ariel is to appear on time.

The photographic [illegible] finished. All [illegible] for their pictures, and the prints will be sent to the engraving company this week. The group picture of the faculty will be made this week by McAllister, and he will also make another attempt at a picture of the Junior Class at the [illegible] Wednesday.

GIVING UP SOMETHING?

It may be forty week-days in duration but it's really 'bout a year in the minds of some of our girls. Health cards are health cards, we know, and we'll agree they're bores—but Lent is still more boresome—in that it wouldn't be Lent if we didn't feel called upon to give up something, and that something is usually one of our most-treasured luxuries. Dancing, candy, pop-corn, silk stockings, pie, it doesn't matter, they all have to be sacrificed at the altar of Lent. Ain't it awful?

NEW SCHEDULE CHANGES CAUSE FOOLISH ERRORS

Saturday morning witnessed several amusing incidents on the campus and at the various fraternity houses and dormitories. The new schedule went into effect. The force of habit made some students perform queer antics and cause many to suffer from undue mental strain. Several students appeared at 8 o'clock to attend classes, waited the customary 10 minutes, and since the professor did not come, they left the college. They are much surprised today to find that they have cut classes. At one fraternity house, it is reported that two students pulled all their brothers out of bed at 7 o'clock in the morning. Needless to say they were severely and summarily dealt with. At another house, one student was surprised to find his classmates eating breakfast leisurely at five minutes to 8 in the morning. Further reports have it that several students appeared quite late for their first class Wednesday morning.

He called his wife an angel so often that she became suspicious and asked why he called her that particular term.

PLACES OPEN ON NEW YORK SOCIAL SERVICE

The Intercollegiate Branch of the New York City Young Men's Christian Association in cooperation with the Student Department of the National Council has, for the last eleven years, been supervising Social Service groups in New York City. This year there is a demand for wide awake college men to do this work. The circular concerning it reads "Seven weeks of life in the greatest city of the world, hearing the best and seeing the sights, studying social and religious problems, applying the study and discussions in the practical work of a New York Settlement, is not this seven weeks well spent time?"

This service begins on June 28 and continues until August 12. The work consists of studying the social and industrial conditions of the poorer classes of the East Side district, with semi-weekly discussions with the leaders and other workers. An excellent opportunity is afforded to learn how the other half lives and at the same time to gain a very helpful experience in working with other people of all kinds and races.

Any student wishing further information may obtain it at the College "Y" office.

The Freshmen engineers took their examinations in mathematics Saturday afternoon from two to five o'clock.

VOLUME 45 BURLINGTON, VT., FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1927 NUMBER 56

VERMONT WOMEN WILL DEBATE MIDDLEBURY FOR FIRST CONTEST

Co-eds Participate in an Intercollegiate Contest For the First Time in Vermont's History

For the first time in the history of the University of Vermont, a co-ed debating team is to enter the field of intercollegiate debating. At the Old Chapel on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock the first Vermont co-ed team will debate the Middlebury women's team on the proposition Resolved: That it will be beneficial for Congress to have exclusive legislative power on marriage and divorce. The Vermont team is scheduled to uphold the affirmative of the question. The modified Oxford system will be used. Each speaker is to have 4 minutes for rebuttal.

Vermont is to be represented by Ladys Kone '29; Mabel Freeman '30; Janice Goodrich '30; and Bertha Klein '29, alternate. The Middlebury team is to consist of Misses Ruby D. Ewell, Gretchen D. Taylor, Eloise Slade and Muriel Johnson, alternate.

Intercollegiate debating among the women of Vermont is an innovation. It is the hope of the sponsors that the debate next Monday evening will inaugurate debating among women as a permanent institution at Vermont. Dr Lawton Moore, head of the public speaking department, is largely responsible for the inception of debating among women. He has also turned out a men's varsity which has won two successive victories.

VERMONT SQUAD SHOWS GOOD FORM IN PRACTICE

After two weeks' heavy practice, Coach Dresser put his charges through a snappy infield workout on Tuesday afternoon. "Rolly" Aronson and Winchenbach did the receiving and they both looked pretty good for this time of year. Winchenbach has a little advantage over his opponent because of his speed in throwing to the sacks, as peg on Tuesday afternoon looked like a mid-season throw. If Winchenbach can learn to hold on to the pill he will make "Hank's" receiving end of the team look like old times.

Prentice was the only man tried out at the initial sack but there is plenty of competition for this position with "Babe" Harwood and Whitcomb both having Prentice plenty to worry about. Second and short were filled in by the only veterans of last season's infield, Smith and Conway, and by the way they are going, there is no one in college that can touch either one of these speed kings.

Prentice at third has an easy job in trying to hold down the initial sack compared with Burt Morse and Valenti, both substitutes on last year's team. For there is a fight going on at the hot corner with Schurman and Cogswell, both giving the two subs a run for there money. Out of this bunch "Hank" ought to be able to find a man that will hold down the job like "Red" Harris or "Chevy" used to for three or four seasons back.

Coach Dresser also has plenty of reserve material to pick from and although not much can be decided about how good the men are in the cage, out of the ten or fifteen subs he ought to be able to find some good men.

As yet not much can be learned about the outfield but there are several good candidates out who have good records in high schools or prep schools. Robinson, a local product and captain of Cathedral High several years back, is back in school after a two year lay off. If anything can be predicted from his high school records he will make the trip South in April. Macomber, an outfielder on the second team last season will probably be seen in action in one of the outer garden positions.

"Eski" Price hardly needs any introduction to local fans, as he has been one of the mainstays on the quintet during the past season. He will probably add another letter to his all ready overgrown list, as he is one of the best looking candidates for the outer jobs.

Vermont will have one of the best batting squads in years with Fogg, Moriarty, Schoppe, Talcott, Roark and Santoir, all available for work.

SENIOR BLAZERS WILL APPEAR ON HILL SOON

Senior Blazers will soon appear on the campus. The committee headed by Floyd James has sent out return post cards to all members of the class. The committee requests that the cards be filled out at once and returned so that an estimate of the number of blazers to be ordered may be determined. The blazers are bought through S. J. O'Neil's for $6 a piece. All seniors who desire blazers are requested to appear at that store to be measured.

Samples of the blazers chosen are to be found in the University Store. They are quite attractive being green with gold collar and cuffs. There is one pocket over the left breast on which the University Seal is sewed.

LITERARY COMPETITION IN STATE UNIVERSITIES IS HELD THIS MONTH

Second Annual Contest Between New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine in Short Stories, Essays and Poetry

Last spring at this time a new literary contest was announced in which the state universities of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine were the competitors for honors in short story writing, essays and poetry. It has been decided to establish this contest as an annual event to encourage interested students to write. Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 are awarded to the three best entries in each type of writing. In the first contest Vermont took all places in the short stories though none in the other events.

The restrictions for submitted articles are lenient enough to warrant attempts by many aspiring authors. Short stories may consist of simple and plotless narrative sketches as well as the more conventional type. A limit of 3000 words has been fixed as the maximum length of stories. Poetry not to exceed one hundred lines in length, but of any type or style is eligible. The essays are to be of the familiar, conversational or personal kind as illustrated by the works of Holmes, Irving and Stevenson, as opposed to the type associated with Macauley, Arnold and Emerson.

Rules

1. All contributions must be in triplicate and in typewritten form.

2. Neither the name of the competitor nor any indication of his university shall appear on or in the manuscripts submitted. Each manuscript must be signed with an assumed name, which, together with the student's real name shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope and passed in with the manuscript.

3. Each manuscript shall be accompanied by a signed statement on a separate sheet that the author has received no assistance of any kind in writing the paper submitted.

4. Contributions must not be used for any other purpose prior to their being submitted in this competition. No restriction is placed on their use after the awards of the contest have been announced.

5. No restriction is placed on the number of contributions which may be submitted by any one student, but no student may be awarded more than one place in each of the three contests.

6. All contributions submitted by each university must be in the hands of the officer designated not later than April 1, 1927.

FRESHMEN WANTED TO SCRUB ELIGIBILITY POST

Freshmen wishing to scrub for eligibility manager must see Manager Fogg at the Sigma Delta House or report at the Athletic office. Frosh scrubbing at this time will be eligible for the election of assistant managers next year.

The purpose of eligibility managership is to keep the scholastic standing of athletes above failure, giving aid to any men needing assistance. Next year three assistant managers will be picked from the scrubs. The eligibility manager for 1930 will be picked from among these men. A special "V" is given to the manager.

HUGH WALPOLE

English Novelist Who Appears Here Tuesday To Lecture in the Gymnasium

HUGH WALPOLE TALKS IN GYMNASIUM TUESDAY

Hugh Walpoe—lineal descendant of Horace Walpole, the famous literateur and wit of the Georgian period—who is considered by many authorities to be the foremost English novelist and critic of the present day is to appear at the University gymnasium on Tuesday evening, March 15, at 8:15 o'clock.

Personally, Hugh Walpole is like his own novels, interesting and wholesome. He is vigorous and athletic, while his healthy color shows that he spends much of his time at his delightful country house in a remote part of Cornwall. His manner indicates that he can be sincere and he also gives every evidence of appreciating what is good in life as well as in literature. Furthermore, he is blessed with a keen sense of humor. During his two previous lecture tours when he was greeted by record audiences, Mr. Walpole made a deep impression by his magnetic, attractive personality. His literary judgments were found to be well balanced, while his close personal acquaintance with well known English authors whose works he discussed enabled him to add a great deal of interesting reminiscence to his lectures.

All who have met this distinguished novelist have found that he not only possesses remarkable versatility, but has a deep realization of big problems and takes a broad view in dealing with the problems of life. Although he is still under forty, he has written twelve novels that have placed him in the front ranks of authorship, including his "Portrait of a Man With Red Hair," "The Cathedral," "The Dark Forest," "The Secret City," "The Green Mirror," "The Duchess of Wrexe," "The Gods and Mr Perrin," "The Wooden Horse" and "Fortitude." The excellence of these novels brought a remarkable tribute from the late Joseph Conrad and also won the praise of other notable writers, such as Arnold Bennett, Joseph Hergesheimer and Sinclair Lewis.

In his forthcoming lecture Mr Walpole will have ample scope for giving his views on life and literature. Those who hear him will find that he displays scholarship and every evidence of a big man overflowing with ideas. In whatever he says on the platform he shows intensity of thought and conviction, while he also reveals a broad vein of humor. Life and vigor, psychology and realism, in short, find a place in his discussions of literature as well as the true idea of romance.

Student tickets are now selling at the University Store.

1927 ARIELS

Those desiring copies of the 1927 Ariel may obtain them of Miss Cronin at the University Store. A very limited number remain, so it would be advisable to act at once.

For the first time in the athletic relations of Harvard and Dartmouth, the Freshman football events of these two colleges will meet in a game next fall.

Monday night the Catamount's cubs tasted blood for the last time of the season by defeating Cathedral High School. Hawley starred for the Frosh.

Preliminaries of Interscholastic Tournament to be Played Tonight

Eight Teams Representing Best High School in Vermont Basketball Will Engage in Tourney to Decide State Championship

Vermont's sixth annual school boy title will be at stake Friday and Saturday of this week when the foremost high school quintets meet to determine who will carry off the honored title and the cup. The tournament this year is expected to be the best ever held at the gym. Some fine exhibitions of basketball should be shown. The judges had a difficult task to determine who should be contestants in the tourney. They at last narrowed their decisions down to eight teams which are Burlington Cathedral, Proctor, Orleans Black River Barton, Northfield and Springfield.

The teams are evenly matched with Burlington, winner for four consecutive years, a slight favorite. However dope that is now to be heard around may be trumped on by that black horse. Proctor is probably the second best pick and being their first appearance in a tournament here are out to cop the hunting. They have met only one defeat this season, that at the hands of Ludlow whom they defeated twice later and have sent fifteen teams to the showers during the season. All the other schools will be represented by strong fives. There should be no walk aways.

The outstanding players of this tournament will probably be picked from Zammello Black River, Hardy and Boyd, Burlington, Cheeky, Proctor, Terro brothers Springfield, forwards. Durfee, Cathedral Warner, Burlington, Fulgnant, Proctor, centers. Welch, Proctor, Niles Burlington, guards. There is much green material on many of the teams and many new men may be picked on the all-state team if they can show class. Durfee, the lanky Cathedral pivot man, is a man that must be watched in this presentation of basket-shooting.

The games will open Friday night and will be conducted thus:

Black River vs Cathedral 7 p m; Barton vs Springfield 8 p m. Burlington vs Proctor 9 p m. Northfield vs Orleans 10 p m. Semi finals Saturday afternoon. First game 2 p m, second game 3 p m. Final championship game Saturday night 8 p m.

H A Mayforth will be in charge of these games. Officials will be Martin Scanlon and James Young both from Massachusetts and well known authorities on basketball. A record crowd is expected. With the respective teams all on a par, it is expected that Burlington will see a tournament that will be unside to be surpassed by any other. One of the two favorites will be eliminated the first night as they play each other in the preliminary round.

CATAMOUNT'S QUINTET ENJOYS SUCCESSFUL SEASON THIS YEAR

Estabrook is the "Find" to Replace "Mike" Katz—Eleven Victories in Sixteen Starts

The basketball season finished by the Varsity Catamounts last week has been one of the most successful seasons that the team has had in recent years. Out of sixteen starts eleven games were won giving a percentage of .688. The Vermont Collegiate Basketball Championship remains in Burlington for the sixth consecutive year. Incidentally, Vermont won every game of the State series.

At the beginning of the season it was feared that the guard position left open by the graduation of "Mike" Katz would be very difficult to fill. "Red" Estabrook who took Katz's place, though but a Sophomore, displayed speed and a good deal of form, improving with the season so that he is a true veteran now. At the Spring field game at this gym he held the elusive Springfield forward and Captain James scoreless for the first time in his college basketball career. Price, the veteran backcourt man, has been an unusually high scorer for a guard all season. The box scores of several contests show him at the top of the list. He has been a mainstay of the team, and is sure to have another wonderful year in 1928. The substitute guards Mackay Pike and Moodie played fine ball. They filled into the team play speedily whenever called upon. Moodie has been a very valuable man in, that he substituted in the forward field as well as in the back court. He played Price's position while Price was ill and did a good job. The team will lose a mighty fine all-round utility man when Moodie graduates in June.

Captain Marvin, playing the pivot position, has been a stonewall on the defense in every game. Time and again he has been seen picking the ball off the opponents backboard and starting the sphere up the floor for a score. Morgan was used as understudy for Marvin. Next year he will undoubtedly make a strong bid for the center position again.

"Bunny" Prentice, the East a premier scorer was a tower of strength on our offense. In some games he scored almost at will. Prentice and "Kiki" Price should be considered for all round New England quintets. Archie Post Prentice's running mate and ex captain, will be lost to the squad next year. "Archie" has been a very consistent player. He has put Vermont ahead on more than one occasion with timely shots. The alternate forwards,

TWEEDY TO SPEAK IN OLD CHAPEL TONIGHT

This evening at 7:15 in the Old Mill chapel Dr. H. H. Tweedy, who spoke yesterday in the Ira Allen chapel will talk on Belief in a Personal God. At such student gatherings as Silver Bay and Northfield Professor Tweedy was rated with such noted speakers as Dr Fosdick.

There is today among many students a desire to learn more about this much discussed question of religion. Dr Tweedy thru his work as Professor of Homiletics at the Yale Divinity School and visits to various colleges is exceptionally qualified to treat his subject. After the talk there will be a forum, giving opportunity for a more thorough discussion of points of special interest.

An Indian from Oklahoma may rate as a three-letter man at Minnesota in the next year or so. He is Earl Cartwright at present a Freshman. He made the Frosh football and basketball teams and is regarded as a sure shot for the Freshman baseball team this spring.

PHI DELTA THETA HAS BANQUET AND INITIATION

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity gave its annual banquet at the chapter house last Saturday evening after the formal initiation. Judge Mower '92, acting as toastmaster introduced Mr Clarence Hayden '81 as speaker of the evening. Other speakers were Prof. G. P. Burns, William Lockwood, '27, Eugene Knapp '28, Milford Smith '28 and Rollin Hawley '30. Representatives from chapters at Dartmouth, Williams and Union Colleges were present.

The initiates were C. P. Blair Jr., of Buffalo N. Y., H. K. Berkland of Cambridge, Mass., R. D. Denham of Burlington, O. J. Frost of Middlebury Springs, N. H. Gray of Burlington, R. G. Hawley of Essex Junction, H. N. Isaman of Burlington, J. Maddren of Burlington, P. H. Knight of Burlington, G. H. Perkins of Rutland, P. L. Reed of Burlington and C. M. Tuttle of Northampton, Mass., all of the class of '28.

SENIORS

There will be a meeting of the Senior class today at 4 p. m. in the Science Hall. The business includes reports from several of the Senior Week committees, election of Founders Day and Commencement speakers, and the matter of appropriating money for the Basketball Hop. It is hoped that the usual good attendance will be continued.

Vol. 41 March 11, 1927 No. 38

WE ARE REMINDED

[illegible] ago we heard that steps were being taken to regulate cuts in the [illegible] and the query went about as to how serious the situation really was. Recently we find that very definite action has been taken and that one who cuts classes to any extent is liable to probation, this meaning a severing from all activity work and a black reputation with the faculty to live down.

This situation trivial as it may seem to some and momentous as it may be to others, brings to our attention the fact that we are not here to get an education ourselves, but that we are here to have a degree eventually conferred upon us according to certain regulations regardless we may almost say of the amount of knowledge we pick up or the extent to which we have developed our intellects. This statement is of course an exaggeration, yet it contains much truth. Under the existing university system in this country and particularly apparent to us at Vermont, the student who has once taken the initiative to enter college need exert his strength of character no more, need not plan out his course of action nor consider what his attitude is to be until the day of graduation some four or five years hence. We are surrounded by helpful rules such as this regarding cuts, rules drawn up for our benefit, rules which prevent us from standing on our own feet and getting a start in life. We must do certain things at certain times, be at a given place at a given time, hand in specified work in the specified form and at the specified hour all without any demand upon us to reason out the why and the wherefore for ourselves.

When are we to begin to assume some degree of responsibility for ourselves and find out definitely that there is a certain side to every life that demands careful thought out decisions, decisions based upon convictions and not upon college rules? If this idea of doing away with rules which compel one to get his degree were put into force, undoubtedly many of us would suffer rather seriously, but that being the case only goes to show that we need such training, and why wait until graduation to start in.

But conditions being as they are, and the student attitude being as it is, we can only admit that we are incapable of going ahead and getting an education, of bucking up under a situation and making ourselves do something we thoroughly believe would be best for us to do. In order to be contented such must be our attitude.

This week-end brings us another inter-scholastic tournament to be played off in the gymnasium, and while it is a high school affair yet it is of considerable importance, apart from bringing sub-freshmen to Vermont and advertising the University. The teams that play here will be the best in the State, and a Vermont High School team is generally a runner up in the New England championship tournament. Judging from recent years, we will see at this tournament those men who will in the near future compose the University quintet.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

It does not seem right to me that so many of the principal positions of distinction, honor and service should end in the hands of so few people as is the case here at the University of Vermont. If a man gets one position, then he is immediately given another and the more he works for them the more other positions are given him without the seeking. Thus when a man who has been interested in activities and taken part in a fair share of them comes to his senior year he is beset with more committees, honor societies and other such things than he knows what to do with. When a man has already acquired two or three extra-curriculum jobs, why heap more on him? It is said that such a person deserves the additional honor to pay him for all that he has done, but doesn't he rather deserve the opportunity to devote his time to those activities which he has shown he most cares for?

Apart from being unfair to the overworked student, our present way of concentrating positions is unfair to other men on the campus. There is no reason why all the experience and enjoyment of activities should go to a certain few, especially when owing to their multiplicity of affairs they are unable to do all of them well. There are many very capable men on the campus who have never had a real chance to show what they can do, nor to develop their possibilities, because some one with just a hair more ability got in ahead of them. The man of ability should be given the preference, granted, but he should not be given the upper hand in several branches of activity while the man who is practically his equal gets no chance at all. Furthermore, owing to certain systems of elections many times the man of ability is not chosen.

Certainly to allow a few men to overburden themselves while others are out of deserved opportunities is not fair either to the institution nor to the students. Why then is there no point system in effect? I understand that there is something drawn up on paper in this regard, but that is of no especial benefit without the active support of the students behind it. The student body is, I think, in favor of a point system, but apparently those in power are not, and so nothing is done. If however sentiment is as strongly in favor of the plan as I feel that it is, and if that sentiment is made public, then something will be done about the situation.

A Senior.

ELIGIBILITY

To the Editor of The Cynic:

The eligibility department is organizing for another year's work. Call is being sent out for Freshmen who will scrub for the coming year and become eligible for election as assistant managers at next mid-years. The offices of the department are counted as college honors and the manager is awarded a letter at the end of his year's work.

Part of the work of the department is to keep records of the men's standings as often as reports are obtainable. The other main part is to find help for those who are low in their subjects. In the past year the help has came mainly from the men's own fraternities along with some outside tutoring.

Much of Vermont's success in athletics depends upon the scholastic standing of the students in athletics. It is not the purpose of the department to furnish permanent crutches for those trying to "just get by" but mainly to help the men out when they get into scholastic difficulties and let them do the rest.

Civils Issue Challenge

The Civil Engineers challenge any department or combination of departments to a relay race. Each team composed of four men running three laps apiece. Race to be ran at the smoker to be held the latter part of this month.

Carl Simpson, Captain.

Arriving Missionary: May I ask what course you intend to take with me?

Cannibal King: The regular one. You'll follow the fish.—Witt.

I hope that the students, participants in athletics, and fraternities all cooperate for better standing of these men.

SENIORS BEAT JUNIORS IN ONE-SIDED CONTEST

Tuesday afternoon the Senior basket ball team swamped the Juniors by scores of 38 and 16-6, respectively. The Seniors have wonderful class and team spirit; not only is the team itself extremely able, but there are several subs who were close runners-up for first team positions. The games did not look nearly as one sided as the scores would indicate, the Juniors played fine basket ball, especially the guards, but they lacked the co-ordination of their opponents.

Other interclass games will be played Tuesdays and Thursdays for the next two weeks, and the finals will be run off at the Indoor Meet. Judging by the games which have been played, the Seniors will have little difficulty in winning the series again, which will be the fourth consecutive time.

HEALTH COUNCIL NOTES

The Health Council is planning a posture week to be run by the Freshmen soon. There is to be a representative in each dormitory to arouse interest in this venture.

It is also planned to have a survey made of the present number of blue cards for illness in the Dean's Office to determine which house has had the smallest percentage of absences due to illness during the current year. The results of this will be announced at the W. A. A. rally next week Thursday. It has been recommended that there be a contest between the various houses in order that greater interest may be aroused in keeping well.

Lafayette: Rutgers: : Vermont: Middlebury

Cane Tradition Carried by Thomas to Rutgers.

That President John M. Thomas of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., formerly the President of Middlebury College has carried to the New Jersey Institute one of Middlebury's most cherished traditions as the news conveyed in the following extract from the Boston Herald of January 25:

Middlebury, Vt., January 25. Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., and Middlebury College now share a tradition in common with Pres. John M. Thomas instituting at Rutgers the carrying of Gamaliel Painter's cane after a football victory over Lafayette. While he was head of Middlebury President Thomas for several years marched at the head of the snake dance of undergraduates, following eridiron victories over their old rival, the University of Vermont. And following that tradition he inaugurated, he carried Gamaliel Painter's cane, a century old relic of one of Middlebury's founders.

The cane is kept in close concealment until Vermont has been defeated and then, for a week or more, the president carries it with him about the campus. Pres. Thomas of Rutgers has had a duplicate made, to be displayed by him and succeeding presidents of the University following victories over Lafayette.

Women Did Not Take Part in College Play Until Twelve Years Ago

Pomander Walk," the Junior Week play in 1915 marked the opening of a new era in the history of dramatics at the University of Vermont. At that time seven young women appeared in a Vermont college play for the first time in the history of this institution. Before 1915 the men students refrained absolutely from the idea to the extent of casting men for feminine characters in college plays. On May 21 and 22, 1915, Burlington audiences cheered as the first co-ed players appeared in the now historic "Pomander Walk."

The young women who made this event history at Vermont were: Misses Marie McMahon '15, Gladys Gleason '15, Jessie Flake '17, Constance Votey '16, Almira Watts '15, Mabel Derway '17 and Ida Holden '15.

Such a radical departure from the traditional policy of the Wig and Buskin society was naturally not well received on the campus. The editor of the Cynic was forced to soothe the irate men in a long editorial during which he states: "With Pomander Walk a new custom was instituted at Vermont. It was a hard pill for some to swallow, that the young women were allowed to take a part in the Junior Week play. There were tremendous expostulations from certain quarters and many things were said which those who said them are probably willing to take back now. We all agree that Pomander Walk could never have been the success which it has proved to be had the girls taken no part. Therefore we cannot do otherwise than give them due credit for their invaluable assistance in the performance.

Their acting in every case, was fully as good as that of the men. The highest praise is due them for the way in which they took hold of the whole affair. Pomander Walk will establish a precedent for future college plays and we do not think that it will be a bad precedent either. There are still those who will balk at breaking away entirely from this old custom of limiting parts in the Junior Week production to men only but it must be remembered that we are living in an age of progress, that what seemed to be best yesterday may not be best tomorrow. Simply because the young women have not taken part in the college plays in the past is no reason why they should not do so today and in the future. If they raise the quality of the production why keep them out?

Just as the editor predicted, the precedent established has been continued and women are now active in producing college plays. With the passing of the Elizabethan custom of having men appear as women on the stage, the Vermont plays have reached a standard which would be impossible to maintain under ancient conditions. There is no question now about women appearing in Junior Week plays.

To Men Who Like To Borrow Their Smokes . . . .

It's a gift if you can get away with it. But more often it's as dangerous as coughing in a professor's face. It has a kickback that sometimes knocks you for a row of fraternity houses.

And the sad day of reckoning comes when your victims get wise to your extra-curricular laboratory work and rise up in outraged wrath . . . when it dawns upon them that every time you borrowed one of their butts you did so merely as an "experiment" to determine, at their expense, the kind of gentlest, smoothest smoke for your throat and tongue.

But fellows, take our gray-haired advice—choosing the right cigarette is like choosing the right girl. The more you experiment the more likely you are to go wrong. Real love strikes you flush on the jaw when you least expect it . . . often through an accident.

It's the same with a cigarette. Just stop looking and you'll find your true sweetheart . . . the result of your accidental reading of this bit of poesy.

If your habit of borrowing has not become pernicious our humble suggestion is that you try OLD GOLD. It's as cool as a dish of ice cream, as smooth as a cream puff . . . and as thrilling as a stolen kiss. And the feature that has made it famous among college men everywhere is the fact that it hasn't a single cough in a carload.

COLLEGE DEPUTATION VISITS GRAND ISLE

A deputation from the University Y. M. C. A. composed of Richmond H. Curtiss '30, M. G. Pierce '27, C. E. Harwood '29, and Franklin Sears '29 went to Isle La Motte last Saturday evening. They took charge of the church services held in South Alburg and Isle La Motte on Sunday.

Saturday evening a debating team consisting of Mark Pierce, R. H. Curtiss and Franklin Sears met a team composed of residents of Isle La Motte, the subject debated being, "Have Women Justified their Right to Vote." The decision went to the people of Isle La Motte.

Sunday morning Mark Pierce had charge of the services at South Alburg, and R. H. Curtiss spoke on "Wrists in Christ." In the afternoon, C. E. Harwood had charge of the services at Isle La Motte, and spoke briefly on the "Application of the Golden Rule Today." J. H. Sears spoke on "Religious Conditions at the University."

The members of the deputation were well entertained during their stay, and were conducted about the Islands in sleighs.

Lyman and Whitcomb, deserve much credit for the manner in which they played when their services were necessary. With this year's experience they should fit into the forward position left open by Post's graduation. Bernstein, Wallace, Halligan and Manning of the Frosh team look like varsity material and are sure to give the others plenty of opposition.

On the whole, with only two members graduating, and the reserve material mentioned above, prospects for the seventh consecutive State championship title look bright to the Green and Gold, although the other Vermont colleges will afford plenty of competition with their own veteran teams.

The individual scores are as follows:

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTS FOUNDER'S DAY SPEAKER

At a meeting of the Junior Class held last Wednesday at the Williams Science Hall, E. A. Lucchina of Barre was elected to be the Founder's Day Speaker for the class. Lucchina has taken part in two college plays and Kingsley Prize Speaking. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Chi Fraternity.

A proposal to have a Junior Boat-ride during Junior Week was voted down at the meeting. It was voted by a large majority that a Junior Banquet should be held this year. The class heard a report from Sabin Abell, chairman of Junior Week. A motion was passed to give $15 for the Basketball Hop.

LARGE SIG DELEGATION ATTENDS CENTENNIAL

A full quota of Sigma Phis from U. V. M. attended the Centennial Convention held at Union College in Schenectady, New York, the home of the mother chapter on March 4th and 5th.

Approximately eight hundred members were present or one out of every four living Sigma Phis.

The convention was held in two sessions, on Friday night and Saturday morning.

Judge Barnes of the Vermont chapter was the toastmaster at a banquet on Saturday evening. Elihu B. Root, prominent statesman, was one of the many noted speakers on the program.

The Sigma Phi Sisters, a society unique in its class, had a luncheon Saturday noon.

Baseball Squad Shows Much Promise After Practice

With these six men ready for action "Hank" will have little need for worry over his pitching squad. Chief Fogg, a veteran is looking forward to the greatest year in his college baseball career with his old soup bone feeling better than ever. Moriarty will be remembered as coming into the limelight three years ago after being drafted from the seconds. According to all reports he is in for a great season and is out to bring in his share of the victories. Schoppe and Roark both had good years last season and with this previous experience behind them they should bolster up the squad a great deal. Talcott and Santoir are both pitchers from the second team last year and although a little inexperienced they may come through and show up the regulars before the season is over.

FRESHMEN ENTERTAINED ROYALLY BY GOLD KEY

Gold Key again most graciously entertained a score or more delinquent Frosh at a meeting held last Wednesday evening at the Phi Mu Delta House. For some Frosh this made the third time that they were "up." In the case of one or two it was the fourth. Moreover, as the number of offenses grow greater, the more severe the punishment becomes and the more vigilant Gold Key is for the next offense. Most Frosh have by this time learned a lesson from attendance at these Gold Key meetings. For those who have not, perhaps more drastic measures will be employed. Yet it is evident that the Sophomores are doing their duty, for the meetings come with almost mechanical regularity and precision, much to the discomfiture of many of the Class of '30.

Gold Key is to do its share in making the annual Interscholastic Tournament a success. One member is assigned to each competing team to look out for them while at the gym in the way of lockers, showers, etc. The other members are to act as ushers at the games. In this manner, the society will be serving the other purpose of its organization, namely, that of aiding the athletic department.

Freshman hazing at the University of California has been banned. As numerous accidents occurred, the Sophomore vigilante committee has decreed that the remainder of the year shall be devoted to a mere education.

She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Marian Everest '29 has been elected Vice-President, Dorothy Atwell '29, Recording Secretary, Mildred Whitney '29, Corresponding Secretary, Mildred Roberts '28, Treasurer, Arlette Burns and Eleanor Lockwood, Senior Representatives, Marian Backus, Junior Representative, Narcissa Woodsell, Sophomore Representative, Doris Kibbe '30, Publicity Manager.

Catherine Bassett '29 is President of Health Council. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta fraternity and manager of Glee Club and a member of Dramatic Club. Dorothy Wheatley '29 is President of Outing Club. She belongs to Pi Beta Phi.

Important on Hill

Perhaps one of the most essential and most important of the women's organizations is W. A. A. Through the untiring effort of Miss Cummings, aided by Miss Blanchard, W. A. A. comes into contact in one way or another with every woman student at the University.

The organization has had a very successful year under the leadership of Naomi Thorne. Several new features have been introduced, one of them being the Health Council, which has carried on its work under the direction of Anna Ward. The Health Council has been organized to work in cooperation with W. A. A. in investigating actual health conditions and in introducing preventative measures.

Another new feature is the additional award, an honorary emblem, for Seniors. This emblem is an old English V and can be won by any senior who has eared four hundred points during her senior year and who, during her college career, has made two varsity teams.

Represented at Wellesley

In April W. A. A. sent two delegates, Ruth Eayres and Naomi Thorne to an A. C. A. C. W. Conference at Wellesley. The chief topic of interest was Sport for Sports' Sake.

The sports of the spring closed with a Baseball Rally.

Last fall much interest was taken in outdoor sports. Horseback riding was more successful than ever before.

DEAN WASSON MEMORIAL FUND DRIVE PROGRESSES

The Dean Wasson Memorial fund is steadily growing and has now reached a total of $10,624. The present aim of the Trustees is to raise $60,000. Marion Way '21 is chairman of the drive now conducted now with $15,000 as the last milestone.

If the larger campaign is successful one of two things will be done: either a wing of one of the dormitories will be fitted out as a hospital ward; or a new and separate building will be erected on some part of the University property. However if the authorities are able to raise only $15,000 a room at the Mary Fletcher Hospital will be endowed for the use of the university women.

Different methods are being used to raise this sum. The ladies of the faculty are planning a benefit party next month and have rented the Klifa and Alpha clubs for the purpose. The various organizations on the campus have pledged sums for the memorial. Still another part of the fund is most appropriately derived from the sale of copies of verse which Dean Wasson wrote and which has been published since her death.

OMICRON NU TO ERECT CASE IN MORRILL HALL

Omicron Nu lost a very active member when Miss Blundell left Vermont. At her instigation, a chapter of the society was established here.

The purpose of this honorary society is to uphold the highest type of womanhood and to inspire Home Economics Girls to enter research work.

The society plans to erect a case in Morrill Hall, which will keep Omicron Nu constantly before the minds of home-economic students, to be obtained by earnest and persistent endeavor.

Officers of Omicron are: President, Myrtle Starr, Vice-president, Marion Putnam; Editor, Myrtle Starr.

CANDIDATES IN ARIEL CONTEST INCREASE

Up to the time of going to press, the nominees for the Ariel's Representative Vermonters' Contest were Lawrence H. Averill, Ralph H. Blodgett, William M. Lockwood, Ellis J. Moodie, A. T. Post, Carl G. Simpson and Miss Loretta Jennings. A considerable number of petitions were expected from the women and several more from the men. Additional nominations will be accepted up to midnight tonight. On Tuesday of next week, a complete list of the candidates will be published, and on Wednesday and Thursday the balloting will take place.

The Board will take every precaution to prevent the identity of the winners from becoming known before the date of publication.

A few Juniors have not yet handed in individual snapshots of themselves. These must be in before Monday, so that the printing will not be held up on this account.

MARGARET DURICK HAS CHARGE OF CO-ED PAGE DURING COMING YEAR

Helen Stevens '28 is Elected Associate Editor on the Women's Board—Cynic Competition Held Twice a Year

At the recent elections of the Women members of the Cynic Board, Margaret A. Durick '29 of Fair Haven was chosen as Women's editor for the coming year. Miss Durick is a member of Alpha Xi Delta fraternity; of the first honor group; is vice-president of Blue stockings, the literary club, and vice-president of Eta Sigma Phi, honorary Greek fraternity, and has been on the Cynic Board for two years. Her literary ability is unquestioned.

At the same time Helen Stevens '28 of Richmond was elected as associate editor. Miss Stevens is a member of Delta Delta Delta fraternity, is outstanding in athletics as well as literary circles.

Elections to the Women's board are held twice per annum. Members are received on the basis of a merit system. From the list of assistant editors, an editor and an associate editor are elected each year at this time.

Middlebury Glee Club won the Second Annual New England Glee Club contest in Symphony Hall, Boston. They stood out first over eleven other colleges. As champion of New England the Middlebury Club will go to New York on March twelfth where it will take part in the national contest, which is given under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Music Council. By winning the New England Title, the Middlebury Club defeated Wesleyan, who was the winner last year, and as it happens, was the winner of the National Contest, so the outlook is exceptionally fine for Middlebury.

President Clarence C. Little of the University of Michigan believes that any student who fails to show signs of interest in an education by the end of his Sophomore year should be discouraged from continuing his college education.

CLASS DAY SPEAKERS ELECTED BY SENIORS

At a meeting of the Senior class held last Friday afternoon, Emory C. Mower of Burlington was unanimously elected Founder's Day Speaker. The Class Day speakers elected are as follows: Address to Undergraduates, William M. Lockwood; Campus Oration, Ovide F. Parody; Pipe Oration, Lawrence H. Averill; Address to Ira Allen, Charles H. Blackall; Address to Lafayette, Theodore W. Egan; Ivy Oration, Belle Randall; Class Historian, Loretta Jennings; Class Poet, Vina Rugg; Hjalmar A. Aronson, marshal.

Floyd James exhibited the blazers that the committee has decided to use. Sam O'Neil's Haberdashery has been awarded the contract of furnishing the blazers. All the blazers are made to order and of correct styles for both men and women. A deposit of two dollars is required when measurements are taken and the balance of four dollars must be paid when the blazer is received.

Several of the chairmen of Senior week committees gave reports. Haven Greene, chairman of the questionnaire committee urged that the class feel free to hand in any questions or suggestions that they might have. In this way a more complete and satisfactory questionnaire can be drawn up. Lawrence H. Averill reported for the program committee that several companies had presented samples and prices. A decision will be made soon. It is desired that each member of the class decide at once the number of programs that they desire. George Alfred presented several samples of men's canes and the style to be used was agreed upon. Orders were taken following the meeting. Samples of women's canes are to be here in a week. All cane orders must be placed as soon as possible.

A motion was passed to appropriate $20 for the Basketball Hop. Another motion was passed that the executive committee draw up a budget for commencement expenses and report at the next meeting.

For the first time in the history of the athletic department, a picture was taken of all letter men in college. About forty wearers of the "V" turned out Saturday afternoon on the Gym steps for this purpose. The picture will appear in the sports section of this year's Ariel.

Alma Batten is President of the Women's Student Union

Survey of Past Shows Growth of Student Government at Vermont Since Inception in September, 1916

IRENE BATES APPOINTED UNION'S CHIEF JUSTICE

The Student Union officers for the coming year are: president, Alma Batten '28; vice-president, Catherine Bassett '29; secretary, Eleanor Lockwood '28; treasurer, Eleada Flake '29; chief justice, Irene Bates '28; chairman program committee, Dorothy Strong '29; chairman social calendar, Muriel Cleveland '28.

Alma Batten of Morrisville is a member of Alpha Xi Delta, was business manager of the Women's Freshman Handbook, Junior representative to Pan Hellenic and vice-president of Student Union in 1926-1927.

Irene Bates of Springfield is a member of the Cynic Board, the 1928 Ariel staff, Junior Week committee, Blue stockings and Press Club.

Women's Association

At this time in the history of Women's Student Union, it seems opportune to make a survey of the past and glance a little into the future of the organization.

The first form of Student Union was the result of an emergency for mass meetings of the woman students at which enthusiasm in the songs of and traditions of Vermont might be aroused. In September, 1916, the young society assumed the name, "Women's Association." Its duties were however mainly social and it played a part in student life which now belongs to Vermonters Club.

A year later in November, 1917, the secretary of the "Women's Association" was instructed to present before the organization the systems of Student Government in six coeducational colleges. By sending delegates to other campuses and by questionnaires, provisional rules were drawn up for a Women's Student Union at Vermont.

Dean Wasson did much to bring those who came under her care to a realization of the personal honor, which is necessary to uphold such an organization as Student Union.

June 9 1920 is an important date in the history of the Women's College, because on this day it was voted to accept Student Government.

Union Recognized in 1920

President Bailey recognized the organization and in the fall of 1920, Student Union became a force in University history. It was compared at that time to a fledgling bird. Through the years that have passed, Student Government has gained strength and the accomplishment of its aims through the activity of the society.

As in all government, it was found advisable last spring to separate the judicial duties from the executive, and so the new office of chief justice was created. This officer presides at Judiciary Committee meetings and controls the House Committees of the dormitories. Charlotte Brown '27 fulfilled the office of Chief Justice during 1926-1927.

Elizabeth Warner Morrill's resignation as President of Student Union was accepted and Della Martin was elected President.

Delegates to National Meeting

Charlotte Brown and Della Martin represented U. V. M. at a conference of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government, held at Trinity College, Washington, D. C., November 11-13. Girls from sixty Eastern Colleges attended and the scope of representation made contacts and opportunities for a mutual exchange of problems and suggestions manifold.

Student Union provided for the convocation on February 10, at which Miss Alice Hunt discussed international affairs. Miss Terrill spoke to the girls about traditions. Miss Phillips, a graduate of Wellesley and a teacher in India, recounted some of her experiences before assembly.

MURIEL CLEVELAND IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF MASQUE AND SANDAL

Mrs. C. Ives Taggart is Guest of Honor at Banquet Held Thursday at Hotel Vermont

Muriel Cleveland '28 of Springfield, Mass., has been chosen president of Masque and Sandal. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta fraternity. Not only has she been prominent in dramatics at the University of Vermont but has an enviable record in athletics and for the past year was Junior representative on the W. A. A. Council. Margaret Wood '28 is vice-president, Annette Rosenberg '30, secretary, Dorothy Cottrell '29, treasurer.

Thursday evening Masque and Sandal initiation was held at the Kappa Alpha Theta house, for Agatha Jesup '27, Eleanor Taft '28, Eleanor Davison '28 and Annette Rosenberg '30. An banquet followed at the Hotel Vermont with Mrs. C. Ives Taggart as the guest of honor. It was under her direction that Captain Applejack was so successfully presented this fall by Masque and Sandal and Wig and Buskin.

OUTDOOR WINTER SPORTS

A successful skating party was held February 1st. Miss Phillips gave an exhibition of fancy skating steps and explained the fundamentals to the girls.

Interest in outdoor activities has increased greatly during the past year. Classes in Canoeing, horseback riding, and skating have been held as well as in snowshoeing and skiing. Because of inclement weather conditions, the Winter Carnival was omitted but it is hoped that this feature of W. A. A. will be continued next year.

A rally is to be held at Robinson Hall, Thursday, March 17, and it is hoped that everyone will be present.

W. A. A. has been growing steadily, and a time is foreseen when it will be one of the most vital of women's activities.

THE ART OF LIVING

The art of living is manifested in so many ways. The fact that it is an art, however, seems to occur to but few. Unhappily, their attainment of a perfect culture does not always include the expansion of their personality. In their scramble for knowledge, they forget that it is quality and not quantity that they should seek.

It is inevitable as life itself that equal importance will not be attached to the same interests by different individuals. But as there is usually a deliberate selection of pursuits, it would seem as though a tolerant attitude toward those rejected by the aspirant should be forthcoming.

As it so often happens, the philosopher who visualizes himself as a calm and serene thinker, oftentimes represents all that is radical in his views—unconsciously, perhaps, but nevertheless indelibly apparent. And yet, if one were to approach him with the fact of his shortcoming, the result would defeat the very purpose involved by intensifying rather than eliminating the problem that he represents.

The depth and pitfalls into which one may so easily fall, are suggestive of the profound currents through which one sweeps in the external flow of the great tide that carries one ever onward toward the land of eternity. The sheer drops and breathless spots are allurements at the same time that their unfathomable and immeasurable deeps instill a penetrating fear into the soul of the voyager. There is a fatal and subtle fascination in experiencing the whirlpools, but there is a relief and a vast comfort and contentment in emerging to the world of hard realities of truthful broadmindedness and grim justice.

Across the thousands of centuries the realization has come down to the world of the greatness, the necessity and the nobleness of tolerance. Through the long stretches of time, since that first memorable day it has always been on the horizon of civilization. In those ancient days, long dead and gone, before written word had even begun to weave its tale of color and glow, there yet must have been present in the lives of prehistoric people, the existence of this infinite quality, because without it there could have been no organization, no expansion, no culture, no life as it represents them, as it does now the essence of all life. It has been, and will always be the foundation upon which civilization can be built up satisfactorily. Without it, there is a disintegration which although not visible at first to an ordinary observer, still slowly and surely accomplishes its fateful work.

At a time when democracy is being subjected to such virulent attacks as are occurring at present, it is not merely a coincidence to realize that the chief characteristic of democracy is the fundamental principle tolerance. Inclusiveness plays a large rôle but is the lesser of the two.

The ideal of democracy is prevalent throughout the country and within the schools and colleges, but to the minds of some it seems to remain an ideal. It is not something tangible, real and soothing. To make it a living, breathing, pulsating experience remains to the elect to obtain. In the attainment of this end, the journey thereto may be strewn with obstacles and heaped with sacrifices. But there is no sacrifice great enough in the eyes of the one who has seen the vision; no obstacle too insurmountable for him to cast aside.

Every-day life represents the trail that leads to the final goal. It is a rough trail, and a weary one. Along its way, many will fall in desperation, only we could hold them when they staunchedly to pursue the course they have set so relentlessly for themselves. But with tolerance as their mainstay and staff to aid them, there will come a gradual unfolding of some new power, a new inspiration that will counteract the trials and hardships along the way, and the vast barren spaces will seem peopled by creatures of wildest imaginings, who tend to lead one on.

The way shall lead through valleys of dim unrest, and through forests of black desolation; but at last, far above and beyond, will gleam the eternal promise of a glorious reward that will seem reflected in the glimmering glow of the mountain tops where the sun is touching the summits in a splendor and beauty untold.

Youth comes to college, spends there four years of glorious heyday, and goes out to meet the world. The halls grow old with the coming and going; the stairs are worn by the tread of the procession. But the true University possesses an intangible thing, firmer than brick and masses of stone—and it is called the "Spirit."

The spirit is ever old and always new—the colorful extravagance of a sunrise, the mystic grayness of an ivy-hung wall. It brings beauty to a barren waste, and imbues the students with a love of liberty and service. It goes away with youth, into a village, into a great city, to the seven seas, to the ends of the earth.

And after youth has gone on its joyful adventure, and has left behind its Alma Mater, there still abides in the university, and mystically enriching those who come after, a realization of the fullness of Life. Shaming the grossness of tangible things and creating dreams and visions.

"A queer world," Miss Alumna (of another college) said. "Every campus is a Lilliput, and in coming to visit, I can experience the feelings of Captain Gulliver. Students everywhere are Lilliputians, dwarfed to the world of life and bigness—so many hop o' my thumbs in coonskin coats or football suits; striving madly for petty things of a small world. I was a Lilliputian once and I worked as feverishly as anyone else. Now, in retrospect, that headlong rush seems silly and trivial."

Branded as a Lilliputian, I hardly dared to stand six inches high and recite a giant. But I wondered, in spite of our excitement and striving, how we deserved comparison with the ancient Gens of Lilliput. A world, where the deepest riches, gleaned from centuries of life, are found, has never sheltered dwarfish things. A world, where lessons of law and service and liberty are learned, cannot be trifling.

Perhaps we have a too conscious attitude toward our affairs and perhaps Miss Alumna is partially justified in denouncing it. However, our affairs are weighty and serious; not only are we preparing for life, but we are living four fine years of it. The littleness, if it exists, will inevitably reach the proportions of a Titan, in statesmanship, industry, literature and the arts.

"That's how it goes," said Garth. "All broken lights. Only one thing to do—to keep driving at action—putting out all your strength on something or other, not scrubby. It keeps you fit to get the feel of the great moments. If only we could hold them when they come! Why, we could keep the earth warm when the sun had cooled down."

We have a lasting quality expressed in these few words, which might well form the background of our own philosophy. For who is not turning this way and that for an inspiration that is not too much of the earth? And we have it here. The key word—action—represents the only thing worthwhile. And, too, it is most nearly pertinent to college affairs that are urging on all sides. It voices Holmes' more spiritual thought in words that are perhaps more effective: "To reach the port of heaven, we must sail and not drift nor lie at anchor," says Holmes. And so for the person who is wavering, it comes as a source of light. The fragrance of comfort leaves one with a glorified impression that touches the hidden wells of expression, and dominates every thought. There is a dream here, but not merely a dream. For the abode of the dreams of men is the house of life; and the house of life is a tangible, actual thing that is made to glow and vibrate by action rather than by the wraith-like shadow of the unreal. The culmination of unrest is found in the suggestion made by the brief concise words that say so simply: "Keep driving at action."

Twenty per cent of the college students of the country were dropped last year because of poor scholarship. New York University was the highest with thirty per cent. Yale was lowest with twelve per cent. We wonder what the per cent will be in 1927.

Safe-guarding tobacco's priceless asset

TOBACCO that's a veritable treasure, a wealth of rich mellowness, worth its weight in gold... deserves every possible protection to assure its safe-keeping. So, the utmost precaution is taken to safeguard Granger's priceless properties.

To prevent the loss of one bit of its freshness, Granger is first packed in a heavy-foil pouch... Then to be 100% on the safe-side, this is sealed 'AIR-TIGHT' in an extra outside-wrapper of glassine—keeping the tobacco 'factory-fresh' till you break the seal to load your pipe!

Our chemists say it is 'an almost perfect seal for tobacco condition'—protecting tobacco better than any container except the VACUUM tin. Then, because it is much less expensive than a costly pocket-tin, Granger's pocket-packet sells at just ten cents. It's the greatest value ever offered to pipe-smokers!

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

I believe that the old question of the fraternity system for men engaged in college activities has again taken its place in Campus Comment. I thoroughly agree with the writer of the previous article that sentiment is for and against the system and that it should be put into effect. As the situation now stands a few fraternity men manage to hold all the principal positions in the various activities, clinging to what seems to be a pan-fraternity loyalty, and being supported to no small extent by what is commonly known as fraternity politics. Now if each man were limited in the number of offices he could hold, the fraternities would soon find out of men capable of carrying responsibility or wishing to do so, thus giving others a chance. This same idea holds almost as well with regard to some of the newer fraternities as with the Independents, since the older organizations tend to freeze them out.

The point system might not go far in working a remedy, but if anything would help to give a chance to the men who have either not received fraternity bids or who have declined to accept them, I would certainly like to see it tried.

TWEEDY SPEAKS ABOUT SCIENCE AND RELIGION

The controversy between Science and Religion, which has been raging ever since the beginning of modern science, is due, not to the clash between true science and true religion but to the clash between the old and the new science and theology and science. This is in essence of what Dr. Henry Hallam Tweedy, who spoke in the new Chapel last Thursday afternoon, took as his subject.

Dr. Tweedy viewed the theory of evolution as one of the greatest evidences of a common bond between science and religion at the present time. Where the trouble comes in is in the controversies begun by theologists who attempted to prove that their view of the Christian Religion is the right one. What matter, the particular form so long as one honestly does his best in following in the footsteps of Jesus? That is the answer Prof. Tweedy gives to the theological controversies. What the man of today is looking for is a Religion which will satisfy the soul of a saint yet not disgust the mind of a scholar."

The definition of science is in Dr. Tweedy's estimation "an organized, verifiable knowledge of things and forces," and not a means of finding out the "why" of our existence. It is a revelation of the handiwork of God. The old theories that it was blasphemous to say that the earth was round because the Bible spoke of the "corners of the earth" and that the Bible is an accurate scientific document have been the cause of a great deal of unnecessary discord. It was the theologians attacking Magellan, Columbus, Galileo and Copernicus and men like John Wesley believed in witches who have done much to retard the development of harmony between science and religion. Most of the great scientists of the past and present have been deeply religious men. Such men as Isaac Newton, Lord Kelvin, Faraday and many others were mentioned to bear out this statement. In regard to the number of scientists who have been atheists, Dr. Tweedy asks, "why should a man who has immured himself in studies to the exclusion of thought of the life principles of Jesus believe in them?" He cited Darwin at this point who spent three years studying earthworms.

Religion is the great and glorious way to find life, that is, to enjoy life to the fullest extent and in its broadest sense. Jesus Christ taught men to live noble lives; lives of cooperation, love and goodwill. Christ's teaching, "love your enemies, pray for them that despitefully use you," was the greatest step taken for the advancement of mankind since the Mosaic law which stood for "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." Even that law revengeful and unloving as it seems to be now, was a great advance over the previous codes which stood for both eyes for one and every tooth for one and death if possible.

Only by honest, clean and noble lives patterned after that of Christ fit a man for the "Great Beyond," for as the Bible says "the wages of sin are death."

Dr. Tweedy lectured Friday night in the Old Mill Chapel on "Belief in a Personal God." He said an atheist denies any meaning in God, anything back of the universe, and an agnostic is a man who believes that the nature, nor existence, nor the ultimate character of the universe is knowable to man. There are many different philosophies that invade a campus and the one most shunned is the one most needed. Glimpses of character are seen in the noblest creations. The human being is the highest form of life on the earth today, and the only living thing capable of attaining character. Choosing between good and evil builds up the character. Tweedy states when it is once formed it will never die. There should be a reverence for personality, a kind of spirit develops from personality. The world is the finest place in which to build character because of the conflict and struggle. A man finds God through seeking the truth and developing his own individuality. Jesus is the revelation of God in character and personality so man should look to him as a model, a criterion.

An open forum was held afterward. Many college students took part in the discussion.

VERMONT DEBATERS BEAT ST. LAWRENCE

Last Thursday evening in the Old Mill Chapel the varsity debaters won their third consecutive victory of the year when they defeated the team from St. Lawrence University of New York. The vote of the judges, Judge C. P. Cowles, Judge J. A. McNamara, and Rev. Sumner Mitchell was unanimously in favor of the local team. The subject was "Resolved that the United States should cancel all loans made to its associates during the World War." Lawrence A. Hince, Carl H. Wedell and Emory C. Mower argued for Vermont on the affirmative and Burritt Haddow, T. Adams Hersey and Henry T. Atwood as alternate, speaking for St. Lawrence upheld the negative. Martin Vilas of Burlington acted as Chairman of the debate.

The constructive arguments of both sides could only be the result of a thorough study and careful analysis of the complex subject. The Vermonters held that the debts are not moral obligations, that it is impossible to collect, that if it were possible, it would be cruel to make Europe pay, and that the whole world will benefit by cancellation. The negative team maintained that Europe can and should fulfill her agreements, that the United States has the capacity to receive payment, that Europe does not deserve cancellation, and that cancellation will have evil consequences.

Next Wednesday evening the Vermont debaters, upholding the affirmative of the same question, will meet M. I. T. at Boston, and the following Friday, will journey to Middlebury to argue with the Black Panther.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A picture of the band was taken Friday at one o'clock in the cage. The rifle team and cadet officers were photographed in the morning.

The rifle team defeated The University of North Dakota recently by the score of 3682 to 3663.

Owing to the lack of members Friday afternoon the taking of the Freshman Class picture and class meeting had to be postponed until next week. The time will be posted on the bulletin boards.

Last Friday at 1.30 the Band had its picture taken in uniform in front of the gymnasium for the Ariel.

There is much talk in Converse Hall as to inter-mural baseball games this spring and plans are being laid for such an event.

This week ten Seniors will take their oral examination in French for teaching.

The Bulletins for German summer school may now be obtained at the education office.

The Deutscher Verein will hold its next meeting on March 22 at the Vermonters' Club at 4 o'clock.

"CLOSED SHOP" SUBJECT OF SENIOR DEBATERS

Affirmatives were given a decision over the negatives in the Senior Debate, Friday afternoon on "Resolved, that workmen are justified in demanding closed shops." The negative team consisting of C. W. Moore, Haven C. Greene and E. W. Edmunds, were defeated by their opponents R. H. Blodgett, Nathan Thatcher and J. B. McLeod, who proved that the closed shop was beneficial to the workmen, necessary to the union and socially desirable. McLeod clinched the debate for the affirmatives but much competition was given by Moore for the negatives.

Last Thursday evening Professor Stocking and Buehler debated upon the question of cancellation of the War Debts at the Unitarian Church. Professor Buehler successfully upheld the negative.

Professor Grout spent two or three days in New York City last week on a business trip.

Professor Swift, who is on his Sabbatical year, is visiting in Burlington for a few days, coming from Harvard.

Carrier pigeon to carrier current —and then some!

IN the field of communication great strides have been taken—and greater will be taken. And just as the carrier current in telephony is an infinitely better vehicle for communication than the carrier pigeon, so new and greater developments lie ahead.

Today, as never before, this field offers an opportunity for constructive work in design, purchasing, manufacture, finance, distribution and other phases. In short, a many-sided field of work in which the ultimate horizon still lies far beyond any present view.

A study of the history of Sigma [illegible] is imperfect without some [illegible] the political-social atmosphere [illegible] the Society originated. [illegible] was founded at a period [illegible] prejudiced and [illegible] intrigue, had [illegible] secrecy was inherently [illegible] evil. It was natural [illegible] that anti-secret societies [illegible] formed to combat the secret [illegible]. However, as can be seen [illegible] modern Greek [illegible] of today, these [illegible] for the most part, unobjectionable in their purpose.

[illegible] has been known as a conservative fraternity. In the hundred years of its existence, only twelve chapters have been founded. Of these [illegible] only two of them, the ones [illegible] at Princeton and N. Y. U., are [illegible]. The Princeton chapter was [illegible] by anti-fraternity laws, and the N. Y. U. chapter surrendered its charter in the belief that a successful chapter could not be maintained in a city college, where the students met only at recitations.

The Alpha of Vermont was founded in 1845. Sigma Phi was the first, and until 1879, the only national fraternity here at Vermont. As soon as the charter was granted, five Sigs from other chapters transferred to Vermont to help the chapter along in its infancy.

The earliest meetings of the Chapter were held in private rooms and at various places, as convenience suited, but in 1846 rooms on the principal business street of the town were hired and fitted up for meetings and two years later, in 1849, a larger hall was secured on the site formerly occupied by the Burlington Trust Company, fronting on City Hall Park. This was the home of the Chapter for thirty years. But it was not long before the tendency among all college fraternities to establish chapter houses had reached the Alpha of Vermont, and steps were taken to erect the present chapter-house in Burlington. This house was completed in April, 1903.

Speaking again of the Society as a whole, its "inner-workings" cannot be explained here, but the Society having been formed, its mechanism, so far as it had any, adjusted itself automatically to its work. Very soon lines of principle and conduct appeared, as if spontaneously, and determined its character; and from these there has been no departure. In this regard Sigma Phi has experienced neither loss nor secretion.

COLLEGIATE DEBATING INTRODUCED THIS YEAR

[illegible] America there seems to be a revival of interest in the old [illegible]. It has been surmised that the [illegible] of Oxford debaters to this [illegible] is largely responsible for the [illegible] interest of college students in the art of debate.

[illegible]to in the annals of the University an intercollegiate co-ed debating contest has been unknown. Two years ago, the Sophomore girls met a Freshman team, and interest was [illegible] for a short time. In January of this year, a Sophomore team, composed of Gladys Kone, Dorothy Cottrell and Bertha Klein debated the Freshman representatives, Janice Goodrich, Mabel Freeman and Edith Fishman, on the question of adopting the Oxford lecture system in American colleges. The judges rendered decision in favor of the Sophomores.

Tryouts were held later to select a varsity team and the following girls were chosen to represent the University of Vermont: Gladys Kone, Mabel Freeman, Janice Goodrich and Bertha Klein. These girls have automatically become members of Tau Kappa Alpha, national debating honorary society.

The first intercollegiate debate of the season was held last night with Middlebury. The question was: Resolved, that it would be beneficial to grant Congress the power to enact uniform marriage and divorce laws. Vermont upheld the affirmative. In April, the team will go to St. Lawrence University in Canton, New York, to debate the question of cancellation of War debts.

Archery May be Introduced at Vermont

Archery—there is nothing new under the sun. Who said it?

It really doesn't matter. Archery is the vogue. It is one of the great virtues of archery as a sport for either sex, that by using bows of different strength the archer can make his exercise as vigorous or as gentle as he pleases. It is therefore open to youth as well as to age. Archery has other manifold claims to favor, especially as a sport for girls. Its every position is one of poise and strength and grace. It stretches and expands the chest, straightens the back and keeps the body erect. With the use of the muscles of the arms and the upper part of the back it unites a comfortable amount of walking, and (unless the archer is surpassingly skillful) of stooping to recover the arrows. It takes its devotees into the open at that time of year when nature is in her most cheerful and benignant moods. It has behind it a history and a heritage of romance that appeal with special attractiveness to those of a cultured and imaginative mind.

For several years archery has been growing in popularity, owing in part to its introduction as a form of athletics in girls' schools, colleges and summer camps. So why not at Vermont? Of course we are going to have it and this spring too.

Although archery is an entirely new subject at Vermont, the future certainly looks bright towards its becoming a major sport in the physical education department. If such an event occurs, there will be class managers, points given for making the teams, and in every way this new course will be equal in importance to basketball, soccer and hockey.

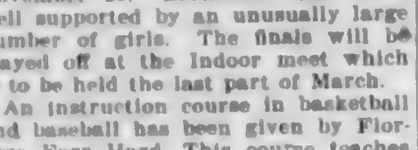
season was Field Day at which time the tennis tournament and the finals in hockey and volley ball were played off. The tennis tournament was won by Anna Ward, '27. The final hockey game resulted in the victory of the Seniors over the Juniors with a score of 1-0. The Sophomores won from the Freshmen in volley ball. After the games the girls, led by Miss Patterson, went from the field to Grassmount where each class gathered around a campfire for an outdoor supper. Classes competed for first place in songs and then followed the awards of sweaters and insignia.

The soccer season was a bit disastrous, due to the inclemency of the weather, but all games except the finals were played off. The Juniors and Seniors tied for first place.

Indoor gym and basketball began November 28. Basketball has been well supported by an unusually large number of girls. The finals will be played off at the Indoor meet which is to be held the last part of March.

An instruction course in basketball and baseball has been given by Florence Farr Hard. This course teaches the fundamentals and rules of the games, and is designed to prepare the girls for coaching and teaching.



Outing Club under the supervision of Elizabeth Pingree '28 has been responsible for many interesting hikes.

held on Saturday mornings from 10 to 10 20 for the last few years. Because Chapel services are held on Wednesday at this time, there is no longer a twenty minute period on Saturday. It is probable that Student Union Council, a representative group of Vermont girls, will continue its activity. No provision has been made for assemblies. Combining a brief Student Union Meeting with Vermonters' Club parties may be the solution of the problem.

Inasmuch as personal honor and the desire to retain Student Government in this University have been strengthened, the seventh year of its existence has been most successful for Women's Student Union.

GLEE CLUB IS LARGEST SELECTIVE ORGANIZATION ON VERMONT CAMPUS

Only 65 Members Picked in Competitions—Edith Start is Leader, and Catherine Bassett, Manager

The Women's Glee Club is the largest and most active selective club on the campus. This claim is based on the fact that the membership this year is 65, selected by tryout from 98 candidates. Meetings are held regularly every Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

At the annual meeting of the Glee Club last March, Della Martin '28 was elected leader and Catherine Bassett '29, manager. In November Miss Martin resigned because of too many activity points, and Edith Start '27 was elected to fill her place. Tryouts for accompanist resulted in the selection of Margaret Corbin '29 with Irene Marcotte '30 as assistant. The sextette was chosen as follows: first sopranos, Evelyn Bower and Edith Start; second sopranos, Catherine Bassett and Fern Westover; altos, Della Martin and Marion Sargent. The double quartette is composed of Evelyn Bower and Edith Start, first sopranos; Catherine Bassett and Margaret Corbin, second sopranos; Jeanne Lawrence and Edna Shaw, first altos; Gladys Kone and Della Martin, second altos. Selections were sung by the double quartette at the Dramatic Club entertainment, "Why the Chimes Rang" last December.

On January 19, the Glee Club assisted at the dedication exercises of the Ira Allen Chapel. A choir composed of Glee Club members sang an anthem and responses at the formal dedication in the morning and at the organ recital at night sang another selection. The present college choir is composed largely of Glee Club members.

Concert in January

On January 26 as a culmination of the half year's work, the annual concert was successfully presented before an unusually large audience. Numbers by Dvorak, Wagner and Mendelssohn were presented as representative of the semester's work. Miss Corbin gave two piano solos and the sextette sang. Dancing took place, as is the custom, after the concert.

Rehearsals this semester are being held in preparation for the opera "Dido and Aeneas" which is to be presented on May 6 in conjunction with the Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Professor Bennett, Professor Metcalf and Miss Cummings. Tryouts for the principal parts will be held in two weeks. More voices are needed for the chorus and additional tryouts will take place on Thursday afternoon at 4 in the Music House.

The election of new officers will take place next week.

Much credit is due Professor Bennett for his untiring efforts in behalf of both clubs.

Burlington High School Wins The Interscholastic Basketball Title

Springfield Won Way to Semi-finals After Close Competition. Black River Academy Upsets Calculations in Defeating Cathedral High

In the fastest set of preliminary games ever seen on the gym floor since the tournament was inaugurated in 1922 by the University of Vermont, Black River Academy defeated Cathedral High of Burlington in the biggest upset of the first round 24 to 22. Cathedral led through the first three periods and looked like an easy winner with a 16 to 9 lead at half-time. During the third period the Academy boys came to life and cut down the lead to three points. The fourth quarter saw the lead change hands for the first time, after Red Dunn was removed from the game via the personal foul route. Here Tobin, the local boys' captain, entered the contest in a vain attempt to stem the tide, but, hindered by a bad ankle, he was unable to live up to his reputation of being a star performer.

The second game furnished plenty of excitement for the fans with Springfield barely able to nose out Barton in a hotly contested game. The score at half time was 13 to 9 in favor of Barton. In the final period Charlie Tarro, fast Springfield forward, broke loose and scored almost at will, but even this did not stop Barton from fighting heart. With the score 25 to 19 in favor of the Green and White and two minutes to go Barton scored five points and threatened to eliminate Springfield. With the score standing 25 to 24 the whistle saved the game for Springfield. Charlie Tarro for Springfield was high scorer of the evening with 16 counters to his credit.

It looked like another upset when Proctor held Burlington scoreless throughout the first period. Here Burlington, led by Preston, staged a comeback and led 10 to 4 at half time. Burlington came back strongly in the second half and had little trouble in piling up a substantial lead before Coach Hard sent in his seconds. The final score stood 27 to 9 in favor of the local boys. Preston and Boyd starred for Burlington while Faignant was the outstanding player for the losers.

The final game of the evening between Northfield and Orleans was fast but very uninteresting because of the lack of teamwork on both sides. Northfield led at half time 10 to 7 and kept increasing their lead throughout the second half. Northfield seemed to realize that they held the advantage over their opponents and took things easy. The final score found Northfield on the long end of a 25 to 11 score. Rogers and Teachout starred for the winners and Smith and Dickens played well for Orleans.

The Sixth Annual Interscholastic Basketball Tournament was brought to a close with a bang Saturday night when Burlington High School turned back the fast Springfield High quintet 25 to 15. This victory brings the championship of the State back to Burlington after a two-year absence. Burlington was clearly the better team surpassing the Green and White both on the offense and the defense. Charlie Tarro, Springfield's scoring ace, was shut out entirely during the first half by Burlington's star performer "Barney" Doyle, but came back the second half and found the net three times all in the third period after the Blue and White had piled up a substantial lead.

The fact that the local boys won is not at all surprising as they have had a remarkable year, losing only one contest and that to Cathedral in an overtime period. They later gave this quintet a bad beating. Looking through the list of entrants for Burlington one finds every man a star actor in his particular line and some of the boys can play two positions with an equal ease.

The following is an all-Vermont team selected by the officials, Captain "Doc" Newton of Vermont and a representative of the Vermont Cynic: Forwards, Preston of Burlington and C. Tarro of Springfield; center, Preston of Burlington; guards, Doyle of Burlington and Teachout of Northfield. This team was easily the pick of the schoolboy material and would give a good account of themselves anywhere. The following men drew honorable mention: Forwards, Boyd of Burlington, Zammiello of Black River, A. Tarro of Springfield and Hardy of Burlington; centers, Durfee of Cathedral and Richards of Barton; guards, Dunn of Cathedral, Niles of Burlington, Russell of Springfield and B. Chiolino of Black River Academy.

Those who witnessed either the semi-finals or the finals will have little trouble in placing their O. K. on the Vermont quintet as the players who starred for this team were easily the outstanding men of the meet. Charlie Preston was the most noticeable man on the floor throughout the entire tournament and there should be no question as to his position. He was also high-point man of the tourney. Warner, the running mate of Tarro, was second high-point scorer and played brilliant ball in every game. Saturday afternoon Warner played three positions, forward, center and guard, all equally well. This fact alone shows his ability to hold down a place on this mythical quintet. Preston at center was the big upset of the tournament, for Burlington fans, who have watched him play average basketball during the past season. Entering the fray on Friday night when Burlington was on the short end of a 3 to 0 score Preston started things going for the locals. This was enough to show Coach Hard that he belonged at center and here he stayed. Teachout, the fighting Northfield guard, was the mainstay of his team both on the offense and defense and fits in nicely with this five. Doyle, the last member, was the best guard on the floor without any doubt and deserves a position because of his great defensive play. In the final contest he held Tarro to no baskets from the floor which is an event in itself.

In the semi-finals run off Saturday afternoon Springfield had little trouble in defeating Black River Academy 39 to 19. The boys from Ludlow did not seem to have the same pep that they had the night before and along with this their luck was anything but good. C. Tarro and A. Tarro had things pretty near their own way all the afternoon and between them they piled up 23 points or enough to win without the help of their teammates. Zammiello was the star of the losers scoring 9 of his team's points besides being a mainstay on the defense. The score at the end of the first quarter stood 11 to 0 in favor of Springfield and it looked like a shut-out for the Academy men but during the second period they began to find the hoop and at half time the score stood 20 to 7 still in favor of the Green and White. The underdogs came back strong, however, in the second half and started to hit the net with surprising frequency but this did not even raise a hair on the Springfield team and they continued to play on even terms with Black River. The final period saw Springfield jump into an overwhelming lead which the Academy lads never approached. In this period Charlie Tarro was the whole team for Springfield and it was mainly through his efforts that the Green and White piled up such a lead. This game brought Springfield into the finals with Burlington High.

In the second game of the afternoon Burlington had little in turning back the weak Northfield quintet 30 to 14. As soon as Burlington had obtained a large margin on the Red and White Coach Hard put in his seconds and even they were too much for the losers. The score at half time stood 14 to 4 in favor of the Blue and White. Preston who has been a substitute center for Burlington came into his own and with Warner the regular center at forward the Blue and White looked like champions. Warner was high-point man for Burlington with ten points to his credit while Preston wasn't far behind with seven counters. Burlington had little trouble in holding the Northfield forwards in check but Teachout, former Montpelier star, found the net for a couple of long shots that could not be helped.

The final game between Burlington High and Springfield High was the best game of the tournament with both teams playing the best basketball of the series. The final score found Burlington ahead 25 to 15. Although the Blue and White was the winner by ten points the game was much faster than the score indicates. Burlington's defense which was the feature of the tournament reached its highest degree of efficiency during the first half when Springfield was held to one floor basket. Doyle of Burlington the outstanding guard of the meet was out for a record and in holding "Charlie" Tarro to no basket during the first half he made one that will probably hold good for some time to come. Niles playing the other back court position for the local boys also came in for his share of the glory when he held A. Tarro scoreless throughout the entire game; this feature also set another record for the tournament. It isn't very often that a star guard can be used as a forward but in the previous game with Northfield, Niles was shifted to the fore court where he gave a good account of himself by scoring a basket and two fouls in about five minutes of play. Warner again was high-point man for Burlington with six twin-counters. This brought his sum total up to 27 points and second high scorer of the tournament. Preston at center for the Blue and White came back strong, scoring seven counters besides holding Dressel the rangy center of Springfield to one floor basket.

Springfield's only strong bid for the championship came in the third period when Charlie Tarro scored three twin-counters and brought the Green and White's total up to 12 points. Here Burlington started the old stalling game which Springfield was unable to solve.

Hardy, Burlington's star forward was forced to go scoreless for the first time in a long while but his running mate Boyd evened things up by giving Burlington its first two baskets of the game shortly after the contest started.

I've got a half-nelson on jimmy-pipe joy

I TOOK P. A. for better or worse . . . and found it better! Better than anything I had ever smoked. That's my story and I'm going to stick to it. When siren-brands try to flirt, I just give them the Frigidstaire. I know what I like in a pipe, and what I like is Prince Albert!

The instant you break the seal on the tidy red tin and get that wonderful fragrance of real tobacco, you know you are in for a pipe-treat. Your mouth fairly waters for a taste of tobacco that smells as good as that. Then you load up and light up—ah! . . .

Cool. Sweet. Fragrant. Old words, I'll admit, but you get a brand-new idea of how much they can mean in a pipe-bowl packed with P. A. Maybe you've always thought such pipe-pleasure was "just around the corner." Try a load of Prince Albert and turn that corner!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

LITERARY SOCIETY IS SPONSORING WRITING ON VERMONT CAMPUS

Bluestockings is the Women's literary club of the University of Vermont. Its purpose is quoted from its constitution. "To strengthen literary interest on campus by program meetings at which education and instruction are combined with enjoyment and pleasure. To encourage the effort of members to secure publication of their work in magazines of literary merit." Any woman student may become a member of Bluestockings by the presentation of an acceptable literary production or by membership on the Cynic board.

In the spring of 1926 the following officers were elected for the year 1926-1927: President, Ruth Flint; Vice-president, Eleanor Barrell; Secretary-treasurer, Florence Smith; Chairman of Program Committee, Louise Cook. In September, 1926, Eleanor Barrell was elected president to succeed Ruth Flint, who did not return to college. Margaret Durick was chosen as vice-president.

A pin designed as a bottle of ink with a quill upon the bottle being the word "Bluestockings," was formally adopted by the society.

New Constitution Adopted

This year a constitution was drawn up and adopted.

The following girls were elected to membership of the class of '28, Vera [illegible], Anna Perkins, Rachel Skinner, Mabel [illegible] and Helen Stevens; of the class of '29 Catherine Bassett, Alice [illegible], Margaret Corbin, [illegible], Mary Freeman, Elizabeth Hager, Constance Holden, Dorothy [illegible] and Mary Turner; of the class of '30 Priscilla Campbell, Edith [illegible], Janice Goodrich, Mary [illegible] and Laura Thorpe. This made a total membership of 16.

Bluestocking meetings are held twice a month, one meeting being for business and the other a program meeting. Each member is in one paper a month, either poetry, prose or any kind of literary material. A committee consisting of Laura Bliss, Irene [illegible] and Mr. Dean look over the material which is handed in and offer suggestions to the writers of worthy articles as to which magazine the article should be sent. At present an Intercollegiate Contest in Short Stories, Essays and Poetry is being conducted between Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont State Universities. These articles must be in official hands by April 1, 1927.

In December, a Christmas social was held to welcome new members. Christmas quotations were read by each member in response to the roll-call.

Sometime this spring, Mr. John Clair Minot is to speak at the University under the auspices of Bluestockings. Mr. Minot is at present the literary editor of the Boston Herald. He is an excellent speaker and his work is widely known. The lecture will be open to the public and admission will be charged. It will certainly be worth one's while to hear him. His subject and further information will appear in the Cynic at a later date.

The next meeting of Bluestockings will be held Tuesday, March 15 at 4 o'clock in Room 3 North College. This meeting is to be held only for election of officers and a full attendance is requested. The program meeting, in charge of the freshmen, will be held at Campus House, Tuesday, March 22 at 5 o'clock. Second semester dues of fifty cents should be paid immediately.

The Catamounts will again have an opportunity to pounce upon Dartmouth and Holy Cross next year in basketball due to the resumption of athletic relations with these colleges.

Mabel Nelson Jacobs Scholarship Cup Awarded to Sororities in Fall

The Mabel Nelson Jacobs cup is awarded annually to the women's fraternity, the members of which have won the highest scholarship standing for the preceding year. The cup was provided by the late Mrs. H. I. Nelson in memory of her daughter, Mrs. Mabel Nelson Jacobs, of the class of 1899.

The records show that from 1915 to 1919 Kappa Alpha Theta was first, Pi Beta Phi second except in the last semester when Delta Delta Delta was second and Alpha Xi Delta third and Pi Beta Phi fourth. Otherwise during those four years Alpha Xi Delta third and Tri-Delt fourth except in the second semester of 1917 and first semester of 1918 when they exchanged places, Delta Delta Delta third and Alpha Xi Delta fourth.

It is also very interesting to note the changes and the "ups and downs" of the individual fraternities.

From the about lists it is obvious that any and all fraternities have at one time or another been eligible for the cup. It is presented however by President Bailey only at the opening exercises of each college year, so the average for the entire year is what determines whether or not the fraternity has the cup.

WIZARDRY

Over the barren spaces of the earth,
The floating shadows rise in dream array.
The flood of ether is now a stream of gray,
And breezes hurry down from the wind-blown slopes.

Tense as a violin string, the silence quivers;
Something of glory in the swiftly paling night
Is touching the summits of the distant mountain height
And tinting the horizon above with rose-like shimmers.

The faint mauve mystery grows diffused and lightens;
The rose tints become a band of deepest crimson
Across the face of heaven is flung the joy
Of a new day, in all its flaming radiance.

Captain "Ozzie" Nye and his cohorts of the bounding ball are practicing daily in the cage in preparation for for prospectively successful season.

VERMONT GIRL'S POEM APPEARS IN "POET LORE"

"DESIRE"
by
JANICE MEREDITH GOODRICH

As you came down the highway,
I stood beside my gate.
My feet ran out to meet you,
But my heart said, "Wait!"

My heart said, "Wait"
So I stood and watched you pass,
But something in me answered
To your footfall in the grass.

You passed beyond my gate,
You passed out of sight
And the wind came and laughed
By my window all night.

"Desire," written by Janice Meredith Goodrich '30 of Richmond, was recently accepted for publication in Poet Lore, a magazine of drama and verse. The editors asked Miss Goodrich to submit more poems with view to publication in volume form. Her lyrics, which have appeared in the Driftwind and the Vermonter, have been attracting for the last few years the attention of poetry lovers. Vermont is justly proud in fostering such talent.

ELEANOR DAVISON WINS PRESIDENCY OF Y. W. C. A. IN ELECTIONS LAST WEEK

Under Leadership of Doris Harbour '27, the Association Enjoyed a Very Active and Successful Year

The new officers of Y. W. C. A. are: president, Eleanor Davison '28; vice-president, Eleanor Taft '28; secretary, Muriel Richardson '28; treasurer, Marion Potter '29.

Eleanor Davison is a member of Sigma Gamma, Eta Sigma Phi, Masque and Sandal, Dramatic Club and Glee Club.

Y. W. C. A. has passed one of its most progressive years under the leadership of Doris Harbour '27. Y. W. commenced activities with considerable force after a very successful membership campaign, holding the impressive recognition service on the last Sunday in October at which time the new members were welcomed.

Y. W. Very Active

Under the supervision of Y. M. and Y. W., two "Go-to-Church" Sundays have been held, one in the fall and one about mid-winter time.

Vespers have been conducted by Y. W. every Sunday afternoon. These services have been held at the different dormitories and the programs have been varied. In the fall there were several "sings" in order to give the new girls a chance to get acquainted both with the upperclass girls and with each other. There have been speakers, including Miss Ruby Phillips and Mr. Morris near Thanksgiving time, Y. W. C. A. held a very pleasant meeting at Professor Tupper's home. Professor Aiken entertained the group by reading several selections.

Association Week

November 29 to December 4 was Association Week, the purpose of which was to advertise Y. W. on the campus. During that week, each member of the cabinet had an opportunity to take charge of the bulletin board and each one illustrated in some original manner her particular phase of Y. W. C. A.'s work.

Two affairs of outstanding importance have been held under the general supervision of Y. W.: the barn dance, held at Robinson Hall on Thanksgiving day, and the bazaar and stag dance, just before the Christmas holidays.

Two Members go to Milwaukee

Y. W. C. A. sends a sum of money annually for the maintenance of the Velour Medical School. Representatives are sent to conferences such as the National Student Conference at Milwaukee, which Eleanor Davison and Eleanor Taft attended in December.

Then, there is Maqua; the summer camp at which Vermont chapter of Y. W. is always represented.

Y. W. cooperates with Y. M. C. A. to bring such speakers to our campus as Dr. Tweedy and Norman Thomas.

The necessary funds are obtained from membership subscriptions and candy sales in the Y Room. The acquisition of the new corn-popper has helped in the good cause.

Another interesting side of the organization's endeavor is found in the philanthropic work it has done at different times during the year.

CHARLOTTE STONE LEADS THE VERMONTERS' CLUB

Marian Everest '29 is Vice-President and Charlotte Cleveland '29 is Secretary-Treasurer

Charlotte Stone '28 [illegible] president of Vermonters' Club for the coming year. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta [illegible] year she has been an assistant [illegible] of the Home Economics [illegible] recently elected to Press [illegible].

Other officers for the year are: President, Marian Everest '29; Secretary-Treasurer, Charlotte Cleveland '29.

Vermonters' Club, under the direction of Loretta Johnson '27 has during the past year, again proved itself a valuable campus organization. As one, which has as its chief purpose the promotion of friendliness and cooperation among women students a democratic and friendly atmosphere free from political intrigues.

The freshman women entering college find the Vermonters' Club the first organization on the campus that gives them all a cheery and warm hand-clasp of welcome. Through the efforts of this society, each freshman is assigned to an upperclassman, a big sister, who writes to her before college opens and later to help her during the first trying weeks of college. This year the "Big Sister" movement was extended to cover the time until after mid-years.

The first social event of Vermonters' Club was a stunt night, held early in the fall in the gym. Each dormitory entertained with a clever stunt and this was followed by dancing with "Eds" being the "big sisters" and the "Co-eds," the "little" ones.

A rather unique second party was the "Sea Voyage." The gym was cleverly transformed into a pirate vessel and the passengers were gaily entertained by many appropriate dances cleverly performed by members of the crew. A safe and yet exciting voyage was this—and such as one might look for next year.

Vermonters' Club is an organization which, although it does not receive as great acclaim and publicity on the campus, still by its closer contact with its members, does a great deal in creating friendliness and group spirit among the co-eds of Vermont.

IRENE BATES IS NEW HEAD OF PRESS CLUB

Publicity Organization Has Active Year Under Leadership of Elizabeth Johnson '27

The officers of Press Club for the coming year are: Irene Bates '28, president; Dorothy Cottrell '29, secretary-treasurer.

Irene Bates is the newly-elected Chief Justice, a member of the Cynic Board and of the 1928 Ariel staff.

Dorothy Cottrell is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, Masque and Sandal and Cynic Board.

The Women's Press Club has been a very active organization on campus this year under the leadership of Elizabeth Johnson '27. Its purpose is to inform the home newspapers of the scholastic and extra-curricula activities of Vermont girls, each member of the Club being responsible for a certain group. Feature stories are also sent to city newspapers so that the activities of the women of the University of Vermont are followed by the general public.

New members of the Club are Dorothy Dearing '28, Elzada [illegible], Dorothy Morby '29, Rachel [illegible], Helen Stevens '28, Charlotte [illegible], Eleanor Taft '28 and Agnes [illegible] '29.

Mary Spargo '30 is in charge of the meeting on Wednesday, March 30.

VERMONT WOMEN DOWN MIDDLEBURY GIRLS IN FIRST CO-ED DEBATE

Co-eds Win Unanimous Decision In Debate On Question of Advisability of Uniform Federal Marriage and Divorce Laws

For the first time in history the Vermont Women's Debating team met and defeated the Middlebury Co-eds in the Old Chapel Monday evening. The Vermonters, showing marked superiority over in argumentative ability and presentation, won a unanimous decision from the judges. The University supported the affirmative of the proposition, Resolved, That It Would Be Beneficial to Give Congress the Power to Enact Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws. Constitutionality, conceded, and Exclusive Right Granted to Congress for Such Legislation. The speakers for Vermont were the Misses Gladys R. Kone '29, of Hartford, Conn.; Mabel L. Freeman '30, of Norristown, Penn.; Janice M. Goodrich '30, of Richmond; and Bertha Klein '29, alternate, of Windsor. The Middlebury team was composed of the Misses Ruby D. Elwell, Gretchen D. Taylor, Eloise White, and Muriel Johnson, alternate.

Vermont, upholding the affirmative, pointed out that a national marriage and divorce law was not without a parallel in existing legislation. The local co-eds went on to give an idea of what such a law might be, and to show the benefits to be derived from it. The visitors argued that the proposed change was too radical, that Congress would not vote for anything more progressive than do the State Legislatures, and that it is the exclusive right and duty of every state to deal with its own problems. The modified Oxford system of debate was used. The rebuttal was upheld by Miss Elwell for the negative side, and by Miss Kone for the affirmative.

Marian Patterson, Dean of Women at the University, presided. The judges were Miss Deborah Jones, Mrs. Chester J. Oxley, and Mrs. Harold W. Slocum. Edith L. Gale '28, was timekeeper.

The University women will meet St. Lawrence for their second debate at Canton, N. Y., in April. The subject will be the cancellation of the Allied War Debts.

BASKETBALL HOP WILL END SUCCESSFUL YEAR

As a climax to the successful basketball season which the Catamounts quintet has just completed, the annual Basketball Hop will be held tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock in the Gymnasium. All members of the basketball squad will be the guests of honor at the dance.

Arrangements for the event have been completed by Manager-elect of Basketball, C. F. Castle '28 together with the assistant managers-elect. The Algonquins have been secured to furnish music for the affair. Chaperones are Coach and Mrs. McAvoy; Dr. and Mrs. A. K. Aldinger; Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Mayforth. Admission is to be $1.10.

It is expected that a large number of students will turn out to give the basketball team a royal reception. Last year over 100 couples paid admission to the dance, but it is expected that more will attend this year. The Junior and Senior classes have given $15 and $20 respectively toward defraying the expenses of the dance

CELEBRATED NOVELIST SPEAKS AT UNIVERSITY

Hugh Walpole Gives Talk on Contrasts Between Mid-Victorian and Present Day English Novel

Hugh Walpole, celebrated English novelist and author of many well-known books spoke on the "Contrasts Between the Mid-Victorian and Present Day English Novel" at the University Gymnasium last Wednesday evening. The speaker was introduced by the Reverend I. C. Smart.

Mr. Walpole tried to clear up some of the confusion that centers around the modern novel. As the American novel has become separated from the English novel during the last twelve years, he made but little comments on it. The novel is in danger because it is the universal medium for every one's expression, and is becoming as ordinary as a newspaper or letter.

Because of its size and form the novel is adapted to the art of narrative and to the purpose of creating characters. Because it is of human origin it has a great strain of the amateur in it, and the greater the author the greater this strain. In the novel there is a constant struggle between the creative impulse of the author and his self consciousness as a human artist.

Two great drawbacks that present day novelists have which the mid-victorian novelist did not have are the great number of masterpieces now in the world, and the great number of books of criticism. There was great moral simplicity in the mid-victorian novel, and every character was either good or bad. One can tell very nearly what is going to happen at the end of the book, as the good characters are always rewarded and the bad characters punished, in order to appease the conscience of the author. In reading these novels we get a sense of the oddity of the mid victorian writers and a sense of our own brightness.

About 1871 the form and style of the novel changed, morally, politically and technically. The French influence became apparent. The novelists of this age wanted to tell the whole truth about life, and this is very difficult. Everything in one of Galsworthy's novels is exact, even to the number of sparrows on a tree. The older novels moved in a mental manner rather than a physical manner and were filled with interjections. It takes a first class author to write a novel in the mental style, and most of the modern novels move in the physical manner. Today there is danger of letting microscopic al things fill the whole stage, and of letting the influence of psychoanalysis take out all moral conflicts.

Mr. Walpole mentioned Joseph Conrad as a reassurance of what the novel is going to be. Conrad had the greatest creative power since Scott, and once one of his novels was started it could not be stopped.

Mr. Walpole delivered his lecture in a very interesting manner, and it was full of delightful humor. Those who heard him were unanimous in his praise.

MUSEUM TO HAVE MANY NEW SPECIMEN CASES

Work is slowly progressing at the Museum where, two months ago, a steam pipe broke in the Cannon Room. Many of the relics which hung on the wall became badly tarnished by the steam. Several weeks have been spent polishing and conditioning the less relics which were damaged. A motor driven emery wheel backed with felt so as to give flexibility to the wheel and to prevent scratching, is used to polish the articles. All parts which cannot be polished by the emery wheel must be carefully scraped by hand. After being thoroughly scraped of the tarnish, each article must be painted with a coat of lacquer to protect it against moisture.

Two new desk cases and one wall case have been set up in the main room on the first floor in the Museum. It is planned to have all new cases to replace those now in use. Also it is planned to have fewer of each specimen thus permitting a greater variety of materials.

Prentice and Castle Captain and Manager of Basketball Team

Gustafson, Price, O'Neil and Averill Elected Assistant Managers Due To Tie Vote of the Latter Three on the First Vote—Decided to Admit Three with No Further Balloting

Howard A. Prentice '28 of Burlington was elected captain of the 1928 basketball team, as a result of the election held last Monday and Tuesday. At that time Clarence F. Castle '28 of Springfield, Mass. was elected manager of basketball, and F. J. O'Neil '29 of St. Albans, R. M. Averill '29 of S. Orange, N. J., K. L. Price '29 of Bennington and H. W. Gustafson '29 of Proctor were elected assistant managers. On the first ballot all the assistant managers except Gustafson were tied for places. It was decided to admit the three contestants as assistant managers without further balloting.

Prentice, the new captain of basketball has been a star on the Green and Gold quintet for three years. He is equally at ease in the forward or center position. This year he was one of the leading high scorers in intercollegiate basketball amassing 180 points for the Catamounts. He is an all-round athlete, playing baseball, basketball, and participating in track and field events. The newly elected captain is a member of the Delta Psi fraternity and Gold Key.

The manager-elect, C. F. Castle, is a member of the Sigma Alpha Chi fraternity. He has taken part in several activities on the Hill, being a member of Gold Key, chairman of the Junior Week Prom-ade, a member of the Kake Walk committee and an assistant manager of the Rifle Team. Manager Castle has charge of the Basketball Hop which takes place tonight in the Gymnasium.

Harold W. Gustafson, a new assistant manager is a member of Delta Psi, assistant manager of the Cynic and a member of the Student Senate. F. J. O'Neil belongs to Gold Key and Kappa Sigma Fraternity. R. M. Averill is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity. K. L. Price belongs to Gold Key and Phi Mu Delta.

TWENTY MEN SURVIVE BASEBALL SQUAD CUT

Keen Competition Going on For Infield Posts with Nine Contestants—Five Pitchers Remain on Squad

Coach Dresser made a second cut in his bunch of ball tossers on Monday night. The list now contains about twenty men including two catchers, two first basemen, one short stop, one second baseman, four third basemen, five pitchers and five outfielders. As it looks now the backstop position will be taken care of jointly between Warchenbach and Aronson with the odds favoring the former because of his sure throw to the three corners. Prentice and O'Keefe are on first with Prentice holding the edge on his rival on account of his experience and ability to handle the hot grounders which are apt to come his way. Smith seems to have second cinched with practically no opposition from any quarter. The way that boy is hitting and fielding in the cage he ought to be a sensation on the diamond this spring. Conway also has a tag on shortstop with nobody good enough to cut him out of a job. But this does not make him lax back in any way, in fact Jack is one of the best hustlers on Hank's squad.

A battle royal is going on at third with Morse, Valenti, Cogswell and Scharman all scraping for the honor of holding down the hot corner. Just at present Cogswell seems to have the advantage over the others but he has not got his name up over the door yet by any means. His rivals are fighting for all they are worth and any one of them may beat the 1926 second teams star second baseman out before the team leaves for the south.

Tuesday afternoon Hank had the outfielders outside for their first work out of the season. Five men are battling it out. Price last year's second team gardner, Robinson former Cathedral star, Roark a twirler in 1926, Fogg also a hurler, Macomber who also saw service last year with the seconds and McBride a yearling. All of the men are fair performers and will probably develop quite a little before the season starts.

The twirlers are all getting into shape fast and some will be throwing a few fast ones before long. At present the most promising are Fogg, Moriarty, Schoppe and Roark with Tacott and Sanford showing signs of improvement as practice goes on.

SIGMA DELTA HOLDS INITIATION

Sigma Delta held its formal initiation at the Chapter House last Monday evening. The initiates were: Irwin H. Hoxie of Peacham and Philip R. Wheeler of West Bolton of the class of 1928; Peter V. Briklatis of Swanton and Kenneth H. MacGibbon of Riverside of the class of 1929; Russel H. Jeffrey of Chester, Albert L. Knapp of Wethersfield, Conn., Carl W. Beane of Middlebury, Kenneth C. Dimick of Windsor, and Perley H. Chamberlin of East Ryegate of the class of 1930.

This was followed by a banquet held at the Hotel Vermont. F. H. Lawrence '25 was toastmaster. There were twenty-six present including Prof. L. W. Fuller and Capt. F. B. Lammons.

ARIEL BOARD HOLDS VOTING ON SENIORS

Eleven men and nine women make up the final slate in the Representative Vermonters' Contest, which is being voted on today and tomorrow. The candidates are: Lawrence H. Averill, Charles H. Blackhall, Ralph H. Blodgett, Floyd M. James, William M. Lockwood, Ellis J. Moodie, Archibald T. Post, Don M. Rockwell, Carl G. Simpson, Carl H. Wedell, Lawrence C. Whitman and Charlotte C. Brown, Arline J. Cushing, Ruth E. Eayres, Doris M. Harbour, M. Loretta Jennings, Belle G. Randall, Vina B. Rugg, Naomi Thorne, Anna P. Ward, and Lois B. Wright.

From this list the male subscribers to the 1928 Ariel will choose three men and the coed subscribers will elect three women. A mimeographed ballot sheet containing the names of all the nominees is given out at the voting table, in the Old Mill, and the voter has only to put a cross in front of his choices.

The men stationed at the table are empowered to receive subscriptions, and all who sign up now will go on the voting list as soon as they make the initial payment.

A separate page will be devoted to each of the winners in a special section of the Ariel. The arrangement of this part of the book has been worked out in an attractive way, and a very artistic border has been designed. If plans materialize, the section cannot fail to be one of the highlights of the 1928 year book.

Vol. 45 March 18, 1927 No. 40

We congratulate the Women on the edition which they published last [illegible]. Both ability and hard work were shown and the issue was an ex[illegible] one.

Hugh Walpole, by his visit here last Tuesday set us much to think about, among other things the harm that psychoanalysis may do. The lecturer maintained that the moral life can no longer be depicted in the novel, that a character can no longer be outstanding good or bad and on that ground be praised or blamed, and all this because he is analysed by the reader [illegible] his every move is accounted for and so he is responsible for nothing. Many of us wish that the faculty would use more psychoanalysis on us.

A rather sad situation exists between the Academic Colleges and the Medical College and though the feeling is not much different now than usual at least it is more forcefully called to the attention of the CYNIC. A majority of the Medics decided that they did not care to pay for the CYNIC, and after the necessary formalities, their money has been refunded. Incidentally copies of the paper are no longer taken down to the Medical College.

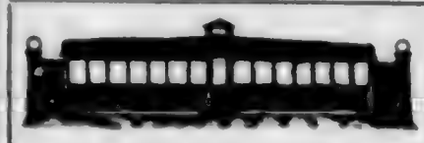
The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse has come and gone and leaves us torn between two emotions, the one that such a type of picture should [illegible] be thrown on the screen because of the impressions that it produces and the other that if seeing such things will help to prevent their happening again in actuality that they are very much while. The picture certainly brought forth to a large degree that the sentiment of patriotism and a hatred for war. It is interesting to observe the way the French and German peasants are introduced and the way in which they as representatives of their respective countries are made to play upon our sentiments and imaginations.

After due deliberation and much consideration the CYNIC has decided to put itself on a cooperative basis the cooperation to be between the men and the women who are on the staff. The women's page as such has vanished. News will be treated according to the interest that it carries for the college as a whole rather than as belonging to the women or to the men, and those items that belong exclusively to feminine interest will still be placed together on page three.

The men's and women's boards, which have previously worked apart from one another plan to combine their efforts as much as possible and hope thereby to cover the work better and at the same time to fit each person into that kind of work for which they are best fitted. Such a change seems only to be in keeping with the times though it does indicate decided progress for the University of Vermont.

Campus Comment

To The Editor of the Cynic:



There was recently an article in the Cynic regarding the advisability of a point system for men engaged in activities. This seems to me utterly foolish. There are certain men of ability on the campus and I can see no reason why these men should be held down and not allowed to develop their possibilities. As they are the men with the greatest ability as proven by competitions for offices, so should they be given the greatest opportunity for development.

The idea that a man will get more positions than he can handle does not have much behind it. However poorly he may handle his various jobs he must have been relatively as busy when he was trying out for the positions as after he has gained the responsibility of them. If he could carry the weight of scrubbing more than one activity, then he can carry more than one when he is no longer a scrub. It is well enough to talk about being unfair to the University and to the individual by not limiting a man in his activity work, but it is certainly more radically unfair both to the institution and to the student body, not to allow the man with the ability to head the various campus organizations.

As said, this contest is open to all present U. V. M. students who have not been granted a degree.

DEAN'S OFFICE ISSUES VOCATIONAL PAMPHLETS

The Bulletin Board, which is used by the office of the Dean, has provided pamphlets of vocational information. Two magazines are devoted entirely to library work, urging those interested in such a career to "grow with a growing profession." A three-fold appeal is made: namely, that the profession is one of books and letters, is a field for high administrative abilities and for constructive social service.

The third pamphlet contains articles reprinted from the New York Herald Tribune.

Masters of their art or trade, talk frankly about the professions which are open to college graduates today. Charles B. Driscoll writes in an interesting way about journalism. "If, after a fair trial," he says, "newspaper work seems uninteresting and dull to you, there is nothing for it but to get you a four-masted schooner and break out the black flag."

These pamphlets are provided at a most opportune time, when thoughts are turned to careers and "What Next?"

He harnesses words to help sell electricity

E. L. ANDREW

"OH, ST. PATRICK was an engineer," lustily caroled the senior engineers at Wisconsin in the spring of '16. But to E. L. Andrew, St. Patrick has become the patron saint of merchandising and advertising as well.

Andrew liked engineering and had an excellent record in his work. But even in his high school days, he had been interested in writing. And that interest grew as he wrote for the annual, was successively editor and business manager of the Wisconsin Engineer, and was advertising manager of the Engineers' Famous Minstrel Show. He received his degree fully determined to harness words to help sell electricity.

At that time railroad advertising fascinated him. There was romance—and adventure—in the great tangle of tracks spread across the continent. So he applied and was accepted for a place in the Westinghouse Graduate Students' Course, hoping some day to do railroad advertising.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That's what college men want to know, first of all. The question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress of Westinghouse of college graduates off the campus some five—eighteen years.

A month after he started the course he was made an instructor. For six months he had classes in the morning—then was free all afternoon to browse through the Westinghouse plant and learn those things that have made him valuable in the direction of Westinghouse advertising. But that's getting ahead of the story.

Andrew left the educational department to be a requisition clerk handling requests for literature on Westinghouse irons, fans, toasters, percolators. Here he got his first glimpse of merchandising electrical appliances—an activity that was soon to rank with railroad electrification, marine engineering and the other important branches of the Westinghouse business. Andrew grew up with this development. He was one of the men who organized the merchandising section of the advertising department, which has remained under his charge since that time.

But his activities have been wider than this. Because of his understanding of both electricity and advertising, he was made assistant to the advertising manager, giving particular attention to national advertising. With the growth of the merchandising department, sales promotion also came under his charge.

Today he is manager of the sales promotion section of the merchandising sales department, head of the merchandising section of the advertising department, and assistant to the advertising manager.

To engineering graduates interested in technical writing and advertising, Westinghouse offers an opportunity for realizing ambitions to the full.

MAJOR PAUL LARNED IS GIVEN A MANAGERSHIP

Friends of Major Paul A. Larned who was for many years connected with the University R. O. T. C. will be pleased to hear of his recent advancement in the ranks of the Equitable Life Assurance Society which he joined after leaving Vermont. A clipping concerning same from a Hartford paper reads as follows:

Major Paul A. Larned has been appointed district manager of the Hartford office of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, dating from March 1. Major Larned has been with the Equitable in Hartford for several years and has during that time been successful at all his undertakings. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point and served in the regular army after leaving there, being retired [illegible] years ago, at which time he entered the service of the Equitable.

The Hartford office has in the past shown a rapid growth, which in keeping with the general success of the Equitable and is hoped under the direction of Major Larned, should show more rapid and substantial growth than in the past. His outstanding experience of Major Larned guarantees to present and future policyholders that high order of service of which the Equitable is justly proud.

Intercollegiate News

The modern college student is actually a better man than his father was at the same age says Dean Mendell of Yale. Lack of modern youth's wildness and wickedness to the con—notwithstanding, college halls have a more wholesome atmosphere than in the good old days.

Remember when youth comes in for its passing that the messes which the world has gone through in the last decade or two were the work of the older generation. If modern youth chooses to adopt different guiding stars for his conduct than his forebears did can we blame him?

Raising the Standard

Heretofore the emphasis of the University has been on quantity rather than quality on a large rather than a select basis.

This situation is to be, is being entirely reversed. The University will decrease the number of vacant chairs to be filled and will discourage the entrance of a large student body.

A still more radical policy has been instituted in separating the first two years from the others. Nineteen men took up graduate work this year; more will follow in the future. For the present the Schools of Engineering and Business Economics will remain unchanged, as will the College for Teachers. In the College of Arts and Sciences, however, preparatory courses will be given in the first two years which will fit the student to take up advanced work. Should the Bachelor's Degree be the height of the student's ambition, courses will be offered leading to it.

The object of the University should be to train men who will conduct research work in Political Science or Physics, in Biology or History. Too much emphasis is laid on athletics, college and extra-curricula activities. These should, undoubtedly, receive some attention, but not as much as is accorded them in many institutions. After all the quest for Truth is most important.

We believe that the New Plan will open a new field in the search for Truth in all phases of knowledge.

Things To Be In 1930

Springfield will have accredited scholastic standing with other colleges.

Springfield professors will retire when they have served beyond their point of usefulness or their courses will be obsolete.

Springfield will retain its leading [illegible] graduates.

Higher professors have been offered positions on the faculty their teaching abilities will have been investigated.

Required courses will be lessened while there will be a wider choice of electives.

Springfield will realize that English is being spoken more or less now-a-days, wherefore English courses will be given after the Freshman year.

Have faith all ye doubting brethren. But don't rely much on faith. Man advances as science captures the ever-receding territory of philosophy. Springfield will advance as she thinks and acts toward higher ideals.—Editorial in The Springfield Student.

Catamount's Lair

Springfield College brought their basketball season to a close the other night with a win over Harvard by a 42 to 29 score. This brings to a close the most successful season the Red and White has had for years. When the Red and White lads were asked to name an all New England team Vermont was not left out by any means. In fact she had three men on this mythical five.

The following is the list agreed upon: Ellis, Tufts and Prentice, Vermont, forwards; Marvin, Vermont, center; Estabrook, Vermont and Nicora, New Hampshire, guards. All agreed that the forwards were easy to pick as Prentice and Ellis were easily the best men encountered this year. Prentice was especially noted for his shooting ability and cutting for the basket.

Wagner, a star center himself, picked Marvin without any question because of his ability to get the tap and his wonderful defensive work. The selection of Estabrook will come as a little surprise to Vermont fans who think that there is nothing better than "Kid" Price but this can easily be explained by the fact that he was unable to play in the encounter down at Springfield because of illness and thus the Red and White saw very little of him. But to those who have watched the steady improvement of Estabrook this does not seem overdrawn as he has developed into one of the best backs that ever appeared on a Vermont quintet and she has had some prize winners.

The selection of these three men show what outsiders think about Vermont as a basketball center in New England. It is very seldom that one team has the honor of having three players on such a mythical quintet and it indicates, Green and Gold fans, what other teams think about Vermont. With these three men and Price left for next season's team Vermont should be New England champions in 1928.

Three Freshmen from Indiana, one from Alabama, and one from New York form the Alabama Freshman basketball outfit this year. That probably shows what a good basketball team will do for either college or university. Athletes were drawn from 28 states this year from Alabama.

Of the Vermont Frosh squad, only three come from this state which goes to show that Vermont is not only widely known in its state for its basketball teams, but elsewhere, especially in Massachusetts.

E. R. L.

The Interfraternity Indoor track meet is now well under way. It opened auspiciously Wednesday afternoon with the trial relay races between the various fraternities. The races were very close and thrilling, except the one room by the Sigma Nu team in which race the winning team completely lapped the loser.

This afternoon at four o'clock the semi-finals in the interfraternity relays will take place. The Sigma Nu will run the Owls, while the Phi Mu Delta will oppose the Delta Psis. The two winners will compete for the relay championship on Friday afternoon March 25, at 4 o'clock, instead of Saturday March 26, the day of the meet, as it had been originally planned. This is to enable each contestant to do his best in the relay and also compete in Saturday's running events.

The meet on next Saturday promises plenty of competition. In the hurdles there are Howard, Pavia, Douglas, Rich, Martin, Dodge, Calcagni. In the jump there should be plenty of competition between Lyman, Howard, Pike, Prentice, Hastings, Mace, Whitten, Robinson, Willard and Hovey. A husky bunch of weight men will keep the missiles humming: Simpson, Kropper, Wood, Mackay, Mace, DeRose, Knapp.

In the runs a number of stars will toe the mark, including Post, State mile record holder; Wood, state 2-mile record-holder; Dean Rowe, state cross-country champion, Suitor, Baldwin, the Martinetti's, Ed. Rowe, Corcoran, Tudhope, and a number of others. In the 440 run, trials will be held on Wednesday March 23, at 4:15 P. M., to eliminate the field of competitors in this race down to four finalists who will compete on Saturday.

The large squad augurs well for a fairly successful season, although much depends upon whether Art. Shaw will be able to resume track. For several months he has been unable to report on account of an injury from a fall in early winter.

MEDICAL COLLEGE MAY LOSE A CLASS

Unless Appropriations are Passed By the Legislature the College of Medicine May Be Degraded By National Officials

AGGIE APPROPRIATION BEFORE LEGISLATURE

The Vermont Legislature refuses ... the bill appropriating money ... aid of the Medical College it ... possible that that College will ... rating as Grade A. The Col... great need of the money at ... ent time and the Legislature ... ays aided with appropriations ... years. Vermont's Medical Col... noted throughout the country ... the fine type of doctors it turns ... year. It has been rated by ... ties as second only to Johns ... The lack of funds will make ... essary to limit its teaching ... facilities and also in preventing the ... ing of modern equipment.

The loss of rating means much to ... ege of Medicine. There are few ... in the country which allow doc... to practice graduating from a "B" ... school. With limited facil... and teaching staff the college ... find it difficult to carry on.

There is some doubt about the appropriation in legislative circles as the Vermont Legislature has already appropriated more than Six Million Dollars for the coming two years. Any additional appropriations would necessitate the raising of a direct state tax which is not the desire of the present Legislature. However the supporters of the bill are quite influential and when the bill comes up next week there will be a hard fight before the bill is laid on the table.

Another appropriation in the hands of the Legislature is one which will appropriate $25,000 this year and $15,000 next year to aid the Agricultural College. This bill has already passed the House of Representatives and will come up before the Senate next week. The opposition is not very strong and there is a good chance that the bill will be passed.

SENATORS TAKE ACTION ON NEW POINT SYSTEM

Last week the Student Senate met and discussed many important matters. The most important was that a committee was appointed to look into the point system for activities on the campus. The purpose of the point system is to prevent any one man from carrying more honors than he can efficiently handle. The system is also supposed to give more men chances to hold more responsible positions and to emphasize leadership on the campus. The committee is to revise the system used last year and report at the next meeting.

It was decided that Kake-Walking next year would be limited to one minute of straight walking and one minute for stunts. Two small cakes will also be given to the second place couple in this event.

On March 28 a smoker will be held in the Gymnasium in order to give the Vermont baseball team a rousing send for their annual southern trip.

It is expected that the work of remodeling the Radio Club's Amateur Station 1ARY will be completed within a week. At the present time experiments are being carried on to test the new apparatus.

One section of the current issue of the National Geographic Magazine is devoted to the Green Mountain State. The large picture of College Row, showing the Billings Library, the Williams Science Hall, and the Old Mill, with the caption "The First Lady of Vermont, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, was obtained from the venerable University of Vermont."

CAPTAIN RATTAN WILL SPEAK THIS EVENING

There will be a meeting of the Connecticut Club at 7:15 this evening at the home of Professor B. F. Ladd, 315 South Willard Street. Captain W. V. Rattan, who has lived some years in China, will be the speaker of the evening and will give an informal talk on his experiences there.

REFERENDUM FOR U. S. STUDENTS' OPINIONS ON FOREIGN POLICY

A referendum for college students on America's foreign policy is being sponsored by the New England Student Conference Committee. The referendum furnishes a striking opportunity for expression of thoughtful student opinion.

The various policies to be voted on are: Whether armed forces should be used in Nicaragua to protect American property and interests, whether diplomatic relations should be severed with Mexico if the land and oil laws are enforced, whether armed forces should be used in China and League of Nations used to help settle her internal difficulties, and whether disarmament should be allowed.

Results of the voting will be sent to the state Senators, President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg and the Student Conference office.

Further information may be obtained at the Y office.

W. A. A. IS PROMOTER OF ANNUAL INDOOR RALLY HELD THURSDAY NIGHT

Arline Cushing and Marion Parker Win V's—First Ever Awarded—Presentation of Numerals and Sweaters

The annual indoor rally of W. A. A. took place at Robinson Hall Thursday evening. A buffet supper was served at 5:45. Doris Kibbe '30 lead in the singing of Vermont songs between the courses. A business meeting was then called to order by the retiring president of W. A. A., Naomi Thorne, who, after a few announcements, handed the keys of office over to Jeanette Hays '28. Following the installation of the new president in office, Jeannette Hays and Marian Everest were chosen as delegates to the Athletic Conference of American College Women to be held at Cornell, April 23 and 24.

For the first time in the history of Women's athletics at U. V. M., the old English V was awarded. Arlene Cushing and "Ikey" Parker, who have both earned more than 400 points in their Senior Year, were the recipients of this singular honor.

Lois Burbank, Ruth French, Harriet Metcalf, Elizabeth Sulloway and Lois Wright, all of '27, were presented with sweaters. Muriel Cleveland, Lillian Marsh, Ruth Weston, and Elizabeth White, of the Class of '28, received the U. V. M. Marion Backus and Dorothy Wheatley, class of 1929, and Doris Kibbe '30 received their class numerals.

The Senior stunt was a clever interpretation of a youthful gym class. The Juniors offered a scene from a doctor's office where cases of foot trouble, malnutrition and lumbago were treated in the same way. The Sophomores conducted a meeting of the Vermont Legislature in its 125th year. One motion appropriated money to build a bridge over South Campus. The Freshmen gave interpretations of popular songs.

Anna Ward '27 retiring President of Health Council, announced the name of the dormitory where health conditions are most sanitary. A committee, as a result of observations made throughout the year, found that Robinson Hall ranks first, followed in order of their standing by Campus House, Redstone, Kappa Alpha Theta House, Rand House, Allen House and Grassmount.

The rally closed with the singing of "Champlain."

An observing young Freshman claims he saw several robins flying about the campus last week. That and the appearance of several blazers seem to prove that spring is nearly here.

All copies of the music not being used should be returned immediately.

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will rehearse on Thursday evening, March 24, from 7-8 p. m. in the Music Building. The Women's Glee Club will not rehearse tonight.

BASKETBALL HOP IS ONE OF SUCCESSES OF SOCIAL SEASON

Over 125 Couples Attend Dance to Commemorate Court Victories—Algonquin's Augmented Orchestra Furnishes Music for Occasion

Basketball Hop was easily one of the most successful dances held during the present college year. The event took place in the Gymnasium last Saturday evening. Clarence F. Castle '28, of Springfield, Mass., manager of basketball and the newly elected assistant basketball managers were in charge of the affair. All members of the basketball squad were guests at the dance.

The Gymnasium was tastefully decorated with Green and Gold streamers hung from the balcony and over the dance floor. The orchestra was seated on a well-decorated platform in the middle of the floor. The spot lights on the balcony were used during three waltzes making a very pretty effect on the gliding dancers below.

The Algonquin orchestra, which was especially augmented for the occasion, furnished music for over 125 couples. Dancing was enjoyed from 8.30 to 12 o'clock. Couch and Mrs. MacAvoy and Dr. and Mrs. A. K. Aldinger were chaperones.

As a result of the dance a tidy sum was realized to provide a scholarship for some deserving athlete.

Debaters Win Over Middlebury In Its Fifth Successive Victory

Vermont Team Defeats M. I. T. at Cambridge—Mower and Hince Win the Lawrence Debate Prizes for Excellence

The Vermont debating team made it five straight by defeating Middlebury at Middlebury Friday evening. On the Wednesday previous Vermont won from M. I. T. by a two to one decision. On both occasions U. V. M. took the affirmative side of the cancellation of the allied debt question, the speakers being Lawrence A. Hince '28, Carl H. Wedell '27, and Emory C. Mower '27. Their constructive arguments in both debates followed the same general lines. They held that the nature of the loans made cancellation a moral necessity, that payment, if it could be made, would mean to Europe a long period of financial strain, while to the United States the amount received would mean almost nothing, and that it was an economic impossibility for the Allies to liquidate the debt. All of the speakers showed a complete mastery of the subject, being as well acquainted with the affirmative arguments in the last three debates as with the negative in the earlier debates. Congratulations are in order for the team this year. It is the first time that Vermont has met with any marked success in the forensic field. Credit is due to Professor Lawton Moore, coach of the team, and to Professors Grout, Stocking, Buehler, and Harbeson for their assistance.

Defeat M. I. T.

The M. I. T. team was one of the best that Vermont has met, distinguished both for the strength of their arguments and in the excellence of their presentation. The speakers were Bolick J. Shadrake, Ralph P. Jopp, Paul V. Kaiser, and Solomon Horwitz, Alternate. They pointed out that cancellation was unfair to the American taxpayer, that Europe could pay, and that demanding payment was a step toward preventing war. Martin J. Shugrue, professor of Political Economy at M. I. T. presided, and James E. King of the Boston Transcript Editorial Staff, Edward C. Johnson, 3rd, a Boston attorney, and Clarence B. Houston, Fletcher Professor of Law at Tufts College, acted as judges.

The Middlebury debate was held in the Mead Chapel. The visitors were well received by the large audience. The disputers for the negative, Middlebury, were Edward R. Landon, Gordon E. Wiley, and Albert D. Leahy. They based their claims upon the arguments that the contracts between the American government and people, resulting in the Liberty Loans, must not be broken, and that in time the debtor nations could pay. The chairman was President Paul D. Moody of Middlebury, and the judges were President Charles E. Plumley of Norwich University, James A. Merrill of Rutland, and the Rev. William F. Frazier of Burlington.

Win Lawrence Awards

Following the debate, the judges without consultation, awarded the Edwin Winship Lawrence prizes, given to those students participating in the Vermont-Middlebury debate who show the greatest proficiency. The first prize, of twenty-five dollars, went to Emory C. Mower, of Vermont; the second fifteen dollars, to Lawrence A. Hince, of Vermont; the third, ten dollars, was divided between Albert D. Leahy and Gordon E. Wiley, both of Middlebury.

Next Wednesday Vermont will meet Waynesburg here. The University debaters will uphold the negative of the same question.

FRESHMEN VOTE FUNDS FOR BASKETBALL HOP

The Freshmen held a class meeting on the Library steps immediately after their picture to be used for the 1928 Ariel was taken. A letter from Captain Rattan, the Freshman football coach, in appreciation of the silver football presented to him by the class was read. $15 was voted for the Basketball Hop to be held in the Gym. President Charles Mace explained that it was necessary as well as customary for each class to frame and adopt a constitution. A motion was made and carried that a committee consisting of two men and two women should be appointed in the near future by the President for the purpose of drawing up a constitution. The presiding officer warned the members of the class to save unique photos of themselves in preparation for the 1930 Ariel.

FRATERNITY RELAYS IN SEMI-FINAL STAGE

In the semi-finals of the relay run off Friday afternoon the Phi Mu Deltas had little trouble in overcoming the Delta Psi fraternity boys while Sigma Nu had even less difficulty in their race with the Owls. The Sigma Nus look like winners in the relay as they have made the best time thus far and even then they have not had to extend themselves in either race. The time of the first race was 2:54 while the Phi Mus could only make 2:56. At that neither team was overworked.

In the first race Tudhope gained about ten yards on Graves but this was lost when the winners fumbled the stick. McLaughan made up the loss however and "Doc" Bray gained a half lap on Crandall who had quite a little difficulty on the turns. Post the anchor man for the Sigma Nus had it easy and jogged around in back of Eaton finishing half ahead of him. Time 2:54.

In the second race Simpson gained a half lap on Perry and Williamson caught up to Beckley, Bradish was not to be left behind and gained about twenty yards on Martinetti who did not extend himself very much. The final round was the best to watch with Baldwin running against Moodie and the redhead sure can run for he succeeded in gaining steadily on Moodie but the lead was to great for him to overcome and the Phi Mus finished a half lap to the good. This brings the Sigma Nus and the Phi Mus together in the finals this week with the former team favored to win.

Election of baseball captain for the coming season is being held this week. All last year's letter men are requested to go to the Athletic Department's office and cast their vote.

Election of Representative Vermonters by the Ariel was conducted Friday and Saturday in the Old Mill corridor.

The Faculty Student Council is holding discussions on the conduct of fraternity dances.

The unusual fine March weather brought out many hibernating would be ball players during the past week. Tennis racquets have been uncovered in preparation for a long season on the back campus courts.

Trials for the coming play will be held by Wig and Buskin Thursday and Friday, March 24 and 25 in Room 2 North College. The name of the play has not yet been made public. All who have any ability in this line should be present.

Wednesday and Thursday groups of 12 and seven men met at the home of R. E. Manted to discuss campus and social problems and means of making the Y. M. C. A. work more effective on the campus. The groups are under the leadership of Philips P. Elliot, Field Secretary for the Y. M. C. A. movement in New England.

On Monday, March 14, in New York City, ten members of the Class of 1902 held a banquet in the New York Telephone Building. A meeting was held after the banquet in order to discuss plans for the reunion to be held at Vermont this year. Many of the men had not met since June, 1902.

The men present were A. W. Welch, W. M. Rice, G. P. Auld, J. M. Wheeler, Abbott T. Hutchinson, A. W. Stearns, Sr., G. O. Bryant, Arthur Bean, John Beaver, and George Lamb.

FRESHMAN ATTITUDE

It may be rather late in the year to mention the fact, but certainly the attitude of the freshman class is radically at fault. Unless this be the case then our college tradition and system of managing various affairs about campus is wrong and should be abolished and in as much as we neither want to admit nor even believe this latter then it must be the freshmen who are in the wrong. It is of course the recent trouble about getting the blue hats taken down that brings the situation to mind but it is the general attitude to which we refer, that superior-condescending attitude which cares naught for society, the college nor the traditions of the college. This attitude is very evident in the freshman class as they stroll about the campus without the green cap which men in their station have worn years back in the history of Vermont, and as they go around puffing cigarette smoke in the eyes of coeds and upperclassmen.

We grant that the freshman rules may not all be entirely beneficial and that they are in some respects absurd, yet they are all made with a definite purpose and do to some extent serve an end which is beneficial both to him who executes them and to the institution as a whole through the increased interest and unity of feeling that they [illegible]

[illegible] and many people are wondering how their particular society happened to be in its respective place. While the changes are not so numerous yet they are noticeable, particularly the way the names of men's and women's organizations are exchanging places with one another. It has always been contended that the women have more time which they can devote to studies while the men are working either for financial support or in college activities, but in these modern times such excuses have lost much of their value, though not all. But we do wonder how it is that the restrictions which the women place upon themselves concerning the scholastic standing of their pledges does not raise their average without exception above that of the men.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Despite the interest that we take in the women's affairs, however, and all joking aside, the men have really been [illegible] objectors regarding the Women's page, feeling that it was not written up as well as it might be and that it was in general a detriment to the paper. Accordingly I welcome the new system of cooperation between the men and women and trust that it may continue as a part of the policy of the Cynic.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Though most of the criticism concerning the Women's page has come from the men, yet the feeling is fully as strong among the women, and accordingly I was very glad to read of the change in form of the Cynic. The women do not want to be kept apart from other college notices in the paper. We feel that we are equally important with the men in certain lines if not in others and we want recognition for the things that we do just as much as the men do. To have a page all our own may sound very nice but it is terrible. Some of the things that have appeared on it in the past were by no means what the Co-eds have wanted and certainly belonged no more to Coed sentiment than to that of the men, and now that the Women's page is done away with, at least every girl won't feel that she has to hang her head for every thing that may have been placed upon page three of the paper.

the last ten days of that Maqua tents will be pitched on es of Lake Thompson in Pol Maine: and girls from Bates, the ty of Maine, Colby, Simmons, University, Middlebury and t are planning to attend.

The Maqua Camp is not without its recreational activities. The program of lectures and conferences is varied by dinners in the open, gypsy hikes, tennis, bacon bats, song contests and a swimming meet.

The Maqua spirit abides long after the happy days have become a memory. One girl says enthusiastically: "It is a real thrill—in a sunset sing 'down where the birches sway,' to look around the circle of college girls, united by Maqua."

Delta Psi Fraternity Founded As Member of Anti-Secret Federation

In the fall of May 1904 a group of undergraduate students at the University of Vermont, feeling a need for [illegible] and intellectual activity, met in the Old Mill [illegible] a chapter of [illegible] a new fraternity. Although it was not in opposition to secret societies, it did itself discard [illegible] and dangerous in a college activity. At [illegible] with the Equitable Fraternity of Delaware, a society [illegible] secret principles to create a basis and motive, to [illegible] and to design a [illegible] of these plans [illegible] Delta Psi Fraternity [illegible] inseparably linked [illegible] the name of John [illegible]. He was the most [illegible] and when [illegible] wrote the ritual [illegible] seventeen years remained unchanged. He impressed [illegible] a grace and dignity [illegible] Throughout [illegible] Professor Goodrich [illegible] fraternity and was ever [illegible]

The fraternity began [illegible] in the early days the [illegible] Chapter [illegible] design made [illegible] appearance on Commencement [illegible] When college [illegible] the infant society, having survived the opposition that it [illegible] from the other organizations, became [illegible] established and began to hold regular meetings. These meetings were held in the Old Mill, and the meeting with the non-secret nature of the fraternity were open to all. For a few years after its founding, Delta Psi was a member of the Anti-Secret Federation. When this connection was severed, the fraternity became secret, and has not since affiliated with any national order.

Of the subsequent development of the society the "Delta Psi Catalogue" of 1915 says: "The Fraternity was strong from the outset, and gained prestige year by year. The end of the first decade, 1860 found it prosperous and well established. This was most fortunate, for the next year the outbreak of the Civil War took a large body of students away from the university, and all societies suffered correspondingly in membership. However, at the end of this trying period the roll of membership was still substantial, and, after the close of the war, the accessions, reinforced by the return of former students who had left college at the call of their country, gave the society renewed strength and increased prominence."

Before owning a house, the Fraternity had rooms in the business district of the city—for a time on Church street and later for many years in the Metropolitan Life Insurance building on Main Street. Delta Psi was incorporated in 1884 by an act of the Vermont Legislature with a view to some day owning a home. In 1907 the Fraternity bought the General Henry house on South Prospect Street. The next fall an addition was built, including a fraternity hall, dining room, and billiard room, and here the Fraternity remained for more than twenty years. At Commencement in 1924 the residence of the late Edward Wells, on the corner of Maple and Summit Streets, purchased the year before, was dedicated as the Delta Psi Goodrich Memorial Home.

ARIEL POLL OPEN

The Ariel Board has decided to continue voting for the Representative Vermonters on Wednesday of this week. This action was taken because of the light vote cast last week, when less than half of those eligible took advantage to the opportunity. Voting was almost negligible among the women.

Those eligible to vote are students who have paid an Ariel tax this year in the Junior Class (Academic and Medic) and in the Sophomore Teacher-Training Class, and all subscribers who have made the first payment of fifty cents. Everyone coming under this classification should vote tomorrow so that the [illegible] may truly be called "Representative Vermonters."

Catamount's Lair

The National Rules Committee, meeting in New York last week, made several changes which will radically change the play in intercollegiate football in 1927. The most important of these changes are those regarding the position of the goal posts, the new ruling on lateral passes, and the increased penalty on the shift. The committee decided while keeping the length of the field 100 yards, to move the goal posts back ten yards, thus increasing the difficulty of a field goal. The penalty for backs in motion on a shift play was made fifteen yards, instead of five. In order to avoid stalling a rule was adopted limiting teams to huddle sessions of fifteen seconds. The number of legal times out in either half was reduced from four to three.

The lateral pass rule reads as follows: "Any player may at any time hand or throw the ball in any direction except forward his own goal. If any such pass made on the first, second or third down strikes the ground within the field of play or goes out of bounds either before or after having been touched by a player of either side it shall belong to the side which made the pass at the point where it first strikes the ground within the field of play, or if it goes out of bounds before striking the ground, at the point where it crossed the sideline, on the fourth down the ball shall go to the opponents at the same point. The pass from the snapper back to put the ball in play is excepted from this ruling."

Another important change concerns fumbled punts. Next fall, fumbled punts except from kickoffs, kicks from safety and kicks from fair catches, will be [illegible] dead when recovered by the kicking side. The committee also inserted a rule in the rule book that it had no objection if any teams want to arrange games on the forty-[illegible] system. This is the plan for eliminating the time element, making forty plays constitute a game instead of dividing it into quarters and halves.

The [illegible] sprinter and the [illegible] lumber jumper will be dealt with [illegible] henceforth by the [illegible] A. A. A. A. A. under rule changes adopted at the annual meeting of the association recently.

Increasing the weight of the hurdles [illegible] pounds, the association abolished a rule calling for disqualification of athletes who kick over three or more of the barriers in their flight. In the future, hurdlers will be able to [illegible] over every standard in the route without fear of punishment.

A rule of penalties for premature starts in flat racing was established, superseding the old uniform one-yard penalty for all distances. Hereafter punishment will be meted out as follows: 50 yards or less, 1 foot; 50 to 75 yards, 2 feet; 75 to 440 yards, 1 yard; more than 440 yards, 3 yards. The penalty will be repeated for a second offense, and a third premature start will result in disqualification.

Last Saturday afternoon Coach Dresser started a new sport called cage baseball. The rules of this game are rather indefinite and depends on whichever side pays the umpire the most money. In the game played Saturday it was rather hard to tell which side was richer because it didn't seem to make much difference what the ump side, as the first team had all of the biggest men on their side, including "Hank."

Anyway the first team had a hard time in trimming the seconds and had it not been for a close play at first the score might have been 0 to 0. But as "Jim" Callopy left his field glasses at home he couldn't quite make out whether the ball or Talcot got there first or maybe he got the two mixed up in the distance. Anyway Talcot stayed on first and scored a minute later.

"Bunny" Prentice may have had a big advantage over anyone else at the initial sack in the first place, but just at present Frank O'Keefe is giving him a run for his money. At the rate this big boy is improving, Prentice will have to step some to hold down the job.

The other day the M. A. C. basketball picked an all-opponent team and this time Vermont had only two men on the mythical five. Prentice and Price drew the honors, with the former at forward and the latter at guard. It is understood that the Green and Gold will soon appear with an all-opponent team and it ought to be a humdinger, for the boys have been in some fast company during the past season.

LEGISLATURE PASSES APPROPRIATIONS FOR COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

Amendment to Bill Favors Students Who Will Practice in State of Vermont After Graduation

Before the Senate passed the bill granting additional facilities for the Medical College at the University of Vermont this morning, it adopted an amendment to the bill providing a new section as proposed by the committee on appropriations. The bill carries an additional appropriation for the Medical College of $40,000 for the first year of the biennium and $30,000 for the second year. The bill is now in the House.

The amendment to the bill adopted by the Senate reads as follows

Students enrolled in a curriculum leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine who are legal residents of this State shall, upon enrollment, sign an agreement to practice medicine in Vermont for the period of one year for each year said person is enrolled in such curriculum, or in lieu thereof, to refund to the State treasurer, through the University, the difference between the total tuition paid and the total unit cost to the State of the curriculum pursued.

The unit cost to the State shall be determined by dividing the amount of the appropriation hereinbefore provided for by total number of Vermont students enrolled in such curriculum.

The registrar of said University shall annually, at the close of each college year, certify to the State treasurer the names and postoffice addresses of those students who have executed such agreements, together with specific information as to the unit cost determined as hereinbefore provided. Said University is hereby authorized to collect such sums as may become due under the foregoing provisions and shall forthwith pay the same to the State treasurer.

Intercollegiate News

Princeton University is planning to build a new gymnasium some time this year. A gift of $200,000 by John D. Rockefeller has put the University in the financial position necessary to build it. The building will be made of steel and thick glass, and will be a much needed addition to the regular gym which, ten years ago, was the largest in the country. It will contain a running track, exercise apparatus and floor space for boxing. The building is to be unheated.

St. Stephen's College will oppose the Green and Gold Tennis Team here May 6 according to the schedule just announced by Manager Hawkins of the New Yorkers. Last year, Vermont won a 4-3 decision, and with Guild and Shaw missing from the locals and Todd and Ferris of the New Yorkers also absent from this year's line-up, this year's match should be another win for Morrill who defeated Shaw last year will lead the Red and White this season with Ferber, MacKean and Hall all veterans, as team-mates. The Red and White Team will invade Hershey and Norwich on May 27 and 28 respectively. This looks as if Vermont is going to support a tennis team this spring. The St. Stephen's match contains eleven matches.

Dartmouth won its first Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Championship defeating Princeton in the play-off game at Penn Palestra 26-24. By the win Coach Lou Wachter's Hanover men win their first leg on the Hillyer trophy. A victory for the Tigers would have given them permanent possession of the cup.

A committee of Alma Batten, Irene Bates and Eleanor Davison was elected to go over the present constitution of Student Government and propose amendments necessitated by the discontinuance of assemblies.

Alma Batten and Dorothy Hall were chosen to represent Vermont at the conference of Student Union Associations of New England, to be held at the University of New Hampshire in April.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB MEETS WITH PROF. LADD

A meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club was held at the home of Professor and Mrs. Ladd. Captain Rattan of the Military Department gave an interesting talk on China based on his years of experience in the country. He told of some of the geographical phenomena of China, an example of which is the Yellow River which overflows its banks at each rainstorm due to the low brinks and lack of vegetation to hold the water. Captain Rattan gave his impressions of the present trouble and the locations of the opposing factions and the seat of hostilities.

Refreshments were served by the host and hostess at the conclusion of the meeting.

GOLD KEY SPLINTERS PADDLES TO KINDLING

Gold Key, honorary Sophomore society, held an informal reception at the Kappa Sigma house last Tuesday evening. At this time about 25 of the Freshmen who have been delinquent in obeying the rules or in cooperating with the society, as is the custom in taking down bleachers after the basketball games and after Bake Walk were penalized in the usual manner. A large number of paddles were in evidence at the meeting, as each member brought several, but when the sounds of the fray had subsided very few of these were in perfect condition and many were fit only for kindling wood.

The mortality was high, the average number blows per person on the receiving end being 8, and many of these will be long remembered by onlookers as being the loudest, and by the recipients as being the hardest blows delivered on such an occasion this year. Excuses offered to the Frosh as to why they were absent from their duties and therefore should not be paddled were many and varied and ranged from appointments with the dentist to not reading the notice on the bulletin board. But excuses were more easily given than received, and few were the individuals who escaped.

Drastic measures were taken with those who were found guilty. The society promises that still more severe measures will be taken with those who failed to report and with those who are found sporting bow ties, colored socks or without their symbol of humility, the little green cap. Gold Key avers that the fact that a co-ed may belong to some of the upper classes does not permit a Freshman to accompany her down the north side of College Street. "Take heed, ye insolent members of the class of 1930 your day of deliverance from bondage has not yet come," says a representative of the hard hitting Sophomore club.

Debaters Receive Sixth Decision By Defeating Waynesburg

Vermont Has Not Been Defeated to Date—Victory Over Team from Pennsylvania Assures U. V. M. a High Rating in Intercollegiate Debating

The University of Vermont debating team won by a two to one decision from Waynesburg College, of Waynesburg, Pa., in a debate held in the Old Mill Chapel last evening. The University supported the negative of the proposition. Resolved: That the United States Should Cancel the Loans Made to its Associates During the World War.

The first speaker for the affirmative, Harland I. Cassidy of Waynesburg held that the losses sustained by the United States were trivial in comparison with those of other countries.

The first speaker for the negative, Lawrence H. Hines stated that we entered the war as a defense measure. Hines as usual was forceful and masterly in presented his arguments.

The negative and affirmative argued the question of the allies ability to pay which was proved to the advantage of the negative.

Carl Wedell of the University, ably demolished the points stating the fact that the debts were moral and legal and were payable.

Kenneth T. Skelton of the affirmative team repaired several gaps made by the affirmative and put up a strong argument for his side. He likened the bargaining of the United States with the allies to the killing of the golden goose of commerce.

Emory Mower, last speaker for the negative, stressed the leniency of the United States by its deduction of $6,000,000,000 from the debt. Leslie V. Brock of the affirmative team was an able defendant for his side.

The judges, Prof. William N. Morse of Middlebury, Chaplain Myrin D. Merchant of Fort Ethan Allen, and Prof. Allen M. Kline of Middlebury, turned in a two to one decision in favor of the negative.

MEN'S GRIND SECTION FOR 1928 ANNUAL IS SENT TO THE PRINTER

Teacher Training Section is Ready For the Presses—Representative Vermonter Contest Is Small

As the work of the 1928 Ariel is progressing now it seems probable that the book will appear about the middle of May. The layout of the Teacher Training section has been approved and sent back to the engravers, the men's grind section is now finished and the athletic section is nearly completed. Nearly three-fourths of the material has already been sent to the Free Press.

About half of the subscribers cast ballots the first two days for the three men and three women of the Senior class who will be honored in a special section of the year book this year as representative Vermonters. Another chance to vote was given on Wednesday. Every effort will be made to keep the results of the ballot secret until the Ariel comes out. It has not yet been decided in what section this new feature will appear.

Except for that, however, the arrangement has been settled, and J. O. Phelps '28, Editor-in-chief, announces the contents as follows: The first of the eight divisions will be the Vermont section which will contain six views of the beauty spots in the state with short descriptive paragraphs. In the Administration section there will be group pictures of the faculty, by colleges. Following this will come the Class section. Here a slight deviation from the plan of past Ariels will be in the part devoted to the junior class. A snapshot will be added to the photograph and grind of each member. The Medic section will contain examples of medic wit. Several pages of cartoons will be a feature. For the Athletic section a number of good action pictures of football and track teams have been obtained. Another addition will be the picture of the "V" men. In the Organization and Women's sections there will be practically no changes from the plan of former years. The final division will offer pages of snap shots and humor.

Y. M. C. A. HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The University Y. M. C. A. held an election-supper last Wednesday evening at the City Y rooms. A large number of members connected with the Association was present to vote on the new officers.

D. J. Merrill '28 and G. E. Bond '29 were tied for president and another election will be held to determine the winner. A. G. Mackay '29, of Peacham, was unanimously elected vice-president. C. W. Irons '29, of Middlebury, is the new secretary, and A. E. Birchard '29, of Springfield, Mass., treasurer.

A new board was elected for the 1931 Vermont Handbook. H. H. Popp '28, Brandon, won the editorship. He is to pick his assistants. L. A. Mandeville '28, of Burlington, was elected business manager of the Handbook.

A new pledge was drawn up by a committee and was accepted by the members. The pledge will be announced at a later date.

NEWS IN BRIEF

J. Stanley Estabrook '29, a star guard on the basketball squad, has been discharged from the Mary Fletcher. Estabrook has been recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

The underclassmen have been excused from physical training during Monday and Tuesday due to the fact that the valve in the Gymnasium boiler room was badly clogged. No heat was available until Wednesday when classes were resumed.

Beaver and the Key and Serpent societies are planning to hold a smoker next week before the baseball team leaves for the Southern Trip. The exact date will be decided on at a joint meeting of the two societies tonight. At that time plans for the smoker will be formulated.

Sigma Alpha Chi has announced the pledging of L. A. Collins '29 of Swanton.

The Ariel continued the balloting on Representative Vermonters on Wednesday. A light vote was cast among the women although voting was somewhat brisk as the polls were about to close.

Several students have already enrolled for a course in the Citizens Military Training Camps at Devens during July. Applications for this training should be made as soon as possible, for the camps are rapidly filling up and enrollment will probably close at an early date. Information concerning the camps may be secured through the Military office in the Gymnasium.

All Lantern copy must be handed in to Manager Egan at once.

Those desiring entrance to the Kingsley Prize Speaking contest must hand in their names soon. This year the three best men will be taken from the Freshman and Sophomore classes by a try-out system. The length of the speech is two minutes and the prizes are $25, $15 and $10. Try-out and final dates will be announced later in the Cynic. For further information see Aid Professor Moore will be glad to see students.

[illegible] AS WELL

[illegible] of the situation [illegible] as mentioned in the accompanying [illegible] Comment signed by Junior. We believe that all has not been [illegible] in voting for these members of the Senior class who are to be heralded as representative Vermonters. And from other quarters we hear that the number of votes cast [illegible] is decidedly small. There are many probably a majority of the student body who do not approve of the system, who feel that it is bound to be unsatisfactory and unfair in its [illegible] and who condemn the whole [illegible] But such an attitude cannot be profitably carried out at [illegible]. Candidates have been nominated and partially voted upon and plans for the feature section in the book are definitely made. Accordingly, there are but two courses of action open to voice such sentiment as will get a hold on the entire movement or to set behind it and try to steer it in the right direction, and as there seems little likelihood of anyone doing the former the latter is the only sane policy. The matter of dishonest voting has been taken to the Editor of the Ariel and is being adjusted, more care will be taken in the future, and it now remains for those who are eligible to take the trouble to cast a vote. The other proposition is now in the balance. We will either have a section in the next yearbook that will be a credit to the seniors and the college, a memorial to those who voted [illegible] carelessly or not at all and a mockery to the people chosen. If, as we think is what we hope for, we will have a section based upon the [illegible] judgment of the entire student body, a section giving just recognition to the most representative Seniors and in which one will feel honored to be pictured. Ostracism of the sort that some are prone to do such a thing will anyway and on whose [illegible] is not what we want but rather some of the spirit that will do its best to put across well a thing which is destined to be.

[illegible] for the Junior Week play are to be held in the near future and will receive the attention of many of the most talented students. This does not mean that the unexperienced should be discouraged or feel shut out. Each play brings forth hidden talent much to the joy of both the audience and the new actor. The Junior Week Play is the important one of the year, given during the big social season of the college, itself a big college feature. To be in the cast is a decided honor as well as a special education along lines not provided for in courses, and no end of pleasure is involved. That much is the individual's gain, and of course the more people tryout for parts the better will our play be when Junior Week comes round.

Speaking of the Play reminds us that Junior Week is not far off. The various committees have been working for some time and results are beginning to show both as to what is to be done and how it will be carried out. As usual though labelled with the name of the third year students, Junior Week will be a college affair shared in and enjoyed by members of each class, with the possible reservation in the case of a class banquet. An exceptional orchestra is to be here for the Prom and all things considered we advise everyone to mark off a place on their calendar for Junior Week.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

This letter perhaps does not directly concern the Cynic, but in the past the students have found it convenient to bring attention of the college on certain subjects through your column "Campus Comment." You are to be commended for your broad point of view in allowing the students through Campus Comments to gain widespread knowledge of happenings which directly concern them.

There has been plenty of talk, rumors and "hot dope" passed about the campus, in regard to unfair practices in connection with elections. Time and again, the word is passed that some clique has stuffed the ballot box. Personally, I have always discounted these accounts. It did not seem probable that a certain element in the democratic Vermont campus, would be so lacking in sportsmanship and honesty as to indulge in unfair and unscrupulous practices in voting.

However, I must confess that my ideas, in regard to the way voting is conducted at Vermont, have changed very materially. Last Friday morning I saw that the ballot box in the Representative Vermonters' contest was stuffed by certain students. Undoubtedly the increase in ballots will be noticed by the tellers of the Ariel contest. However that does not make the matter any better.

It seems to me that some drastic action ought to be taken to stop this unfair practice.

Justice '29.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

We have on the campus honorary societies of all sorts: dramatic, literary etc. These organizations are most certainly beneficial to the type of student activities to which they pertain. Since there are, at present, four musical organizations at Vermont, Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, the Choir and the R. O. T. C. Band, I for one would recommend the formation of an honorary musical society.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Y. W. C. A. is operating a corn-popper in its Old Mill rooms. Popcorn is being sold at a nominal price to help finance the work of the organization.

All underclassmen and Juniors are receiving group requirement sheets from the Registrar. It is requested that all the sheets be filled out and returned before June 1.

All students who are interested in purchasing Junior Week programs are requested to get in touch with the committee in charge consisting of M. C. Robbins, Chairman and George Talcott. All orders should be in the hands of the committee on or before April 16. Samples of the programs are displayed at the University Store. The covers are works of art, being in deep brown. A realistic picture of a catamount rampant is engraved over the class numerals.

The coming of spring was marked by a snow storm which brought with it a return of wintry weather. The dormitory reception rooms, which had been abandoned during the previous week, are once more popular places of resort. The evening attendance at the Billings Library, which had been falling off with the approach of spring, is recovering its normal winter figure.

Very simple yet impressive chapel exercises were held last Wednesday morning in the Ira Allen Chapel. Professor Samuel E. Bassett, head of the department of Greek, lead the exercises. The attendance was slightly smaller than on the three previous exercises, and if it decreases much more, the faculty will probably make good its threat to have compulsory exercises.

The Ariel completed its "Representative Vermonters" contest and closed the polls last Wednesday forenoon. During that time, part of the subscribers took the opportunity to cast a ballot for the candidates indicated on the ballots printed by the Ariel.

The committee on non-athletic student activities from the University Senate has commenced to check up on the members of the various organizations on the Hill. IT HAPPENED IN THE SECOND ACT! A TRAGIC SCENE . . . BUT IT HAD A HAPPY ENDING

It was the "big moment" in the play. The suspense was terrific. "At last, my proud beauty, I have you in my power" . . . the villain snarled. "I am going to . . . "

2.

Just then Clarence started to cough. Great Guns! How he coughed. He couldn't stop; his throat tickled so.

3.

"Put him out" . . . someone yelled. If looks could kill, Clarence would have been murdered by fifty people around him.

4.

The curses of the villain were drowned by the "cussing" of Clarence. But what could the poor fellow do! When a man's throat tickles . . . he's gotta cough!

5.

The next morning Clarence switched to OLD GOLD Cigarettes. "No more sandpaper smokes for me," he said. "From now on, I'll smoke the blend that soothes the throat while it thrills the taste."

Associated Stock Exchanges Elects Young Vermont Grad President

There seems to have been a decided [illegible] in the market of Stocks and encouragement for one Vermonter who has experienced a steady rise to eminence in the financial world for is Ralph Simonds class of '13 who has recently elected president of the Associated Stock Exchanges representing twelve of the largest cities in the United States.

The forming of this association was first proposed by the Detroit Stock Exchange during Mr Simonds term as president Invitations to attend the organizing convention in Detroit on June 21-22 1926 were extended to the Baltimore Boston Cincinnati Chicago Cleveland Columbus Hartford Los Angeles Louisville New Orleans New York Philadelphia Pittsburgh St Louis San Francisco San Francisco Stock and Bond and Washington exchanges Also the New York Curb market

At this convention Mr Simonds was named as the first president of the Associated Stock Exchanges to which position he was reelected in November, 1926, at the first annual convention held in St. Louis, Missouri.

According to an article which appeared in a St. Louis newspaper at that time, the purposes of the association are as follows: "To promote the general welfare and influence of the stock exchanges; to broaden the scope of their activities; to standardize methods of handling securities to coordinate efforts in the protection of the public against loss by fraud through wilful and irresponsible dealers in securities; and to surround trading by its members with greater safeguard."

The part played by Mr. Simonds in the forming of this commendable organization, and his subsequent election to the office of president reveal something of the prominence which he has attained during the brief course of his financial career—a vocation that he had no intention of following when he started out in life.

Born in Burlington, he attended the University of Vermont, and was graduated in 1913 with a degree of B. S.

While in college he was a member of the CYNIC board and Sigma Phi society.

For a time following this he was in the employ of C H Swift & Sons Utica, N. Y., with duties that took him among lumber woods throughout Canada. Then he went to Detroit and was graduated from the Detroit College of Law in 1918.

In 1917 he became salesmanager of Walter C Piper, real estate, Detroit and at nights studied law. He was admitted to practice in 1918 Then, first as salesman, later as sales manager, he was employed by the A. J. Nebe Co., Detroit investment bankers.

It was in 1920 that he and Jefferson W. Baker, also a Vermonter, class of 1915, organized the present firm of Baker-Simonds & Company, investment bankers specializing as underwriters and distributors of bonds, etc. From the very first the organization has been built around a nucleous of Vermont men, there being six in the company at the present time.

RALPH W. SIMONDS, '13

Vermont Man Who Was Recently Re elected Head of an Association of the leading stock Exchanges.

In 1923, Baker Simonds & Co. of New York City was established, with Mr. Baker in charge. Mr. Simonds, president of the firm spends most of his working hours at the main office in Detroit. Just recently, another office was opened at Buffalo.

The rapid growth of Baker-Simonds & Co. is a remarkable tribute to the capabilities of the organization. When the firm first started out on business they occupied a small room on the top floor of the Congress Building, Detroit where it was necessary for clients to walk up the last flight of stairs To-day, Baker-Simonds & Co. is one of the largest distributors of securities in Detroit, with an organization of some 25 people.

For two years, 1925-26, Ralph Simonds served as president of the Detroit Stock Exchange, which, like the other lesser exchanges throughout the country is modeled after the New York Stock Exchange. Prior to this, he had been a member of the Board of Governors for a full term.

One of the most progressive moves made by the Exchange while Mr Simonds was president was an arrangement with a Detroit bank for the loaning of money on call on all securities listed on the Detroit and New York exchanges. This facility has long been needed and has since proven its value to the various members It was also during his term as president that the idea of an association of stock exchanges was first conceived and carried through the realization.

Mr. Simonds is well known to social Detroit through his membership in the University Club, the Detroit Athletic Club, and the Indian Village Club.

Catamount's Lair

[illegible] a large number of [illegible] a big supply of [illegible] the back of support [illegible] basketball season. The past [illegible] was not much the cause in support of the team. Many [illegible] that if the team [illegible] a little out of their manner [illegible] trip that Vermont is [illegible] Those men [illegible] that Vermont [illegible] support whatever. This [illegible] enough to make the odds [illegible] and one [illegible] team to win games [illegible] practice.

[illegible] the team goes [illegible] put [illegible] practice and [illegible] have done this for [illegible] at least. For this reason [illegible] not criticize the [illegible] teams make on the trip [illegible]

[illegible] back everybody [illegible] to get the starting to give them the good hand. Many times this [illegible] back at the station to [illegible] the band play it and find not [illegible] there supporters on hand [illegible] welcome them home. One must realize that Vermont teams do not [illegible] with the home crowd [illegible] This fact seems to have no difference as to the number that greet them at the station.

[illegible] hard to get up at five o'clock and way down to the station but be convinced that every member of the team has not been [illegible] the cause and that they have tried to work hard for their bit of [illegible]

This statement may seem a bit pre[illegible] but as the old saying goes its better to lock the barn before the horse is stolen than after. Let's give the team a rousing send off and also make them think that we are proud of them when they return.

Another thing that needs a little [illegible] is the spirit shown at [illegible] this year. Why not show a little pep when you come up to the gymnasium next Tuesday night. There is no use in sitting at [illegible] like a bunch of dummies.

Some of the freshmen seem to have the idea that the purpose of smokers is to see how many cigarettes they can get so that they will have a supply on hand for a couple weeks. Many seem to have the idea that this fighting for smokes is showing college pep but to the older men it looks like a bunch of boys trying to get their fill. Of course a smoker is no tea party but we can be a gentleman and enjoy [illegible] at the same time. As one [illegible] around the gym during the [illegible] he will see plenty of freshmen who do not know the Vermont [illegible] They ought to get a sound [illegible] for their indifference.

TEN STUDENTS TO GIVE MOVIES COLLEGIATE AIR

If college men really were like some of the so-called "collegians" now in the movies, thirty-year-olds in wide pants and coon coats, with a passion for racing cars and all-night parties, college days indeed would be happy days. And think of those [illegible] dips in sunken pools and [illegible] breakfasts served in the [illegible] style that we see now and then in some flashing, sparkling college picture.

If folks who never went to college got their ideas of college life from a few fashionable college pictures their views would be subject to considerable [illegible]. College men are he-men: [illegible] pants are on the decline, and breakfasts consist of grapefruit, toast and coffee. In fact the cash rate for city men dining at the houses at most fraternities is around five cents for breakfast, sixty cents for lunch and sixty cents for dinner. And sunken gardens and swimming pools are an exception.

[illegible] of the thousands of stars now [illegible] the long ladder few are college men. Some [illegible] of the directors are college men, so [illegible] the opportunity for big organizations to [illegible] men to [illegible] the business. To help make college pictures real college pictures Paul Nathanson, [illegible] and a certain [illegible] corporation will send an advance [illegible] to three [illegible] colleges in [illegible] next. Apart [illegible] the darling [illegible] and [illegible] and eating [illegible] by interviews as many men as [illegible] and a few weeks later a cameraman [illegible] a [illegible] town, and [illegible] a group of photographic personality [illegible] will arrive [illegible] make the actual screen tests. These [illegible] will be rushed from the [illegible] and as soon as they have [illegible] upon the film will be sent direct to California for immediate inspection. By the first of June the judges will be ready to announce the names of the ten men who will make the trip to California.

UNIVERSITY BATTALION TO BE INSPECTED BY OFFICERS IN SPRING

Annual Inspection to be Held by Federal Officers—Distinguished Rating is Goal of Battalion

The Military Department at the University is busily preparing for the annual Federal Inspection of the R. O. T. C. Battalion which will be held on May 9 and 10. At that time two Officers from the War Department at Washington will be present, and all members of the Battalion will be excused from classes to participate in the maneuvers. Weather conditions were favorable last Friday morning, and the entire Battalion including the [illegible] had the first outdoor marching of the season.

The inspection will be similar to those held in past years, and will consist of a review, a formal inspection of all the companies and the band, and a demonstration of physical, and extended and close order drill. The freshmen will be examined as a class in infantry drill, rifle marksmanship, military hygiene and first aid. The sophomores will be examined in the automatic rifle, infantry drill, musketry, scouting and patrolling, map reading and guard duty. The Juniors will demonstrate their ability in machine gun drill in the tactical employment of machine guns in offense and defense, infantry tactics, field fortifications and military sketching, while the seniors will be examined in military history, military law, rules of land warfare, administration, howitzer drill and tactical employment of infantry troops. The inspection will conclude with a tactical demonstration in which the entire battalion will participate. A problem in minor tactics will be solved and carried out.

This inspection is held annually by the United States government for the purpose of determining the leading R. O. T. C. units in the country. Since 1915 the University of Vermont has been awarded the distinguished rating eight times. This rating gives members of the battalion the right to wear blue stars on the sleeves of their uniforms. Last year the distinguished rating was lost by a narrow margin of points, but it is hoped that it will be regained this year.

The Wetness

YOUR FRIEND IS DEAD—(broke)

(With apologies to Shakespeare)

Medics, Co-Eds, Aggies, lend me your coin.
Having spent my money, I now must borrow
The money men borrow they spend with joy.
And oft forget to return it, from whence it came.
So let it be with this. The noble ancients
Have told us that gold is evil!
If it is so, it surely is a grievous fault
And grievously are you not suffering from it.
Here by permission of the ancients (and the Faculty)
For the Faculty are honourable men
As also, without doubt, were the ancients—
Come I to speak of the good in money
When I have any, it is useful to my friends.
But the ancients say it is evil.
And the Faculty are truly honourable men
Money has brought many students to U. V. M
Whose taxes did not the class-treasury fill;
Did they shun evil (money)? Oh yes!
When the treasurer dunned they beat it.
Yet the Faculty say they are sports.
And these ancients are very honourable men
You all have seen that on the Campus
I oft presented to the class treasurer my tax.
Which he did not refuse; well hardly.
Yet the ancients say money is evil.
And, truly, I hate to spend evil.
I speak, however, not to prove what the ancients spoke.
But here I am to speak that which I do know
Every one does love it much and with good cause.
I believed it to be evil and parted with it
Oh Folly! I am far from evil, therefore good, Q. E. D.
But not a bit more happy, bear with me.
My heart is with my money, which I squandered.
And now must sponge until my next check comes.

TRYOUTS FOR PLAY TO BE PRESENTED JUNIOR WEEK ARE BEING HELD

Trials to be Held Today and Tomorrow—Play Presented to be Either "Bab" or "The Whole Town Is Talking"

Tryouts for the Junior Week play are being held in Room 3 North College this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. All candidates for parts in the play will be required to appear before a group of judges including Mrs. C. Ives Taggart, who will direct the play, Professor Frederick Tupper and Professor John T. Metcalf. The cast of the play will be announced on Wednesday it is expected.

Wig and Buskin met with the Masque and Sandal society at the Kappa Alpha Theta House last Thursday evening. At that time the play committee reported that two plays had been picked for final consideration. "The Whole Town is Talking" and "Bab" were the plays recommended. Both societies decided to have a committee appointed to select the play from the two recommended. The committee appointed consisted of O. F. Parody '27, chairman; Muriel F. Cleveland '28; Marion Lawrence '27; Eleanor Chapman '27; C H Blackall '27 and E. A. Lucchina '28. The committee will report on the play selected in time for the tryouts.

At the combined meeting of the two societies it was decided to hold a dance for the members on April 22. The committee on the dance headed by Miss Elizabeth Johnson reported on the arrangements that had been made and the report was accepted. Other business was discussed at the meeting, but no definite action was taken.

PHI MU DELTA WINS THE INTERFRATERNITY MEET

Independents, Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Follow Next in Order and Eleven Teams Place

On Saturday afternoon the Phi Mu Delts cleaned up the indoor Interfraternity Track Meet. The final standing of the three highest fraternities gave the winners the meet by a nine point margin. The only record to be broken was the pole vault which Whitten had little trouble in taking. He made 11 feet, 8⅞ inches on the first try and might have gone higher but it not been for the lack of time. Several close races were run off on the track in the Gym, especially the 440, which Williamson captured by a fifth of a second. The running of "Archie" Post was easily the feature on the track and he had little trouble in taking first in the 880 and the mile. The spirit of the meet was all that could be asked for with every possible man in each fraternity out for at least one event. If this keeps up Coach Lane should have little trouble in running off with the state meet again this year for he will have plenty of good material to work with.

Simpson and Post were high point men of the meet with ten points each. Both of these men took first places in their respective events.

Summary:

Shot Put—First, Simpson, Phi Mu Delts; second, Knapp, Sigma Delta; third, Manning, Phi Mu Delta; fourth, Lewis, Phi Mu Delta. Distance 39, 6⅝.

Forward Dash—First, Costine, Phi Delta Theta; second, Bray, Sigma Nu; third, Moodie, Phi Mu Delta; fourth, Douglas, Kappa Sigma. Time 3⅝.

Forward High Hurdle—First, Howard, Independents; second, Lyman, Sigma Phi; third, Rich, Independents; fourth, Morse, Delta Psi. Time 4⅛.

Forward Low Hurdle—First, Douglas, Kappa Sigma; second, Moodie, Phi Mu Delta; third, Hopson, Sigma Phi; fourth, Rich, Independents. Time 3⅘.

Pole Vault—First, Whitten, Independents; second, Hastings, Independents; third, Lyman, Sigma Phi; fourth, Independent. Height 11, 8⅞.

Forward Jump—First, Hastings, Independents; second, Mace, Sigma Phi; third, Morse, Sigma Phi; fourth, Bray.

JUNIOR WEEK PROGRAMS

The work on the Junior Week programs is now in progress at the University Store. The price is $1 a piece or $1.75 for two. It is desired that those wishing one of these programs hand their names to M. C. Robbins at the Kappa Sigma House so that an estimate can be made of the necessary number of copies to have printed.

BUEHLER WRITES THREE ESSAYS FOR MAGAZINES

Several articles on economic problems have been written by Professor Buehler, of the Economics department, for prominent finance magazines. The Analyst, business magazine, has printed two articles, "New French Taxes," and "Canadian Sales Taxes" while the Barron's National Investor Weekly has printed "New Budget Problems for France." These are only three of many articles that Professor Buehler has written and have been published by the foremost business magazines.

Professor Buehler is a graduate of Heidelberg College. He came to Vermont this year as an assistant professor of economics.

FRESHMAN GIRLS WIN ANNUAL INDOOR MEET FROM THEIR SUPERIORS

Folk-Dancing One of the Features of the Evening—Seniors Defeat Sophomores and Win Basketball Cup

Freshman co-eds won the Womens' annual Indoor Meet of the underclass held in the gymnasium Friday evening. The meet opened with a posture competition. The Freshmen, making an attractive picture with their bright red ties on white middies, came on the floor first and marched in single file before the members of the Sweater Club, who acted as judges. The Sophomores followed, distinguished from the Freshmen by their black ties. The judges unanimously awarded the decision in this contest to the girls of 1929.

The second feature of the evening's program was a demonstration dance, the Irish Tilt, by the second year teacher-training students.

The next event consisted of marching tactics by the girls of both classes. In this contest, Sophomores were victorious.

Apparatus was well executed. The Freshman group performed the straddle vault, side vault, rope climbing and high jump. The Sophomore girls performed the wolf vault, saddle vault, rear vault, somersault, courage vault, traveling rings and rope climbing.

Folk dancing was the fifth feature of the evening. The Freshmen gave a skillful interpretation of "Topsy." Their English dance was also well received. The Sophomores danced the "Arkansas Traveler" and presented an extra-special "Newsboy's Clog."

"After due deliberation" of the judges, Arlene Cushing and Marion Parker announced the decision in favor of the Freshmen. Evelyn Pierce accepted the silver Loving Cup in behalf of her class. Elzada Fiske accepted the Consolation Cup (Aluminum) for the Sophomores. Much credit is due Dorothy Cottrell '29 for her skillful handling of the program as chairman of the evening.

The Seniors defeated the Sophomores 23-3 in the basketball game by the score of 22-3, and thus won the basketball cup for the fourth consecutive year. The line-up was as follows:

Seniors		Sophomores
McGlaughlin, f.	f.	Upton
Tyler, f.	f.	Zielonko
Randell, c.	c.	Middleton
Touchout, g.	g.	Corbin
Thorne, g.	g.	Lanou
Cushing, g.	g.	Everest
	f.	Howley

Jeannette Hays '28, president of W. A. A. awarded the trophy to the Senior team at the close of the game. Between the halves of the game, Naomi Thorne '27, presented Miss Cummings with a white sweater, with an Old English "V" similar to those worn by the Sweater Club, in appreciation of her untiring work for the women of the University of Vermont.

COMBINED GLEE CLUBS TO PRODUCE DIDO AND AENEAS THIS SPRING

Professor Bennett, Director of Glee Clubs, Will Stage First Opera Attempted At This University

For the first time in the history of the Glee Club and due to the efforts of the Music Department the college will produce an opera with student talent. The name of the opera is Dido and Aeneas. Parts have been assigned for some of the principal but most of the positions are still open. The following parts were given out as a result of the try-outs held last Thursday evening: Dido, Miss Hazel Ladd '30 of Richmond Hill, New York. Miss Evelyn Bower '27 of Watertown, New York, is the alternate for this part and Belinda, Marion Miller '30 of Wallingford, Vermont.

An alternate for Belinda will also be needed. The alternate for Dido sings the Attendants solo on page 41, the alternate for Belinda sings the "second Sorceress" solo on page 54, the alternate for Aeneas sings the first Sailor's solo on page 49 transposed a 4th lower into the key of F. These solos can if necessary be omitted in case the alternate sings a principal rôle. All alternates will sing in the chorus.

All candidates for the rôle of Aeneas, First Sorceress, First Witch, and Spirit will try out Wednesday, March 30 at 4 P. M. in the Music Building. The rôles of Aeneas and the First Sorceress are open to both men and women. The following are the requirements for tryouts and a description of the rôles.

Candidates for Aeneas will sing the recitative, pages 46-47 and the duet with Dido, pages 59-61 with action. At least one of these numbers should be memorized. Range: baritone or second soprano D to F, or, transposed for bass or alto, B to D. The final duet should be sung in the original key but D may be substituted for F at the word "commands" on page 60.

Candidates for the First Sorceress will sing the solo on page 26 with action, from memory. Range, baritone or second soprano C to F.

Candidates for the First and Second Witches will sing their parts in the duet, pages 32-33, with action, from memory. Range First Witch, soprano D to G; Second Witch soprano D to F.

Candidates for the Spirit will sing the recitative on page 46 with action, from memory. Range: Second soprano E to E.

There will be a full rehearsal for both men and women in the chorus Tuesday evening, March 29 at 7 P. M.

All copies of the score not being used should be returned immediately. Candidates are requested to share their copies with other candidates as far as possible.

STRINGENT RULES MADE BY UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

The University Council announces that the latter recess begins Friday, April 1 at 7 30 A. M. and closes Wednesday, April 12 at 8 A. M. Students desiring excuses for absences before or after these dates should note carefully the following statements:

Applications must be made in writing, must indicate the mail address of the applicant, must set forth reasons in fact, and must be filed with the dean of the college in which the student is enrolled (men) or with the Dean of Women (women) not later than Monday, March 28 at noon. The responsibility lies with the student in this matter. Belated applications will not be considered.

Excuses will be granted to men by vote of the Council, and to women in the discretion of the Dean of Women. No excuses for extension of time will be granted except for the most important reasons. Students are asked to note this fact, and not waste their own time or that of the Council as has been so commonly done in the past, by citing trivial reasons.

Students are asked to carefully note the rules concerning absences from the University exercises immediately preceding or following recesses. Regulation II, 5. This section provides a penalty of probation for unexcused absences at the times indicated.

CAPTAIN RATTAN TALKS ON CHINESE SITUATION

A meeting of the International Club will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Room 4 North College. Captain W. V. Rattan, of the R. O. T. C. department will speak on the question of internationalism in China. Captain Rattan is to be a specialist to give the latest information on this subject since he recently came to Vermont from detail work in the Far East. His talk will occupy about 20 minutes after which there will be an open forum. The Program Committee requests that all members of the club read up on the Chinese situation before the meeting in order to make it the most educational and successful talk of the year. This is the last meeting before the Easter recess and it is hoped that every member of the club will be in attendance.

The International Club has been formed by the members of the political science department to foster interest in world affairs. The organization receives inspiration from the Carnegie Foundation. The president is O. F. Parody '27 of Peekskill, N. Y. The club has a membership of over 20 students who take political science courses.

MERRILL IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

University Y. M. C. A. Adopts New Pledge, Which Is Radically Different From the Former Purpose of the Society

Delbert J. Merrill '28 of Wallingford was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. at Vermont as a result of the balloting which took place last week. Merrill is a student in the College of Agriculture. He has been interested in the work of the Association being a member of several committees for the past two years. Besides his work in the Y. M. C. A. he is a member of Gold Key, Aggie Club, and is the art editor of the 1928 Ariel. Merrill belongs to the Sigma Alpha Chi fraternity.

Other officers elected were vice president, A. G. Mackay '29 of Peacham; treasurer, A. E. Birchard of Springfield, Mass.; secretary, C. E. Irons of Middlebury; editor of the Handbook, H. H. Fogg '28 of Braintree; manager of the Handbook, L. A. Barbieri '28 of Barrington. C. E. Harwood '29 of Dorset has been appointed assistant editor of the Handbook by the editor-in-chief.

A new pledge has been adopted by the Christian Association which is as follows: It is the purpose of the Vermont Christian Association to try to understand and follow the teachings of Christ, interpreting them to mean, "thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." I accept this purpose for my life.

The new pledge marks a decided change from the purpose of the Y. M. C. A. in the past. The old pledge to which many members objected read as follows: "The purpose of the Y. M. C. A. shall be: To lead students to faith in God Our Jesus Christ; to lead them into membership and service in the Christian Church; to promote their growth in Christian faith, especially through the study of the Bible and prayer. To these ends we desire ourselves to attempt each day to live as Christians to the best of our ability, to make effective in human society and to extend over the Kingdom of God throughout the world."

The Christian Association has not yet reorganized for work, but it is expected that the various committees will be appointed during the coming week.

As a result of the freshman eye at Worcester, University hockey, accepted by the undergraduate basketball team, the first year men must wear their hats until June.

SUBSCRIBERS!

There will be no issue of the Cynic until April 19, 1927, due to the Spring vacation.

FIRST SMOKER OF THE YEAR IS TO BE STAGED BY STUDENT SENATE

Mayor Beecher, Mickey McMahon, Prof. Butterfield, Relay Races, Band and Singing Listed As Attractions

Tomorrow evening the gymnasium will be the scene of the first smoker sponsored by Boulder, in 1927. The occasion for the assembly of all the men students, is the departure of the baseball squad for the Southern trip. It is expected that a large number of students will be present to see the team off.

A snappy, peppy program has been arranged by the Boulder men. The famous speakers at former smokers will be present to lend pep to the smoker. Dr. C. H. Beecher, mayor of Burlington and popular medic professor, will address the students in the opening speech of the smoker. Dr. Mickey McMahon who has the reputation of being one of the best cheerleaders graduated from Vermont is also scheduled to speak. Professor Arthur Day Butterfield who has a big rating in the University as well as among the engineers, will wind up the program of pep speeches.

During the course of the evening, a relay race will be run on the indoor track between the Civil Engineers and the All Stars. Some of the fastest track men in college are on the rival teams and a fast race should be run off. There are other features which have not yet been announced.

The R. O. T. C. Band is to be at the smoker in strong. Plenty of cheering and singing of Vermont favorites is to be led by Emery Mower, head cheerleader and his assistants. It is also expected that members of the baseball squad will be asked to speak before the assembly of Vermont men.

UNIVERSITY IS HOST TO GIRLS' CONFERENCE

Meeting Will be Held Under Auspices of the Y. W. C. A. in the Gymnasium and the Chapel—U. V. M. Alumnae Are Speakers

The annual conference of the Older Girls of Vermont will be held in Burlington April 8, 9 and 10. The headquarters will be at the University gymnasium.

A banquet will be served in the gymnasium at the first assembly. Miss Alice Graham of New York City is in charge of a firelight ceremony, called "Words of Blame" which will conclude Friday evening's program.

Miss Margaret Stanley of Waterbury, an alumna of U. V. M., will be chairman of the entire conference. She will preside at the mass meeting in the gymnasium Saturday morning, April 9. Miss Ruth Page Sweet, director of recreation, Boston, Y. W. C. A., will talk on "Building Character." Miss Anna M. Clark of the National Board of Y. W. C. A. of New York will lead services to be held in the Main chapel after the address. The rest of the morning will be given over to group conferences with representatives of various vocations addressing the girls.

Saturday afternoon Miss Esther Lloyd Jones of New York will speak, and Mrs. Katherine Forbes, Y. W. C. A. secretary of Ellis Island, will talk on "Lives and Songs of Other Lands." "What's the Use of Being a Girl" will be the subject discussed by Miss Pauline Goldy of Springfield, Mass., in the session Saturday evening.

A song service will be held in the Ira Allen chapel Sunday morning and also the girls will attend the services in the city churches.

Professor Howard Bennett will give an organ recital Sunday afternoon in the chapel. The Rev. Charles N. St. John of Bethany Church, Montpelier, will conduct the closing devotional service of the conference.

President Lowell of Harvard, deplores the commercialization of athletics. The purpose of athletics he said is to furnish exercise and diversion for the students and not to afford entertainment for the public and alumni.

Catamount's Lair

[illegible] a large number of [illegible] finds a large number [illegible] the lack of support [illegible] the baseball season. The past [illegible] was very much the same in regard to support of the team. Many got the impression that if the team [illegible] about 50 per cent of their games on that [illegible] trip that Vermont is [illegible] this season. Those non-supporters do not realize that Vermont is forced to go south without any outdoor practice whatsoever. This fact alone is enough to make the odds against the Green and Gold and one can not expect any team to win games without outdoor practice.

The home support the team gave [illegible] this practice and against teams that have done this for over a month at least. For this reason [illegible] should not criticise the [illegible] team, makes on the trip south.

When the team gets back everybody should be at the station to give them the glad hand. Many times this writer has been at the station to watch the team pull in and find not more than a dozen supporters on hand to welcome them home. One must realize that Vermont teams do not always return with the losses greater than the wins. This fact seems to make no difference as to the number that meet them at the station.

Of course it is hard to get up at five o'clock and walk way down to the station but do you realize that every member of the team has not been home during the recess and that they have had to work hard for their bit of vacation.

This statement may seem a bit previous but as the old saying goes its better to lock the barn before the horse is stolen than after. Let's give the team a rousing send off and also make them think that we are proud of them when they return.

Another thing that needs a little crabbing is the spirit shown at smokers held this year. Why not show a little pep when you come up to the gymnasium next Tuesday night. There is no use in sitting at smokers like a bunch of dummies.

Some of the freshmen seem to have the idea that the purpose of smokers is to see how many cigarettes they can get so they will have a supply on hand for a couple weeks. Many seem to have the idea that this fighting for smokes is showing college pep but to the older men it looks like a bunch of hogs trying to get their fill. Of course a smoker is no tea party but one can be a gentleman and enjoy himself at the same time. As one looks around the gym during the singing he will see plenty of freshmen who do not know the Vermont songs. They ought to get a sound thrashing for their indifference.

TEN STUDENTS TO GIVE MOVIES COLLEGIATE AIR

If college men really were like some of the so-called "collegians" now in the movies—thirty-year-olds in wide pants and coon coats, with a passion for racing cars and all-night parties—college days indeed would be happy days. And think of those glorious dips in sunken pools and then the four-course breakfasts served in true hotel style that we see now and then in some flashing, sparkling college picture.

If folks who never went to college got their ideas of college life from a few far-fetched college pictures their views would be subject to considerable correction. College men are he-men: wide pants are on the decline, and breakfasts even at fraternity houses consist of grapefruit, toast and coffee. In fact, the cash rate for city men eating at the house at most fraternities is twenty-five cents for breakfast, forty cents for lunch, and sixty cents for dinner. And sunken gardens and swimming pools are an exception.

With all the thousands of stars now behind the klieg lights few are college men. Some still of the directors are college men, so here's the opportunity for ten representative college men to star in the movies, to help make college pictures real college pictures. First National Pictures and a certain humor magazine will send an advance guard to more than thirty colleges in March and April to visit the dormitories and fraternities and eating places to interview as many men as possible and a few weeks later a camera man, a make-up man and competent judges of photographic personality and screen requirements will arrive to make the actual screen tests. These three men will be right from the lot at Burbank, and as soon as they have determined ten men the film will be sent direct to California for immediate inspection. By the first of June the judges will be ready to announce the names of the ten men who will make the trip to California.

UNIVERSITY BATTALION TO BE INSPECTED BY OFFICERS IN SPRING

Annual Inspection to be Held by Federal Officers—Distinguished Rating is Goal of Battalion

The Military Department at the University is busily preparing for the annual Federal Inspection of the R. O. T. C. Battalion which will be held on May 9 and 10. At that time two Officers from the War Department at Washington will be present, and all members of the Battalion will be excused from classes to participate in the maneuvers. Weather conditions were favorable last Friday morning, and the entire Battalion including the band did the first outdoor marching of the season.

The inspection will be similar to those held in past years, and will consist of a review, a formal inspection of all the companies and the band, and a demonstration of physical, and extended and close order drill. The Freshmen will be examined as a class in infantry drill, rifle marksmanship, military hygiene and first aid. The Sophomores will be examined in the automatic rifle, infantry drill, musketry, scouting and patrolling, map reading and guard duty. The Juniors will demonstrate their ability in machine gun drill, in the tactical employment of machine guns in offense and defense, infantry tactics, field fortification and military sketching, while the Seniors will be examined in military history, military law, rules of land warfare, administration, howitzer drill and tactical employment of infantry troops. The inspection will conclude with a tactical demonstration in which the entire battalion will participate. A problem in minor tactics will be solved and carried out.

This inspection is held annually by the United States government for the purpose of determining the leading R. O. T. C. units in the country. Since 1915 the University of Vermont has been awarded the distinguished rating eight times. This rating gives members of the battalion the right to wear blue stars on the sleeves of their uniforms. Last year the distinguished rating was lost by a narrow margin of points, but it is hoped that it will be regained this year.

The Wetness

YOUR FRIEND IS DEAD—(broke)

(With apologies to Shakespeare.)

Medics, Co-Eds, Aggies, lend me your coin.
Having spent my money, I now must borrow
The money men borrow they spend with joy,
And oft forget to return it, from whence it came;
So let it be with this. The noble ancients
Have told us that gold is evil!
If it is so, it surely is a grievous fault
And grievously are you not suffering from it.
Here by permission of the ancients (and the Faculty)
For the Faculty are honourable men—
As also, without doubt, were the ancients,—
Come I to speak of the good in money
When I have any, it is useful to my friends;
But the ancients say it is evil,
And the Faculty are truly honourable men.
Money has brought many students to U. V. M.
Whose taxes did not the class-treasury fill;
Did they shun evil (money)? Oh yes!
When the treasurer dunned they beat it,
Yet the Faculty say they are sports:
And these ancients are very honourable men.
You all have seen that on the Campus
I oft presented to the class treasurer my tax,
Which he did not refuse; well hardly
Yet the ancients say money is evil,
And, truly, I hate to spread evil.
I speak, however, not to prove what the ancients spoke,
But here I am to speak that which I do know.
Every one does love it much and with good cause
I believed it to be evil and parted with it.
Oh Folly! I am far from evil, therefore good, Q. E. D.,
But not a bit more happy, bear with me,
My heart is with my money, which I squandered.
And now must sponge until my next check comes.

TRYOUTS FOR PLAY TO BE PRESENTED JUNIOR WEEK ARE BEING HELD

Trials to be Held Today and Tomorrow—Play Presented to be Either "Bab" or "The Whole Town Is Talking"

Tryouts for the Junior Week play are being held in Room 3 North College this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. All candidates for parts in the play will be required to appear before a group of judges including Mrs. C. Ives Taggart, who will direct the play, Professor Frederick Tupper and Professor John T. Metcalf. The cast of the play will be announced on Wednesday it is expected.

Wm. and Buskin met with the Masque and Sandal society at the Kappa Alpha Theta House last Thursday evening. At that time the play committee reported that two plays had been picked for final consideration "The Whole Town is Talking" and "Bab" were the plays recommended. Both societies decided to have a committee appointed to select the play from the two recommended. The committee appointed consisted of O. F. Parody '27, chairman; Muriel F. Cleveland '28; Marion Lawrence '27; Eleanor Chapman '27; J. H. Blackall '27 and E. A. Lucchina '28. The committee will report on the play selected in time for the tryouts.

At the combined meeting of the two societies it was decided to hold a dance for the members on April 22. The committee on the dance headed by Miss Elizabeth Johnson reported on the arrangements that had been made and the report was accepted. Other business was discussed at the meeting, but no definite action was taken.

PHI MU DELTA WINS THE INTERFRATERNITY MEET

Independents, Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Follow Next in Order and Eleven Teams Place

On Saturday afternoon the Phi Mu Delts cleaned up the indoor Interfraternity Track Meet. The final standing of the three highest fraternities gave the winners the meet by a nine point margin. The only record to be broken was the pole vault which Whitten had little trouble in taking. He made 11 feet, 8⅞ inches on the final try and might have gone higher had it not been for the lack of time. Several close races were run off on the track in the Gym, especially the 440, which Williamson captured by a fifth of a second. The running of "Archie" Post was easily the feature on the track and he had little trouble in taking first in the 880 and the mile. The spirit of the meet was all that could be asked for with every possible man from each fraternity out for at least one event. If this keeps up Coach Catty should have little trouble in running off with the state meet again this year for he will have plenty of good material to work with.

Simpson and Post were high point men of the meet with ten points each. Both of these men took first places in their respective events.

Summary:

Shot Put—First, Simpson, Phi Mu Delta; second, Knapp, Sigma Delta; third, Manning, Phi Mu Delta; fourth, Clain, Phi Mu Delta. Distance 39, 6⅜.

60-yard Dash—First, Costine, Phi Delta Theta; second, Bray, Sigma Nu; third, Moodie, Phi Mu Delta; fourth, Douglas, Kappa Sigma. Time 3⅗.

FRESHMAN GIRLS WIN ANNUAL INDOOR MEET FROM THEIR SUPERIORS

Folk-Dancing One of the Features of the Evening—Seniors Defeat Sophomores and Win Basketball Cup

Freshman co-eds won the Womens' annual Indoor Meet of the underclass held in the gymnasium Friday evening. The meet opened with a posture competition. The Freshmen, making an attractive picture with their bright red ties on white middies, came on the floor first and marched in single file before the members of the Sweater Club, who acted as judges. The Sophomores followed, distinguished from the Freshmen by their black ties. The judges unanimously awarded the decision in this contest to the girls of 1929.

The second feature of the evening's program was a demonstration dance, the Irish Tilt, by the second year teacher-training students.

The next event consisted of marching tactics by the girls of both classes. In this contest, Sophomores were victorious.

Apparatus was well executed. The Freshman group performed the straddle vault, side vault, rope climbing and high jump. The Sophomore girls performed the wolf vault, saddle vault, rear vault, somersault, courage vault, traveling rings and rope climbing.

Folk dancing was the fifth feature of the evening. The Freshmen gave a skillful interpretation of "Topsy." Their English dance was also well received. The Sophomores danced the "Arkansas Traveler" and presented an extra-special "Newsboy's Clog."

"After due deliberation" of the judges, Arlene Cushing and Marion Parker announced the decision in favor of the Freshmen. Evelyn Pierce accepted the silver Loving Cup in behalf of her class. Elzada Fiske accepted the Consolation Cup (Aluminum) for the Sophomores. Much credit is due Dorothy Cottrell '28 for her skillful handling of the program as chairman of the evening.

The Seniors defeated the Sophomores 23-3 in the basketball game by the score of 23-3, and thus won the basketball cup for the fourth consecutive year. The line-up was as follows:

Seniors		Sophomores
McGlaughlin, f.	f.	Upton
Tyler, f.	f.	Zielonko
Randell, c.	c.	Middleton
Teachout, s. c.	s. c.	Corbin
Thorne, g.	g.	Lanou
Cushing, g.	g.	Everest
	f.	Howley

Jeannette Hays '28, president of W. A. A. awarded the trophy to the Senior team at the close of the game. Between the halves of the game, Naomi Thorne '27, presented Miss Cummings with a white sweater, with an Old English "V" similar to those worn by the Sweater Club, in appreciation of her untiring work for the women of the University of Vermont.

COMBINED GLEE CLUBS TO PRODUCE DIDO AND AENEAS THIS SPRING

Professor Bennett, Director of Glee Clubs, Will Stage First Opera Attempted At This University

For the first time in the history of the Glee Club and due to the efforts of the Music Department the clubs will produce an opera with student talent. The name of the opera is Dido and Aeneas. Parts have been assigned for some of the roles, but most of the positions are still open. The following parts were given out as a result of the tryouts held last Thursday evening: Dido, Miss Hazel Ladd '30 of Richmond Hill, New York; Miss Evelyn Bower '27 of Waterloo New York is the alternate for this part and Belinda Marion Miller '29 of Wallingford Vermont.

An alternate for Belinda will also be needed. The alternate for Dido sings the Attendants solo on page 41, the alternate for Belinda sings the second Sorceress' solo on page 54 the alternate for Aeneas sings the first Sailors solo on page 49 transposed a 4th lower into the key of F. These solos can if necessary be omitted in case the alternate sings a principal role. All alternates will sing in the chorus.

All candidates for the rôle of Aeneas First Sorceress, First Witch, and Spirit will try out Wednesday, March 30 at 4 P. M. in the Music Building. The rôles of Aeneas and the First Sorceress are open to both men and women. The following are the requirements for tryouts and a description of the rôles.

Candidates for Aeneas will sing the recitative, pages 46-47 and the duet with Dido, pages 59-61, with action. At least one of these numbers should be memorized. Range: baritone or second soprano D to F, or, transposed for bass or alto, B to D. The final duet should be sung in the original key, but D may be substituted for F at the word "commands" on page 60.

Candidates for the First Sorceress will sing the solo on page 26 with action, from memory. Range: bari tone or second soprano C to F.

Candidates for the First and Second Witches will sing their parts in the duet, pages 32-33, with action, from memory. Range First Witch, soprano D to G; Second Witch soprano D to F.

There will be a full rehearsal for both men and women in the chorus Tuesday evening March 29 at 7 P. M.

All copies of the score not being used should be returned immediately. Candidates are requested to share their copies with other candidates as far as possible.

STRINGENT RULES MADE BY UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

The University Council announces that the Easter recess begins Friday, April 1 at 7:20 A. M. and closes Wednesday April 13 at 8 A. M. Students desiring excuse for absence before or after these dates should note carefully the following statements.

Applications must be made in writing, must indicate the mail address at the applicant, must set forth reasons in full, and must be filed with the dean of the college in which the student is enrolled (men) or with the Dean of Women (women) not later than Monday March 28 at noon. The responsibility lies with the student in this matter. Belated applications will not be considered.

Excuses will be granted to men by vote of the Council, and to women in the discretion of the Dean of Women. No excuse for extension of time will be granted except for the most important reasons. Students are asked to note this fact, and not waste their own time or that of the Council as has been so commonly done in the past, by citing trivial reasons.

Students are asked to carefully note the rules concerning absences from the University exercises immediately preceding or following recesses. Regulation II, 5. This section provides a penalty of probation for unexcused absences at the times indicated.

CAPTAIN RATTAN TALKS ON CHINESE SITUATION

A meeting of the International Club will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock in Room 4 North College. Captain W. V. Rattan of the R. O. T. C. department will speak on the question of "Extra-territoriality in China." Captain Rattan is in a position to speak first hand information on this subject since he recently came to Vermont from detail work in the Far East. His talk will occupy about 30 minutes after which there will be an open forum. The Program Committee requests that all members of the club read up on the Chinese situation before the meeting in order to make it the most educational and successful one we've had the last meeting before the Easter recess and it is hoped that every member of the club will be in attendance.

The International Club has been formed by the members of the political science department to foster interest in world affairs. The organization receives bulletins from the Carnegie Foundation. The president is O. F. Parody '27 of Peacehill, N. Y. The club has a membership of over 20 students, who take political science courses.

MERRILL IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

University Y. M. C. A. Adopts New Pledge, Which Is Radically Different From the Former Purpose of the Society

Dilbert J. Merrill '28 of Wallingford was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. at Vermont as a result of the balloting which took place last week. Merrill is a student in the College of Agriculture. He has been interested in the work of the Association, being a member of several committees, for the past two years. Besides his work in the Y. M. C. A. he is a member of Gold Key, Aggie Club, and is the art editor of the 1928 Ariel. Merrill belongs to the Sigma Alpha Chi fraternity.

Other officers elected were vice-president, A. G. Mackay '29 of Peacham, treasurer, A. E. Birchard of Springfield, Mass.; secretary, C. E. Irons of Middlebury; editor of the Handbook, H. H. Fogg '28 of Brattleboro; manager of the Handbook, L. A. Sanders '29 of Burlington. C. E. Harwood '29 of Dorset has been appointed assistant editor of the Handbook by the editor-in-chief.

A new pledge has been adopted by the Christian Association which is as follows: It is the purpose of the Vermont Christian Association to try to understand and follow the teachings of Christ, interpreting them to mean "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart with all thy soul and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." I accept this purpose for my life.

The new pledge marks a decided change from the purpose of the Y. M. C. A. in the past. The old pledge to which many members objected read as follows: "The purpose of the Y. M. C. A. shall be: To lead students to faith in God thru Jesus Christ. To lead them into membership and service in the Christian Church. To promote their growth in Christian faith, especially through the study of the Bible and prayer. To influence them to devote themselves in united effort with all Christians to making the will of Christ effective in human society and to extending the Kingdom of God throughout the world."

The Christian Association has not yet reorganized for work, but it is expected that the various committees will be appointed during the coming week.

As a result of the freshman five at Wesleyan University being swamped by the sophomore basketball team the first year men must wear their hats until June.

FIRST SMOKER OF THE YEAR IS TO BE STAGED BY STUDENT SENATE

Mayor Boecher, Mickey McMahon, Prof. Butterfield, Relay Races, Band and Singing Listed As Attractions

Tomorrow evening the gymnasium will be the scene of the first smoker sponsored by Boulder in 1927. The occasion for the assembly of all the men students is the departure of the baseball squad for the Southern trip. It is expected that a large number of students will be present to see the team off.

A snappy, peppy program has been arranged by the Boulder men. The favorite speakers at former smokers will be present to lend pep to the occasion. Dr. C. H. Boecher, mayor of Burlington and popular music professor, will address the students in the opening speech of the smoker. Dr. "Mickey" McMahon, who has the reputation of being one of the best cheerleaders graduated from Vermont is also scheduled to speak. Professor Arthur Ray Butterfield, who has a big future in the University as well as among the engineers, will wind up the procession of pep speeches.

During the course of the evening, a relay race will be run on the indoor track between the Civil Engineers and the All States. Some of the fastest track men in college are on the rival teams and a fast race should be run off. There are other features which have not yet been announced.

The R. O. T. C. Band is to be at the smoker in strong. Plenty of cheering and singing of Vermont favorites is to be led by Emory Mower, head cheerleader, and his assistants. It is also expected that members of the baseball squad will be asked to speak before the assembly of Vermont men.

UNIVERSITY IS HOST TO GIRLS' CONFERENCE

Meeting Will be Held Under Auspices of the Y. W. C. A. in the Gymnasium and the Chapel—U. V. M. Alumnae Are Speakers

The annual conference of the Older Girls of Vermont will be held in Burlington April 8, 9 and 10. The headquarters will be at the University gymnasium.

A banquet will be served in the gymnasium at the first assembly. Miss Addie Graham of New York City is in charge of a firelight ceremony, called "Words of Flame," which will conclude Friday evening's program.

Miss Margaret Stanley of Waterbury as secretary of the V. W. C. A. will be chairman of the entire conference. She will preside at the mass meeting in the gymnasium Saturday morning, April 9. Miss Ruth Page Sweet, director of recreation, Boston, Y. W. C. A., will talk on "Building Ourselves." Miss Anna M. Clark of the National Board of Y. W. C. A. of New York will lead services to be held in the Ira Allen chapel after the address. The rest of the morning will be given over to group conferences with representatives of various vocations addressing the girls.

Saturday afternoon, Miss Esther Lloyd Jones of New York will speak; and Mrs. Kopkorova Foxlee, Y. W. C. A. worker at Ellis Island, will talk on "Lives and Songs of Other Lands."

"What's the Use of Being a Girl" will be the subject discussed by Miss Louise Avery of Springfield, Mass., in the session Saturday evening.

A song service will be held in the Ira Allen chapel Sunday morning and later the girls will attend the services in the city churches.

Professor Howard Bennett will give an organ recital Sunday afternoon in the chapel. The Rev. Charles N. St. John of Bethany Church, Montpelier, will conduct the closing devotional service of the conference.

President Lowell of Harvard, deplores the commercialization of athletics. The purpose of athletics, he said is to furnish exercise and diversion for the students and not to afford entertainment for the public and alumni.

[illegible] March 29, 1927 No. 43

With this the last issue of the CYNIC before the Easter recess, we wish all students and members of the Faculty joyous vacation. When we return a period of verification of flying time will [illegible] a reality, the scholastic routine will be interrupted by such things as Registration Day, Military Inspection, Memorial Day, and the much anticipated Junior and Senior Weeks, and [illegible] Summer will be here. We will need a lot of the proverbial pep to carry us through the high tension that [illegible] to accompany these coming weeks of spring, and here is hoping that our vacation will send us back to school in condition both mentally and physically to make a good finish.

For some time now students at Vermont have been experiencing a strange feeling of isolation due to the road situation and now that many of us would like to make use of these roads to get home for vacation, the feeling is much greater. The newspapers inform us that roads in the direction of Manchester are practically impossible, and we keep finding people who have come through. It is certain that a [illegible] average speed will be maintained throughout this State for a few days more. Rain during the first of this week would mean that will prevent collegiate Fords from taking a homeward trip and sunshine means hardened ruts and roads that will be passable but horrible none the less.

A Smoker, like any purely emotional affair, is one of those things that is either a big success or a flat failure and we want to make sure that the one next Wednesday is of the former type. The committee has more than fulfilled its duty and has supplied a program that should satisfy everyone a program containing the snappiest speakers available and the new attraction of a relay race between two fast teams, the Engineers fighting to the blood for the honor of their beloved college. So now it remains for us to be on hand with unlimited enthusiasm and at least a little of that college spirit that we manage so successfully to conceal a good deal of the time. After our successful basketball season we naturally hope for a good showing in baseball, so now that the team is about to start its season's career let's do our bit by giving them a good send off.

It is with much gratification that we view the results of our debating team this year. This type of intellectual combat has long been popular at other institutions, but while carried on to a small degree has never met with any great success at Vermont. This season's work has attracted much attention to the team, stimulated considerable interest, and put debating on a new basis in the University. Vermont has been very favorably advertised in other college circles and we as Vermonters have just one more thing of which to be proud.

We rejoice with our Medic brothers in the small fortune that they are to receive through appropriations of the State legislature, and only wish that we of the Academic side could scare the statesmen into giving us a little financial aid. Indeed, some of us are thinking of applying on the grounds that we shall be socially disqualified unless new dormitories are provided.

Along with the Medic appropriation we notice that special financial induce-[illegible] are being made to keep the young doctors in this State after graduation. The [illegible] has doubtless for this State suffers as do all rural districts from a scarcity of medical men, and a financial bait of this kind is sure to help relieve the situation.

CHARITY

Forty-six women of the University have "pledged themselves to solicit funds today in behalf of the poor unhappy children of the state. The remaining five hundred and twenty, rushed to death with exams and other things," stand by, astounded. It is admirable that these forty-six girls, as busy, probably busier, than the rest, have wedged into a full program just one little thing more. The realization that they may help to bring a grin, a ray of gladness to a sad, little face is recompense enough, they say.

Their attitude is wholly in accordance with all traditions enshrined about womanhood in Vermont, the state and university. Probably there are weighty, unselfish reasons why the others have not pledged to assist in guarding young Vermont. Heart and head many be weary; every task, a heavy burden: the amount of work which must be done, stupendous. Still one has no real excuse.

Above the humdrum whir, there echoes a cry, hushed and very beautiful, from the dim past, the mystic years: "For the greatest of these is charity." The Women's Editor.

CATAMOUNT DEBATERS TO MEET ST. MICHAEL'S

The last debate of the season, between St. Michael's College and the University will take place in the Old Mill Chapel tomorrow night at eight o'clock. As there is considerable rivalry between the two colleges in this event, the coach hopes that a large number of Vermont supporters will be there to encourage the team. St. Michael's has won the cup for several years in succession, which is all the more reason why Vermont wants to win this year. Freshmen who wish to attend the debate will be excused from attending the smoker, but they must be present at one of the two events.

The debating team will be composed of John Leavens '28, Herrick Macomber '30, and Franklin Sears '30, and will uphold the affirmative of the War Debt question. Dean Gifford will act as chairman.

The Battalion will drill at 7:30 on Thursday morning, March 31. Uniforms must be worn.

Me and the joy-friend... Prince Albert

WHEN my father was in college, "Put that in your pipe and smoke it!" was considered snappy conversation. I'm ready to take this old line literally when the talk centers around Prince Albert. Because P. A. makes two of what I like in a pipe.

All wise-cracking aside, P. A. is the money when it comes to deep-down satisfaction in a smoke. It's got everything! Cool as the trail of the ice-man across the kitchen. Sweet as vacation. Fragrant as a pine forest.

Think up your own similes. You'll write them all in the column headed "Superlative Degree" when you learn the joys of a jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert. If you don't know this grand old smoke, come around to my room and I'll give you a load.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

To the man who isn't satisfied with first place

THE man who wins a race can't afford to get complacent over it. His next step is to improve on his own running time.

The electrical communication industry in America ranks first in the world, with exceptional facilities for research and constructive work.

But the men in this industry are never satisfied to let it go at that. No process, no matter how satisfactory, by whom devised or how well bulwarked by age, is here immune from challenge.

This dynamic state of mind must appeal mightily to men who are pioneers at heart.

Southern Trip a Success For Green and Gold Nine

Four Games Won Out of Seven Played, Including Victories Over West Point and Princeton

TEAM PROMISES VERY SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Catamount baseball team returned last week from the southern trip which extended over a period of two weeks. Seven games of the ten scheduled were played and the team established a wonderful record, for during part of the season with four games won and three games lost. Temple University cancelled its game on account of rain and the Quantico games cancelled the two games for the same reason, so that the team was unable to display its wares until April 11.

The Navy game on that date was played on a soggy field which hampered the northerners who had had no practice in the open air. With such a disadvantage, however, the Catamounts were able to hold the clever Navy nine to a 3 to 1 win. It was a real pitching pitchers' duel from the Vermonters' point of view since they went into the lead in the second inning by scoring a lone run only to see the Midshipmen push three tallies across the plate in the fifth inning with the aid of misplays by the green and gold infield and a scratch single. Fogg made his début as captain for Vermont and allowed only three singles, his O'Neal was the middies' star with two hits in three times at bat, while Conway, Vermont, hit a two-bagger, started a double play, and accepted eight chances in the field without a flaw.

The next day the squad journeyed to Newark for a game with the University of Delaware. Talcott pitched this game in an invincible manner and held Delaware scoreless. The final count was 4 to 0 and gave Vermont the first win of the season.

The Catamounts won their second successive game when they met the Drexel Institute team at Philadelphia, April 8. The score was 13 to 8 and came as a decided shock to the boys from the Institute who had eight of last year's letter men in the lineup. This game was featured by the hard hitting of both teams. Vermont smashed out 18 hits for 28 bases while Drexel hit nine of the offerings of Shoppe, Roarke, and Moriarty for a total of 12 bases. Every man on the Vermont team connected for a safety while six men chalked up at least two hits. Vermont took a five run lead in the second inning but lost it when Shoppe drove the ball out of the park with three men on bases, running the Drexel total to eight. Vermont came back in the fifth and regained the lead. With the score standing 10 to 8 the Vermonters were not satisfied, so, with the aid of a four-base blow by Bogswell in the ninth the game was clinched. Roarke and Conway collected three hits each.

The Princeton nine was shut out by the Catamounts on University Field, Princeton, N. J., April 9, 8 to 0. Moriarty went the entire distance for the V. M. and allowed the Tiger batsmen only three bingles. He gave a wonderful exhibition of pitching and the Princetonians didn't have an iota of a chance to score a run. Vermont started in the second round when Fogg's long double to center field scored two runs. Again in the seventh Vermont scored when Roarke sent a liner past third base.

Fordham University buried the Green and Gold nine, 20 to 7, under a shower of hits in a weird game at New York, April 11. Coach Dresser used three pitchers—Fogg, Shoppe, and Roarke—in a vain attempt to stem the bombardment of Fordham batters, but nothing would baffle them. The Maroon nine hit everything in sight and collected 18 hits while the losers had to be content with eight. On top of that the Vermont team turned in six errors. In the eighth and ninth innings the green and gold team started to rally, getting three of the eight hits in these innings but the nineteen runs by which the Fordhamites led were far too much to overcome.

In an overtime game at New York the following afternoon New York University defeated Vermont 5 to 3. Adams, star center-fielder for N. Y. U. batted a long homer over the right-field fence and trotted around the diamond behind Madison, giving the

FRATERNITY AVERAGES

The Registrar has recently compiled averages for the mid semester. Among the things ascertained is that the average of Fraternity members in the College as a whole shows the average obtained by the non-fraternity men. Among the fraternities the five highest had averages which differed by less than one point apiece. The difference of the averages of the highest fraternity and the lowest is 11 points. Counting an F as 0 and an A as 10 the average of the entire upper three classes is slightly above seventy-two per cent.

Coming Junior Prom Will Be Held In New Burlington High Gym

Annual Social Event to Be Held off Vermont Campus for First Time in Years—New Building Adapted for the Prom

For the first time in several years the Junior Prom is to be held at a spot off the Vermont campus. The gymnasium has been the scene of the Prom for a long period of time but the committee in charge considers that the gymnasium floor is not suitable for dancing and consequently it has secured the Burlington High School Gymnasium for the event.

The committee has spent considerable time in securing the high school gymnasium. Before that place was definitely decided upon as the most appropriate hall in town for the event all possibilities. After the gymnasium was chosen it was necessary to secure the permission of the Superintendent and the School Board of the City of Burlington. There is a rule that the school should not rent the gymnasium under any circumstances. The rule was waived by the School Board. Later the committee brought the matter of holding the Junior Prom at the gymnasium before President Bailey and the University Senate. The administrations consent was secured without much trouble.

While the Burlington gymnasium appears to be smaller than the Vermont gymnasium, the dimensions of the two buildings are slightly different. The floor of the high school hall is 80 by 80 feet, or 10 feet shorter than the Vermont gymnasium. Taking into consideration that there are parts of the Vermont floor that are not used for dancing, the Burlington hall is approximately as large as the gymnasium. The committee assures the students that the floor of the hall will be especially waxed for the Junior Prom and that satisfaction will be guaranteed.

The Burlington gymnasium also has facilities which make it fully as valuable as the Vermont court for dances. There are convenient ladies' and gentlemen's rooms. There is a long hall which affords convenient space for checking. A large cafeteria and kitchen will be used in the serving of refreshments.

While the Burlington gymnasium is not primarily a ball room, the Junior Prom committee has spent considerable time in planning for decorations. Ideas have been secured from the Dennison Company, a nationally-known firm. The present plans call for a low over hanging trellis network of decorations so that anyone who has never been inside the building will not notice that he is in a gymnasium.

Members of Yale Student Council must pledge that they are willing to enforce the honor system by reporting all violations before putting their names on the ballot. Laxity of enforcement caused the failure of the honor system experiment last year.

Seniors in four colleges of the University of Minnesota, who have maintained an average of C in their scholastic work, are to be exempt from final examinations, it was announced recently.

Co-eds at the University of Idaho have adopted the "Dutch Treat" idea. Owing to an apparent lack of funds among the men students, the co-eds are buying their own tickets, and their companions do likewise.

Speaking of co-eds, a ton of candy a week is required to fill the demands of the co-eds of the University of California.

In an attempt to cut down on the cost of living, eighteen men at Cornell have organized a private boarding club. By doing their own cooking members find they are able to live on $2.50 a week.

With the pre-examination results recently passed at Harvard, the various departments of the University may at their own discretion, discontinue lectures and other classroom exercises during the two and a half weeks between the end of the Christmas recess and the midyear examinations, and the three and a half weeks preceding the final examinations. In the case of elementary courses including all courses open to freshmen, this recess will not apply.

A comprehensive study of conditions at the University of California over a considerable period of time has revealed that of 1954 men who went for a long outside-school hours 13.4 are making better than average grades less than 10 per cent of self-supporting students were dismissed for defi[cient] scholarship, while 12 per cent of those who did not work were dropped.

The survey developed further that college athletes got better grades generally than those not engaged in athletics.

Only six per cent of the men engaged in campus activities were deficient in their studies, while double that percentage who took no active part in functions outside actual studies were "ousted" for poor grades.

The Johns Hopkins News Letter of recent date says—"Politics on the campus seems very nearly a thing of the past. The credit belongs to the senior class. They have accomplished a thing which before seemed practically impossible."

VERMONT MEN ENROLL FOR SUMMER MILITARY

The University Military Department, under the direction of Colonel George J. Holden, is encouraging college and school students as well as other eligible young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years to enlist for the citizens' military training camps, to be held from July 1 to 30. Young men signing up for summer training will be sent either to Fort Ethan Allen or Camp Devens, Mass. After a man has a record of four years in the camp, he is eligible to take the examination for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

A number of University students have already designated their intention of attending the camps in this district. Following are those who have been enlisted so far by the military department: Charles A. Steele of Gloucester, Mass.; Frederick J. Reed of Burlington; Robert H. Blodgett, of St. Johnsbury; William Olmstead of Burnside, Conn.; Philip S. Graceu of Plattsburgh, N. Y. and James E. Emmons of Bridgeport, Conn.

According to the military department, this training offers young men many advantages for development along educational lines and also for development in athletics. "Such an experience is very beneficial to any young man," says Colonel Holden. All expenses are paid those who enlist the 30-day period, but no salary is allowed by the government.

VERMONT DEBATERS WIN MAJORITY OF DECISIONS

Catamounts Gain Six Out of Seven Decisions in One of the Most Successful Seasons

Six victories and one defeat is the record set up by the Vermont debating teams this year, the most successful season that the University has had for a long period. Lawton Moore, of the Public Speaking Department, coach of debating, has given time and energy to the work, and much credit is due him for the unprecedented success in the forensic field.

The question was, "Resolved, that the United States should cancel the loans made to her associates in the World War." The team that took part in the first six debates went through undefeated. This team, consisting of Lawrence A. Hince '28 of Lawrence, Mass.; Emory C. Mower '27 of Burlington; and Carl H. Wedell '27 of Lynn, Mass., demonstrated its real ability and thorough knowledge of the subject by upholding either side of the proposition with ease. On every occasion, the speakers at least equaled their opponents in logic, and excelled them in delivery. They were able to hold the interest of the audience by the pleasing presentation of their arguments. Following the Middlebury debate, the first and second prizes given by Edward Winship Lawrence of Rutland for excellence in debating were awarded H. C. Mower and L. A. Hince, respectively. The former has served the team as manager this year.

The lone defeat came at the hands of St. Michael's college. The debate was held in the Old Mill Chapel Wednesday evening, March 30. The members of the visiting team, well acquainted with the question, presented their arguments in a forceful manner. The speakers for Vermont were Irwin M. Lawrence '28 of Maplewood, N. J.; Herrick M. Macomber '30 of Burlington, and Franklin A. Sears '30 of Brattleboro.

The summary of the season is as follows:

February 24, Vermont, Negative, 3, Tufts, 0 at Burlington; March 3, Vermont, Negative, 3, M. A. C., 0 at Burlington; March 9, Vermont, Affirmative, 3, St. Lawrence, 0 at Burlington; March 16, Vermont, Affirmative, 3, M. I. T., 1, at Boston; March 18, Vermont, Affirmative, 3, Middlebury, 0, at Middlebury; March 23, Vermont, Negative, 2, Waynesburg, 1, at Burlington; March 30, St. Michael's, Negative, 2, Vermont, 1, at Burlington.

Plans for next year are now under consideration. It is hoped that the success of this season may encourage a large number of candidates to come out, and may bring students and townspeople in greater numbers to the debates. Among the propositions that may be used are the question of cancellation of the war debts, and the abolition of the jury system.

LEON DEAN TO DELIVER THE PRINCIPAL ADDRESS AT NEXT FOUNDER'S DAY

Exercises to be Held on Saturday, April 30—Will Include Parade by R. O. T. C. Battalion and Band

Leon W. Dean, instructor in English, has been designated to deliver the main address on Founder's Day. His speech will be on "The Man Behind." Mr. Dean is a Vermont graduate in the class of 1915. While in college he was interested in several activities, especially in literary and forensic lines. For the past few years he has been an instructor in English, giving courses in short-story writing, dramatic composition, and extemporaneous speaking. Mr. Dean also writes short stories, his works appearing in several magazines.

Founder's Day exercises will be held on Saturday, April 30 this year, due to the fact that May first, the usual date for the exercises, comes on Sunday. Arrangements have been made for a parade by the University battalion on the back campus. The next feature will be the exercises around the U. V. M. Boulder, after which the members of the University will gather in the Ira Allen Chapel to listen to the addresses. Besides the main speech by Mr. Dean there will be addresses by Emory Mower for the Senior class and Evo Lucchina for the Junior class.

VERMONT MEN ENROLL FOR SUMMER MILITARY

The University Military Department, under the direction of Colonel George J. Holden, is encouraging college and school students as well as other eligible young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years to enlist for the citizens' military training camps, to be held from July 1 to 30. Young men signing up for summer training will be sent either to Fort Ethan Allen or Camp Devens Mass. After a man has a record of four years in the camp, he is eligible to take the examination for a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps.

A number of University students have already designated their intention of attending the camps in the district. Following are those who have been enlisted so far by the military department: Charles A. Steele of Gloucester, Mass.; Frederick J. Reed, of Burlington; Robert H. Blodgett, of St. Johnsbury; William Olmstead of Burnside, Conn.; Philip S. Graceu of Plattsburgh, N. Y. and James E. Emmons of Bridgeport, Conn.

According to the military department this training offers young men many advantages for development along educational lines and also for development in athletics. Such an experience is very beneficial to any young man, says Colonel Holden. All expenses are paid those who enlist the 30-day period, but no salary is allowed by the government.

Coming Junior Prom Will Be Held In New Burlington High Gym

Annual Social Event to Be Held off Vermont Campus for First Time in Years—New Building Adapted for the Prom

Prom for a long period of time but ... the committee to choose considered ... that the gymnasium floor is not suitable for dancing, and consequently it ... accepted the Burlington High ... After the gymnasium ... was chosen it was necessary to ... secure the permission of the Superintendent and the School Board of the ... City of Burlington. There is a rule ... that the school should not rent the ... gymnasium under any circumstances. ... The rule was waived by the School ... Board. Later the committee brought ... the matter of holding the Junior ... Prom at the gymnasium before President Bailey and the University faculty. The administration's consent was ... secured without much trouble.

While the Burlington gymnasium ... appears to be smaller than the Vermont gymnasium, the dimensions of ... the two buildings are slightly different. The floor of the high school ... hall is 80 by 40 feet, or 10 feet shorter ... than the Vermont gymnasium. Taking into consideration that there are ... parts of the Vermont floor that are ... not used for dancing the Burlington ... hall is approximately as large as the ... gymnasium. The committee assures ... the students that the floor of the hall ... will be especially waxed for the ... Junior Prom and that satisfaction ... will be guaranteed.

The Burlington gymnasium also has ... features which make it fully as valuable as the Vermont court for ... dances. There are convenient ladies' ... and gentlemen's rooms. There is a ... long hall which affords convenient ... space for checking. A large cafeteria ... and kitchen will be used in the serving of refreshments.

While the Burlington gymnasium ... will not permit a ball room the ... Junior Prom committee has spent ... considerable time in planning for decorations. Ideas have been secured ... from the Decorcon Company, a nationally known firm. The present plans ... call for a less ... hanging trellis net ... work of decorations so that anyone ... who has never been inside the building will not notice that he is in a ... gymnasium.

VERMONT DEBATERS WIN MAJORITY OF DECISIONS

Catamounts Gain Six Out of Seven Decisions in One of the Most Successful Seasons

Six victories and one defeat is the record set up by the Vermont debating teams this year, the most successful season that the University has had for a long period. Lawton Moore, of the Public Speaking Department, coach of debating, has given time and energy to the work, and much credit is due him for the unprecedented success in the forensic field.

The question was, "Resolved, that the United States should cancel the loans made to her associates in the World War." The team that took part in the first six debates went through undefeated. This team, consisting of Lawrence A. Hince '28 of Lawrence, Mass., Emory C. Mower '27 of Burlington, and Carl H. Wedell '27 of Lynn, Mass., demonstrated its real ability and thorough knowledge of the subject by upholding either side of the proposition with ease. On every occasion the speakers at least equaled their opponents in logic and excelled them in delivery. They were able to hold the interest of the audience by the pleasing presentation of their arguments. Following the Middlebury debate, the first and second prizes given by Edward Winslop Lawrence of Rutland for excellence in debating were awarded E. C. Mower and L. A. Hince respectively. The former has served the team as manager this year.

The lone defeat came at the hands of St. Michael's college. The debate was held in the Old Mill Chapel Wednesday evening, March 30. The members of the visiting team, well acquainted with the question, presented their arguments in a forceful manner. The speakers for Vermont were John M. Lincoln '28 of Maplewood, N. J., Herrick M. Macomber '30 of Burlington, and Frankton A. Scates '30 of Brattleboro.

The schedule of the season is as follows:

February 24 Vermont Negative 2 Tufts 0 at Burlington; March 1 Vermont Negative 2 M. A. C. 1 at Boston; March 9 Vermont Affirmative 2 Middlebury 0, Middlebury 2 at Middlebury; March 25 Vermont Negative 2 Washington 1 at Burlington; March 30, St. Michael's Negative 2 Vermont 1 at Burlington.

Plans for next year are now under consideration. It is hoped that the success of this season will encourage a large number of candidates to come out and with many letter students and ... back in greater numbers to ... the squad. Among the propositions that may be used are the question of ... of the press and stage and the abolition of the jury system.

FRATERNITY AVERAGES

The Registrar has recently computed averages for the last semester. Among the results announced is that the average of fraternity members in the College as shown above. The average attained by the non-fraternity men. Among the fraternities the five ranking lowest had averages which differed by less than one point apiece. The difference of the averages of the highest ranking fraternity and the lowest is 11 points. Counting an A as 0 and an A at 40 the average of the entire upper three classes is slightly above seventy-two per cent.

With the pre-examination respite, recently passed at Harvard, the various departments of the University may at their own discretion, discontinue lectures and other classroom exercises during the two and a half weeks between the end of the Christmas recess and the midyear examinations, and the three and a half weeks preceding the final examinations. In the case of elementary courses including all courses open to freshmen, this recess will not apply.

A comprehensive study of conditions at the University of California over a considerable period of time has revealed that of 1954 men who work for a living outside school hours, 1,418 are making better than average grades. Less than 10 per cent. of self-supporting students were dismissed for deficient scholarship, while 12 per cent of those who did not work were dropped.

The survey developed further that college athletes got better grades generally, than those not engaged in athletics.

Only six per cent of the men engaged in campus activities were deficient in their studies, while double that percentage who took no active part in functions outside actual studies were "ousted" for poor grades.

The Johns Hopkins News Letter of recent date says:—"Politics on the campus seems very nearly a thing of the past. The credit belongs to the senior class. They have accomplished a thing which before seemed practically impossible."

VERMONT MEN ENROLL FOR SUMMER MILITARY

The University Military Department, under the direction of Colonel George J. Holden, is encouraging college and school students as well as other eligible young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years to enlist for the citizens' military training camps, to be held from July 1 to 30. Young men signing up for summer training will be sent either to Fort Ethan Allen or Camp Devens, Mass. After a man has a record of four years in the camp, he is eligible to take the examination for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

A number of University students have already designated their intention of attending the camps in this district. Following are those who have been enlisted so far by the military department: Charles A. Steele of Gloucester, Mass.; Frederick J. Reed of Burlington; Robert H. Blodgett, of St. Johnsbury; William Olmstead of Burnside, Conn.; Philip S. Graceu of Plattsburgh, N. Y., and James E. Emmons of Bridgeport, Conn.

According to the military department, this training offers young men many advantages for development along educational lines and also for development in athletics. "Such an experience is very beneficial to any young man," says Colonel Holden. All expenses are paid those who enlist the 30-day period, but no salary is allowed by the government.

Coming Junior Prom Will Be Held In New Burlington High Gym

Annual Social Event to Be Held off Vermont Campus for First Time in Years—New Building Adapted for the Prom

For the first time in several years the Junior Prom is to be held at a hall off the Vermont campus. The postponement has been the cause of the Prom for a long period of time, but the committee in charge considers that the gymnasium floor is not suitable for dancing and consequently it has secured the Burlington High School gymnasium for the event.

The committee has spent considerable time in securing the high school gymnasium. Before that place was definitely decided upon as the most appropriate hall in town for the event, several possibilities. After the gymnasium was chosen it was necessary to secure the permission of the Superintendent and the School Board of the City of Burlington. There is a rule that the school should not rent the gymnasium under any circumstances. The rule was waived by the School Board. Later the committee brought the matter of holding the Junior Prom at the gymnasium before President Bailey and the University Senate. The administration's consent was secured without much trouble.

While the Burlington gymnasium appears to be smaller than the Vermont gymnasium the dimensions of the two buildings are slightly different. The floor of the high school hall is 90 by 40 feet or 10 feet shorter than the Vermont gymnasium. Taking into consideration that there are parts of the Vermont floor that are not used for dancing, the Burlington hall is approximately as large as the gymnasium. The committee assures the students that the floor of the hall will be especially waxed for the Junior Prom and that satisfaction will be guaranteed.

The Burlington gymnasium also has features which make it fully as valuable as the Vermont court for dances. There are convenient ladies' and gentlemen's rooms. There is a long hall which affords convenient space for checking. A large cafeteria and kitchen will be used in the serving of refreshments.

While the Burlington gymnasium is not primarily a ball room, the Junior Prom committee has spent considerable time in planning for decorations. Ideas have been secured from the Dennison Company, a nationally known firm. The present plans call for a low-hanging trellis network of decorations so that anyone who has never been inside the building will not notice that he is in a gymnasium.

VERMONT DEBATERS WIN MAJORITY OF DECISIONS

Catamounts Gain Six Out of Seven Decisions in One of the Most Successful Seasons

Six victories and one defeat is the record set up by the Vermont debating teams this year, the most successful season that the University has had for a long period. Lawton Moore of the Public Speaking Department, coach of debating, has given time and energy to the work, and much credit is due him for the unprecedented success in the forensic field.

The question was, "Resolved, that the United States should cancel the loans made to her associates in the World War." The team that took part in the first six debates went through undefeated. This team, consisting of Lawrence A. Hince '28 of Lawrence, Mass., Emory C. Mower '27 of Burlington; and Carl H. Wedell '27 of Lynn, Mass., demonstrated its real ability and thorough knowledge of the subject by upholding either side of the proposition with ease. On every occasion, the speakers at least equaled their opponents in logic, and excelled them in delivery. They were able to hold the interest of the audience by the pleasing presentation of their arguments. Following the Middlebury debate the first and second prizes given by Edward Winship Lawrence of Rutland for excellence in debating were awarded E. C. Mower and L. A. Hince respectively. The former has served the team as manager this year.

The lone defeat came at the hands of St. Michael's college. The debate was held in the Old Mill Chapel Wednesday evening, March 30. The members of the visiting team were acquainted with the question presented their arguments in a forceful manner. The speakers for Vermont were John M. Leavens '28 of Maplewood, N. J.; Herrick M. Macomber '29 of Burlington and Frankton A. Sears '30 of Brattleboro.

The summary of the season is as follows:

February 24, Vermont Negative 3, Tufts 0 at Burlington; March 4, Vermont Negative 3, M. A. C. 0 at Boston; March 10, Vermont Affirmative 2, St. Lawrence, 0, at Burlington; March 16, Vermont Affirmative 2, M. I. T. 1 at Boston; March 18, Vermont Affirmative 2, Middlebury 1 at Middlebury; March 25, Vermont Negative 2, Wayneburg 1 at Burlington; March 30, St. Michael's Negative 2, Vermont 1 at Burlington.

Plans for next year are now under consideration. It is hoped that the program of this season may be duplicated. A large number of candidates to come out and new trial debates and extemporals in greater numbers to the debates. Among the possibilities that may be used are the question of ownership of the press and stage and the abolition of the jury system.

LEON DEAN TO DELIVER THE PRINCIPAL ADDRESS AT NEXT FOUNDER'S DAY

Exercises to be Held on Saturday, April 30—Will Include Parade by R. O. T. C. Battalion and Band

Leon W. Dean instructor in English has been designated to deliver the main address on Founder's Day. His speech will be on "The Man Behind." Mr. Dean is a Vermont graduate in the class of 1915. While in college he was interested in several activities, especially in literary and forensic lines. For the past few years he has been an instructor in English, giving courses in short story writing, dramatic composition, and extemporaneous speaking. Mr. Dean also writes short stories, his works appearing in several magazines.

Founder's Day exercises will be held on Saturday, April 30 this year, due to the fact that May first, the usual date for the exercises, comes on Sunday. Arrangements have been made for a parade by the University battalion on the back campus. The next feature will be the exercises around the U. V. M. Boulder, after which the members of the University will gather in the Ira Allen Chapel to listen to the addresses. Besides the main speech by Mr. Dean there will be addresses by Emory Mower for the Senior class and Evo Lucchina for the Junior class.

SOUTHERN TRIP

The annual baseball Southern Trip [illegible] though almost every [illegible] the task of abandoning the [illegible] which is by now almost [illegible]. Whatever its advantages, or disadvantages it does give the [illegible] considerable valuable advertising. When it is considered that [illegible] with no out of door [illegible] called upon to meet a [illegible] playing teams that are much [illegible] season the results taken [illegible] are decidedly impressive.

The University is proud of its 1927 [illegible] and while an unblemished [illegible] record is not at all assured nevertheless every follower of [illegible] must believe that, in [illegible] of the long schedule of games [illegible] the players a club that can decisively defeat Princeton and West Point [illegible] of the season must present [illegible] to any New England college [illegible] this year.

Coach Prosser has done well. He [illegible] a team from material inexperienced and now enjoys [illegible] confidence of both the team and [illegible].

[illegible] approaches there is the [illegible] lack of Europeans travel, and the [illegible] are flooded with information [illegible] the various associations and [illegible] to promote summer [illegible]. One of the most interesting [illegible] cruise sponsored by the [illegible] Travel Association which [illegible] various points along its way and [illegible] enables a student to catch up [illegible] and get a start on College work, while [illegible] same time enjoying a round [illegible] trip. This plan does not [illegible] one and permits to travel together [illegible].

That the [illegible] average of this [illegible] is seventy-two is a great [illegible] is only of late yet a fact [illegible] that reflects a credit to [illegible] coaches' work. But a greater [illegible] lies in the close competition existing [illegible] the fraternities. That the [illegible] list of fraternities and sororities [illegible] shows an average varying less [illegible] one per cent is almost proof [illegible] particularly on considering that [illegible] societies have fairly stiff scholarship requirements for membership.

Competition between the local High [illegible] and the University though always evident, has taken on a new [illegible] with gymnasiums of the two schools involved. While the high schools of the state have for several years used our gymnasium upon great occasions for their tournaments, this is the first time that the University has asked for and been granted the privilege of the high school's facilities for holding a dance. There is no question as to the merit of this gymnasium as compared with our own for holding the great dance of Junior Week. The floor is of course the point emphasized and is the real reason for the move, but the value of the change from other aspects is not to be overlooked. The atmosphere of our dance hall and the memories it calls forth of classes in Physical Training and Military Science are not wholly fitting to the spirit of a dance. This is true of the high school gymnasium in the first respect, but not with regard to the memories it calls forth. Our mental set is not averse to this gym as it is to our own and consequently our eyes will not dig through the elaborate decorations to the reality of the place as they do at most of our dances.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

After reading several of the comments which have appeared in the Cynic, good and bad, I feel perfectly justified in setting forth a few of my own views on a certain subject. It might come under the head of "unspeakable crimes" and I hope someone will advise or attempt to advise what is to be done about it.

It seems that several people in the University have a marked tendency to borrow things and forget to return them. If I were to be really insinuating I might call those persons thieves, which would not be an exaggeration. This pernicious habit is especially prevalent at the Freshman dormitory although it is practiced to a considerable extent all over the campus. The situation is so unbearable that it is not even safe to look out one's window lest these easy fingered agents get in their bit of infamous work. I personally have lost articles totalling a value of $45 and which, I can prove were "borrowed."

Who is to blame for this state of affairs? Is there no way by which these criminals can be ferreted out, even though the condition as a whole cannot be remedied? Is this the kind of a standard we are going to have at Vermont? Hooks are placed in the halls on which to hang coats and hats before entering class rooms, but it is no longer safe to leave articles of any sort in the pockets, and to expect them to be there when one returns. I think that the gravity of the condition is sufficient to warrant the taking of some action, either by the students, or by the administration.

D. P. '30.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Here begins the first instalment of a new serial which will appear weekly in the Cynic during the remainder of the college year. It is entitled, "Unspeakable Crimes," or "What Was Wrong with Vermont When I was a Senior There." The Moral is "do something" and the question which the author wishes to get across is "Why Don't They?" Having made such an auspicious start toward a successful career as a novelist, I will now commence the actual narrative.

Once upon a time there was a State called Vermont and in that State there was a university with the same cognomen. This university was originally intended to be a real he-man's institution, but through some trick of fate there came a time when women were also permitted to drink from its cup of learning. These strange and un-understandable creatures are today known as co-eds, and they have nearly ruined the reputation of the University for turning out a uniformly handsome and manly product. They have inveigled the men of the university at every opportunity. In fact, the time has come now when there are certain of the Eds who would rather see a movie with one of these insidious persons than attend a real, lively, interesting basketball game like the one in which Vermont defeated Springfield this winter. The author knows whereof he speaks because he met such a couple on his way home from that game. It sickened him. However, he managed by a superhuman effort to control himself. Probably this was because he had not been breaking training and attending teas and cream-puff contests like many of the ment?] students are now wont to do.

Be that as it may, the mere fact that a Vermont man should stoop so low as to fail in attending an intercollegiate contest for the sake of keeping a two-hour date with a co-ed should be enough to warrant a severe paddling at the hands of Gold Key. But perhaps they would not be willing to undertake this function, for the simple reason that it would quite often result in having to chastise some of their own members. And there is another crime. Look at the calibre of some of the present members of Gold Key—not most of them—but some of them. Do they strike you as worthy of the task of instilling due respect for cherished Vermont traditions into the heads of freshmen? If these freshmen judged Vermont by some of these Gold Key men, what would their judgment be? It is criminal the way quality is allowed to be overwhelmed by politics, personal popularity on the basis of socializing ability, and the requirement that a certain number of representatives be chosen from each organization. Some of these organizations haven't in their whole number persons who ought to be allotted these duties, and yet, because they are allowed a representative, they are permitted to choose the best that they have. The result is repulsive in some cases.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Since the Coed Page has been dropped from the make-up of the Cynic, I notice a great improvement in the paper. Every piece of news which now enters the columns of the paper seems to go through more critical hands than was formerly the case. You will perhaps remember that I precipitated the discussion in the columns of your paper in re the Co-ed Page. I am pleased to see that the women have nothing but praise for the changes. They really gained in the deal and they seem to realize it. For the benefit of the co-eds, let me state that I was not moved by any prejudice against women in my attack on the now-dead Page. I heartily believe in co-education—in fact that feature in the Vermont system attracted me here.

Please allow me to congratulate the Editors on their far-sighted policy in dropping the yoke, which was the Co-ed page.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

It is impossible to say, strongly enough, what one thinks of the new Cynic Plan. Let it suffice to mention some of the thoughts induced by the old plan.

In the beginning, every time I'd get a Cynic, my first thought would be something like "what inferior creatures we women must be not to have even an inch of the first page." For say what you will on the first page is the important news. And then again the thought came "Do the interests of the eds and co-eds lie in such absolutely different directions that the affairs of one are utterly incompatible with the affairs of the other and therefore must be placed on separate pages? Eventually, of course, I accepted this standardized division, as one accepts everything after a time.

HAVE A CAMEL

Modern smoking pleasure that never fails

THE smokers of this age are the most independent ever known. Accepting no hearsay, they have smoked out the facts. They have learned that the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown are rolled into Camels, that here is the incomparable blending for goodness, that Camels simply never tire the taste.

Camel is the cigarette that never fails to please the modern age. Regardless of how often you want the comfort of a smoke, of how steadily you light one after another, Camel will never fail you, never give you any but the finest thrill of smoking pleasure. This is why Camel's popularity, by far the largest in the modern world, keeps overwhelmingly in the lead. As modern taste becomes more insistent upon choice tobaccos, increasing millions discover Camel's incomparable mildness, smoothness and mellowness.

If you want the cigarette that's good to live with from morn to midnight, the one that is the choice of the modern age, "Have a Camel!"

The Man Who Wrote
The Story of Philosophy

Explains Those
Youthful Suicides

Will Durant has joined that group of writers who make Cosmopolitan the most alert magazine in America. How deeply he has thought out the subject he writes of is shown by these questions:

"What happens to the famous 'first law of nature' in these instances? What impulse is it that is so strong that all the instincts, all the hunger for possession and love and power crumble at its coming? How can the will to live lose its omnipotence when the body is still young, and the blood courses freshly through full veins?"

And his answer is so coldly logical, that it is sensational by virtue of its simplicity.

ELEPHANTS

The elephant is man's most intelligent helper. But—consider this interesting comparison:

An elephant is much larger than the electric motor of a "yarder" or logging machine. The "yarder" has the power of twenty elephants; it handles clusters of logs; it works dependably, twenty-four hours at a stretch, if necessary.

Twenty elephants would eat daily 10,000 pounds of green food, which a corps of attendants must gather. A motor "eats" nothing but electricity, supplied at the throw of a switch.

Power used in the modern industrial world is applied through electric motors—tireless "iron elephants" that are relegating antiquated machines to museums, along with such oldtime household articles as wash-tubs and ordinary irons—and stuffed elephants.

Two million elephants could not do the work now being done by General Electric motors. Whatever the work to be done, whether it needs the power of an elephant or the force of a man's arm, there is a General Electric motor that will do it faithfully for a lifetime at a cost of a few cents an hour.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know, first of all. The question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of college graduates off the campus some five—eight—ten years. Write for booklet reprinting the entire series.

He went in for instruments—with a vengeance!

H. P. SPARKES

WHEN H. P. Sparkes (Alabama Polytechnic '17) finished the Engineering School at Westinghouse he went in for instrument design. His career since then has been punctuated with solid accomplishments.

By the end of his fourth year here he had completed a thesis for his E. E. and had, at the same time, embodied the results of this thesis is an indicating watt meter—one of the largest in size ever built up to that day.

Shortly thereafter, because of his special interest in the instrument field, he was dispatched on an engineering trip abroad, visiting and working in England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and France. Upon his return he entered commercial work and was assigned to the Pittsburgh territory—(including such industrial centers as Cleveland, Youngstown, Pittsburgh)—as specialist responsible for the sales, service, and operation of watthour meters, instruments, and relays in this important district. Here he will be found today, acting as intermediary between the sales force on the one hand and the engineering and factory departments on the other. He backs up the salesmen with a highly specialized knowledge. He advises with the engineers and with the factory in the design and manufacture of apparatus that is best suited to commercial requirements.

His own pioneering spirit has still found field for play, so that this year he demonstrated to the A. I. E. E. the first advance in the method of calibrating watthour meters in thirty years. Some 16,000,000 tests of watthour meters are made in this country annually. They cost about 20c apiece. Sparkes has devised a practicable method that chops more than 50% off this bill—a tidy saving. It eliminates the human element; it gives greatly improved accuracy.

Thus his first ten years at Westinghouse—and not unlike that of other college men who bring with them, when they come here, energy, imagination, and the groundwork upon which to build superlative engineering proficiency.

[illegible] which brought home the [illegible] N Y U [illegible] the going in the second with two singles and a [illegible] gave them two runs. In the third inning Vermont came back with a [illegible] that [illegible] tells the story. [illegible] scored three runs on Macomber's [illegible] with [illegible] on. In the seventh, Talcott, who had been pitching a splendid game in the earlier innings, walked two men and gave Gallagher the winning pitcher a fluke hit to fill the bases. Moriarty toed the box at this stage without warming up and forced in a run by the four-ball route. The rest of the inning was Moriarty's as he fanned the next two batters and threw the third out at first. The tenth inning put Watson in the limelight when he put the game on ice with his return-ticket crack. Conway with two hits and six putouts gave a pretty exhibition of the national pastime, and Gallagher was the gotham star at the bat as well as in the box. Price made a pretty throw from right field to Cogswell at third-base for a putout, and the hot-corner guardian completed a double play with Conway at second base.

In the final game of the trip Vermont took the cadets into camp at West Point with a 9 to 4 victory. The game was called by agreement at the end of the sixth inning to give the Catamounts time to catch a train for New York. Captain Fogg turned in his first win of the season. While the Vermonters connected with the horsehide ten times the soldier boys hit Fogg only three times. Vermont had a 5 to 0 lead at the middle of the fourth having tallied in every inning. Then Fogg opened up for a short time and the score became 5 to 4 at the end of the fifth. In the sixth five hits gave Vermont four more runs and some more bacon.

On the whole the team looks very good with a tight defence and some clever batters. It looks as if U. V. M. should bring the state title, which it surrendered to Norwich last year, back to Burlington.

Every position is covered by an able fielder. Prentice has been covering first in a fine manner but is a bit weak with the bat. Conway and Smith make a wonderful keystone combination. They figured in five double plays together on the trip and that's a remarkable record for seven games. Conway is leading the regular stickers and Smith will give him plenty of opposition in that line when he gets in last year's form. Cogswell, on third, is showing up very well, he has been whipping the sphere across the diamond very accurately and is hitting about .300. Roarke is filling "Bill" Morse's left garden very ably and is valuable as a twirler when needed. Macomber in center is covering much territory and has been hitting regularly. On the southern trip he poled out three triples. Price, rightfield, has been hitting hard and often and is the second regular in the batting average order. In the field he has yet to make a misplay. He leads the team in runs scored, runs driven in, and stolen bases. Aronson and Winchenbach do all the catching. The former has played in more games on account of his stick-work but when Winchenbach is behind the plate the pitchers may feel just as confident. The twirling staff is exceptionally fine. Moriarty pitched the last six innings of the Drexel game and shut out Princeton on the next day, allowing only five hits in the whole 15 innings. Capt. Fogg defeated the Army but was a bit wild in the other games. When he hits his stride he will show many college twirlers a few things about pitching. Talcott shut out Delaware and proved that he is a real twirler. Shoppe is the only regular pitcher to return north without a win but shows much promise for a little later in the season. Roarke did some fine relief work in several games and may be used as a regular pitcher. His fine batting warrants his [illegible] lineup.

In Washington [illegible] Capitol, Washington [illegible] gressional Library [illegible] Memorial. Several [illegible] met the team in W[illegible] Annapolis. At Q[illegible] Keady, former Vermont [illegible] marine mentor, and [illegible] Catamounts had an [illegible] fest.

At the same time Old English W's were awarded to Winifred Teach '27, Naomi Thorne '27, and Alma Tyler '27. Other toasts were "The Foul Line" by Catherine Bassett '28, "The Ball" by Marion Parker '27, "The Basket" by Alouette Burns '28 and "The Bleachers," by Julia Housley '30. Several impromptus were given. Dean Patterson spoke informally to the gathering, choosing as her subject, "The Goal." With the singing of "Champlain" ended a successful basketball season.

On the All Sports Cup the numerals "1927" are engraved four times. This is an unusual record and worth striving for by all succeeding classes.

STUDENTS MAY STUDY INDUSTRY AT BOSTON

The New England Student Y M C A is in the process of organizing an Industrial Research Group to be held in Boston, Mass. during the summer. The plan is to get the workers point of view through working beside him in factory and mill and going through the same experience. On getting to Boston the men will be given leads to follow up regarding available jobs.

The group will meet twice each week for study and discussion. At one of these meetings an employer a personnel expert, a labor leader, or some other such leader in the industrial field will talk on one particular phase of the labor situation. The program will be so arranged as to have all the possible points of view presented. The other meeting during the week will be given over to discussion.

The college men will bring their experiences, observations and opinions on the wage scale, conditions of employment, and other industrial problems to these meetings where they will be discussed under proper leadership.

Boston provides exceptional opportunities to attend meetings and lectures where industrial political, or social questions are discussed. Information about such meetings will be at the disposal of the group.

The opportunity is open to undergraduates, graduate or professional students and others who desire to study industrial questions from first hand experience.

It is preferable that a man be in good health, and that he have some background in sociology and economics. He should come with an open mind and a desire to search for the truth. He should be willing to pay the price of learning the ways of life of the men in industry.

The group will be under the leadership of Claude C. Stratton, Walker Memorial Building, Cambridge, Mass.

Boston, New York, and other Eastern cities will furnish the group with the country's ablest leaders on industrial questions. Further information as to wages, expenses, details of program, and other developments will be sent out within a few weeks.

Information can be procured from the Y office.

FRESHMEN MAY DISCARD GREEN HATS MAY FIRST

Boulder has announced as has been the custom, that the members of the Freshman class may remove their green Caps May 1 this year. As usual the other rules are lifted off until the end of the school year, and the frosh must wear, at all times, some covering for their heads.

By recent vote the Boulder re- frained from [illegible] giving permission to women wearing hats, and that was in May when the members of the class of 1926 celebrated the arrival of spring by leaving off their hats and holding a grand parade and bonfire a week before Boulder's decree. Frosh hats were supposed to be worn that year until the end of the term.

PLANS FOR GIGANTIC JUNIOR WEEK PEERADE NEARLY COMPLETED

Committee Prints Synopsis of College Play to Aid Entrants in Preparing Floats And Individual Stunts

While Junior Week is still a month off, the Peerade Committee is planning for the gigantic event which will precede the presentation of the College play at the Strong. The committee is desirous of having the co-operation of all fraternities and women's dormitories in making this years' peerade of as high standard as has been hitherto maintained. Already several prominent men are being considered for judges of the event and the crack University Battalion band has been secured to lead the peerade. For several years the floats and individual stunts have been take-offs on the name of the play. This year's play is named "Bab" and no take-offs are conceivable. A short synopsis is therefore printed below at the request of the committee.

Synopsis of the Junior Week Play

Barbara Archibald, seventeen, a subdeb. Returns home from school to find her sister Leila interested in the mysterious Mr. Beresford, and her family totally unable to understand Bab's "intense" romantic nature. Feeling the need of excitment she invents a story of a lover, buys the picture of a stock company actor and takes care that her family intercepts one of the letters that she writes this imaginary sweetheart.

Carter Brooks, friend of the family, and interested especially in Bab, recognizes the picture as being that of Guy Grosvenor the actor and an erstwhile college pal of his. Thinking that the scare will do Bab good, he tells Bab that he will see to it that she and Harold Valentine as she has named him are brought together.

Many complications ensue but the climax comes when Bab, hidden in the closet of Beresford's room hears the whole story from Carter and Guy and then suddenly realizes that she is coming down with the measles.

Bab manages to see to it that Leila and Beresford are married and Persuades Carter to go to work. She is some distorted to find that he chooses to start in on his engineering work by going to Poland but promises to write and wait for him to come home.

Intercollegiate News

Eighteen members of the University of California baseball team including the coach and a senior manager are to make a trip to Japan and the Hawaiian Islands this summer.

Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois has made a list of things he would do if he were to go through college again.

1. Develop concentration, work harder, but not so long.
2. Learn to work while others are around.
3. Put more stress on how to get information than on the information itself.
4. Find more difficult things to do.
5. Learn to speak in public.
6. Learn to play some athletic game.
7. Learn to do one line of work particularly well.
8. Get better acquainted with instructors.
9. Take fewer courses which are strictly practical.
10. Have an avocation which would bring him in close touch with men.

At Middlebury, seven sororities, Alpha Xi Delta at the top, with an average of 84.85 rank above the high [illegible] fraternity, Delta Sigma, whose standing was 81.41.

Competing with twelve colleges representing every section of the United States, Middlebury deserves much credit and should be congratulated for securing fourth place in the closest intercollegiate Glee Club Contest ever held in this country. Wesleyan for the second consecutive time won the cup securing 241 points out of a possible 300. The University of Missouri and Yale took second and third, respectively.

PRESIDENT FAUNCE QUESTIONS

In the last issue of the American a report was printed of an interview with President Faunce of Brown University concerning the question of who should go to college. The article concludes with several questions as to one's likes and dislikes, covering the various fields of lifework and putting the inquiry in a straightforward and plain way that brings the reader to serious thought of its meaning. Dr. Faunce would have the man who wants to do things go ahead and do them, and would reserve a college education for the man with a burning desire to know the why of things.

The idea is undoubtedly worthy and if it could be carried out would approach the ideal in fitting each man at the end of his high school course for what he is best fitted for. But the question whether a high school graduate is in a position to answer Dr. Faunce's questions in a way that will enable them to fulfill their purpose and whether many have a very definite idea on the subject, but after two months spent along the desired pathway that idea is very liable to give way only to be followed by another definite and yet corresponding fixed opinion as to what is his interest and ambition in life. And then how often one ends up with nothing in view that has any special appeal as a profession. Answering one of Dr. Faunce's questions a young student who had just completed the more lucrative courses of Philosophy might well state that he would like to dedicate much of his life to the study of that subject, how many of us have completed just a course with enthusiasm, and then by the end of the year have real interest in the entire subject. Dr. Faunce presents some questions that are very interesting for the college man to ponder over, but we still doubt their practicality with reference to the man just graduated from a high school.

We understand that another club has made its appearance on the campus and been met with such enthusiasm that its continued existence is assured. The organization goes by the name of Philosophy and Psychology Club, is exclusive only with reference to interest in its work, and is intended to create and foster interest in these two subjects. Despite the cry of over-organization, there can be no doubt that there is a place for such a club on the campus. Many of us cannot see the way clear to take the courses in this line that we should like to and find here an answer to our need, with the added attraction of the social organization as opposed to the ordinary class. The new club has able and popular faculty backing, and with the student interest that is apparent bids fair to do so valuable work.

Smith College's latest fad, roller skating, has presented a new traffic problem to Northampton police. Approximately 1,000 students, half of the student body already own skates.

THAT'S the way P. A. talks to you in the bowl of a pipe. This great national gloom-chaser stabs the darkest clouds with a ray of sunshine. Buy a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today and see. Tamp a load of this friendly tobacco into your jimmy-pipe and light up.

Cool as a sub-cellar. Sweet as the breath of fresh-cut violets. Fragrant in the tin and fragrant as you smoke it. Never a tongue-bite or a throat-parch. So mild you can hit it up from sun-up to sun-down, yet with a body that satisfies completely.

There's more philosophy in a pipe-load of P. A. than in the average Doctor's thesis. No matter what brand you are smoking now, you don't know how much your jimmy-pipe can mean to you until you pack it with good old Prince Albert. Get started now.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always, with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

In a recent All-New England mythical basketball team selection conducted by the Hartford Courant, in which all the coaches of the Western New England colleges voted, Arthur V. Williams '28 captain-elect of the 1927-28 basketball season, was chosen for a guard berth on the second team. The most surprising item of the selection was the fact that Captain Schofield was not even able to gather enough votes to make the second team.

The most popular of the selections was Wagner, of Springfield, who received six votes for the pivot position. The varsity mentor, Coach Dole, chose a team closely resembling the All-New England five. He put Duncan of Springfield and Prentice of Vermont at forwards, Wagner of Springfield at center, and Captain Schofield and ... of Vermont at guards. His second team consists of Jack of Wesleyan and Connors of Holy Cross at forwards, Williams for center, and Price ... Nicora of New Hampshire at ...rds.

Not to be read 'til 1950

"IN this year of 1950," said the celebrated engineer in his Commencement address, "the electrical communication industry is just entering upon its vigorous prime.

"As the nineteenth century was termed the Age of Power, so may this period be well called the Age of Communication—so fully have communication ways and means been developed.

"It was a 1927 marvel to talk between New York and London, but now we may talk to any point on the globe, and to and from moving points at will. And of course we all know what has been achieved in projecting pictures from a distance.

"This great and growing field of communication, far from completed, is opening up constantly greater opportunity, not only for technically trained men but also for men in various commercial and professional activities—the men who in increasing numbers will always be needed to sell and administrate the services which the engineers create."

[illegible], a stellar performer in the [illegible] last, went through only a [illegible] and Coach De Groat thought it undesirable to use him against Dartmouth Wednesday. It is expected, however, that he will be in shape to start against Vermont, giving Springfield full strength. Erickson, a veteran southpaw, will, in all probability, toe the rubber against Vermont.

Holy Cross made an exceptionally fine record on the southern tour. The Purple won all four games on the trip in impressive style, having defeated Randolph-Macon 21 to 4, William and Mary 6 to 1, Catholic University 12 to 1 and Georgetown 6 to 4. Coach Barry has developed a powerful offense, and the infield is like a stone wall with Capt McEntee at first, Wise at second, Harrell in the short field, and Cahill on third. The outfield is composed of Sweeney, who hit for .385 in the south, Litchfield, also a pitcher, and Hurley, a newcomer. Doherty wears the chest protector. Davidson, who defeated Vermont last year 10 to 0, will again be seen in action against the "little green." Steve Al Fons was in the box when Holy Cross shut out the "big green" 10 to 0 Tuesday at Worcester.

March 26 marked an important [illegible] in the development of track at Vermont for on that day took place the first successful indoor track meet ever staged at this University, consisting of [illegible] officially recognized track and field events. Over 40 athletes competed in the record indoor interfraternity meet, and anyone who witnessed this event could not but be impressed by the spirit and interest displayed. Before such a meet would have been impossible two years ago. For meets in the past used to be supported by a handful of athletes, and [illegible] accidental spectators, who [illegible] used to include the [illegible] starting broad jump, [illegible] etc. At last the indoor [illegible] is on a healthy basis and augurs well for the future of the track athletics at Vermont.

Outstanding performances of the [illegible] were the two-mile run [illegible] by Reed who kept the [illegible] pace and sprinted the last [illegible] to win easily in [illegible] minutes, which is a record time for [illegible] and the pole vaulting of Whitcomb who cleared 11 ft. 9 in. and [illegible] cleared 10 feet.

An interesting event of a different nature was the [illegible] Medley Relay. This is the traditional [illegible] in which the fraternities [illegible] in each event by a team of three men whose average will determine the fraternity's place in that event. For instance, a fraternity [illegible] the javelin throw with A, B, and C as its team. If A throws [illegible] B 160 and C 130, that fraternity's average is 140 feet.

Leon W. Dean Writes Many Stories For Fifty Publications Since 1915

"It is not so much an excess amount of brain, but the will-power to keep on going that makes a successful short story writer," said Leon W. Dean, A.B., instructor of English at the University of Vermont, when he was interviewed on this subject. He was graduated from the University in the class of 1915, and has taught here for four years. Professor Dean is himself a writer of short stories which are principally for "young people in the 'teen age." Having written ever since he left college, he has had hundreds of short stories, articles and serial stories accepted by United States and Canadian publications.

"I finish one story and go right on to another," he smiled, "working a certain amount of time each day." For the theme of the stories, he uses adventure, Vermont State occurrences, [illegible] of Vermont and school happenings. "Usually the characters are fictitious, but sometimes," he stated, "I unconsciously incorporate people's traits." Strange things happen in real life as well as in stories, and at one time Professor Dean received a letter from a boy in Texas who had read one of his stories in a Boy Scout magazine, and as the characters in the story bore the same family name he wanted further information about them. The boy wrote that he had lost all trace of his family, but that his hopes of finding them were renewed when he read the story which contained the entire name of one member. It was with regret that he was answered that the name used had been presumably fictitious.

"The thing that is hardest in the case of the students is to get them to send out their material after they have it written," he stated. "When they finally send it out, they lose heart if it is once returned unaccepted. However there are some students selling material now, one of them, Miss Merta [illegible] Munro a Junior in college and a Burlington girl, has had several articles accepted. There is an unusual amount of interest at the University in creative writing, and the play-writing course, the short story course, and the writers' workshop, which was recently started, all foster this form of writing. The members of the writers' workshop work on anything they please, but they pay particular attention to articles and special items, anything in the world which will interest people," as Professor Dean put it.

"There are comparatively few students who really know what will interest people, but by writing successful items and short articles, this sense is developed. Beginners are most apt to use themes entirely unsuitable in their [illegible] to find a [illegible] audience. Their favorite topics for short stories are [illegible] of ghosts, outside crime bootlegging, seeing the dramatic situation in subjects which only a master could handle and even then with restraint. All the world wants to read about the things that all the world is experiencing," he continued, "hope, sacrifice, courage, disappointment, emotion that enter into the experience of us all."

At present there is quite a bit of agitation "on the hill" for a literary publication, and it is hoped that this subject will materialize by next year. "Here we have another instance of the interest in creative work." This college magazine will probably be a monthly publication like the Cynic, which is the college newspaper. Short stories, essays, poems and humorous selections will make up the magazine. This will be the first venture in this field at the University, for never before was a strictly literary magazine published here.

Every year brings more outlets and [illegible] opportunities for creative work," he went on, "and the English department stands in back of all this work, encouraging and aiding the earnest workers." It is not so much an excess of brain, but the will power to keep on going in the face of difficulties that makes for success. It is only the most remarkable students that succeed before four or five years, for creative work needs experience. The ability to work for one's self is another step towards success.

"Above all, it must be remembered that it is the every-day instances that count, instances that involve the lives of living, breathing people. It is the life of a clerk, striving to succeed, his hopes, sorrows and disappointments, that interest the public, and not the Eskimo or the Zulu that every beginner tries to put through his paces. A story must be based upon a struggle of some kind, if it be only the obstacles in the way of getting the daily bread. A story was once defined," he concluded, "as the art of getting a man into a hole, describing his mental, moral and physical struggles to get out, and finally allowing him to get out."

Members of a Georgia lynching mob received a sentence of from four years to life; they lynched a white man.

CABOT GIVES SPEECH ON PERSONALITY AT CONVOCATION FRIDAY

Professor of Social Ethics At Harvard Tells Students About the Study of Character by Modern Scientists

Richard C. Cabot of Harvard University spoke at Convocation last Friday afternoon on "The Study of Personality." He has practiced medicine for 35 years, and has been teaching on Harvard for the past 20 years. 17 years ago he became Professor of Social Ethics. He avers that no one except medicine can bring one the greatest possible intimacy with human beings.

Personality is an endless succession of persons, a study in character, according to Dr. Cabot. He went on to say that the most popular study used to be that of inanimate nature, such as chemistry. But now, the knowledge gained from studying personality has come to be viewed with strong interest. Its significance will go on increasing. Success cannot come to any man only in proportion to his understanding of human nature. The minister, the lawyer, the doctor, the social worker can never know enough about human beings. A great step toward imbibing the understanding of other people is first to know yourself. Even the teacher must study the human being with an understanding heart, while the subject he teaches serves only as a tool with which he cultivates the human soul.

Dr. Cabot stated that human personality is not an outgrowth of heredity or environment. They both show their marks nevertheless. Personality can be cultivated through a sense of beauty, interest in human beings, and relation to religion. A diagnosis of personality cannot be successfully obtained he declared. Yet such attempts are being made by many people. Personality and psychology are somewhat related but in truth, the latter deals with the future rather than the present, according to the speaker.

Approaches of Study

There are three approaches by which a personality can be improved. First, by conceiving in the mind the place of the human soul in nature. It must be taken into consideration that man is an infinitely small atom in comparison to the cosmos. If man's importance is rated according to his size he certainly is quite insignificant. The second approach is through the study of diseases of the human mind called psychiatry. The third is the study of personality through biography, or "case study" as termed by social workers.

The most common way to learn and feel personality is through the reading of good novels. Dr. Cabot mentioned Tolstoy, Bradford and Meredith as "students of the human soul," and he said that frequently he assigned to his own students the reading of good character novels. Other ways to increase personality are through contact with great men and women, and through the study of various psychologies.

SPARE TIME ENGINEERS SOUGHT BY NEW SCHOOL

In search of men who can become leisure time executives Mr. Maurice Willows will be at the University of Vermont on Friday and Saturday April 22 and 23. Graduate training for this new profession is given at the National Recreation School located in New York City.

This training center, which the Playground and Recreation Association of America will conduct, has come into being because of a demand for professional training in recreation leadership from throughout the United States. More than one cities have organized community recreation programs involving athletic playgrounds, swimming pools community centers, municipal golf courses community dramatics, music and numerous other activities. The supply of trained leaders to direct these leisure time programs is inadequate. Upstanding men of character, resourcefulness, leadership and training are needed. The class will be limited to fifty persons.

The course is covered in three sessions from September through June. The school is non-commercial.

PI DELTA RHO FAVORS LITERARY PUBLICATION BEGINNING NEXT YEAR

New Members Elected to Journalistic Society—Plans Drawn Up For Coming Convention

Pi Delta Rho, honorary journalistic society held its annual meeting last Wednesday evening at the Sigma Phi Place. There was considerable business brought before the society for its attention.

The committee on the new literary magazine reported that a literary publication would have the support of the administration during the coming year. The committee recommended that members of the society be placed to confer with members of the Idler committee to recommend an editorial board for the proposed magazine. The society felt that the women should be allowed to participate in the work starting the literary magazine and instructed the president, I. B. Phelps '27, to appoint three members to confer with a committee from Bluestockings. According to present plans of the society, the literary magazine will be given a trial next year with an editorial board elected by the society in conjunction with Phoenix Idler.

Letters were heard from the committee on the New England Inter-Collegiate Press Association convention which is to be held the coming Friday and Saturday. INDIAN ART PRACTICED BY WOMEN STUDENTS

For the first time since 1800 the pleasant music of arrows whizzing through the air is heard on the University of Vermont campus. The days of the frontier days when the University was founded are recalled as across the lake the back campus. Several students have put in orders for special bullet proof vests to shield the aboriginal bullets.

While there has been no sudden emigration of hostile Indians to the Vermont campus a large number of women students have required the services of an army of surgeons to relieve the return of the arrow heads to its ancient habitat here. While the sport of archery calls for hitting a large target some five feet in diameter at a distance of 100 feet careful inspection of the target on the back campus yesterday revealed no abrasions.

GREEN AND GOLD TEAM LOSES TO HOLY CROSS AND BEATS SPRINGFIELD

Six Runs In Seventh Inning With Springfield is Feature of the Trip

[illegible] team won one game and lost one to Holy Cross, Massachusetts champions, [illegible] to defeat Springfield 11 to 7 [illegible] the other to the tune of 9 to 0. This [illegible] the team still one game to the good having beaten Springfield twice. Providence and Springfield but succumbing before the hands of Fordham, N. Y. U. and Holy Cross.

SPRINGFIELD GAME

[illegible] Brewer's ball tossers showed [illegible] the spirit by coming [illegible] second in the locks seventh of the game with the Red and White to [illegible] and drive Al Johnson [illegible] premier right-hander from the mound. He had held the Brewer [illegible] to two hits but the [illegible] gnashed his teeth savagely in their eighth and when the next half ended six runs had crossed the plate. Springfield up to this time had been holding a two run lead one scored in the fifth on two errors and [illegible] another in the sixth when [illegible] McGowan the heavy stick [illegible] of the Red and White leaned on one [illegible] fast ball [illegible] and [illegible] the ball on a pretty hit to right field.

In Vermont's lucky seventh, Aronson fouled out to catcher Ted Stevens. Jack Smith then poked a single into right field going to second when Prentice got one safely past second. Wright tumbled Billy Cogswell's fast ground-er [illegible] loading the bases. Price dropped a Texas leaguer to right field scoring Smith and Prentice and tying the score. Don Moriarty followed [illegible] example and placed one in short center but Cogswell was nipped at the plate. "Lefty" Rourke socked a double into left field and Moriarty came home. Rourke went to third on a wild pitch by Johnson. Conway walked and stole second. Kallock relieved Johnson for Springfield and issued a free pass to Macomber then filling the bases again. Reilly Aronson lined a single to center field and Rourke and Conway scored. Smith struck out to close the inning.

Vermont scored two more in the eighth, meeting the same fate, on a hit and a steal a single by Price and an error. Price scored on a pass ball by Brock.

HOLY CROSS 9, VERMONT 0

The Catamounts dropped a slow game to Holy Cross on a day that was meant for anything but baseball to run the Purple's sixth consecutive game. The Green and Gold had a lot of tough luck and couldn't seem to get started which accounted for most of the Crusader's runs. Three errors, two passes and a hit batsman gave them four runs in the first. Fogg was rather well contrived with Davidson.

SPECIAL HONORS

[illegible] another good thing, the [illegible] of taking Special Honors at the University of Vermont is very little known about. There is a small [illegible] in the annual catalogue devoted to the subject and stating that any man who has completed his Junior year with a fairly good standing and who has not more than two group requirements remaining, is eligible to apply. The requirements are not very exclusive and in many cases the reason for not taking advantage of the opportunity is the lack of knowledge as to its very existence.

Under this system a minimum number of hours is carried and more than the ordinary concentration is made upon a given subject. The student is under the direct supervision of a certain professor and meets with him at frequent intervals for suggestions and conferences—in short, the English tutorial system.

The chief advantage to this Special Honors system is that it places one on a totally new basis for the last of his four college years, relieves the routine of courses that has in many cases become monotonous, and gives one a little more responsibility and consequently a little more opportunity to [illegible] his own fate. The professor under whom the work will be done is determined before entering upon the proposition a point whose importance is not to be overlooked during the latter year one has practically determined his policy with regard to honors work and college life in general, and this chance to [illegible] from the ordinary and to [illegible] on a new basis is one that [illegible] passing up.

[illegible] that [illegible] cannot delivered [illegible] to say the least [illegible] presented a strange [illegible] of our time and present day [illegible] and situated somewhat on [illegible] Burlington. But various [illegible] unappetizing prizes. We contest the [illegible] the value of permanent [illegible] and its [illegible] comfort to us [illegible] we deem its interest [illegible] better than the [illegible] a world that [illegible] to be more and more [illegible] in the every practical sense [illegible] or the unfeasible in [illegible] thought of as the most

The production of an opera by the combined glee clubs is no small undertaking and vouches for the solidarity of our newly established musical department as well as that of the student. No opera has been presented in this city for several years

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

According to the decision rendered in a Senior debate recently, Seniors [illegible] of the opinion that Vermont should have a literary publication I am taking this opportunity to announce that there are several Freshmen of that same opinion. Such a publication would stimulate more interest in literature and would develop a healthier [illegible] of aspirants than has hitherto shown up on this campus. It will mean something for many students to work for, something in which they are really interested. And the training obtained from preparing [illegible] will be very valuable to those [illegible] to take up some particular [illegible] writing for a life work. There [illegible] several Freshmen who would like [illegible] the establishing of such [illegible] D '30

"Unspeakable Crimes"

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The second instalment of any first class serial should follow logically from the close of the first instalment, but it isn't claimed that this is a first-class serial, so I suppose that lets me out. It will have to, anyway, for there is nothing more to say upon the [illegible] discussed last week, at least [illegible] as I am concerned. I tried to [illegible] myself clearly then.

The [illegible] bowl this time relates to the [illegible] condition of our dear old Vermont campus. It is supposed to be [illegible] and in some respects is; but in other regards it is terrible. What do you think visitors notice most as they ride along University Place? If their entrance was made at the north end it may be the new [illegible] but they will not have progressed very far before such pleasant and admiring thoughts will be quite rudely interrupted by a sudden and unduly vicious jaunce toward the top of their automobile. From that point on until Morrill Hall is reached, the main topic of conversation and the most outstanding part of the Vermont campus to their minds will be the extremely punk condition of the road over which they are traveling in genuine discomfort. Vermont, or rather, the road on University Place, has impressed them. They have formed their opinion of the university and are continuing on their way to broadcast it to their friends and acquaintances. And the sort of opinion they are spreading does not help Vermont very much. This road should be fixed so that it is on a par with those which it connects. It gets a great deal of traffic just from the students' buggies, and in justice to them should be put in shape. Remember how it was at Commencement time last year? Putrid. I'll bet the alumni didn't swear much though musical selections have at odd times been attempted witth varying degrees of success. This style of entertainment will undoubtedly appeal to the general public as well as to the student body, much more than the regular glee club concerts.

In the last issue of the Cynic there appeared the announcement of the coming Junior Week Peerade. This has come to be a respected custom and one that affords much merriment, while of course its real purpose is to advertise the College play in the town. Opportunity for individual wit and ability as well as for cooperation abounds and if taken advantage now as in former years, our Junior Week Peerade will be something to remember.

Another thing of course is the need of better sidewalks on the campus. As it is now students are all tired out by the time they have ploughed their way across from Main Street. It is no wonder that they fall asleep in class.

Again, ever since I've been in college I've wondered just what the fountain is supposed to be for. I can't see that it is especially pretty the way it is now, and in fact, the way it is nine-tenths of the time college is in session. Are they afraid that it will freeze up if they turn on the water? Or is it because the water costs too much? One thing Vermont has taught me, anyhow, and that is that a fountain is not a fountain. It is merely a cement basin with an iron thing-a-ma-jig in the center, and is never used except for a fight between two classes in the fall. And then the fire department has to fill it up.

SPEAKING CONTEST FOR THE KINGSLEY PRIZES TAKES PLACE IN MAY

Band Concert Will Be Feature Of Contest—More Underclassmen May Enter The Race For Large Rewards

[illegible] Prize Speaking contest [illegible] the two lower classes will be held [illegible] 11, at eight o'clock in the [illegible] At the same time, the [illegible] C band will give a concert [illegible] been customary for the past [illegible] years, attendance will be com-

The oratorical contest originating [illegible], is the outgrowth of the [illegible] Prize Speaking. In the early [illegible] its existence, it took an im- [illegible] place in the events of com- [illegible] ment, being held in the College [illegible] Church the night before the [illegible] ting exercises. The church was always well filled with students, alumni, and townspeople. Later, however, interest lagged, so that during [illegible] the affair was crowded out of [illegible] college calendar. When it was revived, it was evident that public [illegible] had dwindled still further, the [illegible] was changed, and the scene of [illegible] ntest was shifted to the campus. [illegible] attendance in 1924, when the representatives of the Sophomore and Freshman classes spoke in the Old Mill Chapel, was so small that the authorities decided to have the prize speaking at a regular convocation, at which student attendance would be required. The additional feature of the band concert should insure a large audience this year.

The prizes of $25, $15, and $10 are donated by the Hon. Darwin P. Kingsley '81, of New York. Mr. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, is one of the most prominent of the alumni. He has been a trustee of the University of Vermont since 1897. He was centennial orator in 1904, orator on the occasion of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the granting of the Charter of the University in 1916, memorial orator in 1919, and orator on the occasion of the dedication of the Ira Allen statue in 1921. He gave to the University the portrait of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge which hangs above the main door way of the Billings Library.

The prizes last year were awarded to Peter V. Brikatis, '29, John M. Leavens, '28, and Roger H. Albee, '28. Brikatis, the winner in 1926, for the first time in the history of the event so far as is known, gave an original declamation, part of which was entirely extemporaneous.

So far three sophomores and five freshmen have expressed to Mr. Lawton Moore a desire to participate. Try outs will be held on May 7 to select the three best speakers from each of the classes. All underclassmen interested should see Mr. Lawton Moore at once.

The Senior Questionnaires will appear tomorrow morning. The committee requests that members of the class of '27 obtain them immediately, and return them to the Ariel box in South College as soon as possible. The contents of the questionnaire will not be made known until tomorrow, but it is understood that in addition to the information that is usually sought, there will be several innovations and there will be questions to ascertain the position of the seniors on political problems of the day.

DRAMA LEAGUE FOSTERS PLAY WRITING CONTEST

The Drama League of America is conducting a national play writing contest in an attempt to foster the [illegible] theatre. These contests are being conducted through colleges, [illegible] centers of the Drama League and the state centers of the Little Theatre. The winning one act play is to be produced by Brock Pemberton, a prominent New York producer, and by the Pilgrim Players of Chicago, the one act plays by the American Academy of Dramatic Arts of New York. All winning plays will be published by the Play Department of Longmans, Greene and Company.

The first contest is open only to college students. The plays must be one act in construction and the themes are to be incidents of American history, real or imaginary. The treatment must be historically just although it need not be historically accurate. The University of Vermont is conducting one of these contests through the English department.

The Little Theatre contest calls for one act plays and is open to anyone. The themes must be unusual in conception and in treatment. The Biblical contest is non-sectarian, open to anyone, and the plays may be of any length. The themes must be based on incidents in the Old or New Testaments, and the treatment must accord with Biblical traditions. The last contest is the All-American and is open to everyone. Plays may deal with any theme, must be full length in construction and may contain any number of acts or scenes.

All plays must be original, all rights reserved and owned by the author, and it must not previously have been published professionally. The treatment may be in any manner—burlesque, farce, comedy, drama, melodrama, tragedy or mystery, but must contain nothing offensive to good taste. This contest closes May first, 1927.

WOMENS' STUDENT UNION MAKE RADICAL CHANGES IN THEIR CONSTITUTION

Membership is Considerably Reduced and Point System Revised at Meeting Held Last Wednesday

A meeting of Student Union Council was held Wednesday afternoon at which important provisions to the constitution were discussed, prior to bringing the amendments before the women's student association. The President of Student Union told the Council some of the suggestions which were given in the New England Conference of student associations held last week at New Hampshire State. Following a suggestion from the conference leaders, it was voted to make the Student Union Council at Vermont a smaller organization, composed only of the four officers, the house president, vice-presidents of the four classes and a representative from Mortarboard.

It was voted to change the points given the president of Women's Student Union from eight to nine; to introduce points for Eta Sigma Phi, honorary Greek fraternity, and to abolish points heretofore given to officers of the French Club and St. Hilda's Guild; to raise the points of editor and business manager of the Y. W. C. A. handbook to four, and to give two points to the Freshman member of the Y. W. Cabinet.

Katherine Griffith was elected Senior member of the Judiciary Board.

GOLD KEY DANCE TO BE HELD IN GYM TONIGHT

Gold Key held their regular weekly meeting last Tuesday evening at seven o'clock at the Phi Mu Delta House. There was discussion on new rules for governing the organization, and on the initiation of new members which will take place in the near future. The dance committee reported that everything was prepared for the dance which is to take place in the Gymnasium tonight.

In addition to the regular business, several Frosh also reported to answer for their crimes. Although it is nearing the end of the year, Gold Key showed no signs of relenting in its watchfulness over the Freshmen, as those who were learned to their great dismay. Many paddles that have been in service all the year were reduced to the status of toothpicks. Among the Freshmen present there were some who have been elected to the society for next year they were well instructed as to how they should carry on the good work.

The Alonquins are furnishing the music for the annual Gold Key Dance to be held in the Gym tonight at 8:30. Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Doane are to chaperone the dance. Green and Gold streamers forming a lattice work across the running track above the dancers and a large gold key and the class numerals on the green screen in the back of the gym, make up the decorations for the event. The orchestra will be in the center of the floor. Refreshments will be served during intermission.

VERMONT HAS DELEGATES AT A. C. A. C. W. CONFERENCE

Jeannette Hays and Marion Everest attended the A. C. A. C. W. Conference at Cornell, April 20-23, as representatives from the Women's Athletic Association of the University of Vermont.

The platform drawn up at the conference and representing its most important work will be published later. The conference discouraged intercollegiate sports for women and abolished the standarized point system because of different conditions in the colleges which are members of the league.

The delegates to the A. C. A. C. W. conference were entertained at the sorority homes and dormitories Social affairs were held in their honor during the days of the convention.

The Independents are to be represented by one man and one woman on this committee.

Stanford students have the right to dissolve any student organization that has ceased to be useful.

This morning the University observed the 135th anniversary of its founding with appropriate exercises on the campus. This follows the custom established in 1894, when on May first the students and faculties gathered in the Billings Library to do honor to Ira Allen, Founder of the University of Vermont.

Exercises in honor of the founder opened this morning with a review of the Battalion on the back campus at nine o'clock. At 9:10 o'clock, the Boulder Society gave its oath to new members around the U. V. M. Boulder. Scabbard and Blade conducted exercises at the same place.

Directly after the exercises around the Boulder, the academic procession formed in University Row. The procession went to the Ira Allen Chapel to hear special services.

After the exercises opened, Evo A. Lucchina of Barre delivered the Junior Class oration on "Builders of Vermont." He was followed by the Senior orator, Emory Mower of Burlington who delivered "Weighing Values." President Bailey then introduced the main orator of the day, Leon W. Dean of Burlington, author and English instructor in the University. Mr. Dean's oration was well delivered.

MR. DEAN'S ORATION

President Bailey, Members of the Faculties, Students of the University, and Guests:

There is an old adage to the effect that he who laughs last laughs best. But I am sure that it does not apply to the third and last speaker on a program such as this, when the two who have preceded him have so ably discussed the same subject which he must discuss. Yet could neither they nor I, had we much more time at our disposal than has been allotted us today, exhaust the subject which has brought us together here in the Ira Allen Chapel. Ira Allen, the Pioneer' Ira Allen, the Soldier' Ira Allen, the Statesman' Ira Allen the Land holder' Ira Allen the Industrialist' Ira Allen the Scholar' Ira Allen the Martyr' All these are but a few of the facets of the many sided brilliance of his career.

With surveyor's chain and instrument he opened a new country. He withstood with sword and intellect that country's enemies. With his pen he gave that country statehood. He owned large tracts of land in his own name which he dedicated to that country's cause. With an imagination worthy that of the greatest captains of industry, he drew aside the veil of the years and foresaw and planned for that country's industrial future. With the ardor of one who appreciates the value of learning, he agitated and laid the foundation of that country's educational system. He died an exile, because of these things, in poverty and distress, and no man knows his resting place.

Monument to Ira Allen

Only one monument remains to him in recognition of his life's work and service, but that monument, across the granite face of which is scrolled the name Vermont, comprises ten thousand square miles, whose forests have given way to fertile fields, whose once unbridled streams now turn the wheels of commerce, whose people have multiplied and filled the earth with worthy deeds, and whose university that he founded stands here on this hilltop, on the banks of his beloved Winooski, in perpetual memory to him, gathering in, year by year, the sons and daughters of his state, nourishing them, sending them back to build their lives into it, and carry on his labors.

Most' Patriot' Student' Bards have sung his praises. Historians have found in him a fit subject for their romances. Historians have devoted to him their pages. Some day will arise a Wendell Phillips, to brand upon the hearts of men, in the scorching words of a Toussaint L'ouverture, the story of our maiest mountain hero. Then will others come, strangers, to Ira Allen's land, as one has already come, to bend the knee in knightly homage before his shrine, one who in loving tribute has erected this beautiful building of brick and stone, wherein we are met today, for the first time, on an occasion such as this, to do honor and reverence to the spirit which presides here.

Not a Worshipper of Heroes

I was reading the other day the Journals of Emerson, and in those intimate revelations of the great Concord philosopher and man of letters so vividly depicting the hopes, the disappointments, the aspirations, the defeats, the victories of a struggling, serious soul, I was struck by a youthful confession which came to me the more forcibly perhaps because it touched a sympathetic chord in my own breast. Emerson laments his lack of capacity for hero worship, either for his fellow students at Harvard or for the illustrious of the world. I have sometimes been conscious of that same lack in my own life. Yet there has been one theme which has never failed to thrill me, to warm me with a glow of pride, and lift my heart to lead onward. Vermont! And the men and the women who have made her! It was this loyalty, although I hesitate to speak about it before an audience such as this, that brought me back as a boy from a big Massachusetts preparatory school where my classmates were going elsewhere, to attend the university of my native state. It was this same homing instinct that brought me back again after a period of years as an alumnus.

Personality Behind Achievement

If I may be so bold as to lay claim to any profession at all, it is perhaps that ancient, although in this instance humble one, of a teller of tales. As such I am interested in the events of history not so much from their economic or political or social significance as because of the events themselves and for the sake of the men behind them. I prefer to take and hold one in the palm of my hand, like some precious jewel, into which has gone the heart's blood, the brain tissue, the complex emotionalism, the moral fibre, the physical strength or weakness, of some man or woman and watch it shimmer and palpitate there in the blues of mortal hope, the reds of mortal struggle and effort, and the varied hues all mingling, of mortal triumph. What interests me in the rich musical compositions of a destitute Mozart, in the hopeless task, foredoomed to failure, of successfully dredging a Panama Canal, in a Hannibal performing the impossibility of crossing the Alps, or a Foch victoriously retreating from a lost Marne; in the divine portraiture of a Madonna and child, or in a blind Milton with unearthly vision, dictating a Paradise Lost is not the thing itself important as that may be, but that rare combination of mind and hand and spirit which has brought down Promethean fire from heaven and made the thing possible. Behind every great achievement is the personality of some man. His qualities have created it. It is a reflection of his own image.

The Founder's Life

Of Ira Allen I have neither the time nor the desire to enter into detail concerning his works. I know that he came to Vermont as a young man of nineteen, and that later, during some of the state's darkest hours, when imprisonment, death, and the ranks of the Continental Army had taken most of his colleagues, and perils pressed [illegible] he bore its burden almost [illegible] He survived many of our [illegible] he was the most vigorous, [illegible] and indefatigable of all the

VERMONT PRIDE

Once again we celebrate Founder's Day and in the spirit of the occasion a feeling of pride swells within us as we think of the past of our University. The independent spirit of the state a country in itself for a short time gives an interesting background to the history that surrounds the location. We see Lafayette at the ceremony of the laying of a cornerstone, we see the Old Mill being used as a barracks for our country's troops, we see the statesman and our greatest benefactor Ira Allen.

Our Vermont College had at first but one professor, and from that beginning has grown steadily. But the number of favorite members is not so many who interest us as is the quality of those men with here again we are satisfied. Throughout the history of the institution there have been loyal supporters who have stayed on not withstanding the offers of larger and better paying colleges. And it is to these men that we turn with a special sense of respect and gratitude.

[illegible] came to him, a new building [illegible] been given to the University and [illegible] a new feeling of pride has [illegible] through the student body, yet [illegible] before have we had quite so great a reason for this feeling as on [illegible] Founder's Day. Our exercises [illegible] an additional meaning [illegible] next to the Ira Allen [illegible].

WELCOME, NEINA

[illegible] of the University we extend our welcome to the delegates of the New England Intercollegiate [illegible] Association. We feel [illegible] to have such an assemblage at our school. The organization is particularly in the present day spirit of cooperation and exchange of ideas [illegible] it offers a valuable opportunity particularly to the [illegible], perhaps for many from the ex[illegible] of others. The New England [illegible] Newspaper Association [illegible] is being done to improve the situation [illegible] to raise the level of the college [illegible].

[illegible] the members of the various honorary societies were announced [illegible] and we heartily congratulate them in having proved their worth as [illegible] to the degree of such recognition. Honor and responsibility are said to go together, and following out this idea, there has fallen upon these men a great deal of responsibility. Upon the members of the honorary societies and their conduct rests a very large part of the reputation of the colleges, for while a student may be frowned upon for faulty actions, a member of these societies is thoroughly condemned, and as the individual so his alma mater

We call the attention of every student in the University to the interclass sing. Class spirit is none too strong, and this contest gives an opportunity to show what there is and at the same time to built it up. The cup awarded the class that sings best is not only a mark of vocal ability, but also of cooperation and spirit.

Every effort has been put forth to make this new volume as attractive as possible. In addition to the 200 pages printed on dull finished [illegible] paper of excellent quality there [illegible] eight pages of text matter and eight pages of illustrations photographs of the largest and most impressive college football stadiums in America. "Speaking of fine tobaccos
—Have a Camel!"

MODERN smokers find in Camels a nicety of blending, a friendly cordiality of flavor, an inherent goodness that thrills from the first puff to the last. That is why Camels are the favorite of the present age. The warmth of golden sunlight or autumn fields gleams in their smoke. Camels are the modern expression of all that is the finest.

Camel quality and Camel excellence are recognized wherever modern smokers gather. Particular smokers in this hard-to-please age find the best of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos blended in this famous cigarette. They find a consistent goodness that never fails, no matter how liberal the smoking.

And wherever modern smokers gather, wherever the conversation turns to tobacco, to the world's best, someone is sure to say: "Speaking of fine tobaccos . . . —Have a Camel!"

STUDENT TAXI DRIVER WINS ESSAY CONTEST

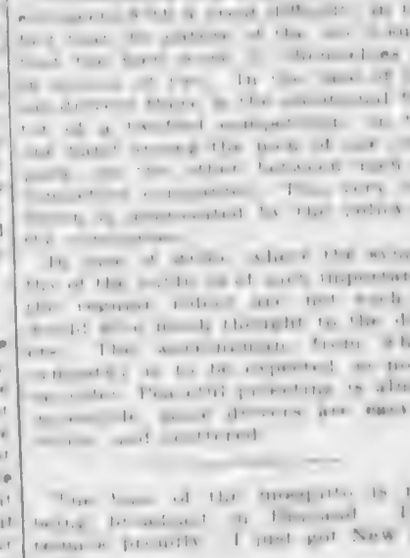
The winner of the Student Work prize of $100 offered by The Nation for the best account by an American college student of summer work in industry or agriculture has been awarded to Sol Auerbach of Philadelphia, a Senior in the University of Pennsylvania. The prize-winning essay "Taxi Mister!" is printed in the current issue of The Nation, dated March 30. Alfland Johnson of Oberlin was awarded the second prize for an account of her experience in a hardware factory and William C. Pattullo of Stanford University received a third prize for his essay "Scrip of the Sea."

The judges in the contest were Jerome Davis, Head of the Department of Social Service at Yale Theodore B. Noyes, President of the Oneida Community, Leo Wolman, Head of the Research Department of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, Florence Kelley, General Secretary of the National Consumers' League and Oswald Garrison Villard, Editor of The Nation.

Students from Yale, Harvard, Michigan, Wisconsin, Johns Hopkins, Bryn Mawr, Oberlin, North Dakota, Northwestern, Sanford and the University of Pennsylvania took part in the contest. Railroading, mining, tanning, dyeing and printing were some of the industries in which the students worked. Several were employed by the Ford Motor Company.

Mr. Auerbach who drove a taxi for the Yellow Cab Company of Philadelphia, says that during his three months of work he has learned as much as in his three years of college and that he is "tickled to death when a page of The History of Aesthetics catches on a callus."

Cement Mixers



"They gave me what was officially known as an 03 cab. The drivers called them "boilers" or "cement mixers." The cab is clumsy and difficult to steer. The gears are as hard to shift as those of a five-ton truck. The car cannot go up the slightest grade on high. It has no self-starter, and since we were not allowed to leave the motor running, our hands from cranking became as calloused as a pine cone."

"We were paid on a purely commission basis of 33 1-3 percent. The cab people had the Sesquicentennial hysteria. There were twice as many Yellow Cabs on the street as in a normal summer. The average pay was about $20 a week to which can be added $10 in tips."

Tips

"When I received my first few tips I felt uncomfortable. It is an awkward moment when you are counting out the change with the question in your mind, 'What will he give me?' Shall I give him a quarter, two dimes and a nickel, or two quarters?' The passenger at the same moment asks himself, 'What shall I give him?' That clever fellow is counting the change with an idea.' Sooner or later the awkward moment becomes a part of the racket. Tips are figured in as part of the earnings and the driver looks upon them as his rightful wages. A quarter is a satisfactory tip. More often we got ten or fifteen cents and many times we were 'left flat.'"

"ALLEGED VALUES"

By Emory C. Mower '27

We are not here for the purpose of commemorating the day upon which this our University was founded. Under the circumstances then it is with respect, love and admiration, that we turn to Ira Allen, that man whose lofty ideals and ultimateness of purpose made possible the founding of this institution; an institution which has well made a name for itself in the realm of education, an institution which has made citizens of this state proud of the name Vermont.

The Founder's Work

Ira Allen at an early stage in his life conceived the idea of making Vermont a state of the Union and of founding within that state an educational institution. Today thanks to his heroic efforts and the assistance of others Vermont is one of the forty-eight states and this University is a thriving college. We may well ask what characteristics in the nature of Ira Allen made possible the carrying through of his purposes to ultimate success? Let us for a few minutes review these splendid elements in his life for the purpose of setting them up as attributes and ideals to be developed in the lives of men and women of Vermont.

Ira Allen's Ideals

Ira Allen owed much of his success to his splendid vision and foresight which created his definite goals and ideals. As he travelled through the lush green valleys and over the verdure clad hills and mountains, as he gazed over the broad expanse of Champlain tranquilly reflecting the sunset's golden glow, he visualized the potentialities of Vermont as a state, rich and productive. And so can we today, passing through the colorful valleys and over the sublime hills of the agricultural world, attempt to visualize the possibilities in our own lives, that we too may set up goals and ideals worthy of men and women of Vermont.

Was Not a Mere Dreamer

[illegible] ideals and goals without the [illegible] and strength to seek them, are [illegible] the makers of dreamers. But Ira [illegible] was courageous he carried with [illegible] of all times the strength of his [illegible] convictions and with doglike [illegible] he stood and fought for the [illegible] of his goals. In his efforts [illegible] the Union recognize Vermont [illegible] he was constantly thwarted [illegible] more frequently he was opposed by more obstacles that beset his paths—the greater was the [illegible] and strength which he developed to cope with them. The compensatory attitude which made his courage valid, was his swiftness of action. Once decided on the proper method of attack he proceeded with [illegible] getting the [illegible] So can [illegible] such fine examples as these, develop the courage of our own convictions, develop the strength or nerve and mind to cope with seemingly impassable barriers, develop that swiftness of action whereby we may be the first to arrive at worthwhile goals and achievements.

Diplomacy

The greatest and finest of the [illegible] which led Ira Allen to [illegible] of the plans was that [illegible] his dexterous dexterity and skill in managing negotiations [illegible] and are vividly revealed throughout his entire career. Witness the most critical period in Vermont's history between 1780 and 1783, during which the Confederation was refusing to admit Vermont, because of the selfish desires of New York and New Hampshire to divide Vermont between themselves, while at the same time Vermont was being threatened by the British forces on the north in Canada. Under the skillful guidance of Ira Allen, Vermont was flirting with the proposition of accepting the British proposal to become a royal colony and to join arms with the British against the Confederation. At the same time Ira Allen was pleading with the Congress of the Confederation to admit Vermont as a state. By dint of his skill Ira Allen was successful in holding off the British attacks for several months, until finally, a resolution was passed in Congress admitting Vermont into the Confederation. This dexterous ability of Ira Allen to manipulate and accomplish his desires in state affairs, was only one phase of his diplomatic ingenuity. The composition of his diplomacy did not consist in pure cunning and subtleness; on the contrary, it consisted in the power to weigh and judge men, in the power to understand human nature, in the power to judge personality, finally in the power to foresee the reactions of men to certain conditions and to make pre-mature provisions for those same reactions—Diplomacy indeed.

Challenge to Vermonters

As we glance over this upheaved and troubled world of ours, as we see France struggling with an unstable currency and a fickle multiple party government, as we see Belgium endeavoring to restore what was once one of the commercial centers of Europe, as we watch England endeavor to cope with an overwhelming problem of unemployment, as we feel the fire of the conflagration of party strife in China, do we not realize the need of Ira Allen in Europe today? As we perceive here in our country the medlers higgling in Congress, as we perceive the seeking of selfish desires of petty and yet powerful politicians, finally as we sense our selfish and precarious attitude toward the League of Nations and other stepping stones to the ideal of World peace, do we not realize the need of Ira Allen in the United States today? The call is universal for men and women capable of forming ideals and goals in their foresight and vision, for those carrying the courage of their own convictions, for those who have developed the fine arts of diplomacy.

Vision Foresight, Ideals, Goals, Courage, Diplomacy, Challenges to men and women of Vermont.

JUNIOR ADDRESS

By Evo A. Lucchino '28

Today we meet again to commemorate the deeds of our founder and to recall the days when our university was brought into existence. We may be well acquainted with the early traditions of Vermont, but we can never exhaust this fountain-head of our academic life. Each Founder's Day as we look back on our university's past, we learn more of the meaning underlying the work of the founder and the early builders of Vermont.

Over a century and a quarter ago our university was opened for instruction. Only once in its existence has our university suspended its work. But although it has maintained continuity of sessions, the University of Vermont has not led a calm, peaceful and assured existence. From its founding until comparatively a short time ago, it has faced numerous crises which have threatened to terminate its life.

University Faces Crises

From the very first Ira Allen met resistance from potent sources. It took ten years after the granting of the charter for the University to open its doors. For ten years, from 1791 to 1801 the University was just a projected corporation. It was only through Ira Allen's determined efforts that Vermont was founded. But the university Ira Allen founded was not to have an easy life. The War of 1812 forced suspension of exercises. Soon after the war, in 1824, the original college building burned and had it not been for the efforts of Professor Porter and the students, the college probably would never have been rebuilt. From then on the University carried on its work. Everything was not gloomy, but at times the crises faced by this small institution were of no small import. Directly after the Civil War, the affairs of the University were in a miserable condition. In his address at the centennial commencement, ex-president Angell painted a dreary picture of the college at the close of the Civil War. He admitted his inability to convey any idea of the prostrate condition of the University at that time. The campus fence was dilapidated and the place growing up to hay. There were only five poorly paid members of the faculty. These men, however, were very much devoted to the institution and were aids in saving it.

The work President Angell began, Doctor Matthew Buckham carried out during his long administration. But it was many years after 1871, when Doctor Buckham became president, that the University became reasonably sure of its mere existence. To achieve this guarantee of continuity, man after man has devoted his efforts to the upbuilding of our University. In the past Vermont has found men capable of solving the multiplicity of its problems. The history of our university is a chronicle of steady building face to face with forces which had threatened to terminate its existence.

Vital Problems Still Exist

Today after inestimable efforts, the existence of our university seems lasting. It would take a mighty catastrophe to wreck utterly the work of scores of men who dedicated themselves to the task of building and maintaining this institution. But even at this date, after a hundred and thirty five years of existence, the University of Vermont is still beset by powerful forces which tend to stagnation and degeneration. The task of building and strengthening the University is far from complete. There are problems today which are as vital as those Ira Allen and his worthy successors solved. While the problems of today are not so obvious as those of the past, these problems are nevertheless vital and pressing. On their immediate and accurate solution depends the nature of the future Vermont.

Builders of Future Vermont

The times and the situation require that along with our duties to maintain traditions, we must solve problems which our predecessors were not called upon to meet. We have been designated builders of the future Vermont. Just as Ira Allen was the original builder, just as scores of other men have been builders of the University, we are to be the builders of Vermont.

There are times when we may glorify the virtues of our university, but there is also a time for consideration of the problems facing us. Certain situations now existing may take trends which will lead to degeneration and stagnation. What are the difficult problems facing Vermont at present? What are the problems that we must solve?

Situation Arising From Large Enrollment

There are many problems facing us, which are of importance, but the most vital are those evolved by the increasing registration of students. These problems are the most pressing now.

The flood of students has brought on situations of greater importance than are apparent at first glance. Vermont has outgrown its facilities in many ways and it is still in the process of growth. Vermont is like a boy who is growing, but is still wearing last year's clothes.

The housing situation is becoming more apparent as time goes on, but this problem does not bulk as large as the fact that over fifty per cent of the students have not the opportunity to take a part in a proper amount of college social life. Most Vermont students meet a few of their fellows at classes, at athletic contests and at a score or so dances, but beyond these only fraternities offer social facilities for less than half of the enrolled students. Some Vermont students have consequently resorted to certain undesirable ways of socializing.

The lack of adequate social facilities will eventually cause situations which will threaten the University. Vermont is in danger of changing from a college community to a college neighborhood. It is the duty of the builders of the future Vermont to guard against this tendency.

The Solution

Although Vermont is growing larger, we must maintain the laudable virtues of the small college. Social intercourse between students is one of these virtues. Vermont has already lost ground in this field. We, the builders of the Vermont of the future must meet the situation and provide the proper facilities.

We have inherited great traditions from our founder and our predecessors. Today we find ourselves faced with problems fully as vital as those which our great [illegible] have met. We [illegible] to be the builders [illegible] mont. Our work [illegible] strengthening [illegible] Vermont.

Catamount's Lair

By Skidvesky '29

After a two-day lay off Coach Dresser's nine resumed practice Wednesday. As no game is scheduled this will not have any bad effect on the team. With five wins and four losses the season is still one ahead of the game and the way the team is going at present there is every reason to believe that the present baseball team is well on the road to a successful season. In fact they have already shown much more promise than the nines of the two past years.

Although Vermont lost to the fast Holy Cross nine by a somewhat one-sided score Coach Dresser is still confident that his charges will send the Purple back to Worcester on the short end of the score in the home game here on June 1. Many of the fans are placing the blame on Chief Fogg for the above loss. These so-called loyal fans do not realize the conditions that he was forced to face. In the first place he received rugged support from his teammates which in itself is enough to discourage any man. The weather was also anything but baseball weather and Captain Fogg is at his best on a hot day. Taking these two things together a well balanced reason can be reached as to who lost the game Tuesday. If anybody should work out the above solution it will be gladly received at the Cynic office on Saturday morning between 10:30 to 11:30.

The Holy Cross game brought out at least one good point and that is the advancement that Talcott is making in the batting department. From all reports he pitched a wonderful game during the last five innings. He allowed the hard hitting Cross men only three singles which resulted in only one tally.

This game also gave Coach Dresser a chance to make a few substitutions. Wadsworth went in at first base during the latter part of the contest and played a nice game for his first stack at the initial sack.

At the start of the season it was thought that outfield would be one of the weakest spots on the nine but from all reports it is one of the best that Vermont has had in a number of years. At present Pyne seems to be the outstanding player in the outfield garden. In nearly every game he has been responsible for the majority of the runs.

Norwich may have won the state championship last year but they will have to travel some to beat out the Catamounts this season. On their recent southern trip they returned in only one with and were on the short end three other times. Coach Bernie is a crack baseball man but even he has his off days. Undoubtedly that was the case when he allowed the Vermont nine but one hit in the last seven innings. He also pitched three ball games in a short space of time and will therefore be unable to work in his season.

Not much is known about the Blue and White yet and it is hoped that they will give the Green and Gold a hot battle that they did last year when the score was close. This is a must for Vermont and a home-coming score for the Blue and White.

A great many got a great laugh out of Track Dope last week from the statement that all events postponed because of rain or snow would be run off Friday or Saturday. But any one that was present Monday afternoon will swear that the statement was more the truth than poetry.

THE YES-AND-NO MAN

There is a man—a certain type—
Right in our midst today.
Who always has two answers
For whatever you may say.

The Yes-and-No Man he is called—
You know the kind I'm sure you know—
Just ask him any question and
He'll tell you, "Yes, and No."

You say there'll be a thunder storm
Because it's been so hot.
"There may," he says with dark despair—
"But then, there may be not."

You ask him how a thing is done;
And after talking long,
"I'm pretty sure I'm right," he says—
"Although I may be wrong."

You ask him if he minds the heat,
Or if he likes the snow
And every time, he always says
With doubt, "Well, yes, and no."

He surely is a pessimist
In everything he says.
He seems to have no worthy points—
But then, perhaps he has.

CAMPUS JARGON

On every college campus one is sure to find a startling variety of slang phrases as applied to parts of the college, people and life. The Campus Cast, University of Southern California paper has compiled a humorous list of words and phrases unknown to Webster.

For instance, a "Tong" is any fraternity; a "giraffe" is one who spoons, a long necker; the "Powder-House Fluff" is the red-hot sorority woman. Co-eds certainly come in for their share. A girl full of life is a "Fever Frau," a dream girl is a "Hothorne Bow-wow," while "Green Peas" and Popeyed Pansy refer to a young ladys who lacks charm.

Some of the common campus expressions are: to "Junk" means to stop; "Pigskins" are football men. "Step-ins" are cut-down flivvers; "Pussyfooting" is a Collegian trying to make a date; and a "Hijacker" is one who steals another's girl. "Hanging the Goober" refers to the art of osculation. "Plush" indicates a student who is stylish and "Pipe the Flight" is to watch the parade of the Co-eds.

The list is unending with these queer phrases which cannot be found in Webster's international if you hunted forever.

Eta Sigma Phi met Tuesday evening in the Old Mill. After the business meeting, the members of the society presented the final scenes of "The Clouds" by Aristophanes.

NEW FINANCE METHODS FOR JUNIOR WEEK

Following the usual method of financial administration of the annual Junior Week has been discussed and gone over by Professor Groat, student advisor and the committee. A new plan drawn up by Professor Groat and submitted to the committee has been accepted. The new plan creates a financial manager who is Charles H Stevens. The plan is as follows:

All expenditures and receipts are to be handled by one man who is a member of the Junior Week Committee to be known as the financial manager.

This man is to keep accounts with the several chairmen and in return is directly responsible to Professor Groat and to Mr. Bruce cashier.

By this method, all monies are to be handled by the manager and he is entirely responsible that his accounts check with those of Mr. Bruce. Thus when C. O. D.'s arrive the slip is turned over to him, he secures the money which is advanced by Mr Bruce, and, after checking the exact number of articles received turns them over to the chairman in charge. The chairman is then responsible for returning the money, or articles not sold, to the financial manager.

In case of small expenditures an itemized account is to be submitted by the chairman to the finance manager and these will be paid from a "petty" cash account.

The changes and additions of this year easily clarify the finance worries of previous years and should be a great help to those in charge. Any bills received should be turned over to the finance manager, Charles H Stevens, for payment.

PHI MU DELTA AGAIN CLAIMS CHAMPIONSHIP

Phi Mu Delta annexed her third interfraternity championship of the year by walking away with the outdoor track meet held last week at Centennial Field. They have copped the basketball and indoor track titles in addition to their latest win.

Led by Sonny Simpson, the strong Phi Mu, with such stars as the Martinetti brothers, Rowe brothers, Arnold, Williamson, Osterhus and Moodie, forged ahead the first day never to be headed afterward. They took seven firsts, three seconds, three thirds and one fourth for a total of 51 points. Their nearest competitor was Sigma Phi with 36½ points, and Sigma Mu followed closely with 34½ points.

Several new finds were uncovered during the course of the meet much to the joy of Coach Latty. Simpson was the outstanding star, but he surprised everyone by winning the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 9 inches. Osterhus, a teammate was a close second with a distance of 19 feet 1½ inches. With a little coaching he could be developed into a fine broad jumper. "Burt" Morse is another find doing the 100 yard stretch in 10⅘ seconds. "Burt" was unheard of before as a trackman, but will be heard a lot of in the future as Coach Latty already has him under his guiding wing. "Reggie" Arnold, a yearling, broke the tape before other well known stars in the mile run, uncorking a beautiful sprint in the last ⅛ of a mile to win by 30 yards. Franchesci, another frosh leaped 5 feet 7 inches into the air to win the high jump. With a little more practise and coaching he should soon be able to go 4 or 5 inches higher. In the 440 yard run "Red" Baldwin crossed the line in 55⅘ seconds in one of the closest races of the meet. "Sam" Howard won the 120 yard high hurdles and "Red" Douglas took the 220-yard low hurdles. The big upset of the meet was when S. Martinetti led to the tape in the half-mile. "Martie" made the statement that he was out to win and he did running the prettiest race of his career. "Sonny" Simpson broke the Eastern Intercollegiate javelin record with his heave of 178 feet. He also took first place in the hammer, shot and discus. Costine captured the 220 yard dash speeding over the line in 23⅘ seconds.

New Features Added to Lilac Day —Vermont Code Formulated —Series of Lectures Given.

Lilac Day will be presented by the outgoing sophomore, and the Green Goddess Junior Week meeting the coming of a most successful year for Mortar Board senior women's honorary society.

At the opening of college the society formulated the Vermont Code which governed by the essentials of the old Vermont Spirit. A copy was given to each freshman and then, later a picnic was held at North Shore for the freshmen.

A series of group lectures for the new girls was given later in the year. Talks were given on activities scholarship fraternities, courtesy and tradition. A plan to take the place of the present freshman rules was suggested.

In addition to all this work with the freshmen, the alumnae have been entertained and two very successful dances have been given.

Last of all there will be Lilac Day. The carrying on of this tradition is memory of Dean Wasson, is Mortar Board's chief function. This year Lee Wright is in charge and several new features are planned. In the afternoon the pageant will take place on the lawn at Redstone. At sundown there will be a buffet supper. Then will come the traditional planting of a lilac tree in Lilac Hedge Row. After this the Lantern Walk which is now the year will take place. As a fitting end of the ceremony there will be the singing of Vermont songs.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT INSTALLS Y.M.C.A. CABINET

There was a service of installation of the officers and cabinet members of the Y. M. C. A. at the City Y last Thursday night at 7:15. Clifford Quad briefly reviewed the work of the Christian Association during the past year, picking out points for special emphasis. Mr. E. L. Ingalls, a member of the Advisory Board of the Y. M. C. A. gave a short installation address, stressing the need of strong personal character in each of the cabinet members and the officers and the cultivation of a spiritual life. He said that the cabinet must work hard to make the Christian Association assume the important place on the campus that it should occupy in college life. The high ideal of Christian living must be striven for.

After the president DeForest Merrill was installed he assumed the leadership of the meeting and formally administered the oath of office to the cabinet and the Handbook Board members.

Many Candidates for Places on Tennis Team

Tennis practice is progressing well under the direction of Coach Carpenter. There seems to be a great spirit in this sport this spring. A large number of candidates report regularly. Among those are Bye, Baldwin and Tasker who are veteran players having won their letters. Beside this there seems to be several promising men in the Freshman class including Macomber, Grace, Borthand and several others. Jack Goddard and Frank Shedd have been playing some fine tennis lately.

Tennis is also taught to various physical training classes in place of baseball. This is a way in which some of the future stars are trained.

MILLIKAN TELLS ABOUT RELATION OF RELIGION, SCIENCE AND PHILOSOPHY

Scientist Who Isolated Electron Traces the Evolution of Religion Through Four Great Stages—Speaks to Large Audience

Robert Andrews Millikan the world famous physicist, lectured an address to a large audience in the University gymnasium last Thursday night. The speaker spoke on the Relation of Science to Philosophy and Religion. He was the first man to isolate the electron and detect the cosmic pulse that throbs in the solar systems of broad girthed planets and infinitesimal atoms.

He began the body of his speech which he intervened by bits of humor by saying that the world is changing in all departments of thinking and that the youth can adapt himself to changed and new knowledge quicker than he can prove.

Trace History of Physics

Dr. Millikan stated that the biggest achievement ever made in physics is the principle of the conservation of energy. In his opinion the scientific ideas of the 18th and 19th centuries were materialistic and that the 19th century scientists had an altogether too high opinion of their amount of knowledge and the limitations of new discoveries to be made. This fact has been proven by many quite new and recent discoveries one of which is that the Stellar Universe is not an area of revolving stars but it has a definite shape a wholeness unity and organization. In fact it is a galaxy of definite shapes. He remarked that it was only in the last 15 years that scientists have been able to peer into the atom. Now it is possible to look inside of the nucleus. But it is by combining the truths discovered in the past with those of the present that the whole notion of growth can be put on a solid foundation.

Talks About Religion

Dr. Millikan stated that in his opinion religion is the best illustration of evolutionary development. Here he deviated from his main topic to remark that the Scopes trial was a great educational conference. It set people to thinking of religion and in bringing the basis of all character in reflective mentality.

The first stage in the development of religion began when primitive man found himself surrounded by enemies and the forces of nature. The result was that he personified nature when he could account to be the greatest, and originated the idea of propitiating his God through human sacrifice. Abraham reflected or in more commonplace words God spoke to Abraham through the still small voice of reflection. The outcome was the abolition of human sacrifice for the sacrifice of animals.

Then came the second stage the full conception of God and Duty through Jesus Christ and the realization that God is not a man but a spirit. His spirit is one of benevolence and His gospel is love. With the exception these laws here and are many forward steps yet it gains a greater hold on man as the centuries roll by.

Galileo Changes Concepts

The discovery of the third step came when Galileo defined the relation between cause, time and motion according to Dr. Millikan. It changed the whole basis of the universe. It created the idea of a God who ruled through Law. Two hundred years more of experience ushered in the idea of a continuously developing world. The speaker considered this the fourth and last stage.

Dr. Millikan went on to say that science recognizes nothing outside of knowledge, therefore the science of philosophy cannot be ascertained. In closing he remarked that if the church focuses its energies on making a better world and at the same time keeps up with scientific discoveries it will be an overpowering influence in the world. If the church doesn't do this it will be swept into obscurity and a new religion will take its place.

He closed with the humble statement that modern science has learned to work harmoniously with its God and that the world has only begun to touch the borders of oceans of knowledge and understanding.

WOMEN'S DEBATING TEAM WINS BY DEFAULT

The Women's Debate with St. Lawrence University, scheduled for April 16 at Canton, N. Y., was cancelled Tuesday by the St. Lawrence debaters, the Vermont team thereby winning a so-called "joyless victory." The teams were to debate the question of cancellation of War debts and Vermont was to uphold the negative.

In January the team won a unanimous decision over the Middlebury college women on the question of uniform marriage and divorce laws. Although it is late in the season, one more contest may be scheduled away from Burlington.

Vermont is represented in debate by Marion Freeman '30, Janice Goodrich '29, Mary Kone '29, and Bertha Wiese '29, alternate.

THE YES-AND-NO MAN

There is a man—a certain type—
Right in our midst today.
Who always has two answers
For whatever you may say.

The Yes-and-No Man he is called—
His kind I'm sure you know—
Just ask him any question, and
He'll tell you, "Yes, and No."

You say there'll be a thunder storm
Because it's been so hot.
"There may," he says with dark despair—
"But then, there may be not."

You ask him how a thing is done;
And after talking long,
"I'm pretty sure I'm right," he says—
"Although I may be wrong."

You ask him if he minds the heat,
Or if he likes the snow
And every time, he always says
With doubt, "Well, yes, and no."

He surely is a pessimist
In everything he says.
He seems to have no worthy points—
But then, perhaps he has!

CAMPUS JARGON

On every college campus one is sure to find a startling variety of slang phrases as applied to parts of the college people and life. The Campus Cat, University of Southern California paper has compiled a humorous list of words and phrases unknown to Webster.

For instance, a "Tong" is any fraternity; a "giraffe" is one who spoons, a long necker; the "Powder-House Fluff" is the red hot sorority woman. Co-eds certainly come in for their share. A girl full of life is a "Fever Frau," a dream girl is a "Hothouse Row-wow," while "Green Peas" and "Pop-eyed Pansy" refer to a young lady who lacks charm.

Some of the common campus expressions are: to "Junk" means to stop; "Pigskins" are football men. "Step-ins" are cut-down flivvers; "Pussyfooting" is a Collegian trying to make a date; and a "Hijacker" is one who steals another's girl. "Hanging the Goober" refers to the art of osculation. "Plush" indicates a student who is stylish and "Pipe the Flight" is to watch the parade of the Co-eds.

The list is unending with these queer phrases which cannot be found in Webster's international if you hunted forever.

Eta Sigma Phi met Tuesday evening in the Old Mill. After the business meeting, the members of the society presented the final scenes of "The Clouds" by Aristophanes.

Floyd James '27, chairman of the blazers committee of the Senior class, has made arrangements to post a list of blazers received at S. J. O'Neill. The list will be found on the Old Mill bulletin board when the blazers arrive.

"BAB," JUNIOR WEEK PLAY, WILL BE GIVEN MAY 19 AT THE STRONG THEATRE

Mrs. Taggart Busily Coaching Cast Containing Stars of Former College Plays—Rehearsals Held Daily

"Bab," a farcical comedy in four acts by Edward Childs Carpenter, adapted from the novel of the same name by Mary Roberts Rinehart, will be presented May 19 as the Junior Week play. It is a lively story of an uncontrollable sub-deb who meets with unexpected success when she engineers her family's affairs. Measles and other complications combine to make hilarious situations. A résumé of the plot appeared in an earlier issue.

Rehearsals are being held daily under the direction of Mrs. C. Ives Taggart, the successful coach of numerous college plays. The title rôle is taken by Elizabeth L. Johnson '27, of Cromwell, Connecticut. Roger H. Wise '28, leading man in "Captain Applejack," plays opposite her as Peter Brooks. The parts of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald, Bab's father and mother, have been assigned to Herbert M. Macomber '30 and Dorothy Mitchell '29, both of Burlington, and as part of Lelia, Bab's sister, is taken by Muriel F. Cleveland. Lyman M. Keenan '30, of Bridgeport, Conn., is the Honorable Clinton Berestord, and F W McGinley '27, of Adirondack, N Y is Guy Grosvenor. Gladys E Hagaboom '29 is cast as Jane Raleigh and William M. Lockwood '27 as Eddie Hawkins. The parts of Hannah and Abraham are taken by Dorothy H. Strong '29, of Hyde Park, and Whitney D Safford '28, of Burlington.

NEW FINANCE METHODS FOR JUNIOR WEEK

During the past month the financial situation of the coming Junior Week has been discussed and gone over by Professor Groat student advisor and the chairman. A new plan drawn up by Professor Groat and submitted to the committee has been accepted. The new plan creates a financial manager who is Charles H. Stevens. The plan is as follows:

All expenditures and receipts are to be handled by one man, who is a member of the Junior Week Committee, to be known as the financial manager.

This man is to keep accounts with the several chairmen and in return is directly responsible to Professor Groat and to Mr. Bruce, cashier.

By this method, all monies are to be handled by the manager and he is entirely responsible that his accounts check with those of Mr. Bruce. Thus when C. O. D.'s arrive the slip is turned over to him, he secures the money which is advanced by Mr. Bruce, and, after checking the exact number of articles received, turns them over to the chairman in charge. The chairman is then responsible for returning the money, or articles not sold, to the financial manager.

In case of small expenditures an itemized account is to be submitted by the chairman to the finance manager and these will be paid from a "petty" cash account.

The changes and additions of this year easily clarify the finance worries of previous years and should be a great help to those in charge. Any bills received should be turned over to the finance manager, Charles H Stevens, for payment.

PHI MU DELTA AGAIN CLAIMS CHAMPIONSHIP

Phi Mu Delta annexed her third interfraternity championship of the year by walking away with the outdoor track meet held last week at Centennial Field. They have copped the basketball and indoor track titles in addition to their latest win.

Led by Sonny Simpson, the strong Phi Mu, with such stars as the Martinetti brothers, Rowe brothers, Arnold, Williamson, Osterhus and Moodie, forged ahead the first day never to be headed afterward. They took seven firsts, three seconds, three thirds and one fourth for a total of 51 points. Their nearest competitor was Sigma Phi with 36½ points, and Sigma Mu followed closely with 34½ points.

Several new finds were uncovered during the course of the meet much to the joy of Coach Latty Simpson was the outstanding star, but he surprised everyone by winning the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 9 inches. Osterhus, a teammate, was a close second with a distance of 19 feet 1½ inches. With a little coaching he could be developed into a fine broad jumper. "Burt" Morse is another find doing the 100-yard stretch in 10⅘ seconds. "Burt" was unheard of before as a trackman, but will be heard a lot of in the future as Coach Latty already has him under his guiding wing. "Reggie" Arnold, a yearling, broke the tape before other well-known stars in the mile run, uncorking a beautiful sprint in the last ¼ of a mile to win by 30 yards. Franchesci another frosh, leaped 5 feet 7 inches into the air to win the high jump. With a little more practise and coaching he should soon be able to go 4 or 5 inches higher. In the 440-yard run "Red" Baldwin crossed the line in 55⅘ seconds in one of the closest races of the meet. "Sam" Howard won the 120-yard high hurdles and "Red" Douglas took the 220-yard low hurdles. The big upset of the meet was when S Martinetti led to the tape in the half mile. "Martie" made the statement that he was out to win and he did running the prettiest race of his career. "Sonny" Simpson broke the Eastern Intercollegiate javelin record with his heave of 178 feet. He also took first place in the hammer, shot and discus. Costine captured the 220-yard dash speeding over the line in 23⅘ seconds.

MEMBERS OF MORTAR BOARD ACCOMPLISH MUCH DURING YEAR

New Features Added to Lilac Day —Vermont Code Formulated —Series of Lectures Given.

Lilac Day, which is preceded by the planting ceremony and is now instituted Lantern Walk, marks the closing of a most successful year for Mortar Board senior women's honorary society.

At the opening of college the society formulated the Vermont Code which consisted of the essentials of the old Vermont Spirit. A copy was given to each freshman girl. Then, too a picnic was held at North Shore for the freshmen.

A series of group lectures for the new girls was given later in the year. Talks were given on activities, scholarship, fraternities, courtesy and tradition. A plan to take the place of the present freshman rules was suggested.

In addition to all this work with the freshmen the alumnae have been entertained and two very successful dances have been given.

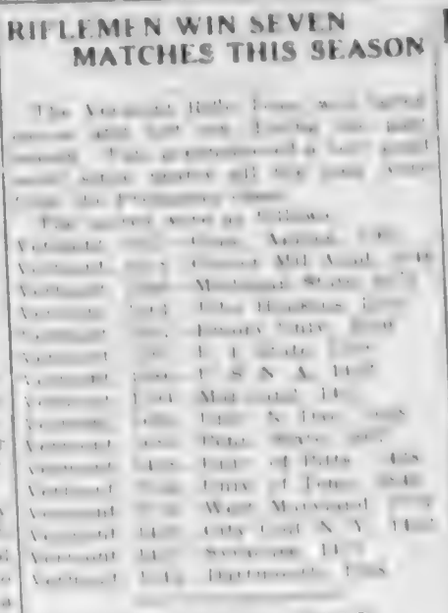
Last of all there will be Lilac Day. The carrying on of this tradition in memory of Dean Wasson is Mortar Board's chief function. This year Dee Wright is in charge and several new features are planned. In the afternoon the pageant will take place on the lawn at Redstone. At sundown there will be a buffet supper. Then will come the traditional planting of a lilac tree in Lilac Hedge Row. After that the Lantern Walk which is now this year will take place. At first it was planned that only representative girls should walk, but it has been decided that all Vermont girls may take part. As a fitting end of the ceremony there will be the singing of Vermont songs.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT INSTALLS Y.M.C.A. CABINET

There was a service of installation of the officers and cabinet members of the Y M C A. at the City Y last Thursday night at 7:15. Clifford Quad briefly reviewed the work of the Christian Association during the past year, picking out points for special emphasis. Mr E L Ingalls a member of the Advisory Board of the Y M C A gave a short installation address stressing the need of strong personal character in each of the cabinet members and the officers and the cultivation of a spiritual life. He said that the cabinet must work hard to make the Christian Association assume the important place on the campus that it should occupy in college life. The high ideal of Christian living must be strived for.

After the president, Delbert Merrill was installed he assumed the leadership of the meeting and formally administered the oath of office to the cabinet and the Hatchland Board members.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE PLAN ALL DAY RETREAT



The Baptist Discussion Group of College Students are planning a one day Retreat on Starr Farm Beach on May 8th. Paul Judson Morris Director of Religious Education in Vermont, and Mrs. Katherine Foster, National Student Secretary under the Baptist Board of Education are to be the principal speakers. Various committees are already at work planning for food and means of transportation.

RIFLEMEN WIN SEVEN MATCHES THIS SEASON

JUNIORS ARE TO HOLD BANQUET AT VERMONT

The Junior Banquet is to be held this year in the dining room of the Hotel Vermont at 7 P M. Wednesday May 18. It is generally the custom for the class to be divided into couples as much as possible with one member of each couple either man or woman a member of the Junior Class. This takes care of all guests of members of the class present for the events of the week. This is not to discourage any who are planning on attending alone but merely to make it clear that guests are admitted.

A four piece orchestra will furnish music during the meal. About 8 o'clock the program of speeches and after dinner talent will be given with President Charles Stevens as toastmaster. The affair will be over by 9 o'clock early enough to enjoy the spring evening or study as the case may be.

The price per plate is $1.75 which is said to be very reasonable for the menu that is provided. Tickets will be on sale about two weeks previous to the date by members of the Committee. It is desired that those wishing to attend make arrangements early so the exact number attending will be known before the time of the banquet.

Many Candidates for Places on Tennis Team

Tennis practice is progressing well under the direction of Coach Carpenter. There seems to be a great spirit in this sport this spring. A large number of candidates report regularly. Among those are Scott Baldwin and Tarrant who are veteran players having won their insignias. Beside this there seem to be several promising men in the Freshman class including Macomber, Gray Rowland and several others. Phil Goddard and Frank Shedd have been playing some fine tennis lately.

Tennis is also subject to various physical training classes in place of baseball. This is a way in which some of the future stars are trained.

MILLIKAN TELLS ABOUT RELATION OF RELIGION, SCIENCE AND PHILOSOPHY

Scientist Who Isolated Electron Traces the Evolution of Religion Through Four Great Stages—Speaks to Large Audience

Robert Andrews Millikan the world famous physicist, delivered an address to a large audience in the University gymnasium last Thursday night. The speaker spoke on the Relation of Science to Philosophy and Religion. He was the first man to isolate the electron, and detect the cosmic pulse that throbs in the solar systems of suns and spiral planets and infinities round about.

He began the body of his speech which he concerned by bits of humor by saying that the world is changing in all departments of thinking and that the youth can adapt himself to changes and new knowledge quicker than his parent.

Trace History of Physics

Dr Millikan stated that the biggest generalization ever made in physics is the principle of the conservation of energy. In his opinion the scientific ideas of the 18th and 19th centuries were materialistic and that the 19th century scientists had an altogether too high opinion of their amount of knowledge and the limitations of new discoveries to be made. This fact has been proven by many quite new and recent discoveries one of which is that the stellar Universe is not an area of rambling stars but it has a definite shape a wholeness unity and organization in fact it is a galaxy of definite shapes. He remarked that it was only in the last 25 years that scientists have been able to peer into the atom. Now it is possible to look inside of the nucleus. But it is by combining the truths discovered in the past with those of the present that the whole notion of growth can be put on a solid foundation.

Talks About Religion

Dr Millikan stated that in his opinion religion is the best illustration of evolutionary development. Here, he deviated from his main topic to remark that the Scopes trial was a most educational occurrence. It set people to thinking of religion and in his opinion the basis of all character is reflective mentality.

The first stage in the development of religion began when primative man found himself surrounded by enemies and the forces of nature. The result was that he personified nature when his mind seemed to be the greatest, and originated the idea of propitiation to his God through human sacrifice. Abraham reflected on in more constructive words God spoke to Abraham through the still small voice of reflection. The outcome was the abolition of human sacrifice for the sacrifice of animals.

Then came the second stage. The new conception of God and Deity through Jesus Christ and the realization that God is not a man but a spirit. His spirit is one of benevolence and His gospel is love. With this conception there have been and are many backward steps yet it gains a greater hold on man as the centuries roll by.

Galileo Changes Concepts

The dawning of the third step came when Galileo defined the relation between force and motion according to Dr Millikan. It changed the whole plan of the universe. It created the idea of a God who ruled through Law.

Three hundred years more of experience ushered in the idea of a continually developing world. The speaker considered this the fourth and last stage.

Dr Millikan went on to say that science moreover has its outside of intellectual knowledge therefore the future of individual control be ascertained. In closing he commented that if the church focuses its energies on making a better world and at the same time keeps up with scientific movements it will be an ever-growing influence in the world. If the church doesn't do this it may be swept into oblivion and a new religion will take its place.

He closed with the humble statement that modern science has learned to walk humbly with its God and that the world has only begun to touch borders of oceans of knowledge and understanding.

[illegible] and undergraduates are heartily welcome to. All communications [illegible] the writer, whose name will not be printed if so desired. Any brief [illegible] may be handed in at the Cynic office [illegible] to 2936 before 9 p. m. Monday and Wednesday.

CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRESS

The [illegible] of the New England Intercollegiate Newspaper Association which was held here this week-end has been of much value to the editors and managers by way of suggestion and [illegible] how various phases of the work were carried out and situations met at other colleges. Naturally enough a new rush of ambition for the welfare of the paper results and in this particular instance we are thinking of one department known as Campus Comment.

The college paper serves several functions. It publishes the news of the campus, it provides a convenient way of making announcements it can provide a permanent record of activities on the undergraduate world [illegible] but we feel that the Cynic is at last starting to reach the ears and be living well but perhaps the most important phase namely that of [illegible] thought seems to be sadly neglected. There is a very decided [illegible] of student expression in the columns of the paper, and we believe that this fact has no good excuse to [illegible] it.

[illegible] to confront with an infinite [illegible] the conservatism with [illegible] progress seems to be a virtue, and [illegible] changes only through intelligent thought and discussion. The [illegible] number of people addressed [illegible] is the number of responses

POINT SYSTEM

We are glad to see that the women [illegible] something about their point system, that they appreciate the worth of such a method in dealing with activities and are actively supporting it. The plan is unquestionably of value and should in general be given more attention. The fact that certain men [illegible] have too many points and that it would be embarrassing to ask them to drop certain activities is one that may well be considered and in all justice should be, but that does not prevent the taking of steps to keep the same situation from arising year after year.

A valuable man may start out on his college career by trying many different lines of activity and by his senior year find himself heading several kinds of work. Having started in on a given line of endeavor he naturally follows it up and accepts promotion in it. Then there is the situation where a man finds himself unable to resign from certain positions though he knows that he should and would like to do so, his friends and associates need him in the given position and he feels that he must go on with it. Sometimes the idea of loyalty to fraternity keeps a man in an activity when he knows that he should drop it.

Not only to give more people a chance to develop their powers and to do justice to the activity and be fair to the University whose reputation is involved but also and especially to protect the individual who has a generalized ability from being overburdened when the senior year comes round, the men's point system should be carefully considered, and revised and steps should be taken to insure its enforcement.

Columbia Student Wins Essay Prize on "Have Am. Students Neurosis?"

[illegible] 16. Randall E. Riley [illegible]30 was awarded the prize [illegible] offered by the New York [illegible]est for the best answer to [illegible]tion "Has the American [illegible]ate a Post-War Neurosis?" W. Marting, Princeton 1927, a second prize of $50.00, and [illegible] McDill, Yale 1927, third prize.

[illegible]ing to Riley, first prize win[illegible] picture that has been painted [illegible]sioned youth seeking suicide [illegible]ultimate resource is "fanciful [illegible]est degree." "The press of late [illegible]ies, "has dwelt upon what it [illegible] a 'wave' of student suicides. A [illegible] alarm is evident as to whether [illegible] the youth of the land, and in [illegible]lar the supposedly choice part [illegible] in American colleges, is ex[illegible]ing a reaction of pessimism [illegible] self-destruction.

[illegible] authorities, chiefly pedagog[illegible] ministerial in nature, issue [illegible] judgment to the effect the [illegible] is the direct result of a 'flam[illegible] youth' period of modern history. [illegible] picture drawn is exceedingly de[illegible]ing. Youth, worn out by illicit [illegible] high-powered pleasure, turns to [illegible] morbid philosophers of guidance. [illegible]roughly disillusioned by the latter, [illegible] becomes their ultimate re[illegible].

"All this is fanciful to the last de[illegible] College youths, after all, are [illegible] high school boys grown a little older, a little more assertive, but still only boys. Matriculation does not age the student, nor even perceptibly ma[illegible] him. An observer concealed in a classroom would notice the same appreciation of a clever joke, the same indifference to an arid topic, the same attitude toward study that characterizes all secondary schools. In the majority of cases studies are 'taken,' not 'pursued.' The dread of a 'snap' quiz, rather than a zestful interest in the subject is the typical student obsession.

"Petting, gambling, drinking? For a small fraction prone to such pastimes, perhaps, but the overwhelming majority? Here are a few standard pleasures: boxing, swimming, wrestling, fencing—and most spectacular of all—yelling one's throat to shreds at mighty football contests. To discuss college boys as mature and reflecting is absurd. They are glorified school boys, knowing little of and caring less for 'flaming' parties and gloomy lore.

"It is required of all freshmen at Columbia College to study the greater part of Dr. Randall's 'Making of the Modern Mind,' a survey of philosophy. It was the writer's experience to hear nothing but emphatic denunciation of the volume throughout the period of its perusal. It was anathematized for dullness and incomprehensibility. If it were the intention of the faculty to instill a love for philosophy in the students, it failed dismally. Of course, a few, a precious, elusive few, appreciated and admired the book. They will probably continue the study of philosophy. They are notably the smartest and most intelligent of the writer's acquaintance. They are not 'flaming' youths seeking an excuse for suicide.

"In short, the earnest and despondent student of philosophy is twice as rare as that other comparatively rara avis the debauched student. The latter [illegible]

"The publicity given these cases, coupled with the popularization of the idea of 'the jazz age' thanks to 'the wild younger generation' has aroused public opinion and the press and we, the much-talked-of youth find ourselves either the recipient of condolence and patronizing sympathy or the object of vitriolic attacks and dire prophecy.

With this brief analysis of the situation as it stands, I can only present in this limited space some of the views which undergraduates entertain from which the reader may draw his implications concerning a neurotic tendency in youth.

"The war itself and the peace which followed present a large portion of the older generation as a lot of selfish short-sighted, blundering hypocrites. We have learned that. We have learned that education is never done, that it is a life process which leads but to the grave. We know that death is a gigantic mystery and that every religion known to man promises a different state of existence after death, (or of non-existence).

"I can conceive of the type of mind which could not resist the temptation to explore that unknown state. But I would maintain that he has somewhere missed that value in itself called 'the pure joy of living.' He has not experienced true love and he has not reached the point in the educational process where reading and philosophical speculation take on the aspect of a game of solving the many mysteries of life. I am not speaking here of the suicides for other reasons, like financial trouble or ill health.

"Undergraduates are divided into two groups—those who think independently and those who merely exist at college because they were sent there by parents who rode the crest of the financial wave during the war. The two groups are popularly confused. One is characterized by inane college pranks, wild orgic parties and a vulgar display of wealth. The other astounds the church fathers and worshipers of tradition by so-called radical ideas. Distracted parents join hands with authority in combating this defiant attitude. Authority makes rules which the unthinking disregard and the thinking ignore. Parents are too weak to cut off the liberal allowance, and you cannot legislate away [illegible]

SECOND TEAM PLAYS LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

This afternoon the Second team will open its season against the local high [illegible] game promises to be a [illegible] Head and Gibson have one of the strongest nines that Burlington High has put out in recent years. Although the make-up will be much different than last year because of the losses through graduation, the locals are out to show the [illegible] that they intend to keep the pill. Coach Hard will start the game with a veteran battery with Captain Gadue doing the hurling and Preston on the receiving end. Lawton will play the initial sack with Nolan a possible substitute. Lyon Keene is nursing a [illegible] and has secured and will probably [illegible] in the starting line up. Knight, the only veteran of last year's infield will hold down short while either Chase or Jackson will start at the hot corner. Doyle, Larrow and Powell will make the outfield.

Under the able work of Coach Collopy the Seconds have developed into a fast ball club and they are out to keep up the record made by the Seconds during the past two years. In a practice game played Saturday afternoon the Varsity beat out the Seconds by a 5 to 1 score. Although the fielding of the losers was rather ragged at times they seemed to hit almost as well as the varsity. Talcott pitching for the Seconds hurled a fine game and had it not been for the poor support behind him the results might have been different.

Coach Collopy's starting line up will probably be as follows. O'Keefe at first, "Abe" Valenti at second, Schurman short stop and either Chadwick or Burr at third with the odds in favor of the former. In the outfield Coach Collopy has a large amount of material to pick from but the starting trio will probably be Whitcomb in right, Robinson at center and Sirois in left. Bert Morse will probably be seen at one of the infield positions before long, but at present he is suffering from a sore hand and will be unable to take the field this afternoon.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE FOR NEXT YEAR WILL INCLUDE NEW TEAMS

Holy Cross and Dartmouth Will Play Catamounts—Yale Tournament Again Figures in Team's Trip

The Vermont Basketball Schedule [illegible] and with it appears several new [illegible]'s. The most outstanding are [illegible] Cross and Dartmouth. The [illegible] is on the schedule as a home [illegible] while the latter is on a year [illegible]. The other new comers are New [illegible]shire and the Montreal Y M [illegible] A. No games have been scheduled [illegible] M. A. C., Harvard and Conn [illegible], although the latter may ap[illegible] here on the pending date, Feb[illegible]ary 14.

On the whole the schedule is much better balanced than this year's. The longest break coming between January 11 and February 3 which occurs during mid-term exams. Out of twenty-one games, nine are to be played on the home court. The stiffest part of the schedule comes during February when the Green and Gold goes up against Springfield twice, Holy Cross once and Middlebury once all within nine days.

The return of the Crusaders will be welcomed by the majority of fans as they always have the reputation of being a good club.

The usual two game series with each of the other state colleges will take place as before.

The Yale Tournament is agin listed and with any kind of luck Vermont should bring home the bacon. This year the Catamounts missed out by a hair when Holy Cross nosed them out in the final minutes of play. On the next night the Green and Gold had little trouble in turning back the lost Tufts outfit.

The schedule:

DIAMOND ACES LEAVE FOR TWO GAME TRIP INTO NEW YORK STATE

The Catamount horsehiders are on a two day invasion of New York state this weekend. St. Lawrence University entertains the Vermonters today at Canton, and the Clarkson Engineers will line up against them tomorrow afternoon at Potsdam.

St. Lawrence was defeated in a practice game last week by the Cape Vincent nine 6 to 4. The game showed that the Scarlet was weak at the bat. Coach Sullivan has been putting his charges through some stiff batting practices during the past few days. He believes that his team can give a good account of itself this afternoon. The team will probably line up as follows:

Keller, cf; Heister, 2b; Williams, [illegible] Skvorak, lf; Eckhardt, rf; Mc[illegible] 3b Tenney, ss, Reilley, c. The [illegible]er will be picked from O'Brien, [illegible]ingham, Woodlock, Byers and [illegible]cke.

Clarkson has several veterans of last year's team and should give plenty of competition. The Tech boys always display a fine brand of baseball. Last year they were not able to hit Moriarty in the pinches and beat him 3 to 0. Their defense after the third inning was air tight. This year the batting department is much better and should give the Green and Gold pitchers something to worry about.

Coach Dresser's team will be the same as the one which has started all the games to date. No decision has been made yet as to who will pitch the New York games.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT TO HOLD COMPETITION

Tuesday morning the Military Department will institute an innovation in its system of preparation for the annual Federal Inspection. Between the hours of ten and two thirty there will be a drill competition to select the best drilled Sophomore and Freshman, from the university battalion. A silver loving cup will be awarded to the winners of each class by the Scabbard and Blade Society. Judges for this purpose will be chosen from Army Officers from Fort Ethan Allen.

The Federal Inspection of the U. V. M. Reserve Officers Training Corps will be held here on May 9 and 10. The Inspectors are Major John P. McLane of the United States Cavalry and Major Edwin P. Parker, Jr., of the Artillery.

Colonel G. Jegro Holden states that the battalion is in very commendable form and feels confident that it will make a creditable showing.

JUNIOR VARSITY NINE TO PLAY FIVE GAMES

Manager George K. Leary has completed the schedule for the Junior Varsity Baseball team. With the able coaching of "Jim" Collopy a good team has been formed. The battery consisted of Woods, and Santoire as pitchers with "Eddie" Young behind the plate. O'Keefe will hold down the initial sack. A great race is on between Schurman, Valenti and Morse for second and shortstop. Burr and Chadwick are scrapping over third. The outfield is not yet fixed although Whitcomb, Sirois, Knapp, and Harwood have the edge on the others. The schedule is as follows.

- May 3 Burlington High here.
- May 12 Fort Ethan Allen here.
- May 14.—Jeffersonville A. A.—there.
- May 17—Lakeside A. A.—here.
- May 26 Burlington High there.

Several leters sent out by the manager have not been answered as yet so that a larger schedule than above may be played by the Junior varsity nine.

HAZEL LADD AND ROGER ALLBEE IN TITLE ROLES

The production of Purcell's opera Dido and Aeneas by the Glee Clubs in the Congregational this Saturday evening will mark an event in the history of the Glee Clubs and of the artistic life of the University. So far as is known, this is the first production of a grand opera with action and costume by Burlington for many years. In producing one of the great operas of the past, Vermont is following the recent example of other colleges and universities in Europe and America.

The opera opens in the throne room of Dido's palace in Carthage. Dido's courtiers await the entrance of their great queen with pomp and ceremony. Belinda, Dido's confidante, deplores the sadness of the queen and suggests that the cause is Aeneas prince of Troy. Their distinguished guest. Belinda and the chorus assure the queen that Aeneas is also in love and they hail the prospect of the union of two such illustrious rulers and kingdoms. Aeneas approaches with his train and presses his suit with Dido who seems not averse to his pleading. The scene ends with a chorus of rejoicing and a triumphing dance.

Scene two transfers from classical surroundings to a witches scene. A sorceress in one of the most dramatic scene of the opera commands her wayward sisters the witches to appear and reveals her plot against Dido whom they hate as they do all to prosperous state. One witch is to impersonate Mercury and command Aeneas to leave Carthage. The witches rejoice in hellish glee there is thunder and horrid music and the scene terminates with an echo chorus in which the strains of the witches are repeated by mysterious voices off stage.

The third scene takes place in a grove. Belinda sings the praises of the valor which Diana herself might heed and Dido's attendant recalls that here Acteon met his fate, pursued by his own hounds. Aeneas enters proud of his most recent exploit the slaying of a wild boar. But Belinda seeing a storm approach exhorts all to hasten back to town. Aeneas leaving last is detained by the spirit in the form of Mercury, who commands him to leave Carthage at once. In one of the most expressive moments of the opera Aeneas ever pious, bewails his misfortune but bows to the will of the gods. He goes out to give orders to the sailors who enter a moment later not at all downcast at the prospect of leaving their harbors on the shore and plan to "silence their mourning with vows of returning, though never intending to visit them more."

The fourth scene is again among the witches who count in the success of their plot and prophesy the death of Dido and the burning of Carthage. They carry in a witches' cauldron and perform uncanny rites about it, throwing frogs toes and other vile bits dear to witches into the murky brew.

The last scene again takes place in Dido's palace. Aeneas breaks the news that the gods demand his departure. Dido upbraids him for his faithlessness. Aeneas swears he will obey in spite of all but Dido will [illegible] of it. She stabs herself [illegible] Belinda in the most beautiful [illegible] of the entire opera [illegible] her. "When I am laid in [illegible] may no wrongs create no [illegible] on the breast. Remember [illegible] ah forget my fate." she [illegible] the [illegible] pausing but on [illegible] the final chorus [illegible] weeps to Cupids [illegible] and [illegible] tears on her tomb [illegible] and gentle peace at her heart. The cast is as follows: Dido queen of Carthage, Hazel Ladd. Belinda her confidante, Marian Miller. Aeneas [illegible] of Troy, R. H. Allbee; 1st [illegible] [illegible] and 2nd [illegible] [illegible] 1st Witch [illegible] and 2nd Witch Myriam Low [illegible] H. L. Goddard. At [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Great Seal of the State has been affixed to the proclamation that the last week in May is to be known as Mother's Day. It is a tribute of love and respect for all mothers and for a nation steeped in philanthropic and patriotic work. The churches too recognize this day. The flag of the United States will be hung from schools and colleges, state buildings and homes in honor of the mothers of the land.

Everyone is thinking of mother and great men are saddened and saddened by the power of the word Mother. Men not so great realize that all the good in the world is not as precious as the mother's love that they have known. Everyone is buying gifts for mother. Everyone is going to the florists to buy a pink carnation or perhaps a white one.

Still it is sadly true that the spirit of Mother's Day may flee with the withering of the flower. In less than a week both the spirit and flower may be dead. To cherish the spirit, whatever the day, whatever the season, however great the number of others that lie between, everyone owes this to his mother. For her love is as that burns, a white candle in a holy place, eternally.

The Women's Editor

We all look forward to Junior Week with enthusiasm and perhaps the one feature that draws the greatest number from the customary pursuits of college life is the play. Whether attending everything or passing the time in solitary quietude, we want to see the play. And in connection with this feature comes the parade, a series of the productions of wit and a general merry-maker. To stay out of the parade is to deprive one's self and others of a good time and denying a good excuse to justify the action. Then the play is deserving of our support in that the actors have spent long and sometimes weary hours in rehearsal and the least we can do is to help on the financial side by paying in the local advertising. The parade is famous among the townspeople and affords a great deal of fun to the extent of buying favors. Individual as well as group effort is needed and everyone has an equal chance to become famous and at the same time be of service to others.

Fathers Inspection is to be made the first of next week and to a considerable degree the reputation of the University is dependent thereon. We have for several years now enjoyed the glory of being in the distinguished class and have compared very favorably with institutions that are of a strictly military character.

Whether or not Vermont is again selected for distinction depends upon the calibre of our men, their ability to think quickly and accurately, their self-possession and willingness to do their best. Experience of other years has shown that the federal officers are reasonable in their demands and fair in their methods. Our own officers are some of the very best in their profession and have done all they can for us, thus leaving the responsibility entirely upon the undergraduate body. Knowing Vermont men as we do, and trusting in the Vermont spirit, we expect to make a good showing next week.

COLLEGIATE STORY IS WANTED BY NEWSPAPERS

"Collegiate stuff" continues to be wanted by the newspapers. Football, college morals, the "revolt," and, during the past few months, the "suicide wave" still made good copy for the daily papers.

The latest efforts along this line is a proposal for an international newspaper service of student writers by the United Feature Syndicate of New York, an organization owned and operated by the United Press.

As a starting point for this service the Syndicate has sent out a call for student articles, not to exceed 500 words, "giving a direct, vitalized and intelligent cross-section of youthful thought and outlook." Five or six of the most important and interesting articles so secured will be organized into a weekly service for Saturday or Sunday publications. Thirty-three and one third percent of the gross proceeds from the sale of the articles will go to the writers.

Here are a few of the twelve suggested topics:

1 What three Americans do you consider are having the most influence upon the thought of American youth?

2 Is Judge Ben Lindsay's companionate marriage proposal a remedy?

3 Is Christianity destined to endure?

4 It has been stated that the revolt in China has rung the death-knell of "White man's vaunted supremacy." What is your opinion?

5 Is the United States becoming imperialistic? Are we on the way to Rome?

There's quite a bunch of magazines around the country that undertake to tell a man how to achieve success and maybe they succeed, but it looks to us as though success depended a good deal upon natural ability, horse sense and the capacity to absorb a lot of punishment and come up smiling.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

There is a question that has been bothering me ever since I entered college, and I have finally summoned enough courage to challenge any reader of the Cynic to supply the necessary information concerning it.

Is it because of the Prohibition amendment that the fountain in the center of our beautiful campus is bone dry? Everyone will admit it would be much more picturesque to see the limpid water-spray shimmering in the sun once again.

It can't be possible that it is through lack of funds for its up-keep that it has been discontinued—when we have to pay a student activity fee of $27.50, etc.

Someone who really knows the reason, please answer a puzzled twenty-niner.

NORWICH TAKES NATIONAL COLLEGIATE RIFLE TITLE

Official announcement has come from the National Rifle Association headquarters in Washington that Norwich University has won the intercollegiate rifle championship of the United States. The Vermont college cadets had a score of 2971 out of a possible 3000. The University of Washington came second with 2963.

Previously this season the Norwich experts had won first place in the intercollegiate rifle league comprising the leading college teams in the east. They had also taken two New England championships. One other national title is being sought by the cadets—that offered to the best team among the R. O. T. C. colleges. Two years ago the maroon marksmen captured the national R. O. T. C. crown.

The manager announced today that Norwich has accepted an invitation to send its riflemen to Annapolis May 14, to meet the United States Naval Academy in a dual match. Ten men will make the trip.

sonating Mercury, Catherine Bassett.

The following people are directing the production: Dramatic Director, Prof. J. T. Metcalf; Musical Director, Prof. H. G. Bennett; Dancing, Miss Eleanor Cummings, Prof. A. K. Aldinger; Costumes, Miss Mary Patrick, Properties, Mrs. H. G. Bennett, Lighting, Prof. R. O. Buchanan.

The opera will be preceded by the following program of Purcell's compositions:

"O sing unto the Lord."
"Rejoice in the Lord."
The University Choir.
Miss Miriam Marston, accompanist.
A New Irish Tune, "Lilliburlero."
"Adagio from the Golden Sonata."
Trumpet tune and Air.
Julia Waterman, violinist.
Margaret Corbin, pianist.

The anthems of the Restoration period, though churchly according to modern standards, were not as serious as those of the age of Elizabeth. Charles II loved a tune to which he could tap his foot, even in church. These anthems by Purcell are characteristically joyful and animated.

The violin and piano numbers are taken from Purcell's suites for the harpsichord and from his sonatas for stringed instruments. The name "Lilliburlero" refers to a political song which was set to Purcell's tune. Later other words were adapted to it, in which the poet, after paying his respects to Venus rising from the sea, and Minerva, "a sullen dame, as most authors agree," asserts that the bards have erred as to the origin of Bacchus "he sprang from a bottle of Nottingham ale," and the refrain follows. "Nottingham ale, boys, Nottingham ale, no liquor on earth like Nottingham ale.

Dartmouth objects to the present system of intercollegiate debating. They contend that organized debates tend to restrict participation to a few experienced debaters.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT INCREASES STEADILY

The report of the Campus Service committee in charge of the employment bureau shows that approximately $4,050.00 has been earned by men having work from there. Of this amount $3,460.00 is income from steady work and $590.00 comes from odd jobs.

As has been pointed out before, this is somewhat of an increase over the amount earned a year ago. Next year should see still greater earnings as there are two capable men, L. J. Peet '28 and P. S Robbins '30, in charge of the work of the Campus Service committee for the coming year. They now have charge of the work as the installation has already taken place

More than 60 per cent of the mechanical power used by American industry is applied through electric motors. But the electrification of the tasks performed by man power has hardly begun. VERMONT TO WELCOME MONTREAL A. A. A. HERE TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Strong Canadian Team Including Several Olympic Stars Will Appear at Centennial Field—Vermont's First Meet

The Montreal A. A. A. meets the U. V. M. track and field team[illegible] [illegible] on Centennial Field. The meet is expected to be particularly interesting in view of the fact that the Canadians handed the Green and Gold a decisive defeat last year.

At that time the Montreal boys were able to pile up a total of 85½ points against Vermont's 50½. Vermont was completely outclassed in the track events, especially the dashes. This department still is Vermont's weakest one although a great improvement has been shown over last year.

In the field events the Unionites fared a little better. Simpson captured some places in a few of his events but was unable to cope with his opponents in others. This year, however, Captain Simpson has been surpassing by far the distances set in the field events of last year's Montreal meet, so he is expected to show the boys on the other side of the border how to toss weights and heave javelins.

There will be a meeting of the Student Senate at the Delta Psi House this evening at 6:30 p. m. All members are requested to be present as the last meeting had to be postponed for lack of a quorum.

Track Development Over 40 Years Shows Sport Has Sped Up Much

By W. W. Parker '29

Forty years make a lot of changes in college life, and in looking back in Vermont's record we find that she is no exception. In 1887 the athletic department was very different from its present day equivalent. In that year Vermont played in a baseball league with Norwich and Middlebury and these games, four in number, apparently constituted the whole schedule. When the Junior class voted on its favorite sport, base-ball stood first, but tennis was a good second.

The track records of that year are interesting. There were listed sixteen events, and of these twelve are still familiar to us. The record for the hammer thrown was then 72 feet 2 inches, almost half as much as Hill's best heave. The shot put was 31 feet 8½ inches, a mark which looks small beside Simpson's record. The javelin and discus were not included.

The standing broad jump was 9 feet 11 inches, while the running broad jump was 17 feet 8½ inches as compared to Gutterson's 24 feet ¾ inch. The high jump was 5 [illegible] inches below the present [illegible] pole vault was about [illegible] than Whitten's mark [illegible] 7 feet 7 inches.

The record for the mile [illegible] utes 14 seconds as [illegible] time, 4:37½. The half [illegible] the present record held by [illegible] 2: 1-5. The 440 has only been [illegible] down 4-5 second in the [illegible] it stood then at 55, and now [illegible] The record for the 220, [illegible] seconds, 1 3-5 over Gutterson, [illegible] C. L. Woodbury did the 100 in [illegible] onds in those days; the record stands at 10 1-5.

Perhaps the most amazing [illegible] this list is the 100 yard [illegible] race, in which this same W[illegible] and one Stone made 13 seconds [illegible] speed and coordination seem [illegible] incredible. The hurdle race (distance not specified) was run [illegible] seconds. Three additional [illegible] were the mile walk (9:14), the [illegible] bicycle race (4 min.) and the [illegible] bicycle race (50 4-5 sec.)

As the number of automobiles increase and more co-eds go in for rifle practice, life becomes more and more precarious.

A War course is being given [illegible] Wesleyan University with the [illegible] of understanding the cause and [illegible] of war and its prevention.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Miss Sara M. Holbrook of the educational department spoke last Friday afternoon before the Mother's Club of the Adams school. The subject was "The Pre-School Child."

Professor B. H. Wallace of the department of education spoke to the class of the senior class in the Burlington High School last Wednesday morning. He told of the different courses offered by the University, discussing the educational course especially.

Two members of the faculty took part in the play, "The Truth About Blayds," given by the Burlington Theatre Club at the Strong Theatre last Thursday night. A. B. Myrick, professor of romance languages, established a high point in the Club's dramatics when he characterized the part of "Oliver Blayds" almost to the point of perfection. Dexter Butterfield, instructor in mathematics, played the part of "Oliver," a grandchild of the young Oliver."

The Vermont Independents will hold their Junior Week Dance in the Club Rooms on Main Street, May 20. This dance is open to all non fraternity men, and the usual custom concerning fraternity dances will be observed. Tickets may be obtained for three dollars each from John McKee '28, of the College of Engineering, Charles Boright '28 of the College of Arts and Sciences, and from Frederick Pierce '27 of the College of Agriculture.

CAPTAIN W. E. LAUER TO REPORT HERE IN JUNE

War Department orders have been received at the University of Vermont Military Department assigning Captain Walter E. Lauer Infantry, U. S. Army, to duty as professor of military science and tactics at the University of Vermont, succeeding Captain Frank B. Lauchheimer, who will be relieved from duty here in June. Captain Lauer is at present stationed at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia and will probably arrive here in June to take up his new duties with the University Battalion.

Captain Lauer and Major Orsemus A. Stannex of the Medical Unit are the two newest members of the department the latter having taken the place of Major Davis. Every three years such changes are made by the War Department. Captain Lauer is a native of the state of New York, is a graduate of Cornell University and has had varied experience in the army both at home and abroad.

R. O. T. C. BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT IN GYMNASIUM TOMORROW EVENING

Fifty-five Men to Play Under Leader Lechnyr at Sixth Annual Concert at Vermont

The sixth annual Spring concert of the R. O. T. C. Band will be given in the gymnasium at eight o'clock on the evening of Wednesday, May 11, in connection with the Kingsley Prize Speaking Contest. Both the band and orators have been working hard in preparation for this annual public appearance. In past years the music furnished has been simple pieces from class C, but this year the band is playing more difficult ones from class A. With an improvement of quality and a variation of the program an interesting and entertaining evening is assured the public.

Mr. Joseph F. Lechnyr, who reorganized the band several years ago and has been responsible for its improvement, will conduct the musical program, while Benjamin Franklin Clark will act as soloist.

There were 35 men in the band of 1922, the year Spring concerts were first begun. This year, just six years later, there are 55 men, showing an increase of 20. According to reports the outlook for next year is quite auspicious in so much as there are only two men graduating who are in the band, and advance rumors have it that there will be exceptional talent coming in the 1931 frosh class. This will strengthen the Vermont band and place it in a higher standing with the bands of other New England Universities.

The two outstanding events in the history of the band of previous years are the trip to Washington at the inauguration of Calvin Coolidge as President and the participation in the music festival held here in Burlington two years ago.

During the past year they gave an Armistice night concert at Randolph accompanied the football team to Springfield, Mass., contributed their usual fine entertainments at the basketball games and the Kake Walk, and help the battalion to get into shape for Federal Inspection.

Before college closes it is hoped that a concert can be given at Fort Ethan Allen and one here in Burlington.

PROMINENT ALUMNUS DIES ON SATURDAY

Frank Hiram Crandall died Saturday after a short illness. He was the son of Dr. Hiram and Harriet (Marvin) Crandall born in Gaysville, this State, October 15, 1847. He attended the public schools at Barre, Vt., and entered the University of Vermont in the class of 1868, graduating with the degree of civil engineer. From 1885 to 1900 he served as superintendent of the Burlington City Water Department. In 1901 he was elected president of the New England Water Works Association. Since 1903 he had been a member of the firm of McIntosh & Crandall serving many times as consulting engineer for various cities and towns being considered an authority in his specialized line of work. He was a member of St. Paul's Church, the Lambda Iota fraternity of the University of Vermont, the New England Water Works Association, and the Vermont Society of Engineers in all of which associations he was very much interested.

On June 7, 1880 he married Miss Emma Mary Porter Eddy who with two children, Clio Nora and Herbert Daniel together with other more distant relatives, survive him.

All organizations who desire to participate in the Junior Week Peerade should hand in tentative plans for their floats and individual stunts to C. F. Castle at the Sigma Alpha Chi House before May 14.

SALE OF JUNIOR PROM AND BANQUET TICKETS TO BE STARTED SOON

The tickets for the Annual Junior Week Prom and Banquet are to be sold in advance this year as has been done in the past. The Progress will also be sold in advance and orders are already being taken by M. C. Robbins Jr. and George Tolbert.

These tickets will be handled by the Chairman and members of the special committees if created. Each person will receive a certain number of tickets and he is absolutely responsible that either the tickets or money are returned to the person giving them out before the event takes place.

All Banquet tickets and monies are to be handed in to H. C. Castle, chairman, before Wednesday noon, May 18. All Prom tickets or money are to be returned to R. M. Wentworth before 6 o'clock Friday, May 20.

If this is not done the members holding tickets will be charged for the full number of tickets issued them and their accounts will be turned over to the financial manager, Charles H. Stevens. He in turn, will include these accounts in his report to Professor Grout and to Mr. Royce and if not paid will be placed on the bill of the individual.

By printing this in the Cynic everyone will understand that those in charge of the tickets must either return the money or tickets before the stated time. Thus there is no excuse whatever for lost tickets.

According to a new ruling at Amherst, major letters are given for track in order to encourage men to enter this sport.—Argus.

First Grand Opera Presented By Vermont Students is Great Success

Hazel Ladd and Roger Allbee Sing Leading Roles in "Dido and Aeneas" Julia Waterman and Margaret Corbin Render Selections By the Author Purcell

A presentation of the fourth annual musical program over the radio station of Vermont was given by the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs in the auditorium Saturday evening under the direction of Prof. H. G. Bennett of the Music Department and Prof. F. C. Metcalf of the Department of Romance. The grand opera "Dido and Aeneas" by Purcell (1658-95) was enthusiastically received by an audience of nearly two hundred students and townspeople.

Hazel Ladd '30 of Richmond Hill, N. Y., playing in the leading rôle as Dido, Queen of Carthage, charmed her audience with her fine voice and grace of action. The part of Aeneas, Prince of Troy, was very well played by Roger Allbee '27 of Springfield, Vt.

The theme of the opera is an adaptation from Vergil's Aeneid. The first scene opens with Belinda, Dido's confidante, urging the Queen to marry Aeneas. He appears and the suit progresses well, only to be broken by the evil scheming of the witches Maeleon (Margaret S. of Burlington) and the role of first witch and was well appreciated by the audience. Acting on the witches plans, Aeneas, who stabs herself, falls into Belinda's arms and dies while the chorus sings her funeral song. Marjorie Miller '30 of Wallingford sang the part of Belinda beautifully and effectively. One of the best vocal features was the sailors chorus led by H. E. Goddard '30 of Cohoes, N. Y.

The first and final scenes take place in the Queen's throne room at Carthage which was elaborately furnished giving a most impressive effect. The other scenes take place in the witches cavern and in the grove near Carthage. A chorus of thirty, costumed as court dames, warriors and hand maidens supported the leading roles with excellent chorus. The costuming and properties were of an unusually elegance which added much towards making the opera the unqualified success which it proved to be.

Preceding the opera Julia Waterman '28 of Vergennes, violinist and Margaret Corbin '28 of Burlington, pianist played three compositions by Purcell which made a pleasant introduction to the larger production.

Until then Mr. Rogers has been personally known through the comic sense he has with page. His present tour came about through the publicity which being made of the visit of the Prince of Wales. They too wanted to meet Will Rogers. Each generation has its outstanding personality. In the nineties it was Mary Jane. He like Rogers toured the country and no man happened when Will Rogers appeared people flocked in droves to hear him.

Laughter is said to be almost as good a tonic as golf or deep breathing and Rogers has been called the greatest man in the world. It appears though the fact that he seems to do so has his own jokes makes them seem [illegible]. He talks much as he writes about everything and everybody. Rogers said once in his term that he had to measure to deliver. Yet while he is very humorous about the French and the south Americans and even about Coolidge and understands their [illegible] is a fine grain of common sense in his viewpoint. And there is no great message than the influence of common sense.

Will Rogers is now on his third tour of this country and the requests for him to include his exhibition of rope work have been so numerous that Mr. Rogers will now conclude each performance with an exhibition of his prowess with the rope during which he keeps up a running fire of comment on all matters. His performance is divided into two parts. The first is A Day Went Final at the Circle Ranch and Will Rogers Who is Looking to Fair about At Along of Anybody.

PARTICIPATORS NAMED FOR PRIZE SPEAKING

The speakers selected by the judges' committee of the Kingsley Prize Speaking are with a single exception the Freshmen. Class this year. This is said due to the lack of good speakers in the sophomore class but it is due to the fact that nearly all of those interested were under cover at the time of the tryouts.

The men representing the freshmen are William Bernstein of Burlington, Hazen Derby of Burlington, Horace Mansfield of Burlington, Charles L. Morse of Wethersfield, Conn. and Franklin Soule of Brattleboro. Charles Overit of Burlington will be the contestant for the sophomores.

A Band concert will be held in connection with the contest. The affair will take place tomorrow evening in the Gymnasium.

SENIORS

There will be a senior class meeting this afternoon at 4:00 in the Williams Science Hall. Orders will be taken at this time for the commencement programs. As it is necessary that orders be placed in advance it is advised to be present so that no delay will result in the orders.

Intercollegiate News

After eighty-six years as a coeducational institution, Tilton Seminary at Tilton, N. H. will become exclusively a school for boys after commencement in June. The board of trustees having obtained the sanction of the alumni voted 12 to 2 to abandon the coeducational system.

The new basketball rule which practically eliminates the dribble is not going across so big in the west. Doc Meanwell coach of the Wisconsin Badgers and originator of the five man defense has submitted a plan to all other colleges and universities asking that they write to the committee as to whether or not they will adopt the rule. Meanwell says that the dribble is reduced and his plan is met with approval.

Dr. Edward Fitzpatrick dean of the graduate school of Marquette University on occasion to remark the other day that all men even college graduates are "self made men" and in the last analysis we owe a process of self development."

Boston University News in a recent issue had a good editorial on the subject "College Activities and Scholarship" as said in part. There are many students who come to college to engage in numerous activities for the sake of the activities alone while others come to college for scholarship alone. There is one third class of student who comes to the college business world and he is the one who realizes that he has to work but does not go to college studying for the sake of scholarship. He is the one for whom the business world is calling.... If only the two could meet a happy medium between the other two general classes of students could grow in numbers and the criticism [illegible] of our educational institutions of business men and others would disappear.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

We, the Juniors from Boston College who are members of the N. E. I. N. A. take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the splendid way in which we were welcomed to Burlington. We were entertained well at the University that we shall never forget the delightful hours of entertaining gentlemen from the University of Vermont at the many affairs. We thought that we knew the best sides of Vermont hospitality but we were made to feel by the Vermonters that we were really a little softy from Boston and have stayed longer at the conventions.

Trusting to renew our acquaintance with some of the Cynic men at the next N. E. I. N. A. convention we are Very gratefully yours

"UNSPEAKABLE CRIMES"

To the Editor of the Cynic:

At Harvard an infraction occurs which the officials are apt to rave against. The old Vermont spirit I don't blame them. The Vermont spirit is certainly worthy of much to brag. For instance the matter of smokers. When I was a freshman these rules used to happen quite frequently and they were a good test of enthusiasm in keeping them. Everybody used to be around on the campus. Such gatherings of good fellowship. What is the matter? Oh, it is summer tonight isn't it. I guess probably we can't smoke afterwards. Well, we'll just go to bed. Now isn't that it? The old Vermont authority has been dead twelve years. Many students and many fraternity ahead of [illegible] by elections of students [illegible] in carrying the plans [illegible] to keep ahead in [illegible] of the rooms [illegible] by them [illegible] the last minute [illegible] of the freshmen classes [illegible] to the fact

Freshman Forced to Stay in Dormitory

BOULDER, Colo.—For three weeks a confused freshman lived on the Delta Delta Delta sorority house at University of Colorado. But it was not by choice he was quarantined. One of the coeds had contracted scarlet fever. It was the last straw to washed all the dishes for the sorority.

But life with the Tri Delts was a great life the Freshman said in conclusion.

Professor Metcalf is to speak at a meeting of the John Deaver Club meeting Thursday evening at eight o'clock at the Kappa Alpha Theta House. There will be a meeting of the executive committee the same evening at seven-fifteen to nominate officers for next year.

To the Women's Editor:

Lilac Day is the one custom of Vermont which is truly our own. Dean [illegible] originated this. Dean Wasson and Dean of Women continued the idea and carried it out. Lilac Day finally Lilac Day has been consecrated as Mortar Board and has made beautiful every year both in Quadrangle and in exception. The Lilac boys at Redstone is the material out- growth of Dean Wasson's inspiration.

Last year Lilac Day was omitted because of bad weather. This year we must not fail to observe it, for such a tradition is too lovely too wholly ours to forget. We have a great need here for more softening traditions of this sort. Such things link the past with the present, and the present with the future. After our college days are over we shall look back on Lilac Day reverently and remember it lovingly.

P. T. C. '30

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The bulletins in the Old Mill have again become confused and disorderly. It is impossible to observe anything new which is posted without stopping and giving close attention to the mass of accumulated papers and notices. The bulletins are a disgrace to the college to the authority which allows such looseness, inattention, and indifferentness. In the Fall when there were some remarks made regarding their slovenly state a ruling was passed prohibiting outsiders from using the boards without a permit from the dean's office. This is well enough but it doesn't remedy the evil. The boards still go on without any one to look after them, and accumulate con- fusion.

I think one of the best remedies would be to give some person the job of looking after them, of taking down old notices and perhaps arranging what are left so that they may be more easily observed. As they are now it is apparently everyone's job to look after the removal of the notices

DAILY DRIBBLE

Life is not a goglet to be drained, or a measure to be filled, or opportunity to a blank cartridge, a chance a good gunner.

The remedy of telling the truth is that we don't have to think about it.

Many receive advice, but only the wise profit by it.

A conservative is a woman who thinks everything is for the best, and that what is is the best.

It is better to fall down on a job than to lay down on it.

Catamounts Return From Two Days Sortie In Northern New York

St. Lawrence University Wins 7-4, While Clarkson Loses 3-1—Talcott Pitches Great Game at Potsdam

[illegible] a week-end baseball across the Catamount baseball team returned with a 7 to 4 defeat by St. Lawrence University and a 3 to 1 win over Clarkson Tech to its credit. The game with the St. Lawrence baseball team at Canton, N. Y. Saturday afternoon was enough to dishearten and break down the morale of any team, but the Vermont fighting spirit was prevalent when the Green and Gold men, not to be disheartened, supported Talcott loyally Saturday afternoon at Potsdam and sent the Clarkson nine to the showers on the week-end of a 3 to 1 score.

The St. Lawrence pitcher, Durkin, proved to be one of the finest twirlers that Vermont has had to face thus far this season. Fogg's wildness in the early innings aided the Cantonites in pushing over three runs across the home plate, and then on there was a great exhibition of pitching by Fogg and Durkin.

Neither team scored from the start to the seventh inning. In that inning Vermont started to hit Durkin. Smith, Winchenbach, Price and Fogg connected, and before three men were out the Green and Gold had tallied the count. In the next inning Vermont scored another run which looked like a winner, but St. Lawrence found Fogg's delivery in the second half of the inning and collected enough runs to make the score read 4 to 4. Vermont was helpless in the eighth. Fogg, Price, and Smith boosted their batting averages by getting out two hits each. Conway and Smith starred in the field.

Scoring by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	—	R
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	1	0	—	4
St. Lawrence	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	4	*	—	7

Batteries—Fogg and Aronson, Winchenbach; Durkin and Welty.

Talcott told the rubber against Clarkson and continued the fine work he has been doing all season. Clarkson had been hitting all opponents with remarkable success, especially in the pinches, but, although the Tech boys outhit Vermont 7 to 6, their hits came when Talcott was sure they would be useless. The Clarkson pitcher, Pfluger, was also quite effective, but the Vermonters just couldn't be suppressed when a hit meant a run. The scoring started in the sixth when Vermont scored two runs. Again in the seventh Vermont scored one run, giving a three point lead. In Clarkson's half of the eighth a vain attempt was made to overcome the margin when a lone run was scored.

Scoring by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	—R.	H.	E.
Vermont	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	— 3	6	1

Batteries—Talcott and Aronson; Pfluger and Petrie.

An effort is being made by Mgr. Talcott to arrange a game with St. Lawrence University at Centennial Field at a later date.

The Middlebury team will be in Burlington Thursday afternoon to start Vermont's home season. The Black Panthers were defeated by Nova at Middlebury last Thursday 6 to 4 when fielding errors allowed the visitors to rally and insure victory at the start of the fray. Nevertheless, Middlebury showed its real strength Saturday when it played up in form and buried Lowell Textile 13 to 3. The Vermont nine displayed plenty of strength with the bat in this game and will give the U. V. M. team a stiff tussle if it continues this batting rampage Thursday.

MIDD NETMEN BEAT VERMONT IN DOUBLES

The Blue and White Netmen rushed to the Southern lair of the Black Panther and defeated the Vermont tennis men 4-2 on the back campus last Saturday. The matches were interesting to watch. Vermont lost its chance to tie their rivals when Taylor and Graves lost their double match to Wolfskehl and Young after three hard fought sets.

Young (V) defeated Wolfskehl (M), 6-2, 6-4.

Seymour (M) defeated Baldwin (V), 6-1.

Edwards (M) defeated Shedd (V), 6-4, 6-4.

Graves (V) defeated Young (M), 6-4, 6-3.

Edwards and Seymour (M) defeated Shedd and Baldwin (V), 6-2, 6-2.

Wolfskehl and Young (M) defeated Graves and Taylor (V), 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

Score: Middlebury 4; Vermont 2.

MONTREAL A. A. DEFEATS VERMONT IN TRACK

The Montreal A. A. track team easily defeated Vermont 81-45. This is a good score, but was expected by the Canadian athletes as they have had much experience, the team averaging 14 pounds each. Last year's experts predicted that they would do well to get 70. With each of their men a double or on the relay the Vermonters have one of the finest track teams ever to represent her. Much praise is due Coach Ladd for the fine work that he has done with the material he had.

Captain Simpson was "it" in the meet taking 3 firsts, 1 second and 1 third for a total of 19 points, besides establishing a new college record in the discus with a throw of 111 feet 7½ inches. Sonny took first in the hammer, javelin, and shot put. He will be missed next year when he will not be here to represent the Green and Gold.

McKechenneay of Montreal led the pack to the tape in both dashes. He won both by a comfortable margin doing the 100 in 10 seconds flat and the 220 in 23 seconds flat.

Charlie Mace, a yearling, scored 9 points for the Green and Gold taking first in the broad jump, second in the hammer, and third in the shot put. Charlie is a comer and is expected to partly fill the shoes of Simpson when he leaves. Charlie made wonderful leap of 19 feet, 10½ inches to win the broad jump.

The prettiest race of the day was the two-mile run which was claimed by Smith of Montreal A. A. This little fellow had neither form nor stride and for seven laps he just clung to the heels of D. Rowe and Wood. On the final lap Rowe faltered and the battle was on between Smith and Wood. They raced neck and neck for nearly half a lap, but in the final sprint Smith forged ahead to win by a scant margin.

The comedy of the afternoon was furnished at the finish of the 220-yard low hurdles, when Carruthers, who stands about 6 ft. 5 in., won from Burbank, who is only 5 ft. in height, by inches. It appeared to be more like a father and son affair, and the big boy won only because he had longer legs to use at the finish. Burbank is only a Frosh, but he is one of the finds of the year. Carruthers did lose to a much smaller man than himself in the 120-

NEWS IN BRIEF

The department of Agricultural Economics held a meeting in connection with the Grange and local Farm Bureau Association at Charlotte, Monday evening to take up with the farmers the question of the cost of milk production.

The cast of the "Alabamy Barbacue" presented by the Newman Club recently, dined with a party of sixty members of the club at Sally's restaurant last Thursday evening.

Miss Mary H. Stilson, director of dormitories has posted a notice to the effect that the girls of the class of 1928 are to meet at Grassmount to draw numbers and to choose rooms for next year. The girls of 1929 will meet May 21 and the girls of 1930 on May 28 at the same place.

The committee on Senior Questionnaires reports that the ballots are being returned very slowly as yet. They request the members of the Senior Class to fill them out and leave them in the Ariel Box in the Old Mill corridor as soon as possible since the results are to be published some time before the end of the year. Such a list of questions is made every year to get the class opinion about the different Seniors and consequently the committee feels that as large a consensus of opinion as possible is necessary.

WHAT THE STEAM PIPE ALONE WAS ABLE TO DO

New Vacuum System of Heating Cannon Room Will Make Danger of Steam Damage Impossible

[illegible] is an old [illegible] adage which [illegible] has [illegible] the ages and which apparently will stand the test of [illegible] generations. It is worded as follows: After the horse is stolen [illegible] he barn is locked. Yes it takes some great disaster to set the master minds at work on means to prevent similar disasters in the future. It seems to be an inborn failure in man to be [illegible] to learn the lesson taught by the mistakes and negligence of the past.

One Friday in the early part of January a steam pipe burst in the [illegible] room in the museum building. The authorities breathed a sigh of relief when it was learned that the break had occurred there rather than in the Oriental Room. But Fate was not to be so kind. The following Monday a steam pipe broke in the Cannon Room, or the Oriental Room as it is called, where the most valuable of relics of the Orient are kept! The break of two days before was not warning enough. It took an innocent steam pipe to show up the priceless valuables contained in the Oriental Room. Needless to say, the steam did great damage to the articles in the room. It seemed that things could not be restored to their former standing. But due to the untiring and conscientious word of Custodian Eldred, the room is being restored—restored even better than before the disaster! A new system of steam heating, the vacuum system, replacing that which caused the accident, has been installed. Now, instead of being heated by steam under pressure as heretofore, heat is obtained by steam vapor which is maintained by a vacuum created in the system by a pump in the boiler room adjoining the Engineering Building. Under the new system if a break should occur, air would be sucked into the break by the vacuum pump which is endeavoring to create a vacuum in the system. Hence the danger of escaping steam is obliterated.

Thus due to a break in a steam pipe the Oriental Room in the Museum is going to be better than it was before and those relics which seemed to be damaged beyond reclaim have been reconditioned and, with a few exceptions relative to the intallation of the new heating system, resume their former positions in the room.

The subject for the Harvard-Yale-Princeton annual debate will be the present "U. S. Policy toward Nicaragua."

OMINENT AUTHOR AND IUMORIST TO SPEAK AT GYMNASIUM TOMORROW

ill Rogers, Author of Several ooks and Noted For His Comedy Will Make His First Appearance in Burlington Saturday Night

Will Rogers, who is considered the greatest humorist since Mark Twain, will speak at the Gymnasium tomorrow night. He was born at Oalagah, Indian Territory, in 1879. After a checkered career he began acting on the stage at Hammerstein's Roof Garden in New York City in 1905. Since then he has been connected with Ziegfeld's Follies except for three years when he spent acting for the movies. He is the author of several books among which are: "Rogerisms Cowboy Philosopher on Prohibition." "What We Laugh At," and several other humorous works. He has been a contributor to the New York Times for several years.

Like all great humorists Mr. Rogers has his serious side. Last year he was back amongst the home folks in Oklahoma, where he spent the earliest years of his life before he became a national figure and wealth poured into his lap. He was back there among his people for the solemn purpose of attending the funeral of a loved sister who had tenderly throughout the years ministered to the community.

His sad visit to his old home had brought Will Rogers face to face with the real things of life. The following is one of the tributes he paid his sister. "After all," Mr. Rogers writes, there is nothing in the world like home. You can roam all over the world but after all, it's what the people at home think of you that counts. I have just today witnessed a funeral that for real sorrow and real affection I don't think will ever be surpassed anywhere. They came in every mode of conveyance, on foot, in buggies, horseback, wagons, cars and trains, and there wasn't a soul that came that she hadn't helped or favored at some time or another.

Death knows no denomination. Death draws no color line. Some uninformed newspapers printed 'Mrs. C. L. Lane, sister of the famous comedian, Will Rogers.' It's the other way around. I am the brother of Mrs. C. L. Lane, 'The Friend of Humanity.' And I want to tell you that as I saw all those people who were there to pay tribute to her memory it was the proudest moment of my life that I was her brother. And all the honors that I could ever in my wildest dreams hope to reach, would never equal the honor paid on a little western hilltop among her people to Maud Lane. If they love me like that at the finish, my life will not have been in vain."

The real things of life! Once in a while someone like Will Rogers with a power of imagination and a gift of expression comes along and puts it into words.

This is Mr. Rogers' third American tour and in response to many requests he will end the program with an exhibition of his prowess as King of the Lariat.

JUNIOR WEEK PEERADE A BATTLE, EDS VS. CO-EDS

All out Co-eds vs. Eds!

There has been much dispute in the Cynic from time to time of the relative merits of the "Eds" and "Co-eds." Here's where they get a chance to prove their stuff. Both sides are to be represented in the Junior Week peerade—a bigger and better peerade than ever this year. Come on "co-eds"! Don't let the men feel so superior! And "eds"—Are you going to let the "co-eds" put it over on you? All out everybody! Let's show the town what a Junior Week peerade can be! Have the plans for your floats and individual stunts in to C F Castle at the Sigma Alpha Chi House before May 14.

ST. MICHAEL'S PLAYS CATAMOUNTS AT FIRST HOME GAME TOMORROW

Strong Winooski Outfit Will Offer Plenty of Opposition to Varsity in Opening Game at Centennial

Vermont will open the home schedule tomorrow when they take on the fast St. Mike's outfit on Centennial Field. The boys across the river have not had much luck in recent years along the athletic line but this season the Saints have turned out a nine much better than in former years. Perrotta, the rival's pitching ace will take the mound against the Catamounts and will undoubtedly give the Green and Gold batteries something to worry about.

At present the Cats are in a batting slump and unless they get going tomorrow they are in danger of losing the first home game of the series. The tail end of the batting list is hitting the ball for a loop just now with Price and Cogswell near the top of the pile. Smith is just beginning to sock the pill and will give Perrotta plenty of trouble. Prentice will be back at first Saturday and will give the Cats an added strength. He was forced to give up the last trip because of an over amount of cuts and will therefore be unable to take part in any more away games. Winchenbach and O'Keefe are coming along good now and can be depended to care of the initial sack in the absence of Prentice. "Rolly" Aronson is handling the the catching end of the game at present and unless he takes a terrible slump will hold down this position for the rest of the season. Winchenbach can also be depended on to cover home plate if anything happens to "Rolly."

Coach Dresser's pitching squad is in rather poor condition just now because of sore arms. Moriarty, Schoppe and Fogg are all suffering from lame arms. This leaves only Roark and Talcott to take care of the hurling end this week. However both are going strong thus far this season and should have little trouble in turning back the Saints tomorrow provided they get the right kind of support.

The infield is going strong now and is one of the best that has been seen at Vermont for a long time. Third base which was the weak spot along the first base is one of the strongest positions in the infield this season. Cogswell who played a wonderful ball for the second's last year is going like a million dollars this season and will un-

SUNDAY RETREAT HELD BY BAPTIST STUDENTS

The Baptist Discussion Group held a very successful retreat last Sunday in the Briggs cottage, Starr Farm Beach. Over thirty college students attended and enjoyed the program of the day which included breakfast, dinner supper, an inspiring address by Rev. Paul Judson Morris, two open forums led by Mrs Catherine Foster, an afternoon stroll under the guidance of W R Adams a University instructor in botany and forestry, swimming in the cold waters of Lake Champlain, music and the enjoyment of being out of doors away from books and college.

Professor and Mrs. Beuler, Miss Rhoda Hartwell and Rev and Mrs. Morris chaperoned the party.

Early in the afternoon an election of officers for the ensuing year was held. The results were as follows: president, Jerome Bullis '29; vice-president, Mabel Pierce '29; secretary, Everett Allen '30 and treasurer, Kenneth Bicknell '30. A program for next year was discussed which will include a week end retreat next fall and novel Sunday meetings throughout the following winter.

EPSILON SIGMA HOLDS BANQUET

Senior members of Epsilon Sigma Teachers' Training fraternity recently gave a formal banquet in honor of the new Junior members at Hotel Vermont. Gladys Gray, President of Epsilon Sigma presided as the toastmistress. The idea of a garden party was emphasized in the color scheme and costumes. Miss Patrick, Mrs. Douglas and Miss Wheeler were guests of the society.

James P Moore commissioner of parks and public buildings at Buffalo N Y has issued an order prohibiting the employment of college students in his department during the coming summer. He says that when it comes to a matter of real work, they are useless.—The Associated Press

The committee in charge of the senior questionnaires desires that all questionnaires be placed in the questionnaire box before the end of the week. This is necessary in order that the results may be tabulated as soon as possible, for an attempt will be made to get the results of the more important questions printed in some of the daily papers, as has been done by some of the other New England colleges. The cooperation of all members of the class in complying with this request will be greatly appreciated.

VERMONT BATTALION IS INSPECTED BY OFFICERS OF FIRST CORPS AREA

Inspection Thought a Success But Rating is Still Undetermined—Robinson and Chilson Win Drilling Honors

The annual federal inspection of the R O T C unit took place Monday and Tuesday of this week. The inspectors Major John T McLane of the United States Cavalry and Major Edwin P Parker Jr. of the Field Artillery visit twelve colleges in the first Army Area that maintain R O T C units under the Morrill Land Act or are Military schools and of these select a certain proportion for the distinguished rating. It will not be known until the inspectors make their final report whether Vermont will be so honored. Since 1924 the Vermont Battalion has been in the distinguished class eight times out of the twelve times inspected.

On Monday morning the four companies turned out in echelon formation to the border of the drill grounds on the back campus to the martial music of the band. The inspectors accompanied by the military instructors and the cadet major with his staff passed around the companies which were standing at attention. The entire organization then marched past the reviewing stand in close column of platoons. The officers next inspected the rifles and uniforms of Company A the Sophomore company. The inspectors designated Company B to demonstrate close order drill and Company C extended order. After these exhibitions the Sophomores were tested in the care and operation of the automatic rifle scouting and patrolling marksmanship and map reading, and the Freshmen in rifle marksmanship, military hygiene and the general duties of the soldier. The Juniors demonstrated their skill in handling the machine gun and the seniors their prowess with 37 millimeter guns and the three inch trench mortars.

Rain interfered with the program planned for Monday afternoon so that the tactical problem was postponed until Tuesday morning when Company B as one division of the "Blue Army" swept over the fields in a determined attack on the Burlington Country Club House. The "Reds" Juniors in the machine gun company defended their stronghold. The classroom work which allowed the inspectors to test the theoretical knowledge of the students was conducted Monday afternoon during the time that had been assigned for the sham battle. Later Tuesday morning the members of the two lower classes competed in move

SOCIETIES PLAN FOR LITERARY PUBLICATION ON CAMPUS NEXT YEAR

Pi Delta Rho and Bluestockings Delegates Favor a New Magazine—Nominations are Made for Editors and Managers

Plans for the new literary magazine to be introduced on the campus next year by the students are steadily progressing. A committee composed of Prince Goodrich '28 chairman Helen Stevens '28 and Rachel Skinner '28, was elected recently by the Bluestockings society to confer with an equal number of representatives from Pi Delta Rho, honorary journalistic society. The men chosen by Pi Delta Rho were K D Drew '27, chairman, E A Leuchins '28 and C H Stevens '28. A meeting of the two committees was held in Fleming House South College last Thursday afternoon May 5, for the purpose of nominating editors and managers for the new magazine.

Nominations are as follows for editor-in-chief Rachel Skinner '28, Irene Bates '28 Frances Dimick '28, for assistant editors Dorothy Cottrell '28 R L Stewart '28 G H James '29, for manager M I Gould '28 W F Rogers '28 for assistant manager, Catherine Bassett '29. It is expected that the election of these nominees will take place in the near future at a joint meeting of the two societies.

The magazines will be entirely independent of all present university publications. During the last few years the Cynic staff besides the Cynic a newspaper has put out periodically a magazine called the Vermont Cynic which contained short stories essays and poems written by the students. It was deemed advisable this year due to the inauguration of the biweekly Cynic to discontinue that practice. At present whereas the Cynic fulfills its purpose as a newspaper acting as a carrier of news, Vermont has no publication in which the literary efforts of the students are revealed. To fill this noticeable gap in the journalistic side of the campus life is the main object sought by the publication of a purely literary magazine. Besides being an outlet for extra curricular effort such work considered of sufficient merit that is written in connection with the English department will also be accepted. So far, everything points toward a successful year for the new literary magazine.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Dear Sir: Are you registering disappointment? Are you preparing for the Prom? The motto this year may not be very inspiring but it is the usual chance for ingenuity. Last Week was a big success—don't let Junior Week be a flop. Everyone is going to the prom, the Committee cannot do it all. What about your Corsage? Prom-ade is the line to take on the joy ride from the prom—the choicest finishing touch for Junior Week.

"I will not be going to participate or at least help some others to participate" is going to be warm and sunny so put away your sweaters under your mackinaw, costumes and the wind are going to blow the streamers off cabs. Prom only a week left so get busy before hours up if you're going to get the girl.

To the Women's Editor of the CYNIC:

One always hears a lot of grumbling about what we do not have on the campus but when any little improvement is made there is nothing said about it. I had heard many a fellow and girl complain about the poor selection of new fiction in the library but now that the Bookstore has instituted a circulating library of the best sellers no one says anything encouraging about it. They either become grossly indifferent or find fault with the selection. To be conservative I believe is too much to ask but, I think those sulky looks on your faces and if you can't suggest any thing to better conditions don't make conditions uncomfortable.

'29

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

This letter will be considered by some as the another instance of some one writing simply for the sake of seeing a contribution in the CYNIC besides advertisements but that is not the case intended as a gentle reminder to those of the faculty who read these to see to it that at least some of the students here would desire to have some to the aim of a practical education than that are getting at present.

The object for discussion is the course in Music. In the first place the writer wishes to congratulate the Music Faculty on securing a course which contains so much of practical use but when the slight attention to the necessary subjects are considered it reveals the inconsistency of a well balanced line of courses for a Music department that does not exist.

In the opinion of many people in the Music Department for supplementary training music, junior services and assistance to benefit only a few girls who choose to take such a course seems absurd. Would it not be better to shorten the course in Composition and Harmonics to the addition of a more complete course in Accounting, courses in Advertising, Sales Administration, Insurance, Railroad Management, a full three hour course in Journalism and many others of the same or to improve the facilities of the Engineering College? If the Liberal Arts has funds enough to go around it would of course be advantageous to have all but in the present state of affairs it does seem as if the money should be expended where it would do the most good for the greatest number of students and if that was the policy to be followed the funds would be more anywhere EXCEPT on the Music Department.

J. M. Anonymous '27.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

As each year draws to a close, the Seniors high and mighty, relaxing their grip on College to 'n' appear, let loose their imaginations in order that we, who must "carry on," may know just how rotten things really are here at Vermont. Who can we ascribute the alienation to in a large proportion, eh Nilpath? You infer the younger generation is on its way to the dogs—that's what they all say and the world goes merrily on regardless. Say Nilpath, why not a more appropriate text de plume? How about "Dear Vermont" Over—that seems to suit your sour or sullen temper which becomes churlish and at times waxes surly.

"Unspeakable Crimes" "Smokers and "Kake Walks" will undoubtedly go on and on despite numberless Senior classes UNTIL someone has foresight enough to be constructive in his criticisms. It is easy enough to pick flaws, Nilpath, we all can do that. A monkey wrench can do worlds of good in opening up a city water supply, but the self-same instrument can bring disaster if thrown into the cogs of progress. To you and the rest of the class of '27 who think your way recall Lincoln's words. "The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they DID here."

Rave on Nilpath. Empty barrels.

Frederick gave the commands, and the judges were Lieutenants Johnson and Duffy, from Fort Ethan Allen. The winners, selected by elimination after a hard fought and harrowing contest, were L. R. Robinson '29, and J. W. Chilson '30, and these two men were awarded the prizes by Cadet Adjutant C. H. Blackall.

The military instructors expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the inspection went off.

Archery Included in P.E. Curriculum Has a Long And Interesting History

The Women's Department of Physical Education at Vermont has this year adopted a sport which is new to the annuals of the College. This sport is archery, and, as a healthful outdoor recreation where eyes and hands are taught to work in co-ordination with one another, it has no superior.

The bow used in archery for women is about 63 inches in height and the feather-tipped arrows are about 28 inches long. The target is 48 inches in diameter and is painted to represent 9 concentric circles, a hit in the center circle scoring 9 points while seven, five, three, and one are scored for hits in the other circles from the center outward. Moreover, any hit on a line gives the player one point, regardless of the circle within which her arrow has struck. Should an arrow land on the line between two circles, the higher score is counted.

There is perhaps no other sport which has behind it a more varied or colorful history than has archery. It carries with it the romance of the famous Robin Hood ballads. It is renowned in the stirring tales of our own North American Indians.

Although the bow and arrow were known to our ancestors in Britain long before the Norman Conquest, it was not until the fatal battle of Hastings in 1066 that they realized its effectiveness as a weapon. Since this was the only form of arms which the Normans allowed the conquered Saxons to bear, the latter became very proud of its use, for it formed the line of distinction between them and the weaponless serf. And not only the conquered, but the conquerors, rich and poor, high, and low used the bow and arrow. Boys' instruction in this art began at the age of 10. By the time they were men, even the most unskilful of the archers could come within a palm's width of their marks. Men then took great pride in their ability to shoot and many were the archery stories that were stretched to as great a length as are fishing stories now. The following is a good example of this sort of exaggeration. "A gentleman, very prodigal of speech which made his mouth often to run over, recounted, that having one day strolled out into the forest with his bowe, he at one shot cutte awaye a deare's ear and his foote together and killed a foxe. The company saying it was impossible, his man, who stood bye, accustomed to smooth his master's lies, sayd that the deare, scratching his eare with his hinder foote lost both, and the bullet glancing killed the foxe."

Nor was archery by any means confined to the Normans and Saxons alone. The Welsh were early proficient in this art and the terrible Tartars, sweeping in hordes across the Russian plains, made of the bow a fearful weapon.

Although this sport is new to Vermont it has long been cherished in most of the women's colleges of the country. The purpose of presenting it here, as elsewhere, is to provide a game which is at the same time healthful [illegible]

CO-EDUCATION AFLOAT WILL BE CONTINUED

The co-ed need not despair of being permitted to flavor her knowledge with the tang of the salt sea. If one "floating university" bars her because its instructors fear she will exert a distracting influence on the serious-minded student of the opposite sex, there is another "cruising college" which will welcome her because its promoters hold that a shipload of young males, left to themselves, may forget the manners and customs of civilization.

The faculty of the classes aboard the Ryndam, which has just completed a tour lasting eight months, discount the reports of romances on the ship, but some of them are convinced that co-education has no place on a college cruise. The chief difficulty in having young men and young women on the same trip, they say, was that the fact made it difficult to arrange travel accommodations in several of the countries visited. When the Ryndam departs next fall on her second educational cruise, therefore, the co-ed will be left ashore.

But the Aurania, which will leave on a similar tour at about the same time, will provide accommodations for studious men and women. The sponsors of this trip declare that they want their "floating college" to be representative of American higher education, and, they point out, many of the publicly supported colleges are co-educational. Moreover, Dr. Thomas W. Butcher, who will head the faculty on the Aurania, fears that in 500 or 600 young men are taken on a trip of any length without feminine companionship they may become lax in their manners.

"What's the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know, first of all. The question is best answered by the accomplishments of others with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of college graduates, off the campus some five—eight—ten years.

Frenger Came Here to Sell

R. F. FRENGER

WHEN R. F. Frenger was at New Mexico State, in 1915, automatic control for substations, hydro-electric generating plants, railway and mine substation systems, was a hazy dream. Even five years later, when Frenger was working in the Switchgear Sales Section of the Westinghouse Company, automatic switching was far, far away.

Today, however, Frenger, still in his thirties, finds himself in effect the Sales Manager of an automatic switching business—a business that runs up into seven figures every year.

Frenger came to Westinghouse to sell. He expected to sell steam apparatus, since he had taken an M. E. degree.

After a period in the Westinghouse sales school, he became interested in switching apparatus. He spent many months on the engineering side of the work. He spent several years as a sales specialist in the Westinghouse Chicago Office.

Then, as automatic switching grew in importance, Frenger grew along with it. Today he is head of the Automatic Switching Section of the Switchgear Sales Department.

Frenger's work is pioneering in a very real sense, for the automatic control business, lusty as it is, still is in its infancy. Engineering ways and means must be supplied as well as specialized sales skill. The whole world is the market.

Not long ago, Frenger ran out to San Antonio to help the local Westinghouse salesman land an order that puts the San Antonio sub-stations under automatic control. When the Holland vehicular tunnel opens, and connects Manhattan with the Jersey shore, Frenger can point to the traffic signaling system as coming from his section.

At Cleveland one man in a downtown office building turns off and on eleven different sub-stations scattered throughout the city and its suburbs to operate the railway system—all without leaving his chair. Frenger's section again.

It is another case of a well trained man in a pioneering organization.

A man was rescued breathing in short pants between the front steps and the vestibule at 10:30 A. M. today. His tongue hung out and he was lowly strangling.

"That class that is class," he stammered. "Egg, egg, dry, dry, dry."

The Noose reporter poured water down the neck of the stricken man in the hopes of loosening his tongue. The Noose hero then repeated one of the original jokes from the July 1st issue of our publication. The result was almost instantaneous. Family was notified after the usual formalities.

HYGIENE AND INSANITY

(Disassociated Press)

Dear Doctor

I could stand it no longer and in desperation place myself and my husbands knee in your hands. Although he bears it like a horse it is too much.

The truth is that he is knock-kneed (that's the straight of it). Worse than all else, his trousers do not hang right due to his affliction. We can think of no cause for his trouble aside from the fact that he was run into by a truck last fall. We didn't think anything about it at the time.

I shall be in great anxiety until I hear from you.

However the boys across the river may find him with his batting eye Saturday and if they do the outfielders will have plenty of running to do. Price and Macomber are both knocking the ball consistently and are making a great clean up combination.

The legislature of South Carolina has repealed the bill, passed in 1897 which prohibited Greek letter fraternities in institutions of higher learning supported in whole or part by public funds. Now there is no law in any state forbidding fraternities in colleges or universities receiving state aid.

These moderns demand Camels

MODERN smokers are the most critical ever known, and Camel is their favorite. Why?

Camel is the one cigarette that will stand up all day and as far into the night as you care to go.

Modern, experienced smokers know that they can smoke one or a million Camels with never a tired taste or a cigaretty after-taste. Present-day smokers demand goodness, and find it in Camels — the choicest tobaccos grown and matchless blending. That is why Camel is favorite in the modern world.

If you want the choice of the hardest-to-please smokers of all time, if you yearn for the mellowest mildness that ever came from a cigarette—

Talcott, the Catamount right hander, pitched a steady game. He allowed nine hits, but kept them well scattered, and struck out eight men. He was given fine support by the men behind him which accounted for the defeat of Middlebury to a large extent.

Macomber, the Green and Gold's center gardener, continued his string of hits gathering two of the three that his team were chalked up for. He is Vermont's strongest hitter and leads the pack with the stick by a considerable margin. One of his blows was a double and the other a single which netted one of the runs. The summary:

THREE CUPS OFFERED TO PEERADE WINNERS

R. O. T. C. Band to Lead Peerade Down Town—Contestants all in Readiness—Judges Chosen But Not Announced

C. F. Castle '28, chairman of the Junior Week Peerade Committee, has announced the arrangements made by his committee for the event which promises to be one of the high spots of this week's festivities. Fraternities and women's dormitories have made elaborate plans for the peerade and the contestants are waiting for Thursday to come. At four o'clock the coming Thursday, Vermont's snappy R. O. T. C. band will head the peerade downtown, following the usual itinerary—start at the Gymnasium, Main Street to the head of Church Street, Church Street, Pearl Street, St. Paul Street, College Street, finish at the Campus.

Wig and Buskin, the men's honor dramatic society, is offering three beautiful cups for the winners of the Peerade. One large cup is for the best float entered by the women students. A second large cup is offered for the best fraternity float, while a small cup will be the reward of the best individual entry.

The cups are to be on display at the S. J. O'Neill haberdashery until the Peerade begins.

The various entries will march before the judges, who will review the Peerade from their stand in the New Sherwood Hotel balcony. The management of the hotel has kindly offered the use of the balcony to the judges, as has been the custom in past years. Judges for the event will include some of the most competent men in the city. While the committee has deemed it inadvisable to divulge the names of the judges at this time, the CYNIC is assured that all the men have had experience in dramatic productions and they will be ideal judges.

HINCE ANNEXES PRIZE AT SPEAKING CONTEST

Lawrence A. Hince, a Junior at the University of Vermont, took third place in the third annual speaking contest of the New England colleges held as an elimination for the contest of the Better American Society of California. Hince spoke on the Constitution of the United States. First place was taken by W. C. Cusack of Dartmouth and W. J. Butler of Holy Cross was given the second award.

This society is offering a prize for the winner of a nation-wide contest. The entire country is divided up into seven groups of colleges, of which the New England group is one, each of which holds an elimination. Winners of the group competition go to California to take part in the final contest.

The nine new England Colleges taking part in the contest includes, Boston College, University of Maine, Boston University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale, Providence College, Vermont, Dartmouth and Harvard.

Reports state that there are more than 120,000 men in 225 schools enrolled in the R. O. T. C.

RIFLE TEAM MEMBERS ARE AWARDED LETTERS

The following members of the University Rifle Team for the year of 1927 have qualified for their insignia. Captain Loyd A. Reynolds '27, Manager A. I. Hixson '27, A. R. Hill '27, L. C. Whitman '27, C. E. Brown '28, E. C. Bail '28, D. Donaldson '30, C. L. Morse '30, R. E. Mercer '30.

Although many of the local marksmen were handicapped because of inexperience the team made a very creditable showing this year. Because of the large number of good marksmen available, Captain Rattan expects to develop a crack team of riflemen next year.

The letter men are to meet this afternoon at 1:30 in the military office for the purpose of electing officers for the coming season.

K. W. KYLE IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF K. M. E.

Kellogg W. Kyle '28 of Troy, N. Y. was elected president of the Kappa Mu Epsilon society at a meeting of the new members held at the Sigma Alpha Chi House last Thursday evening. P. C. Greene '28 of Morrisville was elected vice-president and C. F. Castle '28 of Springfield, Mass., was voted secretary-treasurer.

The old officers of the society installed their successors. Following the installation, plans were discussed for the work of the coming year. Several helpful suggestions were made by the retiring members, but no definite action was taken on the proposals.

GREEN AND GOLD WINS FROM SAINT MICHAELS IN WELL PITCHED GAME

Vermont opened up the home schedule with a bang last Saturday when "Chief" Fogg shut out the boys from across the river without a single bingle. The last time this happened was back in the teens when Duba shut out the Virginia outfit without a hit. Captain Fogg also approached this last season when he pitched a one hit game against the Alumni and that came in the last frame by a pinch hitter. Only two balls were hit out of the infield during the entire contest on Saturday. Only two of the opponents were able to reach second base in the full nine innings. One in the first when Klein reached first on an error went to second on a sacrifice, reached third on an infield out and went home for St. Michael's only tally. The other came in the eighth when Boucher walked, stole second but was thrown out at third in an attempted steal.

Besides pitching a masterly game Fogg was right there with the stick. In the fourth he singled and came home on Roark's triple. While in the lucky seventh with two out and the sacks loaded Captain Fogg came through with one of the longest blasles of the day when he sent a long triple into left center scoring all three men ahead of him. It looks like "Chief" Fogg has struck his stride at last and if he keeps it up Vermont will be on the long end of a good many scores before the season is over.

Although Fogg made two nice hits there was one no maybe two that showed up a little better at bat. The first was "Micky" Roark who came through with three of the prettiest hits ever. In the first he singled moving Smith up a base, advanced on Cogswell's timely single and scored on Macomber's sacrifice fly. In the third he was lead off man and this time he clapped out a double and scored a minute later on another sacrifice by Macomber. In the fourth he poled a long hit into right scoring both Conway and Fogg ahead of him. The other outstanding batter was Macomber who knocked in three runs and scored one himself besides having a perfect day at bat with two singles, two sacrifices and a walk out of five times at bat.

Prentice also had a good day at bat with two hits at single and a walk both coming at the right time.

He also played a fine game around first and ran the bases like a veteran. Conway, Cogswell and Aronson each came through with a pair of hits at the right time. It was the first hitting spree that Conway has been on for some time.

FRESHMAN COEDS WIN DRAMATIC CLUB PRIZE FOR BEST CLASS PLAY

"Enter the Hero" Awarded First Prize By Faculty Judges—Plays Very Well Presented At Contest Last Friday

The Freshman play, "Enter the Hero" was awarded first prize in the inter-class dramatic contest which was held in the Gymnasium Friday evening. The sophomores presented "The Florist Shop" and the Juniors "Thursday Evening." The three plays were well dramatized, and no small credit for their success is due the coaches, property, costume and make-up managers.

Junior Production

"Thursday Evening," by Christopher Morley was an amusing farce of domestic life. Mrs. Sheff and Mrs. Johns, the mothers-in-law played by Doris Hart and Mildred Huntley formulated a plan to reconcile their quarreling children. Marion Cleveland as Laura and Elizabeth White as Gordon Johns were a typical young couple of moderate means.

Evelyn Anderson had charge of make-up, Dorothy Crandell was costume manager and Charlotte Stone director of properties. The Junior players were coached by Irene Bates.

"The Florist's Shop"

"The Florist Shop" dealt with the attempts of Maude Miss Margaret Miller to bring romance into the lives of her friends. Mollie Levin played the role of Slovsky, proprietor of the shop. Mary Turner was the stingy banker of fifteen years standing and Charlotte Cleveland as Miss Wells was the recipient of the orchids and eventually a wedding ring. The part of Henry, the other boy, was played by Esther M. Nelson.

Lesley Cook coached the play. Alice Bellmore was made up manager, Agnes Wheeler costume manager and Beatrice Hoseline property director.

Prize Play

The hero of the Freshmen play was Beverly Housekeeper while Jeannette Beecher as Anne proved opposite her. The part of Mrs. Cary Abbey mother was taken by Ruth Woodall and Anne's sister Ruth by Frances Hazen. The story dealt with the complications of Anne which culminate in a real romance with Harold. All the characters were well portrayed.

The managers of this play were Pauline Wood, make-up; Susan Howard, costumes; and Louise Bewley, property. Doris Harbour and Margaret Clark coached the freshmen.

Mr. Leon W. Dean as chairman of the judges announced the decision in favor of the Freshmen. Professor J. J. Metcalf and Professor A. B. Marble served with Mr. Dean as judges.

Gladys Kone general manager and Thelma Price business manager deserve much credit for the success of this annual entertainment of the Dramatic club.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

A luncheon was given to the Mothers of Eta Chapter at the Athena Club Saturday noon. A play "The Maker of Dreams" was presented after the luncheon.

The Newman Club sponsored a dance last Friday night at the hall of the Catholic Daughters of America on College street. Dancing was from eight to eleven.

DEAN BROWN SPEAKS TO THE POINT

Dean Brown struck a very pleasing ... in his address last Sunday afternoon and was honored with much favorable comment from both students and townspeople. He was able, to a degree beyond that of most men, to put life and reality and a sense of ... instead of the usual remoteness ... with Bible stories. His talk ... The Dean knows what he wants to say and is not at all afraid to say it, and then he has the ... to put his ideas into the minds of his hearers in an appealing manner.

Whatever the intended purpose of the sermon and regardless of whom the sermon may have been thinking, we cannot but realize how aptly it might have been pointed directly at us. All classes of people were pictured as living on one long street, with the supposedly righteous at one end and the morally low at the other, and the idea brought out was that the supposedly righteous were worse than those whom they called morally beneath them, if the former did nothing to relieve the condition of the latter, because the latter were often much more willing to be truly good if given the opportunity. Dean Brown used illustrations from the Bible in a very ... clever, and interesting way.

Most of us belong to the upper end of the street, where the supposedly righteous are found. That is, we keep our names out of the gutter, and though at times a little notoriety may be enjoyed, on the whole we endeavor to have as good a reputation as possible and yet we do nothing to benefit the moral standing of the campus nor of the rest of the world. We do not advocate a holiness campaign nor even that every one join the Y. M. C. A., but we do think that the attitude on campus is not as helpful as it might be toward keeping things decent. It has become the fashion to conceal one's morals as much as possible and certainly not to betray them by word of mouth. The college man and woman likes to be recognized for freedom of thought, and in that endeavor has gone farther than is sometimes realized. The college student does not actually feel nor believe on moral issues the way he would seem to. There is a horrible pretense at worldliness, and no one wants to admit the truth of the situation for fear of appearing unsophisticated and behind the times. Were we to stick by our own beliefs and not be afraid to voice them we would leading a much saner existence and at the same time be helping others to get a more satisfying taste of life.

It is some time since a speaker at the gymnasium has enjoyed as large an audience as turned out for Will Rogers, and no one seems to have been disappointed. It is certainly a privilege to hear such a man both because of the pleasure he gives and because he opens before one such a vista of opportunity.

Speaking of Will Rogers, do we realize how fortunate, or rather how well looked out for, we are, with regard to lectures, musical entertainments and the like. We do not of course have the advantages of a large city and its accompanying pleasures and cultures. But we do have the advantages of the country, and for an institution so small and so lacking in funds, we do have wonderful opportunities to see and hear some of the foremost people of this and other countries. The University has brought us several fine speakers this year, and the lectures and concerts sponsored by Mr. Dow are always of high quality.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

In defense of Nilpath '27 from the maligning phrases of Was '28 permit me to bring to the attention of Was and all of his ilk. That the man who is brave enough to make some attempts to correct evils by bringing them to public view, is the object of much scathing comment and ridicule from those who are the cause of the evil or if not the cause, then merely one of the type who are satisfied with conditions as they are. These are the opponents of Progress and the favorers of Stagnation.

Keep up the good work, Nilpath. The world needs men of your calibre. Vermont gained a worthy booster and ally when you entered her lists as a champion of furthering Vermont Spirit and Progress.

Was '28, in anticipation of Senior Prestige loose sight of his own dignity when he mentions "Constructive Criticism" and fails to make his own constructive.

I, a Freshman am inclined to laugh at "Junior" childishness displayed as an attempt at worthy criticism.

R. S. D. '30.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

My fellow classmate, Was '28, in his quaint style brought out the shortcomings of Nilpath, who has been writing "Unspeakable Crimes." Was '28 is right—Nilpath is another of those self-appointed critics, who sees the "mote in his brother's eye" and fails to recognize the presence of a beam in his own.

Everywhere we find plenty of critics of the present order, but few real thinkers who are willing to work out new systems. There are plenty of Nilpaths on the campus but few real workers. If Nilpath should offer solutions for the situation which he so vigorously set forth, his letters would be of real value. As it stands now the Nilpath letters are merely waste of good space, which ... voted to real news.

Nilpath has been the ... ent critic of Vermont ... also others who clutter ... Comment with bunk ... has a pet peeve, it seems ... able that he should ... a remedy. Le Sage

CAMPUS COMMENT

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Last Friday Srednasal made a few remarks which did not seem to have much backing after witnessing Cap Fogg's wonderful pitching feat Saturday. Well, I should hope he is man enough to admit that they were entirely uncalled for, and would like to humbly apologize to Captain Fogg through the CYNIC for those rather hasty words. Sincerely yours,

SREDNASAL.

Kappa Phi Kappa Installs Chapter At The University of Vermont

Seventeen Members Were Initiated into National Professional Education Fraternity Last Friday Afternoon

A chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national professional education fraternity, was organized at the University of Vermont on May [illegible], 1927. This fraternity was founded for the purpose of [illegible] among men for the teaching profession, the promotion of professional interest and the promotion of research in the problems of Education. The membership is limited to members of the Junior and Senior classes who are taking at least [illegible] semester in Education.

The organizing committee consisted of Professor Arthur D. Wright of [illegible], National secretary and Professor James G. Stevens, former national president of the Fraternity. [illegible] delegates from the Dartmouth Chapter were present and assisted in the installation and initiation.

The badge of this organization is in the form of a key to be worn on the watch chain and is in the form of an open book with the letters Kappa Phi Kappa across the face.

The fraternity has chapters at Dartmouth, Lafayette, the University of Maine, Colby College, Gettysburg, Allegheny and Wittenberg Colleges, James Millikan University, Emory and Henry College, Birmingham Southern College, the University of Pennsylvania, Middlebury, Syracuse University, the University of Miami, Washington and Lee, College of William and Mary, Drake University, Wake Forest College, the University of Pittsburg, Penn State, the University of Rochester, Hamilton University, New York State College for Teachers, and Muhlenberg College.

The initiates at the University of Vermont are: Edmund Boyce, Floyd Sears, Hjalmar Aronson, Bernard Lawlor, Dean Rowe, Clifton Stafford, George Sloan, Robert Blodgett, all of the class of 1927, and John W. Miller, Jr., Rolfe Schoppe, Charles Boright, Harry Montague, John Conway, Fayette Hubbell, Delbert Merrill, Walter Reagan, John A. Smith, and H. H. Fogg, of the class of 1928. Bennett C. Douglass, Professor of Education is the Faculty Advisor.

JUNIOR VARSITY WINS AT FORT ETHAN ALLEN

The Junior Varsity won their second home game when they defeated Fort Ethan Allen's artillery team 2-1 on the home diamond. Both teams played airtight ball only three errors being made during the game. It developed into a pitchers battle neither team scoring for four innings when Colopy's Kittens found Veint and tallied two runs. It was not until the final inning that the soldiers were able to score and this because of two passed balls. Santoire allowed only three hits and received fine support and Veint let the Kittens down with four.

Santoire played a fine game besides doing some fine pitching, figuring in two assists and hitting the longest hit of the day, a double. With the experience he will get the rest of this season "Sandy" ought to be a varsity flinger next year.

Tatro was the only man on the Post team that could seem to fathom Santoire's curves gathering two of his teams three hits. Besides this he showed some flashy fielding around second making one stop that looked like a sure hit.

The Second's scores came in the fourth when Chadwick received a free ticket and a fumble of O'Keefe's grounder. Harwood grounded and in their attempt to get Chadwick they were slow thus filling the bags. Chadwick was nearly caught overunning third but a wild throw by Ferrin allowed him to score. Knapp hit to short but O'Keefe was caught at the plate. A single by Valenti scored Harwood for their second run.

The soldiers tallied in the final inning when Santoire hit McCormick. Due to an injury secured the preceding day Dufresne was allowed to run for McCormick and went to second and third on passed balls. He scored when Larkin grounded out.

The comedy of the game was furnished by our own Capt. Rattan and the umpire. The Captain bunted and slid to first and the umpire in his eagerness to see him get there slid with him but they were both out just the same. The summary:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7—R

Two-base hits: Santoire. Sacrifice hits: Harwood, O'Keefe. Stolen bases: Tatro, Chadwick, Knapp, Valenti. First base on balls off Veint 1. First base on errors: Junior Varsity 1. Left on bases: J. V. 5. F. E. A. 3. Struck out, by Veint 4, Santoire 3. Passed Balls: Ferrin 2. Hit by pitched ball: MacCormick by Santoire. Umpire: Cassell.

CATAMOUNT WILL FACE HORSEMAN ON SABINE FIELD THIS AFTERNOON

This afternoon Vermont will play the third game of the state series when the Catamounts take on the fast Norwich nine at Sabine Field. The horsemen have not had much success thus far this season due to the lack of experienced pitching material but nevertheless they can be depended on to give the Green and Gold nine a stiff battle this afternoon. Either Reardon or Garrity will probably do the hurling for the opponents while Cushon will be on the receiving end.

After Vermont's smashing victory over St. Mike's last Saturday the Green and Gold backers are expecting great things of the Catamounts before the season is a over. Everybody has his eye on the ball now and ought to keep the outfielders going for some time. "Jack" Conway got his eye back in the last game and will probably make some pitcher miserable this afternoon if not later in the season because when "Jack" is hitting the pill things usually move and move fast. Reark is also on the war path and is at present heading the Catamounts batting list. Coach Dresser certainly showed that he has a wide awake ball club against St. Mike's. A club that is ready to take advantage of every break of the game. The infield is working as smooth as oil now and can be depended on to give any hurler that "Hank" sends in the best of support.

Coach Dresser's battery choice will be Schoppe and Winchenbach with the former doing the hurling and the latter on the receiving. This will mark Schoppe's first start since the team returned from the southern trip and he is out to show the fans that he is every bit as good as he was last season if not better. It will be Winchenbach's first crack at the backstop position since the Holy Cross game. He has been playing first base on the last trip and although he showed up well Coach Dresser feels that he needs him more at the plate and is therefore giving him a chance to make a comeback.

With the pitching staff all in first rate condition and both the outfield and infield working like a million dollars it would seem that they ought to breeze through the rest of the season on high.

Junior Week Festivities to Reach Climax Tonight at Promenade

"BAB" CAST MAKES A HIT AT STRONG

Betty Johnson, Roger Allbee and Muriel Cleveland Score Success as Leading Characters of the Junior Week Play

MRS. TAGGART DIRECTS SUCCESSFUL PRODUCTION

While Vermont has witnessed many college plays of high standard during the past few years, "Bab" can well be placed among the best presented by Vermont students. The fine presentation of the entire "Bab" cast last evening reflects the success of the work of Mrs. C. Ives Taggart, who has done much to place dramatics on a high plane at Vermont. "Bab" is the ninth college play, which has been under the direction of Mrs. Taggart. Among the successes which have been produced under this capable and inspiring director are: "Dulcy," "Tweedles," "Captain Applejack," "The Saving Grace," "Her Husband's Wife," "The Goose Hangs High," and "Milestones."

In the past few years, the fact that Mrs. Taggart is to coach the play, automatically assures the success of the play.

THE STORY

Bab, the heroine, is a sub-deb aged about 17, and has just arrived home from boarding school which has been closed due to an epidemic of measles. At home she finds that her mother is furthering a romance between her sister Leila and an Englishman, the Honorable Clinton Beresford, with whom Bab had ridden home on the train. By accident they had exchanged suitcases and thus being already acquainted, Bab starts to flirt with him to make some excitement. She makes rather an impression upon him which scandalizes the family. Mr. Archibald, her father, is opposed to Beresford merely on the grounds that he is a foreigner and this serves to make matters all somewhat complicated.

In order to appease the family wrath at her conduct, Bab begins to write love letters to a stock company actor whose picture she had previously bought. Both her family and the young friend of the family intercept letters. The friend, Carter Brooks, knows the actor to whom Bab has been writing and decides to play a trick on Bab. He asks the actor, Guy Grosvenor, called by Bab in her letters, Harold Valentine to visit the Archibalds making Mr. Archibald a partner in the trick.

Carter offers to carry a letter to Harold Valentine while he is at the house which he does and which Bab wants back immediately. She therefore goes to his room which is shared by the Honorable Clinton Beresford armed with a gun and flashlight. While searching she is surprised by Beresford who demands an explanation which is promptly forthcoming. Upon understanding her reasons for being in the room, he offers to help her hunt for the letter and soon finds it. They hear steps approaching so Bab hides in the closet and Carter Brooks and Guy Grosvenor, alias Harold Valentine appear. Guy has by this time become interested in Bab and wishes to keep up the farce although Carter thinks that it has gone far enough. Beresford is told the details of the trick which Bab also hears. At the critical moment she sneezes and the gun in her hand goes off which brings the rest of the family in on the run, demanding explanations. They decide that Bab is to be sent to her Great Aunt in Philadelphia, but she refuses to leave, backing up her argument by the announcement that she is coming down with the measles. This is effective.

The next act is two weeks later, when Bab has recovered and Grosvenor has gone away. It is the after-

The trip Saturday was in some respects the most profitable that has been taken. Dr. T. J. Allen Superintendent of the School, met the crowd and gave them first a lecture and clinic which was followed by a tour of the grounds. The party went by bus

ONE HUNDRED JUNIORS GO TO CLASS BANQUET

A most successful banquet was held by the Junior class at the Hotel Vermont at seven o'clock Wednesday evening. One hundred members were present, the largest number to be present at a junior banquet in many years. Of late years the junior banquets have met with little success.

Charles H. Stevens, the class president, was toastmaster. Merton C. Robbins, Howard A. Prentice, Della Martin, and Dorothy Hall all of the class of 1928 were the speakers of the evening. Several impromptus were offered by other members of the class. Johnson's four-piece orchestra rendered several selections during the banquet.

The singing of Vermont songs concluded the evening's program. The committee in charge of the banquet were Harold C. Collins, chairman, Kellogg W. Kyle, Lawrence R. Marvin, Irene Bates, and Eleanor Lockwood.

SIMPSON BREAKS EASTERN INTERCOLL. RECORD

The Vermont Track team journeyed to Worcester Mass. to compete in the Annual Eastern Intercollegiate Track Meet last Saturday and came home with fourth place. Northeastern and Union College tied for first honors with 24 points. Rhode Island was next with 23, Vermont with 21, Worcester Tech 21, Norwich University 12, Tufts 10, Massachusetts Aggies 7.

Several records were broken during the course of the meet and Vermont claims one of the new records through the efforts of Capt. Simpson who broke the old javelin record of 191 feet 4 inches with a new heave of 195 feet 6 inches. Besides this Simpson took second place in the 100 yard dash and ran second which was the best finish of the meet made by any member of the team with 18 points. This makes two consecutive years that he has been high scorer with 14 points last year. The Vermont captain took first in the discus, first in the shot put, first in the javelin and second in the hammer throw.

Captain of Union established a new record in the mile run when he ran the four laps in 4 minutes 26.5 seconds. Miller of Worcester Tech ran the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat breaking the former record of 15.2 seconds. Dexter of Union College made the new record of 12 seconds for the 120 yards high hurdles and Tarbox of Union established a new record in 9 minutes 51 seconds for the two mile run.

Hastings of the Green and Gold tied for first with Cook of Rhode Island for the pole vault. The mark reached by the pole vaulters was 11 feet 2 inches and the record held by Whitten of Vermont is 11 feet 3 inches. Hastings went as high as 11 feet 5 inches but could not officially as he did not after having his three trials. Burbank of Vermont qualified in the finals of the hurdles but lost out in the semi-finals.

This coming Friday and Saturday Simpson and Hastings will journey to the New England Track meet at Bowdoin where the competition will be even keener.

JUNIOR PROM TAKES PLACE TONIGHT

Club Worthy Hills Orchestra from Hartford, Conn., Will Play for the Biggest Event of the College Social Season

BALL TAKES PLACE AT BURLINGTON GYMNASIUM

The second Junior Prom sponsored by the class of 1928 will take place this evening in the new gymnasium at the Burlington High School beginning at nine and lasting until one. The only place available at the University for a dance as large as this is the gymnasium which offers the difficulties of being very hard to decorate in a becoming manner and of having a floor ill suited for dancing, as it has been used for everything ranging from a circus to a basketball game. The High School gym on the other hand is now is remarkably easy to decorate in such a manner as to conceal the fact that it is a gymnasium and has a wonderful floor which will be specially waxed to a glassilike finish for the Prom. It also has facilities for checking wraps a cafeteria where refreshments will be served, a ladies' rest room and a rest room for men. This is the first time in a great many years that this event will have taken place away from the campus, but until the University Building project goes into effect and provides a suitable place, no better arrangement can be made.

The committee on decorations secured ideas for decorations from Donaldson and Company and other similar firms and finally decided on an interwoven trellis of crepe paper hanging low over the floor entirely masking the appearance of the building.

Tickets for the Prom and programs for Junior Week are being sold in advance and orders are being filled by M. C. Robbins and George Talcott. Special attention has been given to the favors which have arrived and are ready for distribution. What they are is being kept a secret until intermission tonight. All money for Prom tickets or tickets not sold should be handed to R. M. Whitcomb before six o'clock this evening.

It is said that the Prom Committee was very fortunate in obtaining one of the finest jazz orchestras in the East, the Club Worthy Hills Orchestra of Hartford, Conn. This organization makes a specialty of playing at college and fraternity dances and has played at Yale, Dartmouth, Mt. Holyoke, Smith, Wesleyan and other colleges of equal rate. It is a ten piece organization and has given excellent satisfaction everywhere it has played. This is only one of the many features of Junior Prom.

It is planned also to have several of those dances which appeal so much to college students especially at proms — the moonlight waltz. Although the waltz is somewhat out of favor, no one minds when the only light is a moonlight as expressed does he become so peeping away from the unwelcome beams.

Grouping of spotlights the High School has one on every corner to prevent wanderers from going astray and to guide their erring footsteps safely to the dance hall. This convenience (?) will also help in parking cars as the facilities for this are not so good at the High School as at the University.

Much credit is due the Prom Committee headed by Robert M. Whitcomb for the fine arrangements made for the comfort and joy of those who are to attend. Each year it grows more and more difficult to find features which will not be repetitions of those of former years. Originality adds much to the success of the event.

Vol. 4 Mar. 20, 1928 No. 53

The state of Vermont is doing much to attract tourists to this part of the country by road improvement and various forms of advertising but there is certainly a force in the other direction which a good out-of-stater is liable to run foul of in fishing for his breakfast. The law now in force concerning fish and fishers are highly impractical. There are many people who will wade in for a little fishing but not enough to warrant the expense and inconvenience of getting a license. We protest no small amount of mental cruelty and we see very plainly a strong temptation for law breaking which will not lead to a healthy spirit.

ON WITH JUNIOR WEEK

We find ourselves in the midst of Junior Week, enjoying the excitement and general good times of the great social period of the year. We realize that college is primarily a place for improvement of the mind. Starting with the premise we are quite freely to admit that our studies are Economics and Politics, but these are not the only part of every individual the most important of our opportunities for development. Certainly the social side of our life, that part of us commonly termed as personality, should be considered and should be cared for and cultivated as carefully as any other. However much we may learn in the class room however much our mental vision may advance and however much we cannot pass on our knowledge and the enjoyments accompanying it unless our social intercourse is somewhat developed. Nor can we ourselves enjoy our intellectual progress to the full unless we can share them. Have the privilege of sharing. We may well say then that the benefits of our knowledge both for others and for ourselves are in direct proportion to our social development.

Junior Week is a unique question one of the most and most effective times and means of developing the social side of our nature. From the banquet to the prom dance that close the festivities of the week on Saturday night, and the weeks before and after the events there is an atmosphere and a positively conducive to good feeling and camaraderie. We should not allow our regular college work or studies to suffer for social functions but there is a very definite and a very important place for such functions and it is up to us to take advantage of them. Let's call forth a little of that reserve enthusiasm which we as conservative Vermonters must have, and end Junior Week in proper fashion.

Festivities started off well at the Junior Banquet and the class may well feel proud of the good feeling that was shown there. It is remarkable how a class will come together in the course of a very few years and break down all old barriers of Freshman days when about the only reason for keeping together was that of safety or loneliness. Even political methods are subject to revision, as was well brought out by one speaker at the banquet.

The new gymnasium of the city schools is hardly recognizable, and the floor is in much better condition than those used for Junior Week dances for some time past. Considering the novelty of the place, the work that has been done to make it attractive, and especially considering the spirit that seems to abound in favorable kind, the Prom tonight will necessarily be a success.

Since the production of the opera "Dido and Aeneas" ambition seems spurred on by that success. The pageant for Lake Day is certainly an elaborate work if carried out as planned and promises wonderful effects. The work being put into this part of the celebration exceeds that of other years. It certainly is wonderful what an impression and influence a woman like Dean Wasson can leave on a campus.

Campus Comment

"Unspeakable Crimes"

There is another thing at Vermont which is certainly a "crime" in every sense of the word. It is the playful pastime with certain kind of persons of stealing coats, slickers, hats, overshoes, etc. which are trustingly parked outside of classrooms upon the hooks provided for that purpose. Matters have become pretty serious when no one can hang a coat out of his range of vision for five minutes and [illegible] there when the proverbial hat goes with the wind. The gladness of college life has been displaced by an omni present suspicion of classmates and associates. The prestige of Vermont has fallen in their eyes, and the message which they now carry back home to their friends is not so whole heartedly one of endorsement as it used to be.

WAS '28 asks to whom we can "attribute the situation"? Well, I can remember the time when such practices were not existent at Vermont. The classes of '28, '29 and '30 have come in since that time. The finger of guilt must be pointed at one of them, for until they arrived this wave of theft was unknown. WAS '28 himself may well recall and ponder upon the words of Lincoln which he quoted in last Friday's letter.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

STATUS OF AMATEURS DETERMINED BY E. I. A. A.

The University of Vermont has ratified the changes in the proposed constitution of the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Association for the coming year. Some controversy arose, however, over the definition of the word "amateur" in Article VII, Section 1, which reads, "only amateurs shall be allowed to compete in the games of this association. Each institution shall guarantee the standing of its own representatives."

In a reply to a letter from H. A. Mayforth, Graduate Manager, concerning this matter, Mr. Edward S. Parsons, president of the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, said, "the guarantee of the institution which the individual represents seems to me to be satisfactory." His explanation was accepted by the Council here at the University and the constitution was ratified without further question.

WESTERN POET LARIAT ENTERTAINS WITH HIS AMUSING MONOLOGUES

Will Rogers Favors College Fraternities—Gives Co-eds Advice —Has Fun at Professors' Expense

Will Rogers, poet lariat, and mayor of Beverly Hills, Calif., spoke to a large audience at the gymnasium Monday night.

"I came upon the stage alone, no introduction was needed. He opened his program by giving a brief description of himself and then went on as follows:

"It seems good to come out where I am known. Now in England where I recently visited, I wasn't so well known. They had had only one other name and had shot him!"

This remark drew such a laugh that Will cocked his head to one side and chewed vigorously on his wad of gum for a moment, then, "I can see from the way you get these jokes that we don't get out early. It doesn't take long to tell a joke, it's explaining it that takes the time."

Referring to Congress, Will went on to say, "Every time Congress makes a joke, it's a law. Therefore every law they make is a joke. I am willing to nod to a senator, but not for anything would I associate with one. Moreover I want my jokes where they will be read.

"I know this is an educational center," said Will, "but, I want it distinctly understood that I have brought no message. In fact, I am probably the only one who has ever spoken here who hasn't brought a message. Now, you might ask yourself why you came here. Your English professor would answer, 'you came here to learn not how to talk, but how not to talk.'" Speaking more seriously the Mayor of Beverly Hills, remarked, "after having been in 186 cities so far this year, I can sincerely say that this is the prettiest town that I have seen. There is no joking about it. You certainly have a beautiful campus. Also you have some fine fraternity houses, speaking of fraternities, they are all right to keep you away from the common herd. But when you get out, you seek your own level.

"I was playing at Smith college the other night, and (by the way, they have a fine bunch of girls at Smith). Here I learned about Harvard's breaking off relations with Princeton because they were too rough. So now Smith is on Harvard's schedule in place of Princeton."

About ten minutes past ten, Will Rogers left the stage long enough to get his ropes. Returning, he gave a very clever exhibition of work with his lariat, at the same time giving his audience a witty monologue concerning current topics. About this time he asked if there was any special topic anyone would like to have him talk about. "It makes no difference to me whether I know anything about the subject. I am like a college professor, the less I know about anything the more I can talk about it. Now, in addressing, I might give some advice to you 'Co-eds.' Girls, you're wearing your skirts too short. You're trying to imitate the Follies. Now, I know Ziegfeld; anytime he puts short dresses on a girl, HE picks the girl. Don't follow fashion only so far as you are physically able. You must leave something to the imagination. Concealment led more men to the altar than exposure ever did."

The poet lariat now thanked his audience for their quick appreciation of his wit and humor and left the platform amid deserved applause.

College Women to Meet for a Week in Burlington—Alumnae to Gather and Discuss Their Alma Maters

The fourth annual College Week will be observed by the Vermont group of the American Association of University Women at Bishop Hopkins Hall June 27 to 30. The idea of having a College Week originated here at Vermont and has proved so successful that it is being tried out in several other states. It is an effort to bring together all the women college graduates living in Vermont, and those interested in what the A.A.U.W. is doing.

The entire program for the week has not been announced yet and will appear in a later issue of the CYNIC. Monday evening, the 27th is to be Undergraduate Night. All women undergraduates in the city are invited to attend this meeting. Miss Harriet Hardy, the president of next year's senior class at Wellesley, is to be the speaker. She will talk about her experiences in one of the groups of American students who attended the international students' gathering in Europe. Another interesting speaker will be Miss Gill, who is teaching in Montclair, New Jersey She is an Englishwoman, an "exchange teacher" in the secondary schools. She will speak on the difference between English and American Education.

In addition to having several very good speakers for College Week, it is customary for the alumnae of the separate colleges to meet together on the morning of the second day. Each group has a guest of honor who tells current news and anything of interest concerning her Alma Mater. At luncheon that day the guests of honor are the speakers.

The Medic Senior Society, Cap and Skull held its annual initiation and banquet at the New Sherwood last Tuesday night. Those initiated were: G. G. Defoe of Peru, N. Y.; R. A. Getchell of Portland, Me.; R. O Prentiss, Jr., of Johnson; A. B. Soule, Jr., of St. Albans; and L. E. Wilson of Fitchburg, Mass.

A census of Princeton Campus show that 25% of the students never eat breakfast.

INSTITUTE OFFERS TRAINING IN BUSINESS FOR COLLEGE MEN

Attractive Opportunities in Accountancy for Graduates of General Cultural Courses—Technical Training Unnecessary at Start

College men who intend to go into business but have not definitely selected a particular type of activity may obtain a wide comprehension of the organization and administration of various industrial and commercial enterprises by experience in public accounting, according to a pamphlet which has been received from the American Institute of Accountants, The Bureau for Placements of the Institute, which is not a school but a national organization of professional accountants, undertakes to provide positions with reputable public accounting firms for qualified college graduates at no cost to the latter, and has published the booklet mentioned to explain the opportunities in accountancy for educated men.

Previous study of accountancy subjects is not required to enter this profession, it is said, since the necessary theory and technique may be acquired after actually obtaining a position. It, however, the student has completed some of the elementary accountancy subjects in school in addition to his general academic studies, he will find that work helpful. Emphasis is laid upon the value of a broad cultural education to the accountant, and it is claimed that men of ability with sound academic training will find in accountancy an excellent chance to develop and capitalize their powers. One of the attractive features mentioned is the intimate knowledge which a public accountant acquires of the financial organization and administration of various types of business; a knowledge which makes his services of value to a commercial or industrial organization if at any time he wishes to leave the practice of professional accountancy. In other words, no time spent in public accounting is wasted, which is a decided contrast with time spent in many other vocations by young college graduates, if they find that their first choice of a position is not satisfactory to them.

Both the initial and ultimate remuneration of the public accountant compare favorably with that in any other profession, it is said. Students who obtain positions through the Bureau of Placements of the Institute are paid not less than $125 a month at the start, and they are practically assured of continued employment for at least three years, if their work is satisfactory, with annual increases of salary arranged in advance. The incomes of the leaders in the profession are as large as those of the higher executives in the business world. Necessarily, however, many years of experience are required to reach these positions.

The booklet published by the Institue shows the wide scope of accountancy and its close relationship with the financial affairs of business, and also explains in detail the opportunities, requirements, conditions of advancement and remuneration in the profession. Complete information regarding the Bureau's plan for placing desirable college men with public accounting firms is also given. Copies of this pamphlet may be obtained from the American Institute of Accountants, Bureau for Placements, 135 Cedar Street, New York, N. Y.

The contest is open to all residents of the United States between the ages of 20 and 35. One prize is to be awarded to the winning woman and the other to the winning man. The custom of sending Gifts to Graduates has now been extended by general accord to include those in the lower classes who have manifested sufficient industry to pass their final exams.

To know what to give, one needs but observe the students' own expressions of preference for the Parker Duofold Pen and Pencil.

To have earned the favor of the younger generation is our reward for serving it with studied personal interest. We have lifted the frowns from student brows [among others] by giving the world a writing pair that are inspirations to work with and beauties to possess.

All those in favor of owning, or giving the finest —whether for Graduation, Birthday or Wedding Gifts, or for prizes at Bridge or Golf—will signify by stepping in to the nearest Parker pen counter. Then the first thing to look for is the imprint, "Geo. S. Parker" on the barrels. Then nobody will be disappointed.

Famous Men Are Numerous Among Lists Expelled From Universities

the United States a distinguished list of college 'rejects' one discovers the names of Steven Locke, William Penn Edmund and Walter Savage Landor these men were such undesirable graduates that they were asked from the university charged such crimes as sedition obscene writing and nonconformity.

the United States a distinguished list of those who were expelled from college? The writer found this question for entertaining answers. There was, of course the expulsion of John Peter Zenger and in 1861. Young Darwin was the first to be stirred in America the Darwinian discoveries. The faculty was frightened at this serious exceptionally well read sophomore they finally got something on him was observed reading from a volume of Comte in church and was promptly summoned for punishment before the faculty he was charged with disseminating infidelity among the students and with "gross misconduct" at church. Fiske denied the former allegation and admitted the latter. Although several faculty members wanted to suspend him for a year he was let off with a "public admonition." James MacNeill Whistler, like those before him, was expelled from West Point for poor scholarship. In the third year he was found deficient in chemistry. One Colonel Larned gives the following account of the incident:

Silicon Gas

Whistler said: 'Had silicon been a gas, I would have been a Major General.' He was called up for examination on the subject of chemistry. When called upon to recite he started: 'Silicon is required to discuss the subject of silicon. Silicon is a gas.' 'That will do, Mr. Whistler', and he retired quickly to private life."

As might be expected, the writers of the contemporary era revealed a more rebellious spirit in their student days than their Victorian predecessors. Some were dismissed, others left voluntarily, and atmosphere they found much too stifling. With them should be classed Stephen Crane. Thomas Beer has this to say of Crane's year at the University of Syracuse: "He lounged at Syracuse in the back room of a restaurant and other freshmen were impresed by a classmate who sold sketches to The Detroit Free Press and who assured them that the police court was the most interesting place in Syracuse. He got notice from the faculty by telling a professor that he disagreed with Saint Paul's theory of sin and seriously shocked the wife of another authority by declining to meet Mrs. Willard at her home for the reason that he thought Mrs. Willard a fool.... As for college it was a damned nuisance and he was glad to have done with all things academic in June."

One Year Enough for Dreiser

One year was all that Theodore Dreiser needed of the University of Indiana. He was not known through scholarly ability or athletic prowess. W. M. Toner wrote in The New Student Dec. 19, 1925. He was a student here then, but he was not known through scholarship ability or athletic prowess. He plodded through his first year, then left, conscious only of an acute inapprehension concerning the polite usages of education in our factory of knowledge. His particular fire of intellectual power could only grow brilliant under the bellows of personal tutelage. As it was, this fire only smouldered under the cramping exigencies of the class room in the pursuit of a particular formula

There was no place for Theodore Dreiser in the Scheme of the University. To every one who knew him then, he was an intellectual misfit. He would wander aimlessly through the fields or sit in a chair at his rooming house tying and untying knots in his handkerchief. The University and life in general held for him nothing but bewilderment. He could find no philosophy that eased his mind towards the prosaic tragedies that surrounded and engulfed him.

O'Neill Comes Back

Eugene O'Neill was expelled from Princeton at the end of his freshman year for a trifling offense. He might have returned in a year, but he was busy experiencing a world whose reverberations never penetrate the precincts of a rural campus. Years afterward he learned to transmute his stock of raw experiences in the forecastle of tram steamers on a gold hunting expedition in Honduras into plays as a student in Professor George P. Baker's famous '47 Workshop, then at Harvard.

Sinclair Lewis, too, left college to return later. A long legged drawling Middle Westerner fresh from Sauk Center, he was constantly in rebellion

Aiken too Interested in French

A Harvard freshman [illegible] French dramatist. He became [illegible] in his work began [illegible] classes and rolled up an [illegible] average of nine. He left college to direct but came back later on the behest of an uncle. There are other expulsions, bear explosions and begins that ought to be included in this list. The New Yorker of a recent date carries the item of such a one. Miss Cora B. Millay mother of Edna St. Vincent, writes: "The really good story of Vincent's bear explosion from Vassar on the verge of Commencement, the Proble did rum with I have not the time nor have you the space, to deal with this now. However, I will say that the fact that a good part of her class refused to graduate without her might have had some influence on the academic authorities. Whatever the heartless she graduated with her class as they sang her 'Baccalaureate Hymn'." Certainly there are many one hundred per cent American cases of expulsions actual or threatened, waiting to be ferreted out. The writer suggests this bit of research for the consequently next rebellious college student who suddenly finds himself collegeless and with a lot of time on his hands. New Student.

BRADFORD TO DEBATE FOR HIGH SCHOOL TITLE

High School forensic stars from Burlington High and Bradford Academy meet to decide the debating championship of Vermont today. The forensic battle takes place in the Gymnasium this evening at 8 o'clock. From present indications the winner will not be known until the debate is over. Both teams have met and defeated strong opponents during the past winter. Burlington won its way into the finals by eliminating the crack Spaulding team last week. Bradford has been to the final contest once already, while Burlington appears as a finalist for the first time.

Debating among the secondary schools has been fostered by the University of Vermont for the past three years. The University arranges the schedules of the teams. After a process of elimination, the contest for the state championship is held yearly at the Gymnasium. The winning team is given full tuition scholarships for one year, while the losers receive half tuition scholarships. While in Burlington the visiting teams are the guests of the University. This year the participants will be invited to various Junior Week activities. This afternoon the teams attended the baseball game between the Connecticut Agricultural College and Vermont.

The debate this evening is to be on "Resolved: That the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill should be a law of the land." Bradford Academy is to uphold the affirmative, while Burlington High will take the negative. Judges for the occasion have not been announced, but the management assures the public that the men are among the most capable judges of debating. There will be no charge for admission.

The next event is the proposed meeting of Bab to Carter Brooks who was ostensibly in love with Lelia but really with Bab.

THE PLAYERS

Elizabeth (Betty) Johnson took the part of Bab in a most capable manner. She had a difficult characterization but she carried it out in a very effective way. Miss Johnson appeared in her second college play being a member of last years Junior Week play cast. The audience gave the clever little actress a deserved applause.

Roger H. Allbee, who has established his place among the best actors at Vermont for all time, played opposite Miss Johnson. As "Carter Brooks" he carried all before him. Allbee met with the approbation of the local theatregoers. His work was fully as good as that of the memorable "Captain Applejack," last winter.

Muriel F. Cleveland was one of the stars of the evening. Of pleasing personality and excellent stage appearance, she added much to the success of the play. Miss Cleveland is a Junior and has thus far taken part in two plays. Her characterization of "Leila" will stand as one of the best seen in Vermont dramatics.

Dorothy Cottrell and Lyman Corcoran, two underclassmen who made favorable impressions in "Captain Applejack," showed considerable talent. Corcoran played the part of Clinton Beresford, an Englishman, to perfection. Miss Cottrell's characterization of "Miss Archibald" left little to be desired. Herrick Malcomber as "James Archibald," Francis W. McGinley as "Guy Grosvenor," Gladys Hogaboom as "Jane Raleigh," William Lockwood as "Eddie Perkins," Dorothy Strong as "Hannah," and Whitney Safford as "William" all were well cast and carried out their assignments in a capable way.

The cast appeared for the first time at the Strong Theatre on Thursday. No trip was taken as has been the custom but the presentation did not suffer materially from the lack of previous appearances before audiences.

Catamount's Lair

By Spitznasal 29

Vermont will renew baseball relations with the Green Mountain conference when the Cynic and Gold nine opens its season against the fast Norwich team on Saturday. Just enough is known about the Northfield boys to make predictions that if their pitchers are good as the Cynic-Gold team they are sure to give Coach Dresser a good game.

With both of this week's games called off on account of the weather the team has had a little let up on the training and the Catamounts are ready to start off on a winning streak which they hope to carry out to the end of the season. The entire batting department is in perfect trim due to the much needed lay off and Coach Dresser will have five good pitchers ready to start this afternoon. The opposing battery will either be Talcott or Schoppe with odds in favor of the latter. If Schoppe works it will be his first chance to show his stuff since the team returned from the southern trip. Which batch may be the receiving ends are nothing definite has been decided. At present Vreeson is going very good both on the receiving and at the bat and for this reason Coach Dresser may leave him in the game.

The rest of the lineup will be the same as appeared last Saturday against St. Michs. Prentice at first, Bergeron at second, Conway at short and Capt. Cusack at the hot corner. Roark, Macomber and Price will make up the outfield.

Vermont's first game with Norwich was called off Tuesday the last minute on account of the grounds. The game is to be played off here Monday at Northfield. The Catamounts will leave Monday morning for the game with the cadets and on Tuesday will take on the fast Dartmouth nine.

SOUTH CAMPUS TO HAVE NEW CEMENT SIDEWALK

[illegible] the Institution at Vermont [illegible] has received much unfavorable [illegible] and destructive criticism [illegible] the South Walk, or what is to be remembered as the South Walk, is going [illegible]. A new cement walk is going [illegible] to replace the layer of mud that has [illegible] the footsteps of the students [illegible] the South Campus. Some [illegible] of the equipment such as edgings, [illegible] stone pegs and the like have [illegible] been deposited on the Campus [illegible]. Some of the engineers [illegible] have been gaining practical experience in handling the surveying instruments and have laid out the course which the path is to take, marking the boundaries with little stakes. So far rain has held up the starting of the work but it is hoped to complete it in time for Commencement.

This has been a long felt want at the University, and has aroused more comment than any other single object. If it is finished by Commencement time the class of 1927 will be the first body of graduates to tread on the work of art.

The present walk, as it has been covered with a goodly layer of coal ashes is much better than it was formerly, but there is still much chance for improvement, as on rainy days it still becomes plastic and sticky in spots.

letters of recommendation

EXPERIENCED pipe-smokers from Cape Lisburne to Cape Sable (get out your map of North America!) recommend P. A. to you as the finest tobacco that ever lined the bowl of a pipe. You'll check-in with their recommendation.

Why, the instant you swing back the hinged lid on the tidy red tin, your olfactory nerve registers a fragrance like that of a pine-grove on a damp morning. And when you tuck a load of this wonderful tobacco into your pipe — say, Mister!

Cool as Cape Lisburne, mentioned above. Sweet as the plaudits of a first-night audience. Mild as morning in Cape Sable. (That's working-in the old geography!) Mild, yet with a full tobacco body that completely satisfies your smoke-taste. Buy some Prince Albert today and make the test!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

make partial amends for the many little details that should have been cared for in the four years course of study but which have gone unthought of.

It may at first glance seem foolish to talk of making up either four years or one semester's neglected work in the short space of time that remains in this college year, but we believe otherwise. Attitude, as existing in the individual's mind and particularly as made by the mind to take active form ranks high among the important assets to be gained from a college course. And the more the previous neglect of work, the greater will be the gain in attitude provided that the individual does get hold on himself and expend his utmost effort in at least an attempt to make good. This does not apply to cramming in a mere endeavor to pass a certain exam, but rather has reference to an intelligent survey of the situation and an earnest effort to do our best work in the time that remains.

CATAMOUNT PITCHERS SUBDUED BY CADETS

History repeated itself Monday and Tuesday when Vermont lost to Norwich and Dartmouth. Monday's game with the Cadets was lost mainly because the Catamounts were unable to hit the freshman hurler Waining. Everything went along smoothly until the seventh when the horsemen started the ball rolling with two hits, two walks and a balk. This collection netted the Cadets three tallies which was enough to win as the Green and Gold batsmen were powerless under the steady pitching of the Norwich hurler.

Coach Dresser used four pitchers in an attempt to stop the slugging Cadets but all were ineffective. Talcott started the game but was withdrawn in the seventh in favor of Schoppe who was unable to find the plate and he soon yielded to Roarke but it was the "Micky's" day and Smith finished the game in the box. The horsemen connected ten bingles in all with five of them coming in the unlucky seventh.

Roarke, Aronson and Conway were the three Vermont men to find the Norwich hurler. Vermont collected their only run in the seventh when Price walked, stole second went to third on Conway's hit and reached home on Garrity's error.

The final score found Vermont on the short end of a 4 to 1.

NOTED MAN OF LETTERS TO SPEAK TONIGHT ON SHAKESPEAREAN TOPIC

A study of statistics compiled at Marshall College indicates that marrying would scholastically aid the average college and university student.

Of a total enrollment of 1,135 students here, 103 are married. In many cases both husband and wife are enrolled.

Average grades of married students are 76 per cent higher than the average of the student body. Authorities say this tendency is reflected in reports from schools all over the country.

Gold Key held a meeting Tuesday evening. Usher assignments were given out for the coming baseball games and track meets.

LILAC DAY CELEBRATED THIS AFTERNOON WITH PAGEANT AT REDSTONE

Belle Randall Plays Leading Role in Pageant—Buffet Supper, Planting of the Lilac, And Lantern Walk Complete Festivities

Randall, chosen by popular vote, will be the principal character is to be presented on the lawn of Redstone at that time. Faculty friends of the University and students are invited.

Later the impressive ceremony of the lilac-planting will be carried out, when the vice-president of each class will cast a shovel of dirt upon the lilac roots. Dean E. Martin, former president of Student Union, is to give the speech of dedication.

VERMONT TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS NORWICH MEN

The Green and Gold netmen pinned a 6-0 defeat on the Norwich University team on the track campus courts Tuesday afternoon. The Vermont racquet wielders had little trouble defeating the soldiers who were unable to return the smashing serves and quick returns of the Catamounts. Capt. Nye had the closest game of the day when he took the second set 9-7 after easily defeating Ellis the first set 6-2. Nye played a cautious game and found it a little difficult to return to Ellis because of the way in which the Norwich man would bately hit the ball over the net. Nye is used to playing a fast game with fast returns but this style was a little different, thus the closeness.

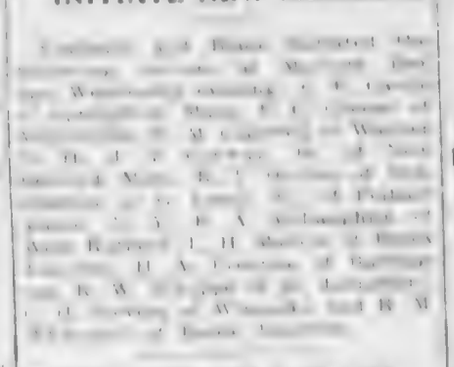
Baldwin won from Grandy, Graves from Croutier and Goddard sent Gibson down to defeat. None of the men had extreme difficulty in defeating the soldiers although there were a few close games.

In the doubles Baldwin and Graves turned back Grandy and Croutier at easy sets and Shedd and Berkland won from Ellis and Plumley.

The netmen have shown up fine so far this year and many interesting matches are left with such strong teams as St. Stephens, Middlebury, Boston University, and Worcester Tech left to play yet.

ETA SIGMA PHI HOLDS FINAL MEETING OF YEAR

Eta Sigma Phi, Greek honorary society, met Tuesday night at the home of Professor Bassett. The business of elections for new officers comprised the majority of the business.



Hebert Crandall '28 was elected president. Muriel Richardson '28 won the vice-presidency. Elizabeth White '28 was given the secretaryship and Hendrick Macomber '30 will fill the place of treasurer for 1927-'28. John Meiddler '29 was elected to the post of Sergeant at arms.

After the elections were over the remainder of the plans for next year's meeting followed.

During the past year the society has been extremely functional in its unique among honorary societies. The Crown of Aristophenes' has been read in Greek at meetings. Mythology has been discussed and read at times. Several social affairs have been enjoyed. These have been held at the home of Professor Bassett who has at all times fostered and promoted the club and his enthusiasm of the society is largely responsible for its notable success.

There will be a voice and piano recital by students of the Music Department in the Music Building at eight o'clock Wednesday evening. Further particulars will be given in the Tuesday issue.

GREEN AND GOLD PLAYS THREE GAMES ON HOME FIELD THIS WEEK-END

The Green and Gold baseball team has been practicing hard and long over the week-end and on the fine diamond on the Athletic Field. Vermont has a two game schedule with Massachusetts Aggie Saturday and a return game with Dartmouth on Memorial Day which the Big Green is scheduled to play at Dartmouth. Vermont has a fine record of victories over the Aggies and over the Dartmouth nine on the latter's field last year. Vermont has been defeated by Norwich and Dartmouth this year and has won from Middlebury, Boston University, Norwich, Dartmouth, Worcester Tech, Springfield and Holy Cross. Vermont has also been defeated by Middlebury, Fordham and defeats by Springfield and Holy Cross.

Dartmouth was fortunate in having chosen better men to represent them last year. Harris, the captain and best pitcher and Bob Stevens on third are very valuable men. Bill Elliott is playing left field for the third year. "Ron" Mitchell, another pitcher to also playing his third year, and is one of the most consistent hurlers on the team. Captain "Fred" Gray, right fielder is a very consistent hitter and is a good all around man. Eric Peters, another third year member of the team is a reliable player of the team. Al Bowman, center fielder is covering his position very effectively. Kenny Vincent a sophomore is the only new recruit on the team. He was substitute for Ellis, captain of last year's Freshman team and played the outfield but was shifted to short stop to plug up a hole. He is handling his position and hitting like a veteran. Either Van Riper, last season's find or "Fred" Carver, another sophomore will be assigned to catch Monday's game. Big Ernie Montgomery, Captain Ted Montgomery's younger brother, Captain Ed Bowman, Captain Jimmy Ellis, Captain Bill Elliott, Captain Fred Gray, Captain Ron Mitchell, Captain Van Riper, Captain pitcher

On Tuesday afternoon, May 24, the Teacher Training students of the University held a picnic at North Beach, Burlington, Vt.

SENIORS TO BE GUESTS OF DEAN OF WOMEN

The Senior girls will be guests of Miss Patterson at a garden party Thursday afternoon at Redstone. Tea will be served on the lawn from four to six. The Senior Tea given by the Dean of Women has become a tradition of the Commencement season. Heretofore the reception has been held in the Redstone parlors. The garden party will be an innovation, and hids fair to be one of the pleasantest memories that the seniors of the graduating class will carry away.

Professor Frederick Tupper spoke at the Baptist Church last Wednesday evening before a fairly large audience on the book on his subject "Modern Classics of the Drama."

ONE TEST AFTER ANOTHER

As is usual at this time of the year the various professors and instructors are springing out tests, and as happens all too frequently every college year, the tests seem to come inconveniently bunched together for the students. The system is more or less accepted as fact, but when as is happening today a student has three hour tests in the morning followed by a three hour test in the afternoon, there seems a desire to rebel against fate.

When tests come in a row and a plea for mercy falls upon faculty ears, the answer is sometimes heard that one should not cram just before the exam anyway and yet nearly all of these same professors would feel quite satisfied if a little extra time in study and reviewing were not given their courses in preparation for the test. Certainly the students want the opportunity of doing the extra preparation. Not further, even though the preparation were necessary, we are poor weak mortals after all and when the taxation of one test follows immediately that of another the work done is very likely not to be our best. Now do such repeated ordeals help to make it any easier.

It is that the faculty and the students are working for the same end, this situation is mutually distasteful. It would therefore seem that something should be done about it, and the reason for such neglect seems to be that as it has now arisen it is thought to be too late now and so why bother. Instead of the usual murmur that greets the announcement of a test the students were to seriously state the situation and particularly if the coming assignment were made clearly known in an intelligent fashion, there is no doubt that the faculty would find some way of cooperating. Let them try new systems, point systems eliminating the use of the [illegible] and so forth, just so there might be some way devised so that no individual will be forced to take several tests one after the other with a week's breathing space in between.

In many comments of a derogatory nature have appeared in the Cynic from time to time for as long as anyone can remember said comments relating to the condition of the walks about campus that it seems only fair to allow the sentiment now that a street pathway is being layed. We welcome the gift and expect to derive much more enjoyment from our fair campus when able to look about instead of closely watching that part directly beneath our feet.

Campus Comment

Unspeakable Crimes

Editor of the Cynic:

From the recent letters which have appeared in the Campus Comment columns one might be led to think that outspoken criticism of anything at Vermont is in itself a "crime." Those who have rapped to no effect have deposited six feet of soil on their grievances. I have them to sympathize their contention that I have made no suggestions for improvement. Let them peruse my statements again. Didn't I imply a way to get more representative members of Quill Key and other honor societies, namely, by changing the basis of choice of the former and by using the head a little more and fraternity politics a little less in the latter? Didn't I show how chapel exercises could be made more attractive from the student viewpoint? Didn't I point out places where the appearance of the campus could be bettered? (By the way, the South Walk is being improved. I am very glad and thankful just as much as all the rest of you are.) Do you expect anyone to lay out any definite plan for such large projects in the short space allowed in each week's issue?

Furthermore, my opponents have said little more than two words in all their ramblings and search for metaphors and similes with which to describe me. Those two are: "shut up." They haven't spoken constructively themselves. They haven't shown why one should not be permitted to express his views in the columns of what is claimed to be the official student publication. And the reason that they have not done this is because there is no basis for their claims.

What is the Cynic for if not to receive criticism? I hate say the [illegible] has been read lately [illegible] the [illegible] part of the [illegible] stuff the [illegible] is what makes a live college paper, about it as a daily. The news value of a newspaper coming out three or four days apart like the Cynic is very little. There must be something of especial interest in it.

I thought the Cynic was a little [illegible] this spring and that's the main [illegible] I started the series of [illegible]. I want to stir up an argument. I guess I began too late in the year. Most of the replies which I got were very poorly framed from the standpoint of refutation. Not one of them came out and denied anything that I said. How can you start a debate unless the opposition will stick to the issues at hand?

Well, I'm graduating this June and I'm glad of it. I won't be writing any more for a college paper, officially or otherwise. All I've got to say is this: Take a little interest in Vermont. If everything is not what you think it should be, try to fix it. I wish I had begun sooner.

Nilpath, '27.

To the Editor of the Cynic:

What I am going to say is merely by way of suggestion in the hope that some alumnus, or alumna,—or anybody who feels benevolently inclined to do away with a few surplus dollars—might read this, and come to our aid.

At a university as magnificently situated as U. V. M., on the shores of a beautiful lake, does it not seem a shame that with such facilities endowed us by Nature we have not the other kind of endowment to establish a crew to send the gleaming green and gold to flaunt the sea-faring Crimson and Bull-Dog Blue? Surely the alumni realize the great opportunity [illegible] to waste right under our very [illegible] where other Colleges must go [illegible] to get at a practice river.

It takes a lot of money, we must grant that, to establish a crew and [illegible] good coaches, but is there anything more worth while than physical training of this sort, and the glory we are bound to reap for Alma Mater when Nature herself provides us with such bountiful resources? We can make our benefactor's name, whoever that may be ring through the coming years to the merry tune of "Row, row, row your boat....."

A crew is what we need with the flower of manhood ready to ply the oars, and a charming lake like Champlain to bear the shells to victory!

What say you, classmates? Know ye any rich friends? They can never spend their money more profitably. I think you will all agree.

Me and the joy-friend... Prince Albert

WHEN my father was in college, "Put that in your pipe and smoke it!" was considered snappy conversation. I'm ready to take this old line literally when the talk centers around Prince Albert. Because P. A. makes two of what I like in a pipe.

All wise-cracking aside, P. A. is the money when it comes to deep-down satisfaction in a smoke. It's got everything! Cool as the trail of the ice-man across the kitchen. Sweet as vacation. Fragrant as a pine forest.

Think up your own similes. You'll write them all in the column headed "Superlative Degree" when you learn the joys of a jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert. If you don't know this grand old smoke, come around to my room and I'll give you a load.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

TWELVE VERMONT MEN WILL ATTEND Y. M. C. A. STUDENT CONFERENCE

Northfield Student Conference this year between June 15 and 23 at Northfield Mass. will be attended by Professor G V Kidder Del Merrill, president of the Y M Cabinet, and about ten students. Advantage of attending a Conference of College Students like this can be overestimated. Fellowship and contacts with men from many colleges contribute always one of the memorable parts of the Northfield experience. Personal contact with inspiring leaders gives the delegates to such a conference a lasting impression and an opportunity to assimilate a little of the spirit there.

Athletics of various kinds will occupy each afternoon, for those whose interests and talents run to tennis, baseball, track, golf, and hiking. A student committee will have charge of inter-delegation competitions.

There will be platform addresses by outstanding men in the fields of religion, labor, education, and international problems. An opportunity will be given after each address for questions and comments. Interesting forums on ten of the paramount subjects of the day will be held. Each delegate can choose the group which he wishes to attend. Each evening life work vespers will be held on Round Top, overlooking the Connecticut Valley. Men from various professions will speak from their experience of the opportunities in their fields, with discussions and interviews following. Bible studies will be held each morning by Henry Van Dusen.

Some of the well-known speakers and leaders are: Henry Hallam Tweedy, Kirtley Mather, Henry Sloane Coffin, Arthur Rugh, Henry P. Van Dusen, Kirby Page, Daniel Fleming, John R. Mott and A. Phillip Randolph.

Dear Doctor:
I am writing in regard to my brother. He is about my age, looks like me but is otherwise apparently normal. At times, however he becomes rigid, and usually swoons with his hands in his pockets. These attacks generally come on before a theatre, after getting out of a taxi or after a dinner. The last attack occurred after a dinner at the Sherwood and his hands were so tightly held in his pockets that we were unable to get them out. I hope that you can help the strange case of my brother as I can never feel safe when I go anywhere with him. My husband and I wish to thank you for the time you will have spent on this problem.

Net Gain

Oh, a courting we shall go
Today at half past nine
And we will play some tennis
Till noonday, pal of mine.

If we should play a love game
What the deuce do we care
For there's surely no advantage
To one who plays not fair.

Of course we have our little faults
But that is nothing new
The net sounds out with racket loud
To serve you all its lifetime through.

CATAMOUNTS VICTORIOUS OVER SPRINGFIELD TEAM BY NINTH INNING SCORE

Cogswell's Ninth Inning Hit Clinches Game For Vermont After Score Had Been Tied In Eighth Frame

The Catamounts repeated an early season baseball victory over Springfield when they batted out a 4 to 3 victory over the Bay Staters at Centennial Field Friday afternoon.

Springfield scored what looked like the winning runs in the sixth frame when it put the score at 3 to 1 with a three run rally which in the end proved to be too small. Vermont was helpless at bat until the big eighth and ninth innings. Those sessions will be remembered by Vermont fans for some time to come.

In the eighth Roark bunted and the catcher and pitcher tried to field the ball with the result that both slipped on the wet grass and the throw to first was not completed. He stole second. Wright made a nice stop of Cogswell's grounder and got him at first. Fogg sent a fast one to Erickson but it was too hot and the latter dropped the ball. Roark pulled up at third. Macomber singled to left scoring "Mickey" and placing the "chief" on third. At this point one of the prettiest plays of the game was pulled off. At the start of a pitch to Aronson Fogg made for home. Aronson laid down a bunt which the initial baseker came in for. No one covered first and it was too late to cut off Fogg. Macomber stopped at second. It was a perfectly executed squeeze play which caught the Springfield infield unawares. The two runs scored and the count at 3 all.

In the ninth Winchenbach hit a long drive to left, receiving credit for a double, but was caught at the hot corner trying to stretch his hit to a three-bagger. Then Smith came through with a hit along the third base line. He stole second. Roarke tried hard but popped up a foul fly to Wright. Cogswell, who had been playing a consistent game all afternoon, heroically poked out a hit to deep left center which scored Smith from second and won a hard-earned victory.

After the slow time of the early innings came the eighth and ninth which told the story. Fogg pitched an excellent game throughout, allowing only five scattered bingles. He deserves much credit for pitching such ball especially since it was his third game in eight days. In the ninth Springfield filled the bags on two plays with none down, but Capt. Fogg saved his own game by catching a pop fly and doubling Steeves who had started for home by throwing to Cogswell. Erickson also worked smoothly until the last two innings Duncan, center fielder for Springfield, made a creditable showing in the garden by catching three fly-balls in rapid succession in the third inning.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB HAS GOOD YEAR ON CAMPUS

The University Cosmopolitan Club has had during the year ten meetings with an average attendance of about 17. Some of the more interesting meetings were the talks by Captain Rattan on China, from an American point of view, one on Germany by Professor Ladd in which he gave his personal experiences in Germany while virtually a prisoner behind the German lines, and another on the political situation in Nicaragua by Professor Mower. In addition, the Club held international programs at the First Church and at the Baptist Church.

The Club has taken a vital part on the campus in promoting the international good will and the understanding of other peoples. It has filled a very decided need on the campus at the University of Vermont.

DARTMOUTH-VERMONT GAME RESULTS IN CATAMOUNT VICTORY

It's a long path that has no turning, and Vermont's luck changed after a long string of defeats at the hands of the Big Green. Captain Fogg aided by the timely hitting of Prentice, Roark and last but the greatest the wonderful fielding and hitting of Vermonts million dollar third sacker, "Bill" Cogswell. "Jack" Smith also came through with a long sacrifice fly which scored Prentice from third base. Captain Fogg came through Monday after having only two days rest from last Friday's game, which makes his victory all the more impressive. He allowed the hard hitting Dartmouth men only four bingles with only two coming in the same inning.

It made little difference to Vermont who was on the mound for they took to the offerings of two hurlers like ducks to the water. Van Riper started the game on the mound for the visitors but the Little Green was not to be denied Monday and they knocked the offering of this famous pitcher all over the lot. Maybe not as bad as that but anyway they chalked up two counters in the first frame. Again in the fifth Vermont chalked up two more while Dartmouth was able to tally only twice and this in the fourth on the Big Green's famous squeeze play. The final count was four to two in favor of Vermont.

Both teams played nearly errorless ball with only two misplays being chalked up during the entire game one for Vermont and one for Dartmouth. Prentice and Cogswell pulled off the features of the game by their long hits. Prentice's came in the big fifth and he caught one of Gibson's fast ones on the nose and took it for the longest rides that a ball ever took at Centennial Field in fact it came within five feet of the right field fence. He only got a three bagger on the pole but it was only through good fortune that the Dartmouth right gardner was playing back so far. Cogswell must have gotten sore because Prentice was getting in the lime light and so he clouted one way past the score board scoring Prentice and Roark ahead of him but "Bill" had tough luck and slipped at third base and was thrown out at the home plate.

Vermont started the scoring right off in the first frame when Smith took a free pass to first base, Roark doubled into right and the fielder mussed the ball up and Smith scored and Roark landed on third then Cogswell came through with his first bingle scoring Roark. Vermont coasted along on this lead until the fourth when Dartmouth opened up and counted twice. Picken singled, Fusonie was hit by a pitched ball and both men advanced on Elliot's infield out and scored a minute later when Stevens laid down a pretty bunt scoring both men. Vermont opened up again in the fifth and scored two more on three hits and a sacrifice fly. Conway went out second to first. Prentice tripled and scored a minute later on Smith's sacrifice fly. Roark singled and then "Cog" came through for the second time in a pinch and lined out a hit that was good for a homer but he slipped on third base and was thrown out at home. Roark, however, had scored in the mean time.

TALCOTT PITCHES GAME AGAINST MASS. AGGIES FOR A 2-1 VICTORY

[illegible] pitched a good game for Vermont on the diamond Saturday afternoon when the Green and Gold baseball team defeated the Massachusetts Aggies by a score of 2 to 1. Talcott allowed only five hits and struck out seven batters. Vermont scored both runs in the fourth inning. Thompson was safe on Tyson's error and Griffin walked and stole second. He went to third when Morrissey grounded out Lockwood to Proctor and then scored when Smith McVey pilfered the [illegible] ball. Talcott was hit by a pitched ball, [illegible] singled scoring Winchenbach.

The Aggies scored in the fourth when Thompson was safe on Tyson's error, Griffin walked and stole second. He went to third when Morrissey grounded out Lockwood to Proctor and then scored when Smith McVey the visitors' first pitcher, pounded out his second single of the game. Neither team scored in the fifth but McVey went to second on a passed ball by Winchenbach, stole third and died there when Proctor made a great stop of Nikonowicz's drive. The score and summary:

PARADE, LET'S GO

The spirit shown with regard to our athletic contests is without question [illegible] as the attendance at each game indicates. The quality of our teams is no excuse for staying away—we have some good teams. Considering the limited number of men from which to pick them the teams are very good and deserve better support than [illegible] given them, and many [illegible] that the reason greater success [illegible] is not attained is the aforementioned lack of support. The track team has been a powerful force, and one [illegible] smashing records of previous years and our baseball team [illegible] a majority of its games on the [illegible] trip although they were [illegible] at a disadvantage from lack of practice. Though somewhat inconsistent, yet our nine has been working and has put on some games that were well worth seeing. Considering the quality of the players, the [illegible] is probably supported [illegible] degree of justice.

[illegible] the concept of right and wrong rests ultimately with the individual so does the question of supporting a team, contests. There are [illegible] who have definitely more interesting things and to such a degree that they do not want to attend the games. They are undoubtedly [illegible] but the majority of students who do not back up the teams fail to [illegible] a state of laziness [illegible] to an attitude of disinterest as great as that of the college [illegible]. We need a little more pep [illegible] parade this afternoon is a [illegible] to show and to obtain that spirit. The trouble test has been [illegible] the arrangements for the parade and the cooperation that [illegible] college are showing fair [illegible] a demand upon us of our [illegible] support. The first step in [illegible] the right spirit for the Holy [illegible] is to be on hand when the parade starts.

We understand that our Greeks are [illegible] to attend the dances held at the [illegible] Pavilion. This puts us in [illegible] Western where a student [illegible] expulsion for attending a dance. The method [illegible] is in decided contrast to that of Oberlin which [illegible] thought of an [illegible] pictured restitution [illegible] for a period of dancing as [illegible] such a program. The fact [illegible] meeting is held for the [illegible] of the students to the evil [illegible] reduces the value of the use of [illegible] very little hard whatever [illegible] of that place may be. We [illegible] that a person [illegible] all that comes to [illegible] the Lyman Conger incident [illegible] the hall is so run that the [illegible] have no objections [illegible] good time, and when the old [illegible] meeting better we wonder [illegible] phase of Greek prohibition is [illegible]

University Publishes Statement of Financial Status in College Budgette

Figures Show That the Expense of Running the University for One Year Comes Close to Half Million Mark

It might be of interest to the students of the University of Vermont to know the sources of the University funds and how they are spent. With that thought in mind a fairly accurate estimate of the probable income and expenses of the University, during the college year 1927-28, is tabulated below. The items were obtained from the college budget and are not written in the fullest detail. It was thought that the students would be more interested in a general summary than a mass of details. The income for the year 1927-28 is estimated as follows:

State and Federal Appropriations	119,030.00

H. A. LELAND TO LEAVE U.V.M. EXTENSION SERVICE

On May 10 Harley A. Leland completed exactly six years to a day for the University of Vermont Extension Service as County Club Agent in Chittenden County, and transferred to Worcester County, Mass., where he has charge of 4-H work under the supervision of Professor George E. F. Story, formerly of the University of Vermont teaching staff. Mr. Leland did a remarkable piece of foundation work while in Chittenden County and leaves the field in splendid condition for his successor in office.

Mr. Cook comes to the work with especial ability and preparation for his new position. He is a Vermonter through and through, born and reared on a Vermont farm, with first hand experience of farm life, a graduate of Brandon School, and of the University of Vermont, College of Agriculture, with degree of B. S. in the class of 1925. This year he has been assistant principal of Barton Academy and teacher of general science. In both high school positions he has been coach of baseball and track.

While in college Mr. Cook maintained a good record, and in addition to being a good student, he was a leader in many campus activities, winning honors at the hands of faculty and fellow-students. In his Senior year he was manager of Varsity football and director of the Kollege Kake Walk. He was elected to Key and Serpent, Junior Honorary Society, and to Boulder, Senior Society for men. He was also a member of Alpha Zeta, and Scabbard and Blade. Among college fraternities he was a member of Phi Mu Delta.

RALPH MAXTED RESIGNS AS Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY FOR WESTERN POSITION

Progressive Christian Leader Leaves Vermont After Two Years of Active Service on Campus

Mr. Ralph B. Maxted, for two years the Y. M. C. A. Secretary at the University left at the beginning of the week for Western Springs, Ill. This terminates his stay at the University of Vermont as he has an other position in view in the West. Mr. Merrill D. Powers, Superintendent at the Kurn Hattin Homes of Westminster, Vt., has been appointed to fill his place. Mr. Powers is a graduate of the University of Vermont. Class of 1916.

During the month of June Mr. Maxted plans to attend the fifth reunion of his class at Oberlin College and in the summer he will go to the Student Secretaries' Conference at Estes Park, Colo.

Mr. Maxted graduated from Oberlin College five years ago with a degree of B.A. and in 1924 he received a degree of B. D. from the Yale Divinity School. Before assuming his duties here he served at Yale as Boys' Secretary.

The Freshman Camp and the Cosmopolitan Club will remain as testimonials to his progressive spirit and active command of the "Y" since his arrival here. The purpose of the Freshman Camp is to organize and acquaint the prospective Vermonters with a few facts about college life before they enter the university. The Cosmopolitan Club is an organization for furthering the knowledge of the countries and peoples, and for increasing international friendship. Mr. Maxted was very influential in organizing and keeping up the interest in the club.

Under Secretary Maxted, the Y. M. C. A. has grown and prospered. Due to his efforts the Student Employment Bureau has become a highly efficient and beneficial institution. In sending delegates to various community churches about the state, to out of state conventions and to other meetings of the kind, and in running get-together suppers for the Frosh and Upperclassmen, he has materially aided in giving Vermont students some of the mental stimulus they expect to receive at college.

In criticizing the educational system at Vermont many said that the courses were too impractical. There were too many required courses. Many favored unlimited cuts for those attaining a grade of A or B in their work. Too much red tape and petty rules came in for its share of criticism also. There also appeared to be a demand for a bureau of appointments to positions after graduation.

HOLY CROSS NINE PLAYS TODAY AT CENTENNIAL

The Holy Cross nine will be at Centennial Field Wednesday afternoon for a return game with the Catamounts. Earlier in the season the Purple pinned a 9 to 0 shutout on Vermont at Fitton Field, Worcester but the Green and Gold hopes to turn the table in the second game. Higgs and Davidson were the opposing twirlers in the first contest and it is quite probable that the same men will face each other again. The alternate choices are Dobens for Holy Cross and Moriarty for Vermont.

At the time of the previous meeting the Holy Cross team had an envi[able] record, being fresh from its trip to the south, where it won four games and lost none. Vermont was leading in batting averages for the past three weeks Verrier has been hitting regularly while Henry Jones has by only a few points. The Worcesterites are weak against a smart right-hander. Holy Cross has been defeated by Brown, Harvard, Fordham, and Yale.

On the whole, Vermont has progressed more rapidly than the Crusaders and, although Coach Barry is [not] [sure] just [what] chances will come through with flying colors Coach Hank Doherty believes otherwise. The Burlington newspapers have agreed to allow the sports Wednesday afternoon so that employees and employers will have a chance to see the game. That is fine spirit and shows that the business men are always willing to back the team. The game promises to be one of the best of the year and everyone is urged to turn out and give the players the moral support that they need.

HAVE A CAMEL

Modern smoking pleasure that never fails

THE smokers of this age are the most independent ever known. Accepting no hearsay, they have smoked out the facts. They have learned that the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown are rolled into Camels, that here is the incomparable blending for goodness, that Camels simply never tire the taste.

Camel is the cigarette that never fails to please the modern age. Regardless of how often you want the comfort of a smoke, of how steadily you light one after another, Camel will never fail you, never give you any but the finest thrill of smoking pleasure. This is why Camel's popularity, by far the largest in the modern world, keeps overwhelmingly in the lead. As modern taste becomes more insistent upon choice tobaccos, increasing millions discover Camel's incomparable mildness, smoothness and mellowness.

If you want the cigarette that's good to live with from morn to midnight, the one that is the choice of the modern age, "Have a Camel!"

LILAC DAY PROVES VERY SUCCESSFUL

Florence Smith's Beautiful Pageant in Memory of Dean Wasson Given Before Large Audience

DANCING AND COSTUMES HIGHLY COMMENDABLE

The disappointment was great when the last date set for Lilac Day turned cold and rainy. Everyone seemed to think that there could be no pageant, but the committees went ahead in the face of difficulties and a truly delightful performance was presented in the University gymnasium.

The stage was simply draped with green baize. A beautifully simple setting of three white columns, a golden throne and golden bench was arranged. The orchestra was hidden by tall evergreen trees and flowers were scattered across the front of the stage. The seats for the audience were place far back in the gymnasium so that there was plenty of room for the dancers.

There came the sound of music and down the center aisle walked the High Priestess of Life preceded by three white clad trumpeters with golden trumpets. Anna Perkins took the part of the priestess and delivered the prologue, "A Prayer to Life," with much grace and dignity. The Seeker played by Belle Randall, came slowly to the stage; Nature, impersonated by Adelaide McLaughlin came bringing her gifts; the Lake and Mountains, the Gray mists, the Sunset Colors, and the Forest Leaves followed. The Gray Mists, a lovely group, in pale pink and grays danced before the Seeker. The Sunset Colors, gay with rose and yellow and purple followed. Then the Forest Leaves. A red-haired group who wore the gayest of autumnal robes performed their sprightly little dance. But still the Seeker was not satisfied.

Then came Learning, played by Charlotte C. Brown. Learning brought with her Truth and Vision. In her wake followed the Scholars, a group of very dark brunettes dressed in purple and white whose dance was most effective.

But even Learning was not enough. Achievement (Lois Wright), Joy and Merriment (Jeanette Beecher) and a Friendship group appeared before her. Jeanette Beecher a green clad spirit of Joy did a charming solo dance as gay and happy as the spirit could be. The Friendship group in happy pairs, tripped a merry measure. Then Youth, herself, Harriette Metcalf, danced with a skipping-rope in joyous rhythm. Even the light grace of this dance did not satisfy the Seeker.

A young girl came to show her joys and promises for the future. A brightly clad group portrayed the Hours of Day; a rather sombre one the Hours of Work, and then in an excellent and graceful dance Lenore Aldinger portrayed the Hours of Happiness. She was followed by a group of girls with gay balloons who were the Hours of Song and Dance.

But still the Seeker needed something more, so Nature, Learning, Achievement and Memory presented her with the Lilac Flower of Womanhood. And the High Priestess of Life delivered the message of the Lilac Flower.

"Vision to see the right our world demands.
Enthusiasm not content with dreams
Reserve to guard foundations with firm hands
Mentality to judge between extremes
Opportunity for those who do not shirk
Normality to guide real honest work
Tradition all you mean to us—Vermont."

Despite the inclement weather this pageant written by a university student, Florence B. Smith, was more successful than any other Lilac Day pageant has been since the institution of the fête. It is to be hoped that we can do as well in future years.

Stanford University has announced the adoption of policy whereby only junior college graduates and students of equivalent standing will be admitted to the University. "The University should be the place where the few that actually want higher learning can get it," remarks The Stanford Daily.

DEUTSCHE VEREIN ENDS VERY SUCCESSFUL YEAR

During the first half year under the able guidance of Lawrence Kessler president, Agatha Jesspen secretary treasurer, and Professors Carpenter and Ladel the Deutsche Verein has done much to afford its members an acquaintance with the German language, literature, and customs. During the whole year the Club has met regularly every two weeks at the Vermonters' Club House. The members have learned several German songs, various games have been played in German, and reports are given on the different phases and customs of German life.

During the second half year, the club under John Medlar as president, and Bertel Gustafson as secretary treasurer, has been equally progressive. Leading parts of plays have been read in German, and a special study of German poetry has been but a small part of their activities. A picnic for the members of the club is under discussion. Noteworthy attendance was present at all times that refreshments were served. The Deutsche Verein is one of Vermont's small but progressive educational clubs.

VERMONT WRITERS WIN TRI-COLLEGE CONTEST

Five of Nine Places Won In Annual Contest With Maine and New Hampshire—Pauline Sullivan Wins First Place in Short Stories

The result of the second annual intercollegiate literary contest between the University of Vermont, the University of Maine and the University of New Hampshire gives Vermont five places and Maine and New Hampshire two each. Last year Vermont took three places, the remaining six being divided between Maine and New Hampshire. The places won by Vermont this year were first and third in the short story class, second and third in the essay class, and second, together with New Hampshire, in the poetry class. The three places last year were won as first, second and third in the short story class.

The three entries submitted by Vermont in the short story division this year were written by Pauline Sullivan, Burlington, Florence Smith, Suffield, Conn., and Merta Munro, Burlington. Pauline Sullivan won first place with her story, "Dead or Alive," and Merta Munro's "Through the Thicket," took third. New Hampshire scored second with a story, "The Years Between," by Helen Brady. Last year Florence Smith took first place in the short story class.

In the essay class the entries this year were Eunice Cook, Cambridge, Mass., Lewis Leary, Pelham Manor, N. Y., and Janice Goodrich, Richmond. Lewis Leary captured second place with his essay, entitled "Moustaches," and Janice Goodrich came in third with an essay, entitled, "A Birth of a Sonnet." Dorothy Q. Taylor of Maine took first honors with "A Commonplace."

Representing Vermont in the poetry class were Janice Goodrich, Richmond, Dorothea Baker, Upper Montclair, N. J., and Mary Spargo, Old Bennington. Once more Maine scored in first place, Sylvia Keerson taking the honors with "We Pitiful Humans." Vermont and New Hampshire tied for second place, the poems belonging to Janice Goodrich, who wrote, "Scoria," and Ellen J. Farley of New Hampshire, who wrote "John Chinaman."

In each division the prizes were $25, $15, and $10. Vermont took one first, one second and two thirds, and tied for another second, in which no third was awarded. Four of the Vermont contestants are seniors, two juniors and two freshmen. Janice Goodrich, who won two places, was the only one entered in more than one class. None of the winners were winners in the contest last year. Only two winners in past contests, Pauline Sullivan and Florence Smith, will be graduated this year.

The judges in the short story class were selected this year by Maine, in the poetry by New Hampshire, and in the essay by Vermont. The judges do not know the names of the contestants when judging or which colleges they represent.

LITERARY PUBLICATION TO START NEXT FALL

Rachel Skinner '28 of Delta Zeta was elected editor of the new literary publication which is to appear next year. The editor was elected by Pi Delta Rho and Blue Stockings. Miss Skinner is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternity. She has been interested in literary activities on the campus being a member of Blue Stockings. With Miss Skinner will be associated the following assistant editors: Gertrude Hudson '28, George Lahue '28, Dorothy Cutler '29 and Robert Sweetser '28.

Walter F. Rogers '28 of Pittsfield, Mass., is to be the business manager of the projected magazine. He has had considerable experience in financing college publications having been business manager of the 1928 Ariel. The new manager belongs to Phi Mu Delta. Reagan will have as his assistant manager Catherine Bassett of Burlington. Miss Bassett is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She has been interested in many activities on the hill.

The board elected by the two societies will have charge of the literary magazine next year. The project will be given a trial during the coming year. If student support is sufficiently strong, the publication will be continued.

CAPTAIN F. B. LAMMONS TO LEAVE UNIVERSITY

Captain Frank B. Lammons who for four years has been Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics and has instructed the seniors in advance military has been ordered to report at the Command and Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas September 1, 1927. Before proceeding to his new post he will have a two months leave of absence effective June 15 to visit relatives and friends in Texas.

Captain Lammons was commissioned captain August 15, 1917 and assigned to the 90th Division composed of Texas and Oklahoma troops. This division proceeded overseas in the summer of 1918 and engaged in the St. Mihiel and the Argonne offensives. The 90th was a part of the American forces in Germany until the spring of 1919. Captain Lammons was ordered to duty at Vermont in 1923, upon completion of the course at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia. He has been an active worker upon the campus during his four years at the University, being an honorary member of Sigma Delta Fraternity and Scabbard and Blade Society. The student body through the Senate in appreciation of his services presented Captain Lammons with a Hamilton watch, and the Scabbard and Blade Society gave him a gold chain.

SPECIAL MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES IN CHAPEL

Exercises appropriate for the occasion were held in the Ira Allen Chapel on Memorial Day directly after the annual parade over the main thoroughfares of the city and the review of the R. O. T. C. battalion by the Grand Army men on the back campus. The Reverend Mark Kelley acted in the capacity of chaplain for the day. President Guy W. Bailey introduced the speaker.

Leon W. Dean, instructor in English was the principal speaker of the day. His address was entitled "The Spirit of '61." During his speech he recalled several noteworthy incidents of the Civil War, some of the causes and tribulations connected with it, and paid special tribute to the courageous Vermonters engaged in the conflict. He stated that when cool courageous fighters were needed Vermont men were called upon and that the position of leadership that was thus attained has become "a Vermont tradition," something like a battle flag, that we must guard and cherish that we dare not surrender or let fail."

Dr. D. Grant Campbell of Middlebury addressed the Community Church at Seven Tuesday evening in the Medical College Building. His subject was scarlet fever and diphtheria. His paper was discussed afterwards by Dr. C. K. Johnson and Dr. H. F. Taylor.

There will be a regular business meeting of Pi Delta Rho tonight at 7.30 in the Cynic office.

TRACK TEAM FEELS LOSS BY SIMPSON'S GRADUATION

The "One Man" Track Team Will Finish at Vermont This Year—Considered One of Best Athletes in East

Sandy Simpson, captain of this year's track team graduates this June and leaves behind him a record that will be hard to be surpassed. Simpson is one of the most versatile men that have ever represented the green and Gold on the field of battle, being known as the "one man track team." There is little to that sport that he cannot do and many that he does excel in. As a good shot-putter, as one skilled in the hurdles and as one who knows how to pole-vault, Simpson has put himself in the class with the best athletes that have ever worn the Green and Gold.

Sandy has twice been captain of the Vermont track team and has received the award of the varsity V four times in this sport. He is considered one of the best weight throwers in the colleges of the east and has the best hop, step and jump that Vermont has ever had. On the eve of his graduation he holds five college records. He came to us from Loomis Institute and made his first letter when a Freshman. Since then it is a feat accomplished by few.

In the past two years he has gathered in eight points a total of 11 points which is an average of 14 points per meet. Two of these meets were the Intercollegiates where the competition is keen and where the points which he obtained in these are the first points that he collected in Vermont since Cecil Sheperd and Charlie Lyndhurst won a total of nine in the Eastern Intercollegiates held at Worcester. Besides these records he has won ten scores for the last two years with 14 points in 1926 and 18 in 1927, a really remarkable piece of work.

EDUCATION FOR EXAMS

[illegible] and now we're on their [illegible] the ending of a semester [illegible] of being concluded in some instances [illegible] the wrong reasons in others. [illegible] are honest in cramming or [illegible] and opportune of our present [illegible] in a given course this per[illegible] is worthy of serious consideration [illegible] respect both for our own good [illegible] that of others. Few of us [illegible] fully the benefits that come from [illegible] a subject, but the number of [illegible] is less that realizes the importance [illegible] keeping in condition. The examination period brings with it a tenseness that is far harder on the student than the ordinary rush of college life, and it hardly seems fitting to meet [illegible] in a tired and nervous [illegible] The majority of students seem to frown upon turning the periods between exams into a regular picnic for those students who study only when [illegible] and sacrifice much into the bargain, are almost as [illegible] as those who go to the other [illegible] What we need now is a [illegible] head and steady nerves, and these will be had only in proportion [illegible] the amount of common sense that [illegible] put into her.

[illegible] to the proverbial senti[illegible] of spring or to the forces [illegible] nature working at this time of [illegible] we cannot help but notice the [illegible] of our campus and our gen[illegible] surroundings. Centennial Field [illegible] a wonderful place not only from the practical viewpoint but considering the effect that it has for the eye [illegible] we will but stop and take a good [illegible] at our campus we will not wonder that it has been so heralded by [illegible] from all parts of the world.

The Holy Cross game did not turn [illegible] a victory, but it certainly did [illegible] what a fine spirit the team has every when in a seemingly hopeless situation. There was no let-down [illegible] the last of the ninth inning, but rather there was an added effort and a valiant attempt to do the impossible. Spirit like that is worth fully more than a mere victory, however cherished the latter may be. We certainly have to hand it to the Holy Cross team for playing a wonderful game. They were right on hand and knew what to do at every turn, and their speed was remarkable.

As in previous years, there will be many of us attending the Summer School here in Burlington, taking various courses from Music and French to Pharmacology. This summer session has been flourishing and is recognized [illegible] one of the best to be found and we recommend it to those who would like to improve their minds during the summer months. It is remarkable and at the same time pleasing to note how many upper-classmen stay on for the extra period with the main reason that they have become thoroughly [illegible] to the University and its surroundings.

[illegible] for Wig and Buskin members are now out and those who have not received them may get them from [illegible] Mercer at the Sigma Nu House.

It has been definitely announced that there will not be any banquet for the society this year due to lateness of the year.

FREE THINKERS ARE TO HEAR NORMAN THOMAS

[illegible] students interested in the [illegible] are planning a packed house [illegible] the June Conference of the League [illegible] Industrial Democracy which will be held at Camp Tamiment near [illegible] Pa. from Thursday June [illegible] to Sunday June 26, inc.

The conference will be given over to a serious analysis of our present "prosperity" and to a discussion of the development of social thinking in our universities during the last few years.

The first days of the conference will be devoted to the extent, distribution and continuance of our so-called prosperity, to economic imperialism and prosperity, and to sore spots in our present economic situation, particularly in agriculture and mining. The second portion will deal with constructive trade union political and educational programs based on present day conditions, also with the psychological needs of the workers which are not satisfied even with the possession of a "full dinner pail." On Friday afternoon, June 24, the college students will hold a session devoted to social thinking in our universities. They will also meet throughout the conference for informal discussions. On Saturday evening the students and others will present four skits dealing with contemporary social life. The afternoons will be given over to recreation—boating, canoeing, swimming, tennis and walking.

Among the speakers who are planning to be present are: Jacob Billikopf, Edith Blumberg, Professor Paul Brissenden, H. H. Broach, Fannia Cohn, McAlister Coleman, Solon DeLeon, Abraham Epstein, Morris Hillquit, Dr. Jessie W. Hughan, Harry W. Laidler, Algernon Lee, Benjamin C. Marsh, Dr. W. Jett Lauck, Isador Lubin, E. C. Lindeman, Robert Morss Lovett, Israel Mufson, Dr. Scott Nearing, Joseph Schlossberg, George Soule, Dean Carl Taylor, Norman Thomas, Dr. Willard Thorp, Bertram Wolff and J. S. Woodsworth.

A special charge of $2.50 a day for board and lodgings will be made for college students who, in May, 1927, are undergraduates.

Those interested should communicate at their earliest convenience with Harry W. Laidler, Chairman Conference Committee, League for Industrial Democracy, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Mrs. Marion B. Coe, member of the James B. Wilbur household died Sunday morning in New York, after a short illness. She was buried at St. Louis, Missouri. Mrs. Coe assisted Mr. Wilbur in his work on the "Life of Ira Allen" and translated many of the French documents assembled for that purpose.

The State College Times, San José, California, publishes eleven means of stopping cribbing during examinations. The following are the solutions:

1. Students will be marched in columns of squads and halted at the door of the classroom where they will be searched for notes.
2. A phychological test will be given to see if the student has any idea of cheating or not.
3. Class rooms will be decorated with, "Honesty is the Best Policy," and, "Think before you Cheat."
4. Students shall wear blinders.
5. Students with suspicious looks will be gagged before the exam to prevent communication.
6. Students and professors will enter together and doors will be locked barred, and hermetically sealed.
7. Students will sit two seats apart with professors armed with blackjacks, standing between the seats.
8. Additional professors, on the outside, will watch through [illegible] in the wall.
9. Highly tuned [illegible] be placed behind pictures [illegible] catch the faintest whisper.

IN ANY group of regular fellows, you'll find Prince Albert. It belongs. It speaks the language. You get what we mean the minute you tamp a load of this wonderful tobacco into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and make fire with a match.

Cool as a northeast bedroom. Sweet as a note from the Girl of Girls. Fragrant as a woodland trail. Prince Albert never bites your tongue or parches your throat, no matter how fast you feed it. You'll smoke pipe-load on pipe-load with never a regret.

Buy a tidy red tin of P. A. today. Throw back the hinged lid and breathe deeply of that real tobacco aroma. Then . . . tuck a neat wad into the business-end of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Now you have it . . . that taste! That's Prince Albert, Fellows!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

EUROPEAN UNIVERSITIES OFFER SHORT COURSES FOR SUMMER TOURISTS

Summer study for American students and others visiting Europe in 1927 will be available at various schools and universities, and it is expected that increasing numbers will take advantage of the opportunities for short courses of study, combined with a number of cases with short visits and excursions.

The European educational institutions which have already announced programs for the summer are: the Austro-American Institute of Education in Vienna; the University of Cambridge University of Oxford, Leeds University, and the University of London; the University of Grenoble, the Sorbonne, in Paris, and the University of Toulouse; the University of Berlin; the American Academy at Rome; the Centro de Estudios Historicos in Madrid; the University of Zurich and the University of Geneva.

The system which obtains in American schools of points and credits is not generally followed in Europe. The courses have been arranged principally with the idea of permitting tourists to obtain knowledge of the life, language and literature of the country without thought of a degree. The programs of some universities cover a wide range of subjects, enabling undergraduates to work for their A.B., and post-graduates for a master's or doctor's degree, while credits are being granted by certain universities.

The subjects cover a very great field of interest. At the Sorbonne, there will be a course on the great post war problems confronting France; sociology and sports are among those scheduled for the University of Berlin; and languages, literature, art, and history occupy a large part of the program of all of the institutions.

The purpose of these summer courses is primarily to educate, as far as possible, the ever increasing stream of visitors to Europe in the problems confronting her and in the cultural aspects of the various countries in order to bring about a greater understanding between us and our world neighbors. It is hoped thus to bring about a closer kinship and appreciation of our fellow men and in that way to insure peace and prosperity for all.

Further particulars concerning these courses may be obtained at the Registrar's office.

MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED IN OLD MILL

A head crashing without [illegible] was reported at the Coffee House yesterday between the hours of 10:20 and 10:25 A. M. It seems that he had just received his breakfast at the counter and was so careless as to attempt to back out and eat in the side. He when questioned by the Noose reporter replied in a feeble voice that he could not tell exactly how it all happened although he had vague recollections of hurdling over a Newfoundland dog, getting kicked in the shins, and of being drenched by a cup of hot coffee.

"And the coffee wasn't even sweetened," he lamented.

The Noose representative questioned further. "Were you calm and collected?"

"I was calm," he replied, "but I haven't collected everything yet. When asked as to the financial loss, he smiled and said, "That is the least of my worries for I carry collision insurance and have for years."—Adv.

The injured one became quite philosophical under the strain and mused, "Well, Fate seems to be inevitable after all. A gypsy fortune teller once told me that drink would be the cause of nearly meeting my end."

Our reporter asked him if he had any classes to attend.

"No," he confessed, "I am a fraternity man," at the same time picking a piece of sandwich from his ear.

The Noose strongly advocates that suitable rules and regulations be made governing the migratory instincts of voracious eaters and that only small dogs be admitted to the building.

My girl is surely a bird.
Is that so?
Yes, she's a little cuckoo.

First co-ed: How about taking a tramp around the campus?
Second co-ed: No! I don't go out with Middlebury fellows.

Dear Doctor:

I have a mother-in-law who acts very strangely. She is a large woman, weighing three hundred pounds and we think that she is in bad shape. She behaves oddly, going through the house on her hands and knees and barking. She threatens to kill herself next Tuesday. What shall we do? Probably it is nothing to be alarmed about but we are in great suspense.

Dear Madam:

We are, to be frank, rather baffled in regard to the case of your mother-in-law but we feel that it will do no harm to wait till next Wednesday, before doing anything definite.

When Sandy graduated and returned home the old doctor turned his practice over to the boy and took a well-earned vacation. III. Psychology.

Fundamental Desires: social psychologists recognize that there are "wishes" or "desires" which must be fulfilled by human relationships. Those listed by W. I. Thomas are suggested, but any which seem to you important, such as those of McDougall or Veblen may be used. Thomas' four wishes are: the wish for response, for security, for new experience, and for recognition. How do the jobs justify these wishes? Could they be made to, if they do not now?

Group Attitude: toward the "boss," toward sabotage, soldiering, etc., toward the union—if any, toward the welfare work of the company, toward the product or result of their labor, toward the possibility of becoming an owner or employer? IV. Relation of the Plant to Society.

Product: Does the product fulfill a social need, or is it in the category of social "filth" or waste?

Management: Is the management making the plant put out its full social quota? If not, is this due to inefficiency or to deliberate attempt to regulate the amount of the product on the market and thus raise prices?

Workers: Are the workers efficient? Why, or why not? Will the work enable one to do his share in civic life outside working hours, i.e., make him a "better citizen," or is it analogous to the job of a meat slaughterer, who is sometimes barred from jury service because his sensibilities have been dulled?

Ownership: Corporate form or personal ownership? What difference do you see that the form could make?

Income: Dividends paid, stock dividends, percent earned on investment.

ATWATER KENT PLANS NATION-WIDE "AUDITION"

[illegible] colleges, musical clubs and [illegible] professional young singers everywhere will be deeply interested in an announcement just made by the Atwater Kent Foundation of Philadelphia.

Plans for a nation-wide "Audition," to discover the best voices in the country and to award substantial prizes of money and tuition, are revealed with the suggestion that civic clubs in each town, musical clubs and conservatories participate by putting forward their best talent.

The Foundation is organizing each state by arranging with some musical [illegible] organization in each to manage a state "Audition". This will be open to each local community, where the two best singers—one young man and one young woman—will be selected by competition. These will be sent to a central point in the state, where an "Audition," or singing contest will be conducted "on the air" by a broadcasting station. Thus two singers for that state will be selected [illegible] each sex.

From this point the Foundation assumes the management and expense. It has divided the country into five districts that will hold a "district audition" on the air in each, participated in by the two winners from each state in that district. Railroad fare, entertainment, hotel bills, etc., of state winners to the district Auditions will be paid by the Foundation.

Ten winners from each district—five of each sex—will be selected, making 50 contestants for the final National Audition. These will be taken to New York at the expense of the Foundation, entertained there and [illegible] for a final competition [illegible] a network of broadcasting stations. Each of the ten will sing a piece.

The two winners of first place in the National Audition—a man and a woman—will each receive a gold medal, $5,000 cash and two years' tuition at a leading American [illegible].

Winners of second prizes will each receive $2,500 cash and one year's [illegible].

Winners of third prizes will each receive $1,000 cash and one year's [illegible].

Winners of fourth prizes will each receive $500 cash.

Winners of fifth prizes will each receive $[illegible] cash.

CELEBRITIES WRITING IN DEFENSE OF YOUTH

Twenty-nine internationally famous celebrities have come to the defense of the college youth in special articles written for the Celebrities number of The Daily Maroon, student publication of the University of Chicago, which is making its appearance Tuesday.

Oswald Garrison Villard in his article, "The College Daily and National Affairs," attacks censorship of college editors and says, "Censorship, no. That remains absolutely un-American. Better a hundred such blunders as The Lampoon made than to have one more of the many cases recently recorded in which intolerant faculties have dismissed undergraduate editors for blunders in taste and good form."

Clarence Darrow defends youth and the educated youth in his discussion of "Education and Crime" with the assertion that crime is so rare in this class that when it does occur it attracts an astounding amount of attention.

Dr. Frank Crane, editorial writer for fifty American newspapers, declares that "Without being a sissy or a shark a boy should keep his balance well enough to know that the main thing he is after at school is to train his mind."

Not one of the twenty-nine eminent writers attacked the college student.

The principal qualifications for contestants are as follows:

Must not be over 25 years old; must never have been associated with a professional theatrical or operatic company, must never have been a paid principal in any concert held outside their own states; must declare an intention to follow a musical career and must be free from theatrical or musical contracts.

This limitation permits choir singers to enter the Auditions, even though they may have received financial compensation for singing in churches. Other groups from which entries are anticipated are students in musical schools and locally prominent singers in high schools and colleges.

Bruce R. Buchanan acting assistant State Club leader for the University Extension Service, spent the holiday with his brother, Prof. R. O. Buchanan. Mr. Buchanan is a graduate of the University in the class of 1926.

UNIVERSITIES FIND FILM KEY TO MONEY PROBLEMS

[illegible] educators are still testing the commercial value of the motion picture. American universities have definitely turned to the movies as an effective means of securing financial support, furthering expansion of programs, holding the interest of alumni, attracting new students and creating general interest in their institutions, is declared as the finding of a survey made by Herbert L. Connelly, alumni secretary of Wesleyan Universities, Middletown, Conn., the results of which are announced in June Amateur Movie Makers, the official magazine of the Amateur Cinema League.

Fifty-seven great colleges of which the University of Vermont is one, have already produced movies to advertise their advantages or aid in the promotion of various plans, and 20 more are getting similar programs under way, the survey disclosed. Upwards of 90,000 feet of collegiate motion picture film is already in constant use, a large part of the film having been produced on an amateur basis with amateur equipment. Sixteen universities have produced complete scenarios and the others have filmed athletic events, campus scenes, alumni reunions, faculty members and special events.

"Thus the campus mountain has actually come to the graduate Mohamet and another miracle of the movies is recorded," the article entitled, "The Traveling Campus" states. "By this magic carpet the most venerable buildings, the most ancient oaks and sycamores and the most firmly imbedded faculty members have become mobile. Alumni are actually kept in visual communication with the changing conditions and increasing needs of their schools. Prospective pupils get first-hand, or at least first-eye, information about the college they are considering. The institutions themselves by exchange of films may modestly herald their rival achievements. Eventually these films will find their way into the amateur libraries and the absurd conceptions of college life which are held by many Americans will give way to a realistic picture of what collegians are doing. They are telling the story of higher education in the most simple fashion and by a means which has the most general appeal."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Professor Tupper spent the holiday in Boston.

Mr. Ralph B. Maxted received a year's membership to the Literary Guild of America from the male student body on his departure for Illinois last Saturday.

Coach Dresser did not hold his usual Wednesday afternoon setting up exercises due to the Holy Cross baseball game which took place on that day.

Intercollegiate News

This figure has been given as an estimate of the number of cigarettes consumed during the year by the University of Pennsylvania, 50,000,000.

The Northeastern News tells us that the class of 1928 of the Connecticut Agricultural College will have to pay $5,000 damages to a student who suffered injuries in a hazing act.

The council of the class of 1930 of the University of New Hampshire has made drastic changes in the rules provided for the next Freshman class. Quoting from an article in The New Hampshire, "With these changes there will come a greater state of positive college spirit which will contribute in the highest degree to the advancement of New Hampshire as one of the foremost universities of the East."

GREEN AND GOLD DROPS GAME TO HOLY CROSS AFTER POOR START

Fogg Pitches Superb Ball, But Errors Account For Winning Runs—Hurley of Visitors Makes a Homer

Again the mighty Holy Cross nine set the Green and Gold team back a notch but they sure knew that they had been in a ball game when the smoke had cleared away after that hectic ninth inning. With only one day's rest after setting back the "Big Green" Fogg held the Purple to only six safe hits and struck out six men. Had it not been for two unfortunate misplays he would have come out of the game with two wins in three days over the best ball clubs in the country. Only two of these bingles came in the same inning and even then the Purple failed to score.

With the score 4 to 1 against Vermont going into the ninth inning things looked anything but bright for the Green and Gold but Prentice came through with a safe hit into right, Smith walked, Roark singled scoring Prentice for Vermont's first run of the game, and then "Billy" Cogswell the best third baseman that Vermont has seen since "Red" Harris, came to bat and was cheated out of a chance of breaking up the ball game by being hit by a pitched ball. This filled the bases with none out and the "Chief" came to bat. Fons sent him to the bench via the strike out route, Macomber did the same and then "Rolly" Aronson came to bat and with two strikes and one ball he lined one over first base which looked good for two bases but the umpire called it a foul ball. This seemed to give the Holy Cross pitcher a little courage for he came through and fanned "Rolly".

Holy Cross started things right off in the first inning when Harrell singled through first base, Cahill bunted to Fogg who made a bad peg and Harrell scored. Savage grounded out Cogswell to Prentice, but Dobens sent a long fly into center and Cahill scored. Fons had the Vermont batters eating out of his hand until the ninth inning, with only three men facing him in the second, third, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth innings. Holy Cross scored another in the fourth when Hurley went to second on Smith's error and scored when Smith forced McEntee out at second. Again in the ninth when Hurley poled one of Fogg's fast ones into right center for a homer and Holy Cross' only earned run of the game.

This homer and Price's one-handed catch of Doherty's long hit into right field were easily the features of the game. The summary:

180 SENIORS TAKE PART IN THE EVENTS AT VERMONT'S 124th COMMENCEMENT

CLASS DAY EXERCISES HELD ON CAMPUS

Senior Speakers Address Large Audience on First Day of Commencement Week

BELLE RANDALL PLANTS IVY NEAR OLD COLLEGE

The class day program was held on the campus green. The audience stood while the long line of seniors took the front seats. Departing from custom, all the speeches were made from the platform, after which the class departed to the Old Mill where the ivy was planted. On other years, the ivy oration has been given following the class exercises in conjunction with the actual planting.

Music was furnished by Lechnyr's orchestra. Emory C. Mower led the seniors in singing Vermont songs. The speakers were C. G. Simpson, Miss Loretta Jennings, O. F. Parody, D. M. Rockwell, L. H. Averill, Miss Vina B Rugg, W. M. Lockwood and Miss Belle Randall.

H. A. Aronson of Proctor was the class marshal. C. H. Blackall was the chairman of the class day committee.

President's Address

The President's Address was delivered by Carl G. Simpson of Lyndonville and well-known track star, who guided the class through the activities of its senior year. He extended a cordial welcome to all who were gathered to hear the exercises and voiced the pleasure of which the four years spent by his class in college were symbolical. He said in part: 'Our college years spent in the beautiful city of Burlington beside lovely Lake Champlain will always recall pleasant memories. Working and playing together we have formed friendships with classmates and professors that will never be forgotten. Our association with President Bailey has always been most agreeable and has taught us many ideals. We are also very grateful to the founders and generous supporters of this institution for through their unselfish and untiring efforts our presence here has been made possible. In closing I sincerely believe that as graduates, the class of 1927 will uphold the traditions and ideals of Old Vermont with even more spirit and loyalty than we have shown in our undergraduate days.

Class History

Miss M. Loretta Jennings of St. Albans, a member of Mortar Board during her senior year and otherwise a leader in activities delivered a summary of the events happening during the four year career of her class. In her capacity as historian she recalled the freshman year with its confusion in the rush of enrollment, registration, hazing and initiation into college activities. As features of the first year she described the winning of the tug-of-war from the sophomores, the winning of three state championships by the varsity, and the championship of the class in basketball and track.

In their sophomore year the class debating team won from the freshmen. The class social life began with the sophomore hop. The varsity won the state championship in basketball, baseball, and came back after eight years of defeat to win the triangular track meet.

Turning literary in its junior year the class put out the best Ariel ever. Four State championships were won and Junior Week with Dan Cupid much in evidence was the big spring feature.

The senior year according to Miss Jennings was the happiest ever. The new Ira Allen Chapel was dedicated. For the fourth successive year the women of this class received the all sports cup for their proficiency in athletics. In the spring the class saw the Dartmouth nine go down to defeat at the hands of the Catamounts for the first time in several years. In closing Miss Jennings mentioned the names of those members of the class

BLAIR '99 RECEIVES ALUMNI TRUSTEESHIP

Charles Francis Blair '99 of Buffalo, N. Y., became a trustee of the University at the 124th commencement. Mr Blair succeeds Joseph D. Allen of Brooklyn, N. Y., on the board of Trustees. His term is for four years.

Mr. Blair received 341 votes in the balloting among the alumni. This gave him a clear majority over his two opponents.

The new trustee is a native of Fletcher, Vt., and was born March 7, 1877. He received an A.B. degree at the University of Vermont in 1899 and an LL.B. from Harvard University. Mr. Blair is a lawyer by profession. He is practicing law in Buffalo with the firm of Penney, Persons, Blair and Nye. He has been chairman of the alumni council during the last year.

PRESIDENT BAILEY ANNOUNCES BEQUESTS AND GIFTS TO U. V. M.

Over $200,000 Given to Vermont During the Past Year For Various Purposes—Announcement Made At Alumni Luncheon

"I am pleased to announce that during the year we have been advised of bequests and also gifts, mostly for specific purposes, amounting to at least $200,000," said President Guy W. Bailey of the University of Vermont at the close of the alumni luncheon in the baseball cage Saturday noon. The 600 alumni and friends of the University who were present at the luncheon cheered their approval.

The alumni luncheon, which has come to be the big event of Alumni Day in the University commencement program, was again a colorful affair, with the many colored costumes, the cheers, the songs and the general merrymaking which is always a part of this large gathering when old friends get together.

1917 Wins Cup

The 1889 costume cup was awarded at the alumni luncheon to the class of 1917. This group of reunioners appeared in jesters' attire of purple and gold, with bells on caps and gowns. The class was strong in numbers and spirit. The class of 1912 left some doubt as to just what their costume was. They appeared in red and white. Some called them bakers costumes. Others believed they were gypsies and some declared the 1912 was a bunch of chefs. However, they were in evidence and, led by the klaxon tones of John O. Baxendale, showed 1912 is still strong for U. V. M. Among the peppiest in the alumni parade and at the luncheon was the class back for its 25th reunion, 1902. With 26 present, they made the gym resound with their cheers. They were most attractive in artists' clothes of red, black and white. They used several squawkers whistles and other noise-makers throughout the entire day. No other class appeared in fancy costumes, badges being their only distinguishing feature. The judges in the costume contest were F W Kehoe, Mrs. Blanche Abbott Miller and R. L. Patrick.

Alumni Luncheon

Charles F. Blair of Buffalo, N. Y., retiring president of the Alumni Council, presided at the speaking program following the luncheon. Toasts were responded to by Judge John H Benson, of Denver, Colorado, for the class of 1877, George W. Alger of New York for the class of 1892, Arthur W Welch of New York for the class of 1902, Hugh W. Horton of Bartow, Florida, for the class of 1912, Horace H Powers of St. Albans for the class of 1917, James B Wilbur of Manchester, donor of the Ira Allen chapel and the Ira Allen statue, and Dr Frank C. Granger of the class of 1877.

A time limit of six minutes was placed on the speakers the green and red signal lights being used at the speakers' desk to warn them of the approach of the time limit, as in recent years.

CLASS PILGRIMAGE OPENS SENIOR WEEK

The first event of Senior Week at the University of Vermont occurred Friday morning when annual class walk of the Senior Class was held. In cap and gown the Seniors met before the Billings Library and started out on their pilgrimage. At the statue of Lafayette, Haven V. Green, Bethel, delivered a tribute to the great soldier and statesman. Charles Blackall paid homage to Ira Allen at the founder's statue. Following these tributes the class returned to the Library where Prof Frederick Tupper and Prof. Elijah Swift addressed the students. At the administration building, President Guy W. Bailey was waiting to welcome the graduates. The column then returned to the Old Mill where talks were given by Dean George T Perkins, Prof. J E Donahue, Prof A. B Merrick and Prof. W Dean.

As the final part of the morning's program the class divided into groups and departed for those buildings in which they had attended most of their lectures. At the Engineering Building were Prof. Evan Thomas, Prof A. D. Butterfield and Prof. E. Robinson. Dean J. L. Hills and Miss Bertha Terrill received the agricultural and home economics students at Morrill Hall.

The classical students listened to Dean A. R. Gifford at the Old Mill. The Commerce and Economics students called at the home of Prof. G. G. Groat. The education group listened to a talk from Prof. Bennett C. Douglas at the Old Mill while the students in the general science department gave audience to Prof. H F Perkins at the Williams Science Hall.

Address to Ira Allen

Charles H Blackall of Bristol Conn gave the address to Ira Allen. He paid tribute to this noble hero of the University and spoke of the appeal of this founder's life.

"A bold exploiter, a courageous soldier, a sagacious statesman, a shrewd diplomat, a gifted writer of State papers, a successful business man, a loyal leader, and in all a self-poised honest man—what more romantic character, what greater model, could there be, for the aspirations of trained and eager minds in eclectic Vermont as represented by the gradual increase of our University year by year? The purpose of all founders has been defined as vision concerned with effort to achieve. Ira Allen was gifted with the vision and the potable results of his effort to achieve can be witnessed in the growth of the University of Vermont.

"It is our good fortune to have the opportunity to be builders of our University. Vermont progressed materially in the century and a third of her existence, but let us not have another century pass in order to progress as much further. It is up to us of the present generation. We must be the builders who will carry on the work of the founder."

Address to Lafayette

At the statue of Lafayette, Haven V Green of Bethel paid tribute to the French soldier and statesman honored by the American people for his part in the Revolution and who laid the cornerstone of the old Mill in 1804.

Of Lafayette he said in part: "As a youth he became interested in America's cause during the Revolutionary strife and came across the waters to a strange land ready to make the supreme sacrifice if need arose, in order to aid in the war for independence. His aid was invaluable and he was honored by all. When he returned to France he stood next to Washington in the hearts of the American people.

"In 1824 he again visited the United States, at which time he received tremendous ovation all along his route of travel. It was during this visit that he came to Burlington laying the cornerstone of South College in the course of his stay here.

"More men like Lafayette are needed here today, absolutely incorruptible, full of courage, and a patriot whom neither fear nor favor could turn from his duty. Perhaps it may be said that he was the product of good fortune to the extent that he was born of distinguished parentage that he was heir to a valuable estate and was considered as a favorite among the important people of his country. How he used his high position among men to his own honorable deeds rather than to any fortuitous circumstance

Veteran Secretary of the Alumni Association Will Retire From Post Next October

John O. Baxendale, who has been secretary of the Alumni Council of the University of Vermont since its organization in May, 1920, presented his resignation to the Council at the annual meeting Saturday morning, to take effect October 15. The resignation was laid on the table until the October meeting. Mr. Baxendale said that he would be glad to serve until his successor was appointed and would be ready to give assistance to the Council at any time.

E. S. Lyon, chairman of the committee on Student Aid and also chairman of the Loyalty Fund committee reported to the council at the meeting saturday morning that the results of the Loyalty Fund campaign had been rather disappointing thus far. The pledges had amounted to approximately $11 on from some 50 alumni. The Alumni Council now has an indebtedness of $ [illegible] to the Fund which [illegible] ministration.

The [illegible] to be carried over and applied [illegible] the Weekly to take [illegible] $1,000. The cost of the Loyalty Fund campaign up to date [illegible] been about $1,000.

The finance committee said that the council could expect Professor Bailey to educate any more money to keep the council in operation and that if it is to continue it must stand on its own feet financially.

Chairman Charles F Blair expressed the same idea in commenting on the report of the finance committee. He said the report recognized that the council must begin to live within its income. The report was unanimously the finance committee and it was adopted by the council.

UNIVERSITY GRANTS OVER 200 DEGREES

Number of Bachelor's Degrees Given Exceeds That Established Last Year By 10—Number of Advanced Degrees Granted Falls off Somewhat—Four Degrees Granted Honoris Causa

N. A. ELSBERG DELIVERS COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Degrees in course were given to 200 students at the 124th commencement exercises held in the Gymnasium last Monday morning. While the number of degrees given was slightly under that reached last year, yet the number of bachelor's degrees granted was 10 in excess of last year. Only four advanced degrees in course were granted [illegible] whereas last year [illegible] were given. The medical graduating class included only 16 against 26 last year. From the point of view of bachelor's degrees granted the 124th was easily the second largest commencement.

The exercises opened with a procession during which the academic procession led by Chief Marshal David Morgan, M D., Warren R Austin, marshal of trustees, George G Groat, marshal of [illegible] Charles F Black, marshal of [illegible] and the senior class marshal H A Aronson and Ralph C Strecker marched into the gymnasium.

Prayer was given by Rev. Lewis G Lewis of Pelham, N Y. After the address by Nathaniel A Elsberg which is given elsewhere the American and [illegible] were sung ROTC commissions were given out as were diplomas in [illegible] training. Degrees were conferred after which Champlain was sung and the benediction was given.

Elsberg's Address

Mr Elsberg's address in part, was as follows:

"It is natural to deliver the address of the commencement exercises of an important institution of learning in a place which anyone would value and in the present instance I value it particularly because this University has not only a fine claim to distinction as an institution of learning but [illegible] which is unique. One of the earliest if not the earliest of our state universities the first to be specifically declared for in the Constitution of an American State, its history goes back to the beginnings of our country and all who are connected with it as officers or teachers or graduates or students have reason to be proud that throughout that history it has adhered to the purposes and ideals which led to its establishment and that by means of a steadily broadening curriculum it has kept pace abreast with every educational requirement which experience has demonstrated to be sound.

[illegible] Vol. [illegible] June 24 1927 No. [illegible]

[illegible] is certainly wonderful to see the [illegible] of our alumni when they get together at Commencement. At [illegible] Field, in the Fraternity [illegible] at various meetings, wherever they chance to meet there is a spirit that fills the undergraduate body to [illegible]. The sight of friends of other days, the stories of things that used to happen, rejoicing and lamentation [illegible] changes that have taken place [illegible] and custom, all seem to be [illegible] with in such a whole-hearted [illegible] and with intense interest. Indeed their spirit is so strong as to be contagious and they make all of us feel happy. Accordingly it is hardly strange that we are always glad to see the alumni come back to Vermont and are always sorry to see them leave, and we especially hope that the present graduating class will avail itself of its first opportunity, and be with us in June next year.

SUCCESS OF '27

It is with much sorrow that we see the present senior class leave us of the undergraduate world forever. We are glad for them that they have been able to complete their college course and we congratulate them upon the fine work they have done during their four years here, but the success of [illegible] makes us realize the more how much they will be missed by those of us who are left and by the institution as a whole.

When the present graduating class entered the University of Vermont they were quite typical freshmen, but behind their naive appearance there lay latent tremendous potentialities, raw material waiting but to be developed by the same class today we see a refined product not the complete men and women which longer life will make them but young people who have taken advantage of opportunities and who have made the most of themselves, who have developed refined tastes learned what to look for in life learned to appreciate the finer and more enduring pleasures of life.

[illegible] we have come to regard the class of '27 to lose to them the active, and in many ways to follow examples set by them. Their position as superiors has been accepted from a standpoint of seniority without question, but now that they leave us we realize in a very definite way how much they have meant to us and how hard it will be to fill the gap they leave in college life.

We of the undergraduate body want to thank the graduating class for the memories and examples of friendship, loyalty and character that they have given us, and we wish them that same degree of success through life that they have attained at the University of Vermont.

Campus Oration

The Campus Oration was delivered by Ovide P. Parody of Peekskill, N. Y., chairman of the senior week activities and a popular senior.

He said in part: "We are assembled up in a spot which speaks eloquently of the handiwork of nature. We of the class of '27 have spent four years upon this campus years rich in learning and development. In the last analysis the aim of all education is to enable us to orient ourselves in the vast scheme of the universe. The essence of success is the ease with which we can adjust our relationship with the persons and things about us and adapt ourselves accordingly. Our campus is a potent source of cultured influence. If we read correctly the pages of nature which are unfolded before us here. As we pass along the [illegible] walks and gaze upon the soft sweetness of the landscape we are overcome with a feeling of pride to think that we too are products of nature." The speaker continued describing the winter through which the products of nature must pass to reappear finally with coming of spring. He likened these phases through which nature must pass to a fierce struggle which is emblematic of the struggles through which human beings must pass. "Thus is the story of life revealed to us through the works of nature upon our campus. It is a story of growth through struggle and the products of nature are heroes. No matter how fierce the struggle, no matter how strong the foe, they stand unwaveringly, unbowed and emerge victorious. This is the great practical lesson we should learn from our campus."

Boulder Oration

Donald M. Rockwell of Proctor for four years an energetic leader on the campus delivered the Boulder Oration as a representative of Boulder, the senior honorary society.

He said in part: "Ages ago, a rough, unshapely granite boulder was deposited by the receding ice sheet, in a glacial river bed. Buffetted by the rushing icy waters, the stone was shifted about, knocking here and there against its fellows and scraping along the bottom. Days passed, years were put to flight, centuries left their mark on the world, but the stone was never idle. Rolling, scraping, knocking, slowly it wore its way into the hard stream bed and found a resting place. Years later it was found by a band of workmen and brought to our campus where it is now an object of respect for all." In conculsion the orator likened the college career and its polishing effect to the boulder after it had passed through its age of polishing by nature and reached a perfectly symmetrical shape. "And so shall we continue while life lasts, for self development never ceases. Each friendship, each association, each joy, each sorrow, each success, each failure will be an aid or hindrance to the development of a symmetrical, well balanced life. As we knock against the inevitable roughnesses of the world we will form the hollow in the rock the form of which is the outward sign of our success."

Pipe Oration

Lawrence H. Averill of Malone, N. Y., delivered the Pipe Oration. In part he said: "The pipe still holds its position as a friend to man and bids fair to enrich woman in this friendship. To the Indians, who perhaps once also assembled on this campus, the pipe was symbol of peace. Let us as did the Indians cast away all feelings of hatred and distrust by smoking a pipe." As the smoke waxes from our pipes and floats off in the different currents of air so must we depart and take up our different paths of life. Although fortune may bless some better than others, although some may drift far away we must always remember that we are sons and daughters of U. V. M. and members of the illustrous class of '27."

Class Poem

Miss Vina Rugg of St. Albans, class poet read the following poem of her own composition.

Address to the Undergraduates

William M. Lockwood, for four years one of the leaders on the campus and voted the most popular by his class, delivered the Address to the Undergraduates. He spoke in part as follows: "The farmer sows the seed in the spring and during the summer months he cultivates it. Nature forces it with the sunshine and refreshes it with the rain. Finally in the fall the grain is harvested, its quantity and quality depending upon several factors. The goodness of the grain to start with, the care with which the farmer has cultivated it, and the correct proportions of sunshine and rain. So also the graduating class has been conditioned through four years of college life. What it is today has been determined by the degree of its goodness to begin with, the intellectual cultivation it has received at the hands of the faculty, by development in mind and body resulting from the influences of environment and personal contact. Need I repeat the age old proverb, 'As ye sow, so shall ye reap.'

"If I were to address you as Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores, I should like to take Donald Stewart's advice and say to you, 'You have before you one, two or three years of irresponsibility. You have for perhaps the only time in your life, the opportunity to sit back and talk about things—religion, beauty, politics, in an abstract disinterested way. You have at your command, time, knowledge, and leisure. For God's sake, young men and women, dream and ripen intellectually, for tomorrow you enter the world.'"

Ivy Oration

Following the exercises on the green, the senior class and friends went to the Old Mill where Miss Belle G. Randall of Waterbury delivered the Ivy Oration. Miss Randall began: "Before we the class of 1927, leave our Alma Mater we wish to carry one of the lovely traditions of Vermont, the planting of the ivy at Commencement time.... As the ivy now young and tender, climbs upon the sacred walls of our college serving as an inspiration to future classes, may we the class of 1927, hold inspiration for those who follow. In years to come those who gaze upon the ivy grown tall and beautiful, will think of Keats and whisper, 'A thing of beauty is a joy forever.'

"Through many different pathways life is about to take us, but let us remain true Vermont sons and daughters and ever have

Vision to see the right our world demands.
Enthusiasm not content with dreams
Reserve to guard foundations with firm hands.
Mentality to judge between extremes
Opportunity for those who do not shirk
Normality to guide real, honest work
Tradition, all you mean to us—Vermont.'

The stanza which Miss Randall quoted in conclusion was written by her aunt, the late Pearl Randall Wasson, first dean of women at the University of Vermont.

Boulder Society Has Reunion Breakfast

The Boulder Society, a full roster of the 1927 members and representatives of alumni of various classes as far back as 1907, gathered for its reunion breakfast at the Ethan Allen Club house Saturday morning at 8:30. T. M. Egan, president of Boulder for '27, acted as master of ceremonies. Each of the alumni was called on for a short talk on Boulder and the activities of the senior honorary society in his day. The seniors, and four members of the incoming 1928 Boulder responded with reports on Boulder of the present. About 35 were present at the festivities.

Doctor L. G. Leary Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon

Pastor of Huguenot Memorial Church Addresses Audience in Ira Allen Chapel—Tells Seniors not to Worry About Things Which Are Still Hidden From Their Understanding

[illegible] Leary, Ph.D. [illegible] Memorial [illegible] Y., who delivered the baccalaureate sermon, [illegible] Jehovah our [illegible] are revealed [illegible] and to our children [illegible] all the words [illegible]

[illegible] declared the speaker [illegible] to the Children [illegible] drew the distinction between [illegible] theology and religion. It is not an expression of [illegible] rather it is [illegible] Many aspects of divine [illegible] have been revealed to us, and [illegible] has been given for a [illegible] Concerning other [illegible] we know nothing at [illegible] at best we only guess, and this [illegible] may be detrimental [illegible] holds us back from some [illegible] activity of life.

The first baccalaureate service [illegible] in the Ira Allen chapel. The academic procession was led by deans [illegible] and faculty members [illegible] who sat on the stage with the president of the University, Guy W. Bailey. Lewis G. Wetmore, donor of the chapel, [illegible] on the stage. The Rev. Joseph Reynolds, president of the [illegible] of the Episcopal diocese of Vermont, was chaplain of the day. Prof. H. G. Bennett directed the music.

The invocation, scripture lesson, prayer and benediction was given by the chaplain.

Dr. Leary spoke of the mysteries of the spiritual world which exist even as they do in the realm of science. The moment we begin to define God, we of necessity are limiting God. We begin life with the mystery of birth, and we end it in the mystery of death, and all between the character and destiny of man are shadowed by problems too vast and deep for him to fathom, until at last he ventures alone into that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns.

It is not, declared the speaker, important for us to speculate regarding what God can do, providing we check our speculations by a careful inquiry as to what God does do. He went on to say that on the other hand there are spiritual truths which have been revealed to the hearts and minds of the children of men, and that the Bible is the record of the progressive revelation of God to and through men who earnestly sought Him, and the sum and object of all such revelation, in the eyes, not only of Moses but of every inspired prophet and priest and preacher and poet, is action. "The things that are revealed belong to us—that we may do."

According to Dr. Leary it is over differences of opinions about these "hidden things" which Moses, in so many words says are none of our business that nearly all ecclesiastical questions have arisen. He told many interesting of quarrels which have disturbed the theologians through the ages. "Practically all Christians everywhere agree on these great fundamental doctrines of purity and honor and love and forgiveness and brotherly helpfulness, but so often, they will not get together and work at them, because of their own pet theories and explanations and traditions."

Faith, said Dr Leary, "means trusting God so that you are willing to give him a chance to show what He can do with your life. And you don't have to go to a conference for that."

"But we are one in doctrine he asserted. Many persons are confused because they think a doctrine is something to talk about rather than a thing to live by. "Thank God for the safe little island of the things we do know, in the midst of the limitless ocean of the unknown."

The way of righteousness has been revealed to us, and guidance, strength and grace are revealed so that we may hate sin and forsake selfishness. Concerning atonement Dr. Leary stated that on the revealed side of the cross we do know that Jesus lived the supreme life of a son of man who was also a son of God, and that those who follow Him in spirit and in truth and in constant loving ministeries for others, do find atonement, which means simply Atonement with their Heavenly Father.

One truth that belongs to us is "Beloved, now are we children of God" That truth belongs to us that we may do, and may ever live in expectancy to meet the welcome of all faithful children of the Father when at last they come safely home.

The object of revealed religion is conduct. Any statement that does not impinge upon the activities of life per se is unimportant. From the Biblical viewpoint its interest is purely academic unless it throws light upon the feeling and being and doing of immortal souls.

Dr Leary advised the seniors not to worry about the things which are still hidden from their understanding. He who claims to know all about God, is worshipping only a creation of his own limited intellect. Lack of complete information is not agnosticism. Not understanding everything is different from doubting everything. The object and aim of the revelation of spiritual truth to the hearts of men is that they may live in conformity with divine law. Theological learning never saved a man. "The more you know about God, the worse for you, unless you put that knowledge into practice. The object of Christianity is not to inform people of interesting facts about the godhead, but to make people like Jesus."

The speaker gave an example of an humble mechanic who works amid the noise and confusion of a slowly rising structure. He has never seen the plans, and his knowledge of architecture is too limited for him to imagine the beauty of the completed building. When it is finished he sees just what part his own labor had, and why his tasks were necessary. He rejoices over faithful work crowned with success, because it was all well articulated into the unified scheme of the guiding master mind. Dr. Leary concluded.

So the Master-architect of worlds and of lives, whose full designs are too great and complex and beautiful for us yet to understand, reveals to us enough of His character to give us confidence in Him, and enough of His thought to enable us to do each day's duty well. We know but in part, and can only guess what the completed structure will be like. We do not always see the need of this labor or of that. We become confused if, from as yet apparently unrelated elements, we try to construct mentally the full image which we know must be in the Master's mind. But if we live and labor in faithful accord with so much as has been revealed to us, some time we shall see it in all its wondrous completeness, and rejoice in the realization that our labors and our sacrifices, because made under such guidance, have been crowned with beauty and success.

"And then, not as mere laborers for hire, but as children of a heavenly Father, we shall look upon that which He and we together have wrought, and, lo it will be an eternal mansion for our souls."

J. O. Baxendale Hands Resignation to Alumni Council

White, '05; Carey P. Williams, '02; Mrs. Mabel Mayforth, '15, and Mrs. Hollis Gray, '06.

Secretary Baxendale reported that the Alumni Weekly is now in a healthy condition, with 22 per cent of the almuni subscribing.

Committee Reports

Chairman Blair, who presided, said he had found in talking with many alumni that the large majority were enthusiastically in favor of the Loyalty Fund. A small minority were not enthusiastic, and a tiny minority were opposed. Mr. Blair said he knew from experience that the University of Vermont is most modest in the solicitation of funds from its alumni, as compared with other colleges.

A committee consisting of Charles F. Blair, E. S. Isham and Judge E. C. Mower was appointed to consider the matter of the revision of articles and by-laws of the Council so as to take in the activities of the Associate Alumni.

Hovey Jordan, '13, said that college undergraduate life at Vermont does not seem to be generating the kind of spirit which keeps the graduates interested in the institution after they leave. He suggested that a course of lectures be established for freshmen, that they may learn more of the traditions, the history and the accomplishments of the University, its alumni, faculty and friends. He suggested that the committee on undergraduate activities give this matter their consideration, confer with the administration and prepare a plan to submit to the next meeting of the Council. It was so voted.

It used to be polite to let a girl get on a car first but now it is a treat.

BATTALION PLACES IN DISTINGUISHED CLASS

President Guy W. Bailey of the University received a telegram from the War Department recently announcing that, as a result of the annual inspection of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps on May 9 and 10, the military department of the University is placed in the distinguished class of military colleges during the coming year.

This is the ninth time that the military department has held a distinguished class rating out of the 13 times inspected since 1915. The honor did not come to the University last year, but the college was in the distinguished class in 1925.

About 20 colleges in the United States, including the strictly military colleges like Culver and Norwich, usually receive the distingnished rating each year, out of more than 100 colleges which have military departments. The students in the military departments having such rating are entitled to wear special insignia on their uniforms.

Lieut. Colonel Frederick F. Black, one of the new officers detailed to the University of Vermont military department for next year has already reported here. It is not probable that he will remain here at this time, however, as he is detailed to one of the Maine citizens' military training camps as an instructor this summer. He probably will return here about the first of August, after his work at the summer camp is completed.

Captain F. B. Lammons, who has been stationed with the military department at the University during the last four years, left Sunday by motor for his new station at the General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Colonel G. W. Holden, commandant at the University, received a telegram saying that Captain Walker A. Laurer, who is ordered here from infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., to succeed Captain Lammons, will arrive the first of August.

As Captain W. V. Rattan left Monday to take up summer duties as an instructor in the C. M. T. C. at Camp Devens, and Lieut. J. D. Frederick leaves for the same place next Monday, Colonel Holden will be the only officer at the college during the summer, it is expected.

ORGAN RECITAL CLOSES BACCALAUREATE SUNDAY

One of the most beautiful and enjoyable ceremonies connected with the 124th commencement of the University of Vermont was the organ recital given by Prof. H. G. Bennett in the Ira Allen chapel.

The prelude on chimes, faintly, softly ringing, welcomed the guests to the chapel. "Now Thank We All Our God," by Grueger, was the selection chosen. The other numbers were played with a masterful touch of the musician and the sympathy and understanding of an organ lover. The selections played were:

Prelude and Fugue in E Minor (Petters III, 10), Bach; Minuet from Sonata Op. 22, Beethoven; Evening Harmonies, Karg-Elert; Toccata in G Major, Dubois; Andante Cantabile from String Quartet Op. 11, Tschaikowsky; Pilgrims' Chorus from "Tannhaeuser," Wagner; The Swan, Saint-Saens; Final in B Flat Major, Franck.

After the concert the audience paused to stroll about the campus, beautifully dressed up as if for a fête with the myriads of tiny colored lights.

NEARLY 500 ALUMNI AT U. V. M. EXERCISES

Alumni registration at the University Commencement this year has reached nearly 500 with the class of 1926 having the largest enrollment, 46. The class of 1917 came next with 43 and 1912 was third with 33. The class of 1902, holding its 25th reunion was not far behind with 30.

The honor of coming the longest distance to attend Commencement, goes to John Randall Norton of the class of 1913 and who with Mrs. Norton came here from Shanghai, China, where he has been teaching for a number of years.
